It may come as a surprise to many, but the Miss America Organization, which reaches into nearly every community of the nation, is the single largest provider of women's scholarships in the world, says Brenda Borowicz, secretary of the Miss Marshall County Scholarship Pageant. Each year, the program awards nearly $35 million through local, state and national competitions.

Marshall County's talented young women will compete for the title of Miss Marshall County at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, June 30 in the W/A/O High School Auditorium at Warren. Admission is $5. Borowicz urges everyone to plan to attend the local pageant to see northwestern Minnesota's best.

Community service, personal and professional growth, and the spirit of competition are a large part of what "the Miss America Organization is all about, says Borowicz.

Nationwide, over 10,000 women of diverse backgrounds and dreams compete annually in local (county) pageants. The following are qualities and strengths on which participants are evaluated in pageant judging presentation and community service in the personal interview counts for 40 percent; artistic expression in the talent portion adds another 30 percent; lifestyle and fitness are evaluated in the swimsuit competition, 10 percent; presence and poise are measured in the evening wear competition, 10 percent, and 10 percent of the total score is awarded on judges' conclusions about the overall (composite) performance of young women in the pageant.

From the local competitions like the Marshall County Pageant, more than 1,100 local winners go on to compete at state levels for larger amounts of scholarship funds. State winners, in turn, compete for Miss America in Atlantic City, trying to earn their place in history as Miss America.

For more information about this large scholarship program, visit the Miss America Web site at www.missamerica.org. Visitors to this site will be able to find information and photos of Megan Torgerson of Warren, Miss Marshall County 2001, who will be competing for the title of Miss Minnesota at the state pageant in the Twin Cities in July.

Moorhead man suffers minor injuries in accident

Harlan Harold Poehls, 66, Moorhead, escaped with cuts and bruises after an accident south of St. Hilaire Thursday morning.

Minnesota State Patrol received a report of the accident at 10:09 a.m., May 30. According to the accident report, Poehls was driving a 1996 Volvo semi, which was pulling a trailer, south on Red Lake County 2, one-half mile south of County 26. The vehicle drifted onto the shoulder and was pulled into a ditch where it rolled. Poehls was wearing a seat belt and escaped with only cuts and bruises. He did not seek medical attention.

Thank You Thief River Falls
Thank you Thief River Falls and surrounding communities for supporting us on our musical performance tours throughout this past school year. We are so fortunate to have such a supportive community. Thank you for attending our concerts, for pledging at the telethon, for volunteering your time to help with choir activities, and, of course, for your financial support in donations. There were so many this year that helped in making our dreams a reality. If I named you all I know I would forget some, so this thank you is for all of you.
We were fortunate enough this year to be able to be a part of two major performance tours. Without your support these learning adventures would have never taken place. We thank you for believing in us and for giving us the chance to spread our "Never Again" story to people in Minneapolis and Chicago.
Sincerely,
Mrs. Reese and the L.H.S Concert Choir

Panthers edge Prowlers in 8A tennis tourney

Section 8A Team Tennis

● Semifinals - East Grand Forks 7, Perham 0, Park Rapids Area 4, Thief River Falls 3

● Championship - East Grand Forks 7, Park Rapids Area 0

Thief River Falls' late-season charge ended abruptly Tuesday when the Prowlers lost a 4-3 decision to Park Rapids Area in the semifinals of the Section 8A boys high school team tennis tournament on the Abbott Courts in Grand Forks, N.D.

The Panthers then fell victim to East Grand Forks in the state tournament-qualifying finals, 7-0. The Green Wave beat Perham by the same score in the other semifinal.

Thief River Falls ended its dual meet season 7-10 overall. Missing a number of regulars early this spring, the Prowlers lost their first five dual decisions and were 2-9 before things began to fall into place. They beat East Grand Forks 4-3 in the finals of the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Invitational May 15, handled Perham 7-0 as part of a double-dual two days later and knocked off long-time nemesis Crookston 4-3 in post-season play to reach the Section 8A semifinals.

A late-season Thief River Falls vs. Park Rapids Area match had to be cancelled due to conflicts with other school activities.

Three of Tuesday's match-ups were three-set encounters, with the Panthers winning two of them.

The Prowlers' Matt Dimich-Mike Kimball emerged with a 6-0, 4-6, 6-2 win over Taylor Hanson-Brandon Anderson at No. 1 doubles, but the Panthers' Aaron Pederson rallied for a 2-6, 6-4, 7-5 victory over Russ Anderson at No. 3 singles, and Steve Vansickle-Jeff Donatelle came from behind to beat Thief River Falls' Ryan LaCoursiere-Jon Kays 5-7, 6-0, 6-4 at No. 3 doubles.

Joining Dimich-Kimball in the winner's circle for the Prowlers were Josh Anderson at No. 1 singles and Matt Wilson-Chris Mickelson at No. 2 doubles.

Park Rapids 4, TRF 3

Singles - 1. Josh Anderson (TRF) def. Robert Moore 6-0, 2. Luke Honiges (PR) def. Jason Swenson 6-2, 7-6, 3. Aaron Pederson (PR) def. Russ Anderson 2-6, 6-4, 7-5, 4. Benn Sundsrud (PR) def. Justin Pyle 6-1, 6-4.

Doubles - 1. Matt Dimich-Mike Kimball (TRF) def. Taylor Hanson 6-0, 4-6, 6-2, 2. Matt Wilson-Chris Mickelson (TRF) def. Andrew Fondow-Tim De Young 6-1, 6-3, 3. Steve Vansickle-Jeff Donatelle (PR) def. Ryan LaCoursiere-Jon Kays 5-7, 6-0, 6-4

Guy Finstrom named as Coach of the Year in Northern Division

Guy Finstrom, second-year head baseball coach at Northland Community and Technical College, has been named Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division Coach of the Year for 2002.

The Pioneers were 14-16 overall this spring, 14-10 in the Northern Division and an MCCC state tournament qualifier for the second straight year.

Recipient of Coach of the Year honors is determined by a vote of the division coaches.

TRF Invitational men's slow pitch tournament slated Sunday, June 9

Thief River Falls Invitational men's slow pitch softball tournament will be held Sunday, June 9.

Entry fee for the 16-team field is $100. Teams are guaranteed three games. Travel expense money will be awarded for first, second and third places.

Special recognition during the Thief River Falls softball banquet Wednesday that capped the 2002 high school season for the Prowlers went to four players who were named to the All-Agassiz Conference team. The group included, from left, AshLeigh Anderson, Megan Berg, Loretta Hruby, and Megan Bettin. Anderson was an honorable mention pick; the others were listed on the all-conference roster.

Megan Berg is TRF softball most valuable player...

Prowlers name award winners

Megan Berg was the ultimate relief pitcher during the 2002 high school softball season. The freshman inherited the No. 1 spot on the Thief River Falls staff due to an eligibility-forced roster change just as Prowlers were opening the schedule. She accepted the challenge, and did the job so well, she was named the most valuable player when team awards were presented Wednesday.

Berg went 12-6 with a 1.92 earned run average for the 12-9 Prowlers. Most impressive were her strike-outs: 146 in 113 innings of work. She gave up 85 hits and walked 62.

"Megan stepped it up this season and carried us through many of the games," noted Thief River Falls coach Matt Okeson. "She has a very good fast ball, and people could not catch up to her."

Berg was also named the Prowlers' top defensive player.

Other team awards went to junior Megan Bettin, top offensive player; senior Meagan Lunke, most improved; and senior AshLeigh Anderson, who was recipient of the Prowler Award.

Berg, Bettin and senior Loretta Hruby were named all-Agassiz Conference. Anderson was listed as an honorable mention pick in conference play.

All-academic honors went to Anderson and Hruby, along with fellow seniors Becky Solem and Beth Brown.

Thief River Falls struggled with a .209 team batting average this year, forcing the Prowlers to rely on the bunting game to produce an offense.

"We relied on the bunt and the small-ball game, and we did very well at it," said Okeson. "We took advantage of what our opponents gave us, and that was good to see."

Bettin was the only regular to hit above .300 this spring with a .312 batting average. Hruby hit .293, then the figures dropped to the .250

Section 8A tourney completed

■ Boys high school tennis individual competition

Singles players from Crookston and Park Rapids Area, along with doubles teams from East Grand Forks and Crookston, became Class A state qualifiers when they reached the finals in the individual portion of the Section 8A boys high school tennis tournament Wednesday at the Center Courts Fitness Club in Grand Forks, N.D.

Tim Anderson of Crookston beat Robert Moore of Park Rapids Area in the singles final. John Kuntz-Adam Altepeter of East Grand Forks defeated Tyler Demsier-Eric Buchmeier of Crookston the doubles title match.

Top two finishers in singles and doubles earned state tournament spots.

Thief River Falls' Josh Anderson was a fourth place finisher in singles, while Matt Dimich-Mike Kimball out-pointed Eric Mickelson-Matt Wilson in a third place doubles match that featured an all-Thief River Falls draw.

range.

"Our numbers (averages) dropped this year, but that was due to the fact that the area's fast pitch softball has grown over the past four years, and the pitchers are getting a lot better," explained Okeson. "We left too many base runners in scoring position."

Defensively, the Prowlers were charged with 58 errors in 21 games, but Okeson liked what he saw from an infield led by Bettin at shortstop; junior Katie Walseth at third; juniors Steph Haverland or Steph Hoard at second; and Hruby or senior Mriah Johnson at first.

"Our infield was very solid this season," said Okeson. "We were very athletic. We had a couple of rough games, but we usually made the routine plays."

Highlights for the 2002 season, according to Okeson, were Thief River Falls wins over Crookston 2-0, Park Rapids Area 7-5 and Moorhead 4-2.

Anderson, Johnson, Hruby, Solem, Brown, Lunke, and Stacy Harbott will be lost to graduation. "We lose seven seniors, and all seven were excellent bunters," pointed out Okeson. "We will again need to rely on the small-ball game next year, so the underclassmen are really going to have to work on bunting in the off-season."

Patrick Marolt, Challenger Elementary School principal, prepares for his night on the roof of the school. Marolt lost a bet and wound up sleeping on the roof of the school.

Asp elected to Minnesota Wheat Council Board

Ken Asp of Thief River Falls has been elected to serve his first three-year term on the Minnesota Wheat Research and Promotion Council. The Minnesota Wheat Council administers the state's one-cent per bushel wheat check-off for research and promotion. Asp will be representing wheat growers in District 1, the northwest portion of the state. His term will begin on July 1, 2002, the beginning of the new Fiscal year.

Asp currently is a member of the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers, Minnesota Barley Growers Association. He also serves on the FSA County Committee, and has been awarded the Conservation Farmer and Pioneer Farmer. Asp's other activities include, St. Hilaire Lions, Civil Air Patrol, American Legion, Methodist Church.

Asp produces wheat, barley, sunflowers, canola, soybeans on his farm in Pennington County.

Area students graduate from Alexandria Tech

Thomas Altepeter of Thief River Falls, and Dustin Jarshaw, Newfolden, were among the students at Alexandria Technical College to graduate on May 17.

Altepeter received a degree in marketing and sales. Jarshaw received a degree in aviation electronics.

Company, food, and cold weather camping supplies all found their way on to the roof of Challenger Elementary School and the temporary possession of Challenger Principal Patrick Marolt. Many people came to see the principal and make sure he was safe and warm on the night he had to sleep on the school rooftop.

Tim Finseth decides not to seek re-election has continually pushed for the expansion of ethanol production into northwest Minnesota. Under his leadership, the legislature passed a $70 million farm relief package – the only time the state has ever done a disaster relief program for farmers.

A few years ago, Finseth took on the highly controversial wolf management issue and played a key role in working out a compromise that allowed farmers to protect their livestock from these predators.

"I have enjoyed taking on some of these tough issues over the past several years," Finseth said. "I will miss having the opportunity to represent northwest Minnesota in shaping the policies and the future of this state."

Yutrzenka graduates from basic training

Air Force Airman Carl R. Yutrzenka recently graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

Yutrzenka is a 1998 graduate of Stephen-Argyle Central High School and the son of Ted Yutrzenka of Argyle.

Spraying for caterpillars

Custom Spraying of Halstad to apply the caterpillar control product. When the spraying takes place, it will be done on a day that has a wind speed of 10 miles per hour or less, beginning at about 5 a.m. and continuing until the wind speed exceeds 10 miles per hour or the job is finished. The applicator is estimating that it will take between four to six hours to spray the entire city. There will be two aircraft flying in formation at an altitude of 150 to 300 feet and at an approximate speed of 170 miles per hour.

A one-time cost of $11 will appear on utility bills of residents in June.

Bethlehem church plans annual service for Aug. 18

RRBC to learn more about Winnipeg's plan

The Red River Basin Commission (RRBC) will have an opportunity to learn more about the City of Winnipeg's Secondary Dike Program at its next board meeting.

Doug McNeil, senior Land Drainage and Flood Protection engineer, Winnipeg Water and Waste Department, will discuss the program at the RRBC meeting that will be held at 11 a.m. on June 6, at the CanadInn, 1824 Pembina Highway in Winnipeg, MB.

The Government of Canada, the Province of Manitoba and the City of Winnipeg entered into a cost-sharing agreement in late 1999 for the implementation of permanent secondary dikes in the city north of the floodway diversion channel. The funding is allocated to communities, such as Kingston Crescent and Lord Avenue, and individual sites. The different types and extent of flood protection will be discussed, as well as some of the challenges to the projects. The program will reduce the requirement for sandbags at 230 high-risk properties, including seven condominiums.

"It's been a challenge to get these permanent dikes underway but the walls are going up!," said program manager McNeil. "After all the planning and preparations, public meetings and approvals over the last two and one-half years we're now making steady progress on several projects throughout the city."

The RRBC was formed as a result of a merger between The International Coalition (TIC), the Red River Basin Board (RRBB), and the Red River Water Resources Council (RRWRC). The mission of the RRBC is to build consensus and commitment to a comprehensive, integrated basinwide vision and to speak with a unified voice for the Red River Basin. For more information, visit the Web site at www.redriverbasinboard.org.

Old Mill State Park Open House on Sunday, June 2

The public is invited to Old Mill State Park's Open House Sunday, June 2, when admission is free at all State Parks. Enjoy the scenic trails, shady picnic grounds and see the historic mill site.

In addition, an open art exhibit will be held at the park from 1 to 5 p.m. Art work of LaVonne Forsberg, Pat Dunning and other area artists will be featured. Coffee and cookies, compliments of the Newfolden Lions, will be available from 1 to 5 p.m. in the picnic shelter.

Numerous items will be for sale from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Park office. These items are from the MN DNR Division of Parks and Recreation's Nature Store. Also for sale are books, games, puzzles, and the 2002 Minnesota State Park collector mugs. Income from the Nature Store items are utilized by the Division of Parks and Recreation to complete educational interpretive projects and natural resource management projects across the state.

Area artists are invited to an open outdoor exhibit in the historic picnic area. If interest in exhibiting artwork, please call the Old Mill State Park office at 218-437-8174.

Naomi Kannar demonstrates how to groom a horse to Challenger Elementary kindergarten students in Thief River Falls. The event was part of the annual Farm Day Activity trip that this year, took place at the Mark and Michelle Paulson residence and horse barn in Thief River Falls. There, students were introduced to horses. Adewn Melbye, 4-H volunteer, coordinated the activity with the Paulsons and enlisted the assistance of 4-H club members Miranda Nelson, Carolyn Paulson and Naomi Kennor.

six-year-olds, June 12, five-year-olds, and June 13, four-year-olds. A one-time $50 registration fee will reserve a spot for your child in a class and cover the cost of the uniform. Laurimar is a strong believer in the dancers being dressed alike, placing them on common ground. She recalls, too, the excitement of changing colors as she advanced from one level to the next, something her students will have to look forward to as well. The uniforms at her school will include leotard, tights, and ballet slippers for the girls and a white T-shirt, tights or biker's shorts, and ballet slippers for the boys. All of the children will also receive a ballet bag in which to carry their uniform.

A workshop, held from July 8 through August 2, will give students a taste of what will take place when the regular school year begins in August. Cost of the workshop, which will include one class per week, is $35. Students completing the workshop will receive certificates of completion.

Realizing that summer will find many on vacation or involved in other activities, Laurimar says the workshop is not a requirement of the regular school year classes. Classes will begin on August 20, continue throughout the school year, and conclude with the year-end production that is tentatively scheduled for June 28, 2003. Certificates and awards will also mark the end of the school year. Cost is $35 per month for children participating in one class each week and $65 a month for those who take two classes each week.

This year's orientation, workshop, and classes will take place in Laurimar's studio on the second level of the Thief River Falls Racquetball and Fitness Club.

Through the centuries, Laurimar says ballet has made an impact on many lives around the globe, and while ballet is the foundation of all other dance forms, it is one that requires special skills. Ballet dancers perform many movements that are unnatural for the body, but, when well executed, appear to be natural. Learning ballet technique requires self-discipline. As a dancer learns to take control of his or her body, he/she learns to love and respect his/her body and those of others.

Ballet helps young people develop a high sense of self-esteem and belonging, and when a student studies ballet for several years, Laurimar says its lessons will accompany a youth into adulthood, resulting in discipline, good posture, and an individual that gives 100 percent, trying his/her best in every aspect of life.

While Laurimar believes that the sexes are equal, she equally believes that they are uniquely different. Girls who study ballet, she says, will always be ladies, and boys who take up ballet will respect them and always be gentlemen. Ballet, she says, is not a seasonal activity, but an ongoing experience which becomes a way of life.

Fun for her students is also something Laurimar plans to incorporate into her program, and once one meets the smiling, vivacious young woman, it will be apparent how she will accomplish this with ease.

Creative Movement is the name of her four-year-old class where students will discover and become aware of their bodies and engage in individual and group dance skills that are joyful. Children of this age, Laurimar says, delight in dancing as princes or princesses, fire, elephants, or rain, and mostly, her goal is to teach them to relish being their own dancing selves. "We're going to have fun!"

In Pre-Ballet, five-year-olds will engage in exercises and movement games that are more complex and challenging. Ballet skills, including specific steps and terms, will become more familiar as the students grow and develop through the year.

Creative, improvisational experiences will be part of the Advanced Pre-Ballet class for six-year-olds, inspiring them to engage in their sense of play and use their imaginations. During this stage of training, youth will also be introduced to proper ballet classroom behavior and structure floor exercises that will take them to the various barre (bar) steps that will be learned in the future.

Beginning Ballet for students who are seven years old and older is a class designed for the older student who is new to ballet and the prerequisite for the classes beginning at the "A" Ballet level. Ballet classroom behavior will be introduced and observed at all times as students concentrate on structured floor exercises and correct terminology.

Once a student has had Beginning Ballet, he or she will begin advancing through the traditional levels of ballet that, for serious dancers, will lead to Pointe Work. This training requires that a student be strong in body and mind and committed to ballet. In order that a student advances from levels A to B to C to Pointe Work, he or she will be individually evaluated.

Although it is essential that ballet dancers begin their training before puberty, Laurimar says that the future may include classes for adults that will be therapeutic and comparable to yoga.

In addition to being busy with her new venture, Laurimar anticipates a summer filled with activity as Emanuel plays T-ball and Raymond joins a little league baseball team. Laura, who will celebrate her ninth birthday next month, chooses to follow her mother's footsteps. "She just wants to dance," Laurimar says.

Far from her native Puerto Rico, Laurimar relishes her new life in the States and about as far north as one can get, says that she enjoys the change of seasons. Besides, like music, ballet and dance are universal languages and can be loved, shared and enjoyed wherever one resides.

Information about the Laurimar Goldesberry School of Ballet has been distributed at local elementary schools. For additional information, Laurimar may be contacted between the hours of 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. at 681-1597 or one can e-mail her at laurimargoldesberry@hotmail.com.

Challenger Elementary Kindergarten students Taylor Vodbraaten and Beau Eckert were among the kindergarten students at the school who were introduced to horses. During the annual Farm Day Activity trip on Wednesday, May 29, many students like Taylor, had an opportunity to sit in a real saddle. The activity took place at the Mark and Michelle Paulson residence and horse barn. There, students were introduced to horses. Adawn Melbye, 4-H volunteer, coordinated the activity with the Paulsons and enlisted the assistance of 4-H club members Mirande Nelson, Naomi Kannor and Carolyn Paulson.

Fighting bioterrorism

Dept. of Health announces federal grants

Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) has been formally approved to receive approximately $16 million in bioterrorism response funding from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

The new CDC grant will be used to strengthen Minnesota's public health system, enhancing the state's capability to detect and respond to potential public health emergencies – including a possible terrorist attack involving a biological, chemical, or radiological agent.

"In the event of a bioterrorism attack, public health will be our early warning system and our first line of defense," said Jan Malcolm, Minnesota Commissioner of Health. "Our public health agencies and health care providers will be the first to recognize the signs that may point to a possible attack, and they will also be responsible for guiding and directing our response to that kind of event.

"We already have one of the strongest public health systems in the country," Malcolm said, "and we've always taken pride in that fact. But we also know that we have some very significant gaps to fill if we are to respond effectively to the threat posed by terrorism and other public health emergencies.

"We need the ability to detect and respond to emergencies in a timely fashion, on a 24/7 basis," she said. "This new federal funding will help fill some of the gaps and bring us closer to having that kind of capability."

To staff its expanded emergency response capability, MDH will be hiring up to 80 employees in a number of areas. In addition to support staff, the list will include specialists in the areas of planning, administration, law, project coordination, education and training, risk communication, web design, information technology, communications technology, scientific research, research analysis, epidemiology, nursing, and laboratory technology.

Anyone interested in applying for one of the positions is encouraged to visit the MDH Web site at www.health.mn.us/divs/hrm/jobs.htm.

MDH received 20 percent of the new bioterrorism funding on February 15 shortly after Congress originally approved the project, with the rest to be awarded following approval of a formal grant application submitted by MDH. The U.S. Health and Human Services Secretary Tommy Thompson announced approval of the funding Thursday, April 6. The grant is intended to fund activities over an 18-month period ending August 30, 2003.

About $5 million of the $16 million being awarded to Minnesota will go to the state's network of 50 local public health agencies that serve cities and counties throughout the state. In addition to the CDC funding, the state will also receive an additional $2.1 million from the federal Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) to help the state's hospitals prepare for a possible bioterrorism event.

Activities to be funded by the new CDC grant will include Planning and Readiness Assessment, Disease Surveillance and Response Capacity, Laboratory Capacity, and Training and Communications.

Planning and Readiness Assessment will include a comprehensive assessment of the public health system's current capabilities - which MDH officials have described as "incomplete and fragmented" – and the establishment of a new Office of Emergency Preparedness within MDH. Other tasks to be funded with the grant money include development of a comprehensive response plan, annual readiness exercises, efforts to improve coordination between the public health system and the state's existing emergency response system, and development of a 24/7 notification system for mobilizing public health personnel in an emergency.

Tri-County names education friends

Karlstad - Eleanor Dahlin and John Oistad have been named this year's Friends of Education by the staff of Tri-County School.

Dahlin retired from teaching at Tri-County in 1995 and has since contributed many volunteer hours at the school. Oistad has coached baseball at the school for many years, "saving" kids deemed incorrigible by encouraging them to become good baseball players and students. North Star News

Gift results in new set of wheels

Fertile - An anonymous donation of $43,000 has resulted in a new set of wheels for Fair Meadow Nursing Home and many happy passengers to go along with it.

The 2002 Chevrolet Eldorado Aerotech arrived at Fair Meadow in April. The nursing home's old bus was purchased in 1979 and is getting close to retirement. Fertile Journal

Grygla school plans new playground

Grygla - At a recent meeting, Grygla School board decided to go ahead with the purchase of new, modern playground equipment and renovation of the playground area.

Funding for the project will include proceeds of a grant and funds designated for early childhood and preschool equipment. Some mention was made of donations from organizations and community volunteer help with costs.

No date has been given for completion of the project. The Grygla Eagle

Annual golf event slated for June 29

Roseau - The 3rd annual Nancy Burggraf Celebrity Golf Classic will be held Saturday, June 29, at Oak Crest Golf Course in Roseau.

Burggraf, a well-known and life-long Roseau resident, was stricken with amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS) in the fall of 1998 and died in the spring of 1999. Proceeds from the tournament held in her honor go to fund ALS research.

The event is limited to 30 teams participating in five-person team scrambles. Teams will consist of four participants and one celebrity. Cash prizes will be awarded to the three top finishing teams. Roseau Times-Region

Tables, chairs donated to city

Oklee - The city of Oklee recently received a donation of 20 tables and 50 chairs from the Community Club. The new pieces will replace several damaged items at Municipal Hall. The council adopted a motion not to allow any of the new tables or chairs to be removed from the hall.

The fact that it is getting more and more difficult to keep track of city picnic tables was also discussed. People who have taken them without permission are asked to return them so that they can be used by others as well. The Oklee Herald

Helping the Hungry

■ New program at Thief River Falls grocery store benefits food shelf

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

Generosity is the reason the Thief River Falls Area Food Shelf is able to keep its doors open, helping area families and individuals during times when money is tight and cupboards are bare.

A new program that went into effect June 1 at a Thief River Falls grocery store promotes continuing generosity by allowing caring folks to make $1 donations to the food shelf when checking out their purchases at Super One Foods.

In recent weeks, laminated cards that bear the name of the store and a PLU number were distributed to members of area church by the Thief River Falls Ministerial Association, which oversees the food shelf. Helping distribute the cards also are Pathfinders youth who are making a special contribution of their own to the food shelf this summer through a large garden that has been planted at the residential youth facility. Cards are also available at Super One Foods and the food shelf. Entities interested in displaying a promotional poster that includes a pocket to hold cards are encouraged to pick them up at the food shelf.

Noting a very successful March campaign, Mary Fran Zeller, president of the Thief River Falls Food Shelf, said that the board of directors is grateful for the ongoing support of the community and sought ways of promoting year-round giving using methods that are simple and relatively "painless" for donors.

1 PLU# 555 Super One Foods

For many, a $1 donation would not hurt their pocketbooks, and the program at Super One Foods is simple. One need only present his or her card when making a purchase to have the donation added to the total bill. The PLU number entered into the cash register will designate the donation, which will be forwarded to the food shelf by Super One's bookkeeping department.

A similar program was promoted during the month of March at Hugo's, which will be holding campaigns for food shelves in the region four times a year, Zeller said.

Gloria Reierson, director of the Thief River Falls Area Food Shelf, is particularly excited about the cash donations that will enable her to stock the food shelf with food she purchases from North Country Food Bank. While five dollars does not go very far in any grocery store, Reierson can use it to purchase about 36 pounds of food at the current rate of 14 cents per pound.

North Country Food Bank in Crookston serves the counties Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Beltrami, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk, Clearwater, Norman, Mahnomen, Hubbard, Clay, Becker, Otter Tail, Wadena, Wilkin, Traverse, Grant, Douglas, Stevens, and Pope.

Red Lake County hosts another successful Relay for Life event

■ American Cancer Society fund-raiser brings in $45,000

Eighteen teams with 242 members participated in the fourth annual Red Lake County Relay for Life event, raising about $44,000 for the American Cancer Society.

Total funds raised top last year's figure of nearly $40,000. Previously, the event has won regional or national awards with its record-setting totals, including last year when Red Lake County placed eighth in the nation for its per capita fund-raising effort.

The football field in Oklee was the site for the event with participants surrounding the field in tents, campers, and motor homes. The 12-hour vigil and walk began at 6 p.m. on Friday, May 31, and concluded at 6 a.m. on Saturday, June 1.

Aurel Parenteau and Cindy Arlt emceed the opening ceremony that included a welcome by Oklee Mayor Emily Bernier, presentation of the colors by Plummer American Legion honor guard, opening prayer by Father John Kleinwachter, and the introduction of 14-year cancer survivor Ruth Schulz as honorary chair of the event.

About 45 cancer survivors made the ceremonial first lap around the field. After a blessing by Rev. Gary Graff, caregivers were invited to join the survivors for the second lap. Ninety-five-year-old Esther Page of Red Lake Falls was the oldest Relay for Life team member participating in the event.

The program also included recognition of those who had raised more than $1,000. They included Ruth Schultz, JoAnn Derosier, Beth Skallet, Tammy Ooll, Pam Paradis, Cindy Arlt, and Connie Parenteau.

The event also included a variety of musical entertainment, food vendors, team raffles, an advocacy booth, and "Hope" auction.

The highlight of the event was the luminary lighting ceremony that began at dusk. Luminary bags bearing the names of 4,000 cancer victims and survivors were lit and following a moment of silence, "Angels Among Us," a song that has become a Red Lake County Relay for Life tradition, was sung.

Farmers' Share Breakfast slated for June 19

The public is invited to a "Farmers' Share Breakfast" on Wednesday, June 19, at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls. Serving will take place between 7 and 10 a.m., and the menu will feature scrambled eggs, ham, muffins, orange juice, milk, and coffee. Cost is 25 cents – the actual share the farmer gets for these products is 24 cents.

In addition to the breakfast meal, the event will include displays and educational exhibits pertaining to agriculture and American food productions.

Tickets for the breakfast are available at the following sites: Pennington and Red Lake County Extension Offices; Vatthauer Farm Supply and Minnesota Wheat Growers in Red Lake Falls; the Creamery at Goodridge; Security State Bank and Oklee Farmers Coop Elevator in Oklee; Northwest Grains in St. Hilaire; and Anderson Power and Equipment, Evergreen Implement, and Northern State Bank in Thief River Falls.

The event is being organized and sponsored by the Pen-Mar-Red chapter of Minnesota AgriWomen, along with financial and material support from a number of commercial sponsors.

Everyone is encouraged to come out and support our area farmers – providers of America's food.

Law requires new valves for propane tanks

New state laws regarding the storage of propane went into effect last year. But according to Dave Rasmussen at Cenex in Thief River Falls, about half of propane tanks still are not up to regulation.

The regulations apply to the type of valve used on the tanks. New valves have an overflow protection feature that the old ones didn't.

And while there is no penalty for not having the new valve, University of Minnesota Extension Educator Howard Person says that "when you go to get them filled, the business cannot fill a tank with an old-style valve."

In fact, as of June 1, businesses cannot even fill tanks with adapters that were sold up until recently.

Cenex in Thief River charges $19.96 (tax included) for a new valve. The standard 20-pound propane container costs $34.95 there, but Rasmussen says they sell for as little as $21.95 at Sam's Club.

The new law has kept the tanks moving off the shelves like never before. Jan Nordin, a manager at Hardware Hank's in Thief River, reports that they "can't hardly keep the tanks in stock."

At Petro Pumper in Thief River, you can't buy a valve for a 20 pound tank, due to the only slight difference between the cost of a valve and a new tank.

Pat Gerszewski at Petro Pumper says that "you have to get them certified, and when you do that, you're better off getting a new tank." He says that they can be certified at Brooks Fuel and Propane in Brooks.

You can buy a valve for a 30 pound tank there, however. The valve is $29 by itself, or $32 installed.

Person says that some older tanks cannot be retrofitted with a new valve. Old tanks can be thrown in the garbage as long as the valve has been removed and all propane has been released from them.

Gerszewski says that some customers are unhappy about the regulations because the tanks they bought just a few years ago are no longer acceptable.

But Petro Pumper's Polly Holthusen says they "explain to [the customer] that there's a reason behind it."

Nordin agrees. "I think it's a good thing. (The new tanks) are obviously safer than the old tanks."

Propane tanks await sale at Cenex in Thief River Falls. Such tanks can no longer be filled if their valve is not up to new state regulations.

School staff works at new concept

Erskine - At Win-E-Mac School, staff members are working on a discipline concept called restorative justice and are hoping to incorporate it into daily life at their school.

The technique allows students to be more responsible in making decisions as teachers guide them through the process without passing judgement. Discipline will focus on the specific harm done rather than the rules that were broken. Direct participation will be required in the discipline process by those who were affected, and the discipline will be geared to the needs of individual students and situations.

The concept has had some success in other schools in dealing with conflicts such as fights and disagreements. The McIntosh Times

77 students at NCTC receive Highest Honors

Seventy-seven students have been named to the Highest Honors President's list for the spring semester at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. A semester grade-point average of 4.0 must be achieved for a student to be named to the Highest Honors President's List.

Students on this list include: Nathan Anderson of Ada; Alan Dann and Daniel Hanson of Badger; Laine Schmitz of Beardsley; Danielle Dressler of Bemidji; Erin Maddy of Clearbrook; Mitch Barstad, Jaunita Lopez, Julie Bean and Tracy Cassavvant of Crookston; Joshua Bergman and Adam Maxwell of Duluth, Kevin Berg of Erskine, Kristen Jagol of Fertile, Jennifer Liebershach of Fordville, N.D.; Brian Bingham and Marlene McPherson of Frazee; Todd Larson and Matthew Ulmer of Frazee; Chancey Halvorson of Goodridge; Jason Grzadzieleski and Sabina Hagen of Grand Forks, N.D.; Courtney Foldesi, Ashley Becker and Alexis Graff of Greenbush; Jennifer Sundberg of Grygla; Lori Thompson of Gully; Mary Krantz of Karlstad; Glen Braget of Lake Bronson; Joseph Ryba of Lankin, N.D.; Kristi Stom and Tia Lagerstrom of McIntosh; Glenda Chaplinski, Robert Wahl, Rebecca Wockenfuss and Wendy Wahl of Middle River; Shari Anderson, Anna Schaffhauser and Nicole Nelson of Newfolden; Rex Kvasager and Emma Rustan of Oklee; Jared Monson of Osnabrock, N.D.; Wade Westlake of Plummer; Oscar Hernandez of Prairie Farm, Wis.; Matthew Granger of Prior Lake; Curtis Beyer, Kristine Pesch, Stacy Schultz and Danielle Schultz of Red Lake Falls; Paul Johnson, Amber Lislegard and Vangievail Byfuglien of Roseau; Deisy Lazo of St. Hilaire; Lindsay Stusynski of Strandquist; Judith Booth, Paul Brown, Les Trandem, Daniel Berdan, Michael Foster, John Trenbeath, Robyn Haynes, Jenny Vondal, Alicia Anderson, Becky Bray, Joni Brougton, Anna Mattson, Ann Newton, Kylie Rogalla, Benjamin Worker, Teresa Friend and Shawna Johnson of Thief River Falls; Laura Uselman of Wadena; Christopher Harrison, Leslie Oberg and Allison Chandler of Warren; Amanda Hilligoss of Warroad; and Ryan DeGruot of Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Tent caterpillar information session June 9

Rydell National Wildlife Refuge near Erskine will host a presentation by master gardener and caterpillar expert Dr. Blanchard Krogstad on June 9.

Dr. Krogstad, a retired University of Minnesota-Duluth professor, has studied the defoliating tent caterpillars in Itasca State Park. His presentation will discuss the life cycle of the caterpillars and how their population can be kept under control.

The seminar is free, and will be held at 2 p.m. in the visitor center. The refuge is located south of Erskine on county road 210.

NCTC to host seminars, golf tournament June 13

Northland Community and Technical College will host three seminars and a golf tournament on June 13. The cost is $75 per participant.

The event begins at 8 a.m. Each participant will attend his or her choice of three workshops, a tour of Arctic Cat, and a 9-hole golf tournament, which will begin at 2:30 in the afternoon. An awards ceremony for the golf tournament and a feast of brats and burgers will follow.

Proceeds from the event will fund a technology summer camp for teenagers in August. Register by calling (218)-681-0796.

Water Quality Report for 2001
City of Thief River Falls

Dear Customer: We are pleased to present a summary of the quality of the water provided to you during the past year. The Safe Drinking Water Act (SDWA) requires that water utilities issue an annual "Consumer Confidence" report to customers in addition to other notices that may be required by law. This report details where our water comes from, what it contains, and the risks our water testing and treatment are designed to prevent. The Thief River Falls Water Department is committed to providing you with the safest and most reliable water supply. Informed consumers are our best allies in maintaining safe drinking water.

We are proud to report that the water provided by the Thief River Falls Water Department meets all established water-quality standards.

OVERVIEW

Water Source
The City of TRF obtains its source water from the Red Lake River. The intake pipe and pump station is located approximately 150 feet north of the Thief River Falls dam. This site allows use of the river within the City as a reservoir for the raw (untreated) water supply. In the future, a source water assessment plan will be conducted on the Red Lake and Thief rivers. This will provide information on potential sources of contaminants. As a means of source water protection, personnel from the City, Canadian Pacific Railroad, Pennington County Sheriff, and State of Minnesota Agencies, conducted an emergency response drill simulating contamination of the river in the City. C.P. Railroad maintains an emergency kit in a building adjacent to the river. The Thief River Falls Fire Department is trained in deployment of a containment boom for use in the river. In addition, mutual aid agreements provide equipment and trained personnel from private industries and emergency response and remediation businesses.

Please call 681-3809 if you have questions about the City of Thief River Falls drinking water or would like information about opportunities for public participation in decisions that may affect the quality of the water.

Results of monitoring:
No contaminants were detected at levels that violated federal drinking water standards. However, some contaminants were detected in trace amounts that were below legal limits. The table that follows shows the contaminants that were detected in trace amounts last year.

Key to abbreviations:
MCLG - Maximum Contaminant Level Goal: The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
MCL - Maximum Contaminant Level. The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
TT – Treatment Technique: A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.
NTU – Nephelometric Turbidity Unit: Used to measure clarity in drinking water.
AL – Action Level. The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
90TH PERCENTILE LEVEL: This is the value obtained after disregarding 10 percent of the samples taken that had the highest levels. (For example, in a situation in which 10 samples were taken, the 90th percentile level is determined by disregarding the highest result, which represents 10 percent of the samples.) Note: In situations in which only five samples are taken, the average of the two with the highest levels is taken to determine the 90th percentile level.
ppb – Parts per billion, which can also be expressed as micrograms per liter (ug/l) ppm – Parts per million, which can also be expressed as milligrams per liter (mg/l).
N/A – Not Applicable (does not apply)

Contaminant (units)	MCLG	MCL	LEVEL FOUND Range (2000)	LEVEL FOUND Average/Result*	Typical Source of Contaminant
Nitrate (as Nitrogen) (ppm)	10.0	10.0	N/A	0.68	Runoff from fertilizer use; Leaching from septic tanks, sewage; Erosion of natural deposits.
TTHM (Total Trihalomethanes) (ppb)	N/A	100.0	35.8 - 68.4	48.38	By-product of drinking water chlorination.
Haloacetic Acids (HAA) (ppm)	0	60.0	24.0 - 33.5	28.88	By-product of drinking water disinfection
Fluoride (ppm)	4.0	4.0	1.2 - 1.3	1.23	State of Minnesota requires all municipal water systems to add fluoride to drinking water to promote strong teeth; Discharge from fertilizer and aluminum factories.

* This is the lowest value used to determine compliance with federal standards. It sometimes is the highest value detected and sometimes is an average of all the detected values. If it is an average, it may contain sampling results from the previous year.

Contaminant (units)	MCLG	MCL			Typical Source of Contaminant
Turbidity (NTU)	N/A	TT	97%	0.67	Soil runoff.

 - Lowest monthly percentage of samples meeting the turbidity limits.
 - Highest single measurement in 2000.
Turbidity is a measure of the clarity of the water. We monitor it because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of our filtration system.

Contaminant (units)	MCLG	AL	90% Level	# sites over AL	Typical Source of Contaminant
Lead (ppb)	N/A	15	2.0	0 out of 20	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; erosion of natural deposits.
Copper (ppm)	N/A	1.3	0.035	0 out of 20	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; erosion of natural deposits. Leaching from wood preservatives.

Some contaminants do not have Maximum Contaminant Levels established for them. These "unregulated contaminants" are assessed using state standards known as health risk limits to determine if they pose a threat to human health. If unacceptable levels of an unregulated contaminant are found, the response is the same as if an MCL has been exceeded; the water system must inform its customers and take other corrective actions. In the table that follows are the unregulated contaminants that were detected:

Sulfate (ppm) (12/06/1999)	N/A		76.0	Erosion of natural deposits
Sodium (ppm) (12/06/1999)	N/A		4.3	Erosion of natural deposits

Compliance with National Primary Drinking Water Regulations.
The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.
Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.
Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metal, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.
Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff, and residential uses.
Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic systems.
Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. Food and Drug Administration regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 800-426-4791.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer, with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 800-426-4791.

This report is not being mailed to individual customers. However, copies of the report are available by contacting the Thief River Falls Water Department at 681-3809.

I'm still giving you recipes from my "Schmeck's Gut" cookbook from Ashley, ND. This is good German cooking.

If you like to make homemade doughnuts, try this one – the Germans never did worry about cholesterol, did they? I bet the recipe would work in a donut maker too:

DOUGHNUTS
2 rounded tablespoons soft butter
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup cultured sour cream
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
4 cups flour

Combine soda, salt, baking powder and flour. Cream butter and sugar. Add vanilla and beaten eggs. Alternate dry ingredients and liquids. Chill.

Roll out and cut into doughnut shapes. You might have to add a little more flour, but keep dough soft. Fry in deep fat.

Special pancakes you can make for Sunday brunch:

WHOLE WHEAT GRIDDLE CAKES
1 cup whole wheat four
1 cup all purpose flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1/4 cup butter, cut up
1 beaten egg
1-1/4 cups milk
1/4 cup finely chopped pecans
1/2 teaspoon salt

Stir dry ingredients. Cut in butter until crumbly.

Combine egg and milk and add all at once to dry ingredients, stirring with a fork until completely moistened. Stir in pecans.

Drop about 1/4 cup batter on lightly greased griddle or heavy skillet. Spread down to 1/4 inch circle. When bubbly, turn over. Serve immediately. Makes 10 pancakes.

Here's a yummy pancake recipe for those of you who are watching your diets and for those of you who aren't:

OATMEAL PANCAKES
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup quick-cooking oats
3/4 cup buttermilk
3/4 cup milk
1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons oil
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg
Peanut Butter Spread (below)

Beat all ingredients except peanut butter spread until smooth.

Pour scant 1/4 cup batter onto hot griddle and cook until puffed and dry around edges. Turn and brown other sides.

Peanut Butter Spread
1/2 cup maple syrup
1/2 cup peanut butter

Mix until well blended. Serve over pancakes.

Recipe makes 12 pancakes. One pancake equals 320 calories, 9 g protein, 34 g car, 17 g fat, 40 mg chol, 530 mg sodium.

While we're on the subject of breakfast, how about this one when those relatives come visiting this summer:

SKIIER'S FRENCH TOAST
2 tablespoons dark corn syrup
1/2 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 loaf unsliced firm white bread (trim off crusts)
5 eggs
1-1/2cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon salt

Combine syrup, butter and sugar in saucepan. Simmer until syrup-like. Pour mixture over bottom of 9x13 inch baking pan.

Slice bread into 12 to 16 slices. Place over syrup, layering as needed.

Beat eggs, milk, vanilla and salt. Pour over bread. Cover and refrigerate overnight.

Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. To serve, cut into squares. Invert and serve with applesauce and breakfast sausage.

Kuchen is very German – these are made into bars – and the recipe makes 60 bars:

KUCHEN BARS
Crust:
3 cups flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup sugar
2 eggs
1-1/2 cups cream
1/2 cup oil
1 teaspoon vanilla

In large bowl, blend eggs, cream and oil together. Add vanilla, then add flour, baking powder, sugar and salt, mixing well.

Divide dough into 2 equal parts. Spread on lightly floured 11x15 inch jelly roll pans with fingers. Top with filling.

Filling:
4 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup cream
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons oil
2 teaspoons cinnamon

Combine eggs, sugar, cream, oil and flour. Spread mixture over top of crust. Sprinkle with cinnamon and more sugar, as desired.

Bake at 375 degrees for 10-12 minutes. Cool and cut into bars. Makes 60 bars. Fruit may be added to filling, if desired (apple would be good, or cherry or peach).

41 area students graduate from UND

41 students from northwestern Minnesota graduated from the University of North Dakota this spring.

Eleven students were from Thief River Falls: Nicholas Dee, Susan Field, Melissa Hams, Jason Michael, Loren Leake, Wendy Lindquist, Jennifer Manning, Kyle Nelson, Cheri Odenbach, Jasmyne Ramirez, and Heather Torstveit.

Five came from Warroad: Ivy Amesen, April Barnes, Cynthia Ehrenstrom, Adrian Hasbargen and Carmela Larson.

Three came from Red Lake Falls: Niles Havard, Blaise Larson, and Darrell Schindler.

Roseau also had three: Pete Carlson, Elisa Diederich and Sara Lovejoy.

Newfolden had three additional graduates: Tricia Flohr, Corey Hanson and Brian Rud.

In addition was Kasey Hanson and Nolan Luharski of Argyle, Michael Hirst and Eric Wilson of Baudette, Janessa Anderson and Shannon Kronlund of Hallock, David Fox and Jolene Seibel of Plummer, Kelly Almquist and Sandra Fladeland of St. Hilaire, and Jami Copp and Shane Kiesow of Warren.

Also graduating this spring were Jacalyn Urbaniak of Kennedy, KayeLyn Wagner of Middle River, Tara Cowart of Oklee, and Michelle Waterworth of Viking.

66 participate in Grygla blood drive

The Grygla/[illegible] blood drive, held May 16, collected 62 units of blood for United Blood Services. 66 people participated in the drive.

The blood drive was held at the community center in Grygla.

NCTC Student Senate Secretary Beth Olson presents VIP director Bruce Reeves with a $163 donation raised during NCTC's "Spring Fling" week.

NCTC events raise money for local charity

The Violence Intervention Project (VIP), a local organization that helps victims of domestic violence, received $163 and $200 worth of donated goods from Northland Community and Technical College. NCTC raised the money through events held during its "Spring Fling Week," a week of festivities held each year. This is the first year it has been used as a way to raise money.

The first event was a bingo game on April 29. For $1 per card, participants could play bingo all night. The following night, the Student Senate bought out a showing of the "Scorpion King" at the Galaxy Twin Theater. And on May 2, a brat feed and a student dance helped contribute to the cause.

The idea came from graduating Student Senate Secretary Beth Olson. She spoke with a representative of VIP, who told her of the need for continuous funding for the organization. Olson got the Student Senate behind her idea, and worked with local businesses, which contributed prizes for the events.

Moooving Into Summer

I once had the opportunity to guide with a local fellow — we'll call him Roger because, well, his name is Roger — who, to facilitate his guests' mental grasp of what was occurring beneath them, described a school of walleye as being very similar to a herd of grazing cows. Now, I'm a city boy and I not only have a hard time imagining a large group of fish, but I'm not real comfortable with that cow thing either. In fact, I'm kind of nervous when I get around large barnyard animals so I wasn't really keen on learning that the fish beneath me bore the least bit of a similarity to anything bovine in character. However, like trying to describe a spiral staircase or a goatee without using any hand motions, the daily prospect of putting adequate visuals in the brains of Iowa farmers as to what was happening in the water below had always presented a personal challenge. This cow description, however, seemed to bridge some of the larger cultural gaps I faced and I use the analogy quite often. In fact, having seen quite a few bunches of Holstein and Angus along the roadsides of the Midwest over the last decade or so, I'd have to admit the description is fairly accurate when it comes to this early summer fishing. The only difference being that the walleye aren't really faking their eating pattern in a wily attempt to lull you into a false sense of security after which they plan on charging recklessly through the barbed wire fence to chase you down and stomp you into the gravel roadside. Cows can't be trusted.

The walleye are grazing right now and they're doing it in schools. They relate to each other as they move up on the sandy-muddy edges of the lake rim and scour the flats for minnows, leeches and insect larvae. These groups, however, are not what one might call a Jacques Cousteau school of fish, swimming inches apart, bending and turning together as though the entire multitude was a single entity.

These packs of voracious fish are like cows. They spread themselves loosely across a wide area, one here, two there, a small pocket of half a dozen or so occupying that ripple in the sand over there. They know each other is around, but don't necessarily need to feed side by side with them. When they're done foraging, they casually collect and slide away together, just like cows heading to the barn for the evening.

And, like cows, there's always a core to the group. There's always one patch of fish that's more densely bunched than the rest. And your task as an angler is to find that nucleus. Catch a fish in one spot, retrace your steps and, if unsuccessful, slide a little one way or the other. Repeat the process until a pattern develops and hold tight to your drifting or trolling line. When things quiet, begin the search process again.

This is dramatically different from the feeding patterns that occur a month or so from now, however. Like cows coming to a trough or a ring feeder in a feed-lot, the walleye will relate to specific edges in the available structure to feed later in the summer. A reef top, for instance. Then, your angling job becomes more a question of searching the accessible appropriate target areas to see if and when fish are there. But that's a discussion for a later date.

For now, if you're in need of some good visuals to make your walleye fishing a more logical and satisfying process, the herd of grazing cows image works pretty well. But try to imagine the bunch as a placid, docile, unwitting, domesticated group. To extend the comparison any further becomes far too scary a picture.

Celebration planned for UND Alumni Center's 100th birthday

The J. Lloyd Stone Alumni Center at the University of North Dakota will turn 100 on June 13, and a birthday celebration will be held there from 1:30 to 5 p.m.

Included in the celebration will be open house tours and performances by Jason Melin and Rebekah Goering, playing the parts of former UND President Webster Merrifield and his wife, who lived in the building from 1902 to 1909.

The Stone Alumni Center, the home for early UND Presidents, served a variety of roles until demolition was decided on in 1971. However, in the years following, private funds were raised to save the building, and it was established as the Alumni Center in 1981.

Peak season for Lyme Disease is here

The threat of Lyme Disease is at its greatest between mid-May and mid-July, according to the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH).

The good news, though, is that the risk area includes only the eastern part of the state.

Lyme Disease is spread by so-called "deer ticks," which are in their nymph stage at this time of year. That's when they're most likely to spread the disease.

According to David Neitzel, an epidemiologist with the MDH, 80% of Lyme reports in Minnesota occur between mid-May and mid-July.

The last two years have seen record levels of Lyme reports in the state.

According to the MDH, if you're going to be in the woods in the exposed part of the state, you should protect yourself by using tick repellent, wearing long pants and tucking them into your socks, which creates a "tick barrier," and by checking yourself for ticks on a regular basis.

Lyme Disease victims often find a circular rash at the site of the tick bite, which generally appears 2-4 weeks after the bite occurs. They also often have the symptoms of a fever.

In the long term, Lyme Disease can cause arthritis, nervous system problems, and other serious health issues, according to the Centers for Disease Control.

Renewable energy workshop in Grand Forks

University of North Dakota's energy and environmental research center is hosting a workshop on renewable energy sources.

The workshop, which will be held on June 11 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., will feature 20 regional and national speakers.

The focus of the workshop is on biomass energy. According to the American Biomass Association website (www.biomass.org), biomass uses "renewable plant material such as sawdust, tree trimmings, rice straw, alfalfa and switchgrass, poultry litter and other animal wastes, industrial waste, and the paper component of municipal solid waste" to produce energy.

Organizers expect representatives of small communities, manufacturers and utilities to attend.

Sponsors of the event include power producers such as Xcel Energy and Otter Tail Power, as well as the North Dakota Department of Commerce, the North Dakota Forest Service, and the U.S. Department of Energy.

The cost of the workshop is $50. Signup will occur online at www.undeerc.org.

For more information, contact Dee Kraft at (701)-777-5068.

Report of birth defect rate in NW Minnesota is alarming

Tuesday's Metro/State section of the Star Tribune featured a story by Tom Meersman, Star Tribune staff writer, about research into birth defects being led by Vincent Garry, professor of environmental medicine and pathology at the University of Minnesota. The story is important to us for two reasons. First, birth defects are a serious concern; and second, because the story looks at five northwestern Minnesota counties – Kittson, Marshall, Polk, Norman and Clay. The story doesn't go into how these particular counties were selected, however, it announces that these five counties have a higher rate of birth defects than urban families. Specifically, it reports that in a study of 695 Red River Valley farm families from 1968 to 1998, the study found birth defects in 31 babies per 1,000 live births. This compares to 18 babies with defects per 1,000 births in the state's metropolitan areas. That's relatively alarming.

Numerous telephone calls to local and state health department officials finally resulted in someone pointing me in the direction of the health department's Web site on birth defects (www.health.state.mn.us/divs/ch/birthdefects). It occurred to me that information about birth defects isn't collected as a matter of course, and certainly isn't public information, so how was the information for the story about birth defects collected? Anecdotally? The story states that it collected information from 695 Red River Valley farm families. The Department of Health Web site information stated, "Although some birth defects data are available for Minnesota, they are not systematically collected, analyzed, and reported."

To its credit, the Department of Health has decided that it's about time to start collecting some data because it is an important, and serious health issue. The Department of Health states that it is estimated that 100,000 to 150,000 babies are born each year in the U.S. with major birth defects, resulting in a significant public health impact on mortality, morbidity, long-term disability, and medical costs.

Most people looking at the story printed in the Star and Tribune stated to me that it's not surprising at all that there might be a link between birth defects and farm chemicals. In fact, the statement was met with several people using the obligatory "Duh!" The story, however, clearly states that "...the study does not show a definitive link between exposure to farm chemicals and birth defects."

Even the Minnesota Department of Health acknowledges that despite the magnitude of the problem, little is known about the actual causes of birth defects. Approximately 20 percent of birth defects may be attributed to genetic factors, another 10 percent attributed to environmental factors (including drug or alcohol abuse, infections, or exposure to certain medications or other chemicals), and the causes of the remaining 70 percent are currently unknown.

While the story is clear that there is no known cause, and that any evidence of a link between farm chemicals and birth defects is "associative data," and that most people would argue that logically there could very well be a link, there definitely needs to be more definitive proof. That will be obtained only through further study.

In 1997, the Minnesota Department of Health attempted to establish a Birth Defect Information System to collect data. A bill that was prepared for the legislature never made it through the session. As you might imagine there are many issues associated with collecting such information, including what information should be collected, who would have access to it, and how it would be used.

Recently, MDH has received $100,000 from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) to support establishing the Minnesota BDIS.

The main project goals are to: 1. develop, implement, and evaluate a population-based birth defects information system; 2. develop, implement, and evaluate population-based programs to prevent birth defects; and 3. develop, implement, and evaluate activities to improve the access of children with birth defects to health services and early intervention programs.

Regardless of whether or not there is a link between farm chemicals and birth defects, collecting such data is important...especially to residents of northwest Minnesota where it appears that birth defects are high.

Red Lake man found dead on road near Red Lake Falls

A Red Lake man lying on Red Lake County Road 1 east of Red Lake Falls was discovered early on the morning of June 6 when he was hit by a vehicle.

John Aloysibis Sayers, 21, Box 118, Red Lake, MN, was pronounced dead at the scene. The driver who discovered the body is not a suspect, and authorities do not know if foul play was involved. The Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension is involved, however.

The driver of the vehicle said he was meeting a car about 2 miles east of Red Lake Falls when he saw something lying on the roadway, and was unable to avoid it. After stopping, the driver investigated, and discovered it was a body and called authorities. The Red Lake County Sheriff's Department received the call at 1:48 a.m.

Red Lake County Sheriff Les Arlt says he does not know if alcohol or drugs were involved. He says the body was sent to the Ramsey County Medical Center for an autopsy.

NCTC hosts manufacturing forum, golf tourney

Northland Community and Technical College will host a Manufacturing Forum and Golf Tournament on Thursday, June 13, offering participants the opportunity to participate in a day of manufacturing training at NCTC and win prizes in a 9-hole golf scramble at Thief River Golf Club.

The Custom Training and Continuing Education department at NCTC is coordinating the event, which starts with introductions at 8 a.m. includes the choice of three workshops, lunch, and industry tour of Arctic Cat Inc. The shotgun start for a 9-hole golf scramble takes place at 2:30 p.m. with brats, burgers, awards, prizes, and a social planned for after the event.

Cost is $75 per participant, which includes the manufacturing symposium, lunch, tour, golf, and dinner. The proceeds from the event will support a Technology Summer Camp for teens slated for August 13-15 at NCTC.

Advance registration for the forum and tournament is requested. For more information or to pre-register, contact the CTCE department at (218) 681-0793, (218) 681-0796, or toll free at 1-800-959-6282.

Fergus Falls sweeps doubleheader to win Section 8AAA crown

Fergus Falls beat Sauk Rapids-Rice 5-0 and 5-1 Tuesday in the Section 8AAA high school baseball tournament finals.

The win advances the 20-6 Otters to the state tournament for the first time since 1969.

Titles in the North (Fergus Falls) and South (Sauk Rapids-Rice) Sub-Section 8AAA tournaments set up the best-of-three state-qualifying championship series that began with a twinbill in Fergus Falls. A third game, if needed, would have been played Thursday in St. Cloud.

It was an unlikely championship trip for the third-seeded Otters, who came out of the loser's bracket to beat top-seeded Alexandria 4-1 and 1-0 in the June 1 North Sub-Section 8AAA finals. The title-deciding second game went nine innings.

In May 29 North Sub-Section 8AAA play, Alexandria beat Brainerd in the final winner's bracket match-up 6-3; Fergus Falls eliminated Moorhead 6-5 and then knocked No. 2-seeded Brainerd out of the tournament 9-7.

Sauk Rapids-Rice was a 6-5 winner over Monticello in the South Sub-Section 8AAA finals. The setbacks at the hands of the Otters doubled the loss total for the year for the 21-4 Storm.

Junior golf tournament planned at RLF July 23

Oak Knolls Golf Course in Red Lake Falls will host a junior tournament Tuesday, July 23.

Shotgun start is planned for 9 a.m. Boys in age groups 11-12, 13-14 and 15-17 will golf 18 holes. Those ages 10-under will play nine holes. The number of entrants in the girls portion of the tournament will determine age brackets.

All competition will be medal play.

The entry fee, which includes lunch, is $10 for those playing 18 holes; $5 for golfers playing nine holes.

Entries are preferred by noon July 22, but will still be accepted before 8:45 a.m. on tournament day. Send entries to Steve Philion, 518 Champagne Ave., Red Lake Falls, MN 56750. For additional information call Philion at 253-2499.

Awards presented to track team

Efforts in both track and field were recognized with the presentation of four MVP awards when the Thief River Falls boys and girls high school track teams handed out honors for the 2002 season.

Named most valuable were Nathan Browning, boys track; Trent Christensen, boys field events; Erin Steva, girls track; and Shara Guidry, girls field events.

Other awards went to Browning, boys hardest worker, Stacia Kalinoski, girls hardest worker; Jon Walrath, boys most improved; and Cami Hendrickson, girls most improved.

Girls earning athletic letters were seniors Amber Curry, Brianna Dyer, Brenda Kopan; juniors Krista Brenna, Heather Bjerken, Brittany Haviland, Chelsey Helgeland, Kallie Kezar, Hannah Merley, Tiffany Sorenson, Stacia Kalinoski, Steva; sophomores Guidry and Hendrickson; along with freshmen Megan Barry, Jenna Dillon, Sara Kalinoski, and Brianna Reierson.

Individual success top golf story

■ TRF boys have three 2002 tournament medalists

Athletic letters went to 13 members of the 2002 Thief River Falls boys high school golf team, it was announced by Prowlers head coach Dick Tyler.

The letter winners included seniors Robby Anderson, Tommy Greelis, Joseph Haj, Nick Harris, Brian Jung, and Trevor Swanson; juniors Mitch Pribula, Reid Sjaaheim and Jay Tuthill; freshman Paul Sjoberg; and eighth graders Corey LaSalle, Matt Nordhagen and Brady Stanley.

The Prowlers turned in some solid scores individually throughout a cold, wet season, but they struggled as a team, pointed out Tyler. "Weather-wise, this was the worst spring for golf in many years," he said. "When the temperature hit 45 degrees, we thought it was a nice day."

Wet weather cost the Prowlers a chance to host their annual Thief River Falls Invitational this spring.

As a team, the Prowlers' finishes ranged from a third at Roseau to a 12th place showing at the Section 8AA meet.

"We had more success with individual scores than team scores," pointed out Tyler.

The Prowlers' top three golfers were all medal winners throughout the course of the year. Paul Sjoberg was second at Fargo North and Detroit Lakes, fourth at Perham, Moorhead and Bagley-Fosston, and combined with Greelis for a second place finish in the two-man team scoring used at Park Rapids. Greelis added a second at Roseau and Haj was first at Red Lake Falls.

American Legion baseball...

TRF, Stephen-Argyle split a doubleheader

Following on early-season pattern, Stephen-Argyle came up with a first-game win and a doubleheader split Thursday in an American Legion baseball doubleheader against Thief River Falls at the wind-swept Multi-Events Center.

Game 1 went to Stephen-Argyle 11-6. The nightcap was won by Thief River Falls 9-3.

The visitors headed back home with a 7-5 record. And they remain unbeaten in six twinbill openers. It was the 2002 season debut for Thief River Falls and new head coach Jamie McEnelly.

"We played a lot better in the second game," said McEnelly. "We weren't real sharp the first game. We were swinging off our front foot and not driving the ball."

Post 117 began a 40-game schedule without a single 2002 high school senior on its roster. But the inexperience tag won't last long. The team has Ninth District doubleheaders scheduled Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and will then play host to the Thief River Falls Wooden Bat Invitational Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

First three Stephen-Argyle batters reached base and scored to start Game 1 as Riley St. Germain drew a lead-off walk, stole second, advanced to third on a passed ball and scored when Dustin Grabowska's fly ball to center field was dropped for a two-base error. Ben Dziengel singled up the middle for the second run, stole second and scored on an infield ground-out off the bat of Dustin Safranski.

Thief River Falls chopped the difference to 3-2 in the second when Mitch Pribula, Stacy Wiseth and Chris Lian came up with consecutive singles to load the bases. A sacrifice fly by Gabe Carlson wound up scoring two runs thanks to an error that was tacked onto the play.

But Stephen-Argyle took charge with a five-run fourth inning. Two walks and an error loaded the bases. A wild pitch and errant pick-off throw scored the first two runs, and a single to right by Brandon Weckwordt plated the third run of the inning. Dziengel and Dustin Safranski both picked up an RBI on bases-loaded walks, and an infield single by Brent Halfmann made it a 9-2 game.

A long fourth inning continued in the Thief River Falls half of the frame when four Stephen-Argyle errors and a run-scoring double by Josh Langlie sliced the scoreboard difference to 9-5.

Stephen-Argyle cut short the Thief River Falls comeback when No. 9 hitter Nick Moen drove in a run with a single to left and later scored on passed ball for an 11-5 game.

An inning-opening error and an infield ground-out by Gabe Carlson plated the final Thief River Falls run in the bottom of the fifth.

A combined three-hit pitching performance by Josh Langlie and Reid Sjaaheim, along with a 3-for-4 game at the plate for Ben Weigelt and a 2-for-3, effort by Jon Walrath that included 3 RBI, led to the Thief River Falls Game 2 win. Carlson and Langlie added two hits apiece in the 12-hit attack for the winners.

The three consecutive doubleheaders awaiting Thief River Falls are 5 p.m. match-ups Monday at home vs. Detroit Lakes, Tuesday at Roseau and Wednesday at Fergus Falls.

Registrations open for Boostars golf tourney

Registration forms are available for the sixth annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Invitational golf tournament. The fund-raising event is scheduled to be held Friday, June 28, at the Thief River Golf Club.

Forms can be obtained from members of the Thief River Falls Coaches Association, Northland Community and Technical College athletic department and Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club and at the Golf Club.

Entry fee, which includes golf, lunch, tournament jacket and registration for prize drawings, is $70 per golfer, or $350 per team. A discount is offered if fees are paid before June 14. Pre-registration and pre-payment is requested.

A shotgun start is planned for 11 a.m. The social starts at 4:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 5:30.

For additional information contact the Thief River Golf Club at 681-2955.

Golf Club is host to 2002 Pro-Am field

There were 19 club professionals from the Winnipeg, Man. area on hand for the annual Pro-Am Thursday at the Thief River Golf Club.

A 70 by Dean North led the Canadian delegation, and helped give his foursome a first place 122 in the team standings. His group included Tom Williams and Ron Ellingson of Thief River Falls, along with Ed Reynolds of Apple Valley.

A 123 turned in by (pro) Adam Boge, Stan Sjoberg, Gordon Campbell, and Gerry Jenson was good for second place.

Helping the Hungry

■ New program at Thief River Falls grocery store benefits food shelf

North Country Food Bank's list, including the following that are located in the Northern Watch area: Argyle Area Food Shelf, Care and Share Food Shelf, Karlstad, East Marshall County Food Shelf, Middle River, Grace Lutheran Food Shelf, Erskine, Greenbush Food Shelf, Grygla-Gatzke Food Shelf, Inter-County Food Shelf, Oklee, Red Lake Falls Community Food Shelf, Roseau County Food Shelf, Strandquist Area Food Shelf, Thief River Falls Area Food Shelf, Warren Emergency Food Shelf, and Warroad Food Shelf.

A group of local ministers who saw a need founded Thief River Falls Area Food Shelf in 1984. During its first year, it served 783 families or 2,515 individuals. In 2001, the local food shelf served 2,555 families or 6,741 individuals from and Thief River Falls, Newfolden, Viking, and Holt communities.

While numbers decline in the warm weather months, the food shelf continues to be used by families and individuals who, for whatever reason, find their food supplies depleted. Anyone can come to the food shelf once, but a referral from a church or Social Services is required for a second and subsequent visits.

Who uses food shelves? Why? The facts and figures surrounding food shelf use are similar regardless of where one lives in the state.

In Minnesota, 1.32 million people visited food shelves in 2001, a nearly 10 percent increase over 2000 and the second largest increase in a decade. Some food shelves, according to Minnesota FoodShare, have experienced a 50 percent increase. Food shelves in the state distributed 29 million pounds of food in 2001, up from 26 million pounds in 2000. The increase, in both pounds of food and people served, is linked to rising unemployment.

Nearly half of those visiting the state's food shelves are children. Studies show that hungry children have difficulty learning as well as more medical problems and absenteeism than children who are adequately nourished. Twenty percent of all food shelf clients in Minnesota in 2001 were elderly. Older citizens have been particularly hard hit by the recession with those living on fixed incomes or depending on interest rate incomes hit by low interest rate and high rent costs. Older workers are also often the first ones laid off when companies make cutbacks.

According to FoodShare statistics, 43 percent of the state's food shelf clients are employed with 35 percent retired or disabled and unable to work.

Minnesota FoodShare attributes many of the state's hunger problems to income, stating that people who use food shelves simply do not make enough income to meet their basic needs. The poverty rate – currently, $18,100 for a family of four – is an annual income number used to determine state and federal benefits that has not been updated to reflect today's actual cost of living. The minimum wage of $5.15 per hour does not come close to self-sufficiency, and an average hourly rate of $8.36 means that people living on low wages, often without benefits, are vulnerable to hunger due to childcare costs, rising housing costs, and out-of-pocket medical expenses.

Statistics like the fact that the average worker's salary increased only nine percent during the past 10 years while his rent increased 34 percent tell the story about those dubbed as the state's "working poor." They explain, too, why family members take turns eating or eat smaller meals to make their food last longer. The statistics reveal why food shelves have an important place in our communities.

As Minnesota FoodShare and other large organizations work to ease the state's hunger problems, it is important that churches, service clubs and organizations, and individuals in local communities do their part, participating in programs such as the new program at Super One Foods.

Arctic Cat gives computers, ATV to NCTC

Thief River Falls-based Arctic Cat, a manufacturer of all-terrain vehicles (ATVs) and snowmobiles, donated a number of computers and an ATV to Northland Community and Technical College.

NCTC uses the ATV, a 2002-model 500 automatic TBX, in its athletic and maintenance departments.

NCTC physical plant supervisor Earl Frazer said that "The [ATV] is already getting daily use, and has made a big impact in the efficiency of campus projects."

In addition to the ATV, Arctic Cat has also donated 15 used computers to NCTC's computer information systems department. Arctic Cat was upgrading its computer equipment, and decided to donate its old equipment to NCTC.

NCTC President Orley Gunderson said that "we are immensely thankful for the support the college has received from Arctic Cat. We place great value on our partnerships with area business and industry, and believe in the value of promoting northwestern Minnesota's resources."

Dept. of Healthannounces $16 million in federal grants

In Disease Surveillance and Response Capacity the state's existing disease reporting system will be expanded and strengthened to provide for time-urgent 24/7 reporting of an expanded list of diseases and conditions. This enhanced system will serve as an "early warning system" for a possible bioterrorism attack or public health emergency, providing timely information about situations that may be part of a terrorism incident. Staffing and expertise in critical areas like epidemiology will be expanded in order to assure that the state has the resources to launch an effective response to a bioterrorism incident and contain the public health risk posed by such an event.

The Laboratory Capacity phase will provide for improvements to the lab system, including improved communication and collaboration between the state public health laboratory and the state's 157 private clinical laboratories; improved training and procedures for collecting and transporting clinical specimens; development of an integrated response plan that will improve coordination of state lab activities with law enforcement, local public health, and other clinical labs; enhanced testing capacity and capabilities at the state lab; enhanced capabilities for electronic data handing and sharing; and improved lab security.

Training and Communications grant money will be used to strengthen existing systems for rapid electronic communication between MDH and local pubic health agencies as well as laboratories, hospitals, health care providers, and others who would play a critical role during a bioterrorism event. These strengthened communications systems must have the capacity to function on a 24/7 basis. The funding will also be used to create an improved system for communicating with the pubic during an emergency, including procedures for coordinating messages and making sure the information provided to the public is clear, consistent, accurate, and easily understood. Some of the funding will be used to train personnel who will play a key role in responding to a bioterrorism event and conduct regular exercises to make sure all parts of the response system are functioning effectively.

After the event was closed to the public at midnight, teams continued to walk. The event's conclusion included awards to Beth Skallet's team, "Racing for a Cure," for the most creative campsite and Ruth Schultz's team, "American Walking Worriors," for the highest team total. A drawing for individuals who raised more than $1,000 was won by Connie Parenteau.

Congratulations to Red Lake County for another successful event. Organizers will rest until January when next year's event will be planned. Funds raised by Relay for Life are used for patient services, education, research, and advocacy.

EERC initiates Phase I of Waffle Project

Researchers at the University of North Dakota Energy and Environmental Research Center (EERC) have initiated basinwide digital elevation mapping of the Red River Basin, Phase I of the Waffle Project, which has now been funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture Natural Resources Conservation Service.

"Because detailed digital elevation mapping of the entire Red River Basin has so many specific applications, it is perhaps the most important component and fundamental underpinning of the Red River Water Management Consortium's "Waffle Project," said EERC Director Gerald Groenewold.

"The Waffle" is a three-year project to determine the feasibility of developing a basinwide system for temporary storage of floodwater in the Red River Basin.

"The Red River Water Management Consortium, now in its seventh year, is directed by public and private stakeholders in North Dakota and Minnesota, and as the only technically based water management consortium the basin, is uniquely positioned to provide mature, selective, and strategic technical solutions," said Groenewold.

"While nearly ever county in the basin has undertaken some level of digital geographic information system (GIS) mapping, there has been no coordination of efforts to date," said EERC Associate Director for Research Edward Steadman.

In this project, EERC researchers are not only providing technical coordination of existing data, they are building upon that information by identifying specific subbasins that will be critical to flood or drought mitigation and completing extremely detailed digital elevation mapping of those areas. Promising benefits of the EERC's basinwide digital elevation mapping and Waffle project include the following:

- National model for basinwide water management;
- New basinwide tool for flood mitigation and prediction;
- New basinwide tool for drought mitigation;
- New basinwide tool for drought effect assessment;
- Basinwide coordination of digital elevation-mapping efforts;
- Detailed digital elevation maps of areas critical for water management;
- Hydrologic models for subbasins and the mainstem of the Red River;
- Reduced overland flooding damage;
- More manageable drainage of agricultural lands;
- Increased frost-thaw rate;
- Storage of spring runoff for irrigation;
- Better ability to track crop diseases;
- Better quantification of impacts of climatic events on crop production;
- Enhanced aquifer recharge;
- Reduced washout of county roads;
- Water quality benefits to the Red River and its tributaries;
- U.S. Environmental Protection Agency credits for reduction of cryptosporidium to municipal drinking water plants;
- Improved digital infrastructure location maps, including the state and county highway system, railroads, boundary information, cultural points, bridges, roads and others.

"In light of the numerous applications for which this data can be used, bottom-line, the most important outcome of the "Waffle' is economic development for this region," said Groenewold.

Area students make honor roll at Alexandria Tech

Thomas Altepeter and Jill Panek of Thief River Falls, as well as Andy Erickson of Middle River, have made it onto Alexandria Technical College's honor roll for Spring semester.

Altepeter studies marketing and sales; Panek studies interior design, and Erickson studies computer and voice networking.

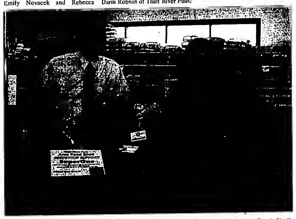
Laura Follett participates in safari



Thief River Falls native Laura Follett is currently participating in a biology seminar in Africa. She is involved in the program through Concordia College in Moorhead.

The "East African Safari" includes studies in Tanzania and Kenya. There, she will visit the Serengeti, Mount Kilimanjaro, the Indian Ocean, and other famous East African landmarks.

▲ Looking for a little art? If so, you might enjoy the "Traveling Mini Show" currently on display at Northern State Bank in Thief River Falls. The pieces, 5-by-7 inches and smaller, are the works of artists from throughout the state, all members of Artists of Minnesota. The organization is open to any person interested in creating original art and includes members who are both amateur and professional who work in a variety of mediums. Information about membership can be found at www.artistsofminnesota.com

◀ This tiny painting by Thief River Falls artist LeVonne Forsberg is among those displayed in the lobby at Northern State Bank. Forsberg, a member of Artists of Minnesota, is responsible for bringing the "Traveling Mini Show" to northwestern Minnesota and set the display up earlier this week.

A new program at Super One Foods in Thief River Falls is helping the hungry $1 at a time. Cards bearing the name of the store and a PLU number can be used when checking out one's purchases at Super One Foods. Scanned into the cash register, the PLU number will designate a $1 to the Thief River Falls Area Food Shelf. Pictured (from left) are Ross Deizell, Super One Foods manager, Glorie Reierson, food shelf director, and Mary Fran Zeller, president of the Thief River Falls Area Food Shelf board of directors.

Fighting Foodwaters near and In Roseau

Roseau waits for declaration

by Andy Cummings
Reporter

"The recovery is going to take a long, long time," said Roseau Mayor Jeff Pelowski after spending Thursday morning surveying the damage to his city. But he hopes Roseau will have some help, as President Bush is expected to sign a Presidential Disaster Declaration that would pour federal funds into the cleanup.

According to the National Weather Service in Grand Forks, a total of eleven inches of rain fell on the Roseau area Sunday and Monday. The highest waters Roseau has ever seen broke the town's levy Tuesday afternoon, and the majority of the town soon found itself underwater.

The river crested at just over 23 feet on either Wednesday or Thursday, but according to the NWS, the exact level and time of crest is very difficult to determine due to a bridge causing fluctuations in their measurements.

Gov. Jesse Ventura declared a state of emergency in 13 area counties on Wednesday. He has asked President Bush to declare this region a disaster area, which would clear the way for federal funds to help with cleanup.

In addition, several state agencies are preparing to help in the recovery process. Minnesota's departments of Health, Commerce, Pollution Control, Natural Resources, Transportation and Agriculture are meeting with the Division of Emergency Management to determine how best to serve the flood victims.

According to city administrator Jim Vickaryous, the police department, city hall and the power plant are all flooded. In addition, he says only three local businesses were open as of Thursday afternoon.

Lieutenant Gov. Mae Schunk was given a tour of the area Wednesday, and United States Rep. Collin Peterson has been around the area for some time.

East Grand Forks Mayor Lynn Stauss was in town Thursday to offer the city advice on how to cope with the aftermath of the flooding. "He gave us a lot of great advice," Roseau Mayor Jeff Pelowski said.

Pelowski estimates that half the town has been evacuated. Many are staying at the school and community center in nearby Badger.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers was on site starting Tuesday, hauling dirt into town and bulldozing it into a temporary levy along the railroad tracks. They also provided the city with 200,000 sandbags.

"There's reported flooding in around 75 percent of the town," said Dave Christenson, emergency

Northern Watch distributed in Roseau area

Dear Readers:

Residents of the Roseau area have been without mail service since the flood began, and that also means they will not receive the Northern Watch. We have been told that the Postal Service does not know when mail service to the area will be restored. We don't want our readers in northwestern Minnesota to be without news that concerns them. We understand that it is a difficult time for everyone, but fortunately, some local businesses in Roseau have agreed to dispense the Northern Watch for us. You may pick up copies of the Northern Watch free of charge at the Roseau Holiday Gas Station, Pamida and ACE Hardware. Due to the lateness of the hour, we weren't able to check with many other businesses, but the Northern Watch may also be found at other locations.

Campground equipment turns up

East Grand Forks - While the State Recreation Area in East Grand Forks has yet to be built, they would have ample picnic tables and grills if they were to open soon.

Recently, five semi trucks filled with tables and grills, which were not expected, turned up in East Grand Forks with no where to go.

The city will rent space to store the equipment that was purchased early because state funding was available to do so. The Exponent

Tobacco compliance checks conducted

Erskine - Tobacco compliance checks were conducted May 15-18 in all areas of Polk County with the exception of Crookston and East Grand Forks where police departments conduct their own checks.

During the checks, six stores were closed, 15 passed compliance, and 11 sold tobacco to minors. Stores that failed the compliance checks were located in Erskine, Fosston, Lengby, and McIntosh.

Five stores were cited for a first offense; four stores received their second citation within 24 months; and two retailers received notification of their third citation within the last 24 months. The Erskine Echo

Board tightens requirements for graduation at W/A/O

Warren - A tightening of requirements for participation in graduation exercises was approved by the Warren/Alvarado/Oslo school board at its meeting Monday night.

Under new policy, all credits, coursework, and graduation standard requirements must be completed and passed one week before commencement or a student will not be allowed to participate in the graduation ceremony. Warren Sheaf

150-mile memorial ride planned

Fosston - Motorcyclists will gather on Saturday, July 13, at 11 a.m. at the Wolf Pack club house to launch a 150-mile "Earle Bakken Memorial Ride."

The ride is being staged to honor Bakken, 53, who died April 16, 2002 in a motorcycle accident. Proceeds from the ride will be given to Earle's widow, Rose, of rural Lengby. The Thirteen Towns

Church notes 100th birthday June 16

Grygla - Members, former members, pastors, and guests will gather at Our Savior's Lutheran Church Sunday, June 16, to celebrate 100 years of faith and fellowship.

On June 16, 1902, a number of families met at the Ole Knutson home, and decided to organize a church called the "VorFreiser's Evangelistic Menighed." Serving on the first church board were Colbjorn Thompson, John Rygnestad, Halvor Byklum, and B.M. Howland.

The church is located about 12 miles east of Grygla. The Grygla Eagle

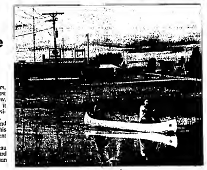
Residents face flood with positive attitudes

by Andy Cummings
Reporter

Syd Skogstad is wearing waders, but fly fishing is about the furthest thing from his mind right now. Instead, he's just trying to make it down one of Roseau's main residential streets Tuesday afternoon.

"We've lived here since '59, and we've never had anything like this before," said Roseau resident Gordon Erickson.

But as LeRoy Falk of Roseau pointed out, "it came down so hard and so fast," harder and faster than he's ever seen it come down.



Falk is helping keep his brother-in-law's house dry. They have a wall of sandbags set up around the front of the house, and are using a sump pump to keep as much water on the other side of that wall as they can.

"If it crests now, it wouldn't be that bad," he said. Just then, his pump tipped over, and he ran off to put the pump back on top of the sandbag wall.

Nobody here can even remember having to sandbag before. But with everything south of the tracks flooded and a good part of the rest of the town underwater as well, sandbagging is a skill they're learning fast.

By Thursday, Mayor Jeff Pelowski estimated 95 percent of Roseau was under water. However, he also said that "we are starting to get some reports of good news, whereas before, it was all bad news."

Getting around town is a bit challenging

Polk County Breakfast on Farm today

Polk County American Dairy Association will host its 8th annual Breakfast on the Farm today (Saturday, June 15) from 8 to 11 a.m. at the Mark and Joan Lee Farm, near McIntosh.

A complimentary breakfast of pancakes, sausage, ice cream, strawberries, milk, and coffee, is sponsored by Polk County ADA in cooperation with Q Country KKCQ of Fosston and the Polk County Extension Service.

Those attending will have the opportunity to visit with area Dairy Princesses who will demonstrate ice cream making in a bag. Tours will be available, demonstrating the operation of a dairy farm and affording participants the opportunity to see the animals and farm facilities.

There will also be information about why the dairy producer and related dairy industry are so important to Minnesota, and a milk container sculpture contest.

Florian Chmielewski will provide musical entertainment from 10 to 10:30 a.m., and Linda Thurson of First Care Medical Services of Fosston will be in attendance with the Fosston Ambulance to administer free blood pressure checks and offer information about the benefits of calcium in one's diet.

The Lee farm is located six miles north of McIntosh on County Road 8, and 1/4 mile east on County Road 5. The roads will be marked.

Rhubarb Fest June 22 at Lake Bronson

A full day of events planned for day

Lake Bronson will be the place to be on Saturday, June 22, as the community hosts its annual Rhubarb Festival and Midsummer Day Celebration.

A full day of events is planned, beginning with a flea market and craft exhibit on Main Street at 10 a.m. Vendors are welcome to bring their own tables and set up free of charge.

Registration for the Rhubarb Baking Contest also begins at 10 a.m. at the Lake Bronson Community Center. Celebrity judges will include "Tina and Lena" as well as local newspaper reporter Hugh Bell. Everyone is invited to participate, and it is hoped that the judges will be impressed with the talents of many area cooks while experiencing the many different ways rhubarb can be prepared. The contest's only requirement is that rhubarb be among the entering recipe's ingredients. Cash prizes of $15, $10, and $5 will be awarded in each category. Judging is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. Also, beginning at 11:30 a.m. rhubarb desserts and coffee will be sold at the Community Center.

Rewards may help develop leads in four violent cases

Four years ago Minnesotans were shocked by the murder of 16-year-old Julie Ann Holmquist, who had been abducted while rollerblading on a rural northwestern Minnesota road near her home. Nearly 20 years ago, a senior citizen from Kandiyohi County was brutally murdered in his home by unknown assailants. And, the unusual disappearances of Laurie Ann Feiner of Oakdale and Susan Swedell from Lake Elmo remain a mystery. The connection between these four cases? Each remains unsolved.

Minnesota law enforcement officials are hoping that $225,000 in new reward money will prompt someone with information on each of these cases to come forward. "When it comes to getting people to come forward with information, money talks, plain and simple," said Minnesota Public Safety Commissioner Charlie Weaver. "We hope new rewards or increasing existing ones in each of these cases will be an incentive for someone with information, even the tiniest of clues, to share what they know with investigators."

The reward is being offered by Spotlight on Crime (www.spotlightoncrime.org), a fund established by Minnesota businesses in conjunction with state and local law enforcement officials. The reward fund is designed to reenergize cases where investigations have grown cold.

Investigation into Holmquist case continues

Kittson County Sheriff Ray Hunt said he submitted a request for the Julie Holmquist case to be featured on the Spotlight on Crime program.

The pace of the investigation has slowed considerably, but Sheriff Hunt said information is still coming in. He hopes that with the reward, someone will come forward with new information that help solve the four-year-old case.

The case is still under active investigation, and Hunt said he still keeps in touch with the family about progress in the case.

Dayton to hold flood meetings in Ada, Roseau

Senator Mark Dayton will be in both Ada and Roseau on Saturday, June 15 to discuss how best to respond to the massive flooding that is ravaging communities in Norman and Roseau Counties. Dayton has pressed President Bush to make federal aid quickly available to all Minnesota communities affected.

At 3:45 p.m., Dayton will be in Ada, for two meetings with area officials, residents and farmers about the flooding that has hit communities throughout Norman County. Dayton will first meet at 3:45 p.m. with local officials from across Norman County at the Ada VFW, located at 415 West Main St.

At 4:35 p.m., Dayton will meet with Norman County farmers at the Glenn and Gordon Ramstad farm located approximately two-and-one-half miles south of Ada on Highway 9. The farm is on the east side of Highway 9.

At 6:45 p.m., Dayton will be in Roseau to meet with local officials and residents about the flooding that is ravaging the city and surrounding areas. The meeting will take place at the City's Automotive Shop, located at 1198 Center Street in Roseau.

Dayton's schedule includes meetings at the following times and locations:

1) Meeting with Area Local Officials

2) Meeting with Area Farmers at 3:45 p.m. at the Ada VFW and 4:35 p.m. at Ramstad Farm, 415 West Main Street in Ada two and one-half miles south of Ada on Highway 9

3) Dayton Meets with Roseau-area Officials, Residents 6:45 p.m. at the City's Automotive shop at 1198 Center Street in Roseau

Salvation Army encourages informed clean up

The waters have receded in Warroad and residents are ready to begin the clean up. The Salvation Army offers some caution to prevent potential problems including careful documentation of damage for insurance reasons.

"With flooding there are special circumstances people need to take into account," says Val Stevens, Salvation Army field representative. "We have clean up kits available to help residents avoid the pitfalls of flood contamination." According to Stevens too many people expect to use their regular household supplies and don't use rubber gloves. Unfortunately that is not only a health hazard but may encourage mold growth. In addition, the porous nature of some materials make them difficult to disinfect and may need to be discarded. "It is hard to tell someone they have to throw out a family heirloom because it has been contaminated by the sewage in the flood waters," Stevens said.

Residents are encouraged to get a clean up kit and a tip sheet from the disaster center at Marvin Gardens Arena. "We are prepared to give instruction on proper cleaning," Stevens said. "And if this is declared a national disaster, all of the damage needs to be documented with plenty of photographs or video tape. It isn't uncommon for people to begin clean up and then be ineligible for compensation because they don't have proof of losses."

The Salvation Army and other agencies will soon be supervising volunteer teams and providing access to power washers and wet-vacs, as well as the clean up kits.

Donations for northern Minnesota flooding efforts may be given online at www.thesalarmy.com or sent to 2445 Prior Ave., Roseville MN 55113.

Emergency Management opens flood info hotline

People in the flooded sections of northwest Minnesota may begin using an Emergency Hotline number established at noon Thursday to acquire any necessary information or instructions regarding the flood emergency. Minnesota's Division of Emergency Management (DEM) will staff the hotline from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Deaf and hard-of-hearing persons can reach the flood hotline through the Minnesota Relay Service.

Other interested persons are encouraged to use the Web site before making phone calls to state agencies, whose employees and phone lines are tied up in a cooperative effort to bring relief to the flooded areas.

DEM is also providing daily reports on the flooding in 13 northwestern Minnesota counties. Its Web site at http://www.dem.state.mn.us includes a "Flood Information" link which will take the viewer to the latest reports, along with links to flood recovery information, the National Weather Service site, hydrologic predictions, any warnings or watches being issued, and the Minnesota Department of Health's tips on cleaning up after a disaster.

Information from the City of Roseau Thursday, encourages those who want to help the flood victims immediately to make cash donations to relief organizations. The present situation in the flooded area makes it impossible to house or transport volunteers, and there is no dry storage area for any food or other materials donated right now. As soon as waters begin to recede and the situation becomes suitable for volunteer work, procedures will be set up for those who want to help, and the call for volunteers will go out.

Cash donations more useful at this time in Roseau

The severity of recent flood activity in the northwestern region of the state has prompted an outpouring of offers from individuals who wish to contribute to volunteer relief efforts.

At this time, cash donations to organized volunteer agencies such as The Red Cross or The Salvation Army are the most useful forms of assistance.

"Right now, local emergency personnel are asking that people don't send any "goods," since they literally have nowhere to store them," says Dennis Walter, Emergency Management Volunteer Resource coordinator. "What is needed most are cash donations so that these communities can begin organizing physical relief efforts."

In addition to a lack of storage space for donated goods, the affected counties currently lack adequate facilities to house volunteers.

"Until local residents are able to begin damage assessment and some clean-up, it will be nearly impossible to provide shelter for the many volunteers who will likely show up," says Walter. "As the situation develops, the media will be contacted regarding the need for volunteer services."

For more information about how and where you can make a cash donation, call The American Red Cross (Midwest Minnesota Chapter) at 218-736-3481 or The Salvation Army at 1-800-SAL-ARMY.

Lions Park picnic rescheduled for Thursday, June 20

Soggy conditions at the park Thursday spurred the Thief River Falls Lions Club to postpone its open house and picnic shelter project fund-raiser.

The event has been rescheduled for Thursday, June 20, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at Lions Park. Hamburgers, hot dogs, chips, ice cream, and pop will be served.

Those attending are encouraged bring and donate any used eye glasses they have.

Libengood Family performs at Roseau June 23

The Libengood Family will present a concert at Roseau Community Church on Sunday, June 23, at 7 p.m.

Individually and together, members of the Libengood family have been involved in Christian music for more than 50 years, performing throughout the country and appearing with several evangelists and on such television programs as "The 700 Club" and "PTL."

Thank You

We wish to thank the Rescue Squad, Green Funeral Home, Pastor Knutson, friends & neighbors for all of the support during this trying time.

Thanks also to the Ladies Aid and Pallbearers.

God Bless ALL.

The chicken might be nice for hubby this weekend and the salad is great. There are also some great new rhubarb recipes for you because the rhubarb is ready Right Now:

Simply delicious is how this is best described:

EASY BARBECUED CHICKEN

10-12 pieces frying chicken
1 large bottle barbecue sauce
2-3 teaspoons olive oil
1 (12 ounce) can Coca-Cola (no substitutes – not diet)

Remove skins from chicken. Rinse and pat dry. Put olive oil in electric fry pan and set at 200-250 degrees. When heated, place chicken pieces in fry pan and brown slightly, turning once.

Smother the chicken pieces in barbecue sauce and then carefully pour Coke between pieces. Cover and cook.

Beginning after 10 minutes, baste the chicken with the sauce frequently. Keep simmering nicely. Dish is done when chicken is tender and well-glazed, about 30 to 50 minutes, depending on size of pieces.

These delicious bars will be a hit this weekend:

SOUR CREAM-RHUBARB SQUARES

1/2 cup white sugar
1 tablespoon butter
1-1/2 cups packed brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup sour cream
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup shortening
2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1-1/2 cups chopped rhubarb

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour 9x13 inch pan.

Mix sugar, nuts, melted butter and cinnamon until crumbly. Set aside.

In separate bowl, cream brown sugar, shortening and egg. Add flour, soda and salt to creamed mixture alternately with sour cream. Stir in rhubarb.

Pour mixture into pan and sprinkle with reserved topping. Bake at 350 degrees for 45-50 minutes.

Serve your chicken with hearty baked potatoes and this good salad – it's really tasty and easy:

ADDICTING SALAD

1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1/4 cup Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons white sugar
1 (10 ounce) package spring lettuce mix (or salad greens from the garden if you have them)
1/2 cup Parmesan cheese (again)
1/2 cup finely grated carrot
1/2 cup small cauliflower florets
1/2 cup bacon bits (fresh are best)

In small bowl, mix mayonnaise, 1/4 cup Parmesan and sugar. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Stir again just before using.

In large serving bowl, combine lettuce, 1/2 cup Parmesan cheese, carrot, cauliflower and bacon bits. Toss with chilled dressing just before serving.

Guys like pies – peaches are on sale now, so try this one – it's an old-fashioned recipe:

PEACH CUSTARD PIE

6 fresh peaches, pitted, skinned and sliced
1 (9-inch) unbaked pie shell
1/2 cup white sugar
1 tablespoon flour
Pinch salt
Pinch ground cinnamon
1 egg

Preheat oven to 400 degrees.

Place sliced peaches in unbaked pie shell.

In medium bowl, combine sugar, flour, salt, cinnamon and egg. Beat well and pour over peaches.

Bake on bottom rack of oven for about 30 minutes.

Serve with ice cream or whipped topping.

Maybe your guy would prefer a rhubarb pie – this one is good – I've tried it:

RHUBARB CUSTARD PIE

2-1/2 cups fresh rhubarb, cut into 1/2 inch pieces
2 eggs
1 cup white sugar
2-1/2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon butter, melted
1 tablespoon cream
2 unbaked pie shells

Beat eggs to a froth. Gradually beat in sugar, flour, butter and cream. Stir in rhubarb pieces.

Place mixture in unbaked pie shell. Cover with second pie crust and flute and vent.

Bake on bottom rack of oven at 400 degrees for 10 minutes and then at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool before cutting.

Another old favorite, just like Grandma made:

RHUBARB COBBLER

3/4 cup white sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
4 cups chopped rhubarb
1 tablespoon water
1 tablespoon butter, diced
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup flour
1 tablespoon white sugar
1-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup milk
1 egg, beaten

Mix 3/4 cup sugar and cornstarch in saucepan. Stir in the sliced rhubarb with 1 tablespoon water. Bring to a boil and cook and stir for 1 minute. Pour into greased 9x13 inch pan. Dot with 1 tablespoon butter and sprinkle with cinnamon.

Sift flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in 1/4cup cold butter until it becomes coarse crumbs.

Mix milk and egg and add all at once to dry mixture, stirring barely to moisten. Drop by teaspoonful on top of hot rhubarb in pan. Sprinkle with sugar and bake 20 minutes at 400 degrees.

THE LYON'S SHARE

Tim Lyon

Mooovlng Into Summer

I once had the opportunity to guide with a local fellow – we'll call him Roger because, well, his name is Roger – who, to facilitate his guests mental grasp of what was occurring beneath them, described a school of walleyes as being very similar to a herd of grazing cows. Now, I'm a city boy and I not only have a hard time imagining a large group of fish, but I'm not real comfortable with that cow thing either. In fact, I'm kind of nervous when I get around large barnyard animals so I wasn't really keen on learning that the fish beneath me bore the least bit of a similarity to anything bovine in character. However, like trying to describe a spiral staircase or a gotcce without using any hand motions, the daily prospect of putting adequate visuals in the brains of Iowa farmers as to what was happening in the water below had always presented a personal challenge. This cow description, however, seemed to bridge some of the larger cultural gaps I faced and I use the analogy quite often. In fact, having seen quite a few bunches of Holstein and Angus along the roadsides of the Midwest over the last decade or so, I'd have to admit the description is fairly accurate when it comes to this early summer fishing. The only difference being that the walleyes aren't really faking their eating pattern in a wily attempt to lull you into a false sense of security after which they plan on charging recklessly through the barbed wire fence to chase you down and stomp you into the gravel roadside. Cows can't be trusted.

The walleyes are grazing right now and they're doing it in schools. They relate to each other as they move up on the sandy-muddy edges of the lake rim and scour the flats for minnows, leeches and insect larvae. These groups, however, are not what one might call a Jacques Cousteau school of fish, swimming inches apart, bending and turning together as though the entire multitude was a single entity.

These packs of voracious fish are like cows. They spread themselves loosely across a wide area, one here, two there, a small pocket of half a dozen or so occupying that ripple in the sand over there. They know each other is around, but don't necessarily need to feed side by side with them. When they're done foraging, they casually collect and slide away together, just like cows heading to the barn for the evening.

And, like cows, there's always a core to the group. There's always one patch of fish that's more densely bunched than the rest. And your task as an angler is to find that nucleus. Catch a fish in one spot, retrace your steps and, if unsuccessful, slide a little one way or the other. Repeat the process until a pattern develops and hold tight to your drifting or trolling line. When things quiet, begin the search process again.

This is dramatically different from the feeding patterns that occur a month or so from now, however. Like cows coming to a trough or a ring feeder in a feed-lot, the walleyes will relate to specific edges in the available structure to feed later in the summer. A reef top, for instance. Then, your angling job becomes more a question of searching the accessible appropriate target areas to see if and when fish are there. But that's a discussion for a later date.

For now, if you're in need of some good visuals to make your walleye fishing a more logical and satisfying process, the herd of grazing cows image works pretty well. But try to imagine the bunch as a placid, docile, unwitting, domesticated group. To extend the comparison any further becomes far too scary a picture.

Farmers Union Day Camp June 18

Minnesota Farmers Union will host a one-day day camp for youth ages five to 10 years old on Tuesday, June 18. The camp is open to youth from Pennington, Marshall, and Roseau Counties.

The event will be held at Grygla City Park from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. In the case of inclement weather, campers will meet at the Grygla Civic Center. Participants are asked to bring a sack lunch for the noon meal.

The $5 per camper fee can be paid the day of camp. For more information, call Steve Sparby at (218) 459-3316 or Norma Hunson at (218) 378-4380.

NW Gateway Association holds annual picnic

Northwest Gateway Association held its annual picnic, "Gateway Gathering," at Farmer Dell Restaurant and Lounge in Argyle on June 10.

Guest speaker was Dave Bergman, regional director of Minnesota Office of Tourism. Musical entertainment was provided by the Hewitt Sisters. A picnic dinner was served at no cost to the public, and a $50 savings bond door prize was awarded to Lloyd Hewitt.

Northwest Gateway Association is a regional organization comprised of eight northwestern Minnesota cities that combine their efforts to promote area businesses and recreational facilities.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

The situation is far from helpless

It would be nice if we could ship a little of this "moisture" to places that need it – like forested areas around Denver, Colo., where fires are destroying homes and lives, or South Dakota where pastures are drying up – but we can't.

It would be nice if we could hurry up the recovery process and make the flood waters dry up, but we can't.

There's that hopeless feeling again that we've experienced so often in the past five years.

The fact that some things are just beyond our control is sometimes difficult to accept. Unfortunately, sometimes all we can think, or do, is to shrug and say "things could be worse." But there are things we can do, even in situations that seem as helpless as a rising tide of flood waters.

Donations to the Red Cross, Salvation Army, or Community Foundation, such as the one established in Grand Forks, N.D., and a number of other organizations supporting flood recovery efforts will help. Many of us have already opened doors to those who have been asked to evacuate the area. Others are on the front lines, manning dikes and filling sandbags.

Whether or not they want to be pointed out as examples, or not, I'll point out a few who have done what they could to help. "National Guard" is a name that sounds rather impersonal, and maybe that fits with what the military wants; however, those of us who know people in the "National Guard" know that these citizen soldiers are our neighbors, friends and relatives. Several of these citizens have spent some long days in Roseau. Wednesday, Arctic Cat, a chief competitor of Polaris, sent a busload of people to help in Roseau. They returned at 2:30 a.m. Thursday morning and went to work later that morning. Again on Thursday, another busload of Arctic Cat employees headed for Roseau. In addition, Arctic Cat loaned the city 10 generators of their choice. Digi-Key also allowed people to go to Roseau to help.

Our city staff have also been busy helping residents of Roseau. Staff from the electric department, wastewater department, and street department have been helping in Roseau. There are many other businesses and organizations that have provided assistance or are in the process of organizing assistance.

Persons who wish to provide assistance by donating their time should call the Roseau County Shop at 218-463-2351. They are developing a "will call" list and will return calls, because they are still in the process of assessing their needs. While the flooding seems to be under control in the City of Roseau, there is still a need for assistance in rural areas.

Roseau leads the headlines, but citizens throughout the region have experienced heartache and loss because of flood waters. Wednesday, I visited with a farmer near Holt who has about 60 acres of wheat underwater. There are many other farmers and rural citizens out there with similar stories. The damage in these rural areas is just as devastating as a loss in an urban area. And it is important at this time to recognize the fact that this loss may have a significant impact on the economy of the region this fall.

Residents can also help by supporting state and federal relief efforts. That effort begins with emergency disaster declarations but must be followed up with flood protection studies and construction projects; so, it will take time, effort, and most importantly, your support for legislators to make it happen.

Recently, Congressman Peterson criticized the Ventura administration for delays in processing paperwork that would speed-up the disaster declaration process, and therefore, funds to the area. Perhaps a constructive solution can be found. Perhaps the solution can be found in more support for efforts and powers of the Emergency Management Division in Minnesota.

While the floodwaters may leave many of us with those familiar feeling of helplessness, we are not helpless. Much can and will be done to make us stronger and better prepared to meet the next challenge.

To the Editor:

As the days get warmer and longer, the sure signs of summer become more evident. We at Enbridge Energy Partners, L.P. would like to take this opportunity to remind you of some important safety issues that concern underground facilities now that the weather is getting better and more outdoor activities will commence.

Most people don't realize all of the wires, cables, pipelines and other utilities that transverse our area underground. While they are "hidden" for aesthetics and other reasons, extensive damage can be done to land, personal property, the environment and especially persons. As a member of the community, and a company with buried assets, we want to do everything we can to prevent accidents involving our pipelines.

Everyday people participate in all kinds of activities that could result in potential damage to underground facilities. Whether it is homeowners landscaping their yards, farmers preparing and planting their fields, or contractors working on home construction projects, persons engaging in a diverse group of activities that require a call before they dig. We want to take this opportunity and remind you of your obligation to call the Minnesota One Call system before any excavation. This is the law – it protects you, the community, and the environment.

According to Minnesota State law, any person who engages in excavation activities is required to call the one-call system at (800) [illegible] two full business days, prior to the work beginning. Excavation included the activities that move, remove, or otherwise disturbs the soil by use of a motor, engine hydraulic or pneumatically powered tool, or machine-powered equipment of any kind. Once the one-call center has been contacted, trained personnel will come out and mark the specific location of any underground facility in the area at no charge.

To avoid potential liability, criminal prosecution and fines resulting from activities such as "ditching," contact the Minnesota One-Call center. They will assist you 24-hours a day, 365 days a year. Again, they can be reached at (800) 252-1166.

We want to thank you in advance for your cooperation in this matter. Your assistance will help ensure the continued safe operations of our system. If you have any questions, Karen Johnson, the right-of-way agent for northwestern Minnesota and eastern North Dakota, can be reached at (218) 759-6612.

Sincerely,
Karen Johnson
Enbridge Energy

To the Editor:

In reference to the column on the topic of birth defects from the June 8 edition of the Northern Watch, I completely agree with the statistics and how it reflects back to agriculture. The reason I am responding to that topic is because not only the birth defect rate is extremely high, but a few other health problems in northern Minnesota have excessively high rates too, such as SIDS, endometriosis, cervical and uterine cancer, and miscarriages. Problems such as these have taken a toll on my life and a lot of other people I know. I started having a few of these health issues at the age of 14. At the age of 16 I had my first surgery and almost one every year thereafter until the age of 24 when I had to have a hysterectomy. I am way too young to have been through all of this already. I have contacted the American Cancer Society about these issues, and we all agree that a lot of research needs to start happening. Through all of this I managed to have one child, which I was told by doctors that I would never have. Now that I have proven them wrong, I don't want to see my daughter go through any of the medical problems that I went through. I believe that all of the health problems, specifically the ones listed above, are due to our agriculture and our water. Everything put on our crops goes to our water supply, and it is hurting a lot of lives.

Thank You,
Bobbi Jo Scholin

Old Mill State Park closes due to high water

The swimming pond at Old Mill State Park is closed due to high water from recent rains in the area. Several hiking trails have standing water on them, but are hike-able with waterproof footwear. All visitors are cautioned to stay back from the unstable river's edge and are cautioned not to enter any flowing water next to the river or across trails. The Middle River is flowing extremely fast through the park at this time.

Campsites 22 through 28 are closed (these are next to the river and wet) but the remaining 22 campsites including the 10 electric [illegible].

The swimming pond will be open as soon as the water is tested and it is determined to be safe for park visitors. Please listen and watch for further information.

Local banks team up with American Red Cross

Border State Bank and First National Bank have partnered with the American Red Cross in order to collect funds to help aid those affected by the current flooding in Lake of the Woods, Roseau, and Marshall counties. Donations are being accepted at all Border State Bank and First National Bank locations.

Checks should be made payable to "American Red Cross/North Star Chapter" with an additional description "Disaster Relief NW MN." This description will ensure funds stay within the Northwestern Minnesota area, consisting of Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Beltrami, Clearwater, and Hubbard counties.

Those wishing their donation to solely support a specific community or county should note so on their checks.

"We are proud to be working with the American Red Cross. We will support all efforts to help our community through this crisis," commented Ed Turn, president of Border State Bank of Roseau.

Border State Bank is located in the communities of Badger, Baudette, Greenbush, International Falls, and Roseau. First National Bank serves the communities of Middle River and Thief River Falls. Donations will be accepted at all Border State Bank and First National Bank locations.

Corps completes emergency levees in Roseau flood

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, St. Paul District, completed an emergency levee for the City of Roseau Thursday morning.

This levee, which is to protect the western portions of the downtown and residential area from overland water flow, has three reaches, or arms. The reaches cut off water flows from the south and southwest.

Dave Christenson, USACE St. Paul District readiness branch chief, said this levee should stop new flow into the town and allow time for the standing water to be pumped out of the city. "And although the levee is completed, the Corps will continue to have people up there as long as the flood threat exists and our resources are needed," he said.

To date, the Corps has provided Roseau and surrounding areas more than 300,000 sandbags, several hydraulic and reconnaissance engineers and several emergency water pumps.

According to reports from the National Weather Service, the flooding in Roseau has leveled at 23 feet for the last day-and-a-half. It is expected to go down to 21 or 22 feet by Sunday, providing it doesn't rain heavily in the next few days.

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.
Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two-man crew, saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

Awards presented to members of Red Lake County track squads

Team honors were presented during a May 24 awards program in Plummer for the Red Lake County boys and girls high school track teams.

The awards included most valuable (track) – Andy Bertilrud, Heidi Matzke; most valuable (field) – Robbie Lundeen, Lindsey Bergeson; most outstanding overall athlete – Bertilrud, Michelle Halvorson; most improved - Nick Vettleson, Megan Gunderson; and Rookie of the Year - Dan Graff, Courtney Halvorson.

Athletic letters went to Amber Oscarson, Ashley Koralewski, Maureen Munt, Michelle Halvorson, Bertilrud, Matzke, Lundeen, Vettleson, Gunderson and Bergeson.

Six members of the Red Lake Falls/Oklee/Plummer cooperative advanced to to Section 8A competition this spring, including Michelle Halvorson in the 100 and 400 meters, Matzke in the 400 and 800; Bertilrud in the 400; Vettleson in the 200; and a 4x200 relay team featuring Michelle Halvorson, Matzke, Gunderson and Munt.

Michelle Holvorson finished the regular season unbeaten in the 100 and 400 meters and set Red Lake County records in the 100 (12.6), 200 (26.7) and 400 (59.9). Bergeson set program records in the discus (104-7) and shot put (32-5), while Gunderson established a new mark in the 300 meter hurdles (53.3).

NHL Wild delegation is scheduled to be in TRF for a promotional tour

A stop in Thief River Falls will be part of the 2002 Wells Fargo Wild Road Tour, a summer promotion for Minnesota's National Hockey League team.

Wild defensemen Mike Crowley and Willie Mitchell, along with club president and chief operating officer Tod Leiweke, television play-by-play announcer Mike Goldberg and Karen Bye, a member of the U.S. women's Olympic hockey team, form a group that will be making appearances in International Falls, Baudette, Warroad, Roseau, Thief River Falls, Fergus Falls, Moorhead and Grand Forks, N.D.

The Wild entourage will be in Thief River Falls Thursday, June 27, from 10 a.m. to noon at the Wells Fargo building located at Highway 59 and Dale Street.

Thieves contest against Crookston is postponed

Rain that washed out a Sunday doubleheader against Minto, N.D. left the Multi-Events Center diamond wet enough to force the Thief River Falls Thieves amateur baseball team to call off a scheduled Wednesday match-up against area rival Crookston.

The Thieves, 3-3 heading into a scheduled Friday game at Fargo, host Grand Forks, N.D. Sunday in a 2 p.m. doubleheader.

Thief River Falls will play in the Fargo Invitational June 21-23.

Robbie Peterson of Middle River circled the track with the checkered flag after winning the June 7 Mini-Sprints feature at the Greenbush Race Park. (Submitted by Stacy Spilde).

Pioneers' statistics are listed...

Northland has a 7-14 2002 softball season

Northland opened the 2002 softball season by scoring 28 runs in an April 12 doubleheader sweep against Mesabi Range. But the Pioneers finished the year by producing just six runs in three Minnesota Community College Conference state tournament games. The drop in offensive production led to a 7-14 overall finish.

"We started off well, but then our bats went quiet," explained Kathy Huschle, who was half of a first-year co-head coaching tandem with Dan Zubich.

Huschle said early that offense would be the Pioneers' strength this spring. It almost had to be after they lost pitcher Amy Oslund, an all-Northern Division selection as a freshman, due to academic reasons prior to the start of the season.

That left Tiffany Holmes, a freshman from Plummer, as the Pioneers' only full-time pitcher. Kylie Rogalla, a freshman from Thief River Falls, pitched a few innings, but both Rogalla and the Northland coaches preferred she play third base.

"Tiffany did a good job," noted Huschle. "She faced a lot of pressure stepping in like that. She did the best she could, but she didn't throw real hard."

Holmes got help from a solid Northland defense, anchored by Rogalla and Jenny Weiss, a sophomore shortstop from Red Lake Falls.

"Our defense was good," noted Huschle.

But the Pioneers still needed some high-octane offense to stay in the Northern Division race, and they weren't able to deliver. Northland did hit .324 as a team, but it wasn't good enough.

Weiss hit .500 (25/50) to lead the Northland offense. Three others hit .400 or better, including Natalie Sirjord, a freshman from Gary, at .418 (23/55); Peggy Knutson, a freshman from Roseau, with a .409 (18/44) figure, and Rogalla, who hit .400 (24/60).

"We didn't do as well as we had hoped," acknowledged Huschle. The coaching change, announced after the resignation of Rick Nikunen following the 2001 season, cut into the Pioneers' recruiting efforts, she explained, and one of the worst springs weather-wise in recent years didn't help the cause, either.

Still, it was an enjoyable season, according to Huschle. "We had a ball," she said. "They were a great bunch to work with."

On-going recruiting is going well, according to Huschle, who is working on plans to finalize a season-opening trip to Arizona for the 2003 Pioneers – an attractive incentive for area high school players thinking about signing with Northland.

The Pioneers will also host the MCCC state softball tournament for the second straight year next spring.

Star of the North Summer Games slated in St. Cloud area June 14-16 and 21-23

Star of the North Summer Games celebrates its 15th anniversary by returning to where the games began – the St. Cloud area. The games will be held June 14-16 and June 21-23.

Minnesota's premier Olympic-style event, the Star of the North Summer Games is expected to draw more than 8,100 athletes representing over 265 Minnesota communities.

This year's event will feature 21 different individual and team sports, including basketball, softball, soccer, volleyball, baseball, figure skating, mountain biking, BMX cycling, weightlifting, synchronized swimming, swimming, diving, disk golf, bowling, gymnastics, 5K road race, tennis, track and field, archery, golf, and horseshoes.

Organizers expect 179 soccer teams, 228 volleyball teams and 240 basketball teams to be part of the 2002 event.

The games are organized by the St. Cloud Summer Games Committee under the direction of the Minnesota Amateur Sports Commission.

Events are open to the public, with All Game Passes available for $7 at any event or at Halenbeck Hall on the St. Cloud State campus.

For a complete schedule of events/event locations and for more information, visit the event web site at www.starofthenorthgames.org.

Rewards may help develop leads

About the four cases:

Julie Ann Holmquist, 16, Hallock, was reported missing by her parents on July 29, 1998, when she didn't return from rollerblading on a local rural road near her Kittson County home. Her body was discovered three weeks later in a gravel pit north of Lancaster about 15 miles from where she is believed to have been abducted. Because the gravel pit was historically a popular local party spot, authorities believe that the perpetrator is a local person or someone with local knowledge. Anyone with information about Julie Holmquist's murder should call the Kittson County Sheriff's office at 218-843-3535. A $100,000 reward is being offered.

Joseph "Serkver" Olson, 75, Belgrade, was found dead in his rural Kandiyohi County home on February 18, 1983. He was beaten and stabbed to death. Burglary has been mentioned as a possible motive. After his death the Kandiyohi County Sheriff's Department received an anonymous letter describing a brown pickup truck with signage on the side parked at Olson's house the week of the murder. Anyone with information about Serkver Olson's murder should call Kandiyohi County Sheriff's office at 320-235-1260. A $50,000 reward is being offered.

Laurie Ann Feiner, 29, Oakdale, was last seen around 1 a.m. on May 9, 1992, outside of Chuck's Bar, located on Payne Avenue in St. Paul. Witnesses saw Feiner speaking with a man with whom she had been dancing inside the bar. She has not been heard from or seen since. Anyone with information about Laurie Ann Feiner's disappearance should call the Oakdale Police Department at 651-738-1022. A $50,000 reward is being offered.

Susan Swedell, 19, Lake Elmo, was last seen on January 19, 1988 at a gas station about a mile from her home in Lake Elmo. Employed by K-Mart in Oak Park Heights, Swedell had frequently received phone calls at work from a man she referred to as "Dale." On the night of her disappearance, a snowy evening, she called her mom from K-Mart to let her know she planned on coming home to watch a movie. Before she left work Susan changed into a short skirt, which seemed odd because of the blizzard-like conditions. A short time later she asked a gas station attendant if she could leave her car at the station because she was having car trouble. She then got into another car with a man that was waiting for her. Witnesses described him as unshaven, tall with shoulder length curly hair, well built and wearing a leather jacket. She has not been heard from or seen since. Anyone with information about Susan Swedell's disappearance should call the Washington County Sheriff's office tipline at 651-430-7850. A $25,000 reward is being offered.

"Over the past year, Minnesota businesses have offered more than half a million dollars in reward money to help law enforcement close some of our state's most heinous crimes. The goal of this unique partnership is to provide resources for crime fighters to bring criminals to justice and make Minnesota a safer state for all of us to live and work," said Target Corp vice president of government affairs Nate Garvis. Target Corporation is a lead sponsor of the fund. Spotlight on Crime only focuses on crimes that remain unsolved after investigative efforts have been exhausted. Only violent crimes against innocent victims are considered. This brings the total number of cases offered a reward by the Spotlight on Crime fund in the past year to 10. The other six cases include: Nancy Dougherty, Chisholm, Carrie Nelson, Luverne, Wesley Morrison, St. Paul, Kevin Brewer, Minneapolis, Boby Marshall, Marshall, and Anita Carlson, Bemidji.

operations chief for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. That was on Wednesday, however, and on Thursday, Pelowski estimated 95 percent was more accurate.

Meanwhile, the National Guard was using helicopters to airlift 120,000 sandbags in from Crookston. On Tuesday, they moved 20 soldiers, five dump trucks and two bulldozers to Roseau from Ada. They expanded their efforts again on Wednesday, moving two helicopters in from St. Paul and 100 soldiers from Brainerd.

The Salvation Army began focusing its efforts in Roseau on Wednesday after helping serve meals to flood victims in Ada.

Pelowski said that after the levy broke, the town decided to try and save four buildings: the school, the water treatment plant, the hospital, and Polaris, the town's main employer. Thus far, all four buildings are still dry.

The water itself is badly contaminated. "It's full of sewage, it's full of garbage, it's full of chemicals from farms...everything," said Vickaryous.

Minnesota 11 in downtown Roseau was shut down Tuesday afternoon as waters continued to rise.

State Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, DFL-Thief River Falls, said that "the biggest challenge we're facing is the housing one. People want to get back into their houses, and they've got a lot of work to do."

When asked if he had any guesses as to how much the flood would cost the city, Vickaryous simply answered, "Lots."

Rhubarb Fest June 22 in Lake Bronson

At 11 a.m., Kittson County Historical Society will serve a barbecue luncheon. The plate lunch will include a barbecue sandwich, potato salad, chips, and watermelon. Coffee and lemonade will also be served throughout the day. Everyone is also invited to tour the museum where there is always something different to see.

"Summer Fun" will be the theme of the kiddy parade at 12:30 p.m. Registration for the parade begins at 11:30, and prizes will be awarded to all participants. There will also be a contest for children up to 16 years of age for the largest and smallest rhubarb leaves. Entries should be taken to Village Square by noon.

At 1 p.m., Agossiz Swedish Heritage Society will begin its activities at the Kittson County Museum. The May Pole will be decorated and raised before Scandinavian music and dancing begins at 2 p.m. This event will take place near the depot on the museum grounds. Those attending are encouraged to bring lawn chairs and an umbrella for shade. Following the program, the society will serve lunch in the museum.

The Hewitt Sisters will perform at Village Square from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

At 7:30 p.m., "Tina and Lena" will hit the stage of the Lake Bronson School gymnasium, providing the audience with an evening of laughter, music, and fun. Sue Edwards of Alexandria is Tina, and Annette Hustad of Glenwood is Lena. The comedy duo has performed its act at fairs, festivals, and special events throughout Minnesota and several other states, including Wisconsin, Washington, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, and Arizona. Admission is $5 for adults and $3 for children between the ages of six and 12. Children under the age of six are free.

Following the performance by "Tina and Lena," the Lake Bronson Improvement Committee will serve rhubarb desert and coffee.

Everyone is invited to participate in a fun-filled day of family entertainment at Lake Bronson.

Minnesota Northern Railroad general manager George LaPray has suspended service on the line through Roseau, and does not know when it will reopen. "We're hoping by next week to have [the track] open again, at least as far as Roseau. We're telling shippers that, but we're not making any guarantees," he said.

Pelowski said that "we fully expect a Presidential declaration," which will open up money for both residents and businesses in Roseau.

LaPray hopes he will be able to access some of that money. While he hopes to have his tracks patched up enough to operate on by next week, he says that "permanent, long term fixes will be a lot more expensive."

Polaris, the city's biggest employer, donated a number of ATVs for the city to use. "We are in very close contact with Polaris," said City Administrator Jim Vickaryous. "They're helping us with recovery."

In fact, even on Thursday, Polaris was operating at a limited capacity.

City officials have been extremely impressed with how well people from the region have come together. Vickaryous was especially thankful for the deluge of volunteers that poured in from the Thief River Falls area. "We couldn't have done a lot without them," he said.

The Salvation Army's Disaster Services Director, Chrissie Morrison, said the "people of Roseau have been fabulous," and that many of the flood victims themselves have come out to help serve food and fill sandbags.

On Thursday morning, Pelowski took the press on a tour of the town. "What I saw on our tour is lots of thumbs up," he said.

City nixes parking lot proposal

McIntosh - McIntosh city council members will not pursue an offer to purchase a parking lot located behind city hall.

Recently, employees of the government offices that are located in the McIntosh City Hall received notices that the parking lot located behind City Hall was privately owned and would no longer be available for employee or public parking. The lot, part of Lots J and K that were purchased from Win-E-Mac School District in February for $4,000, is owned by Gordie and Cindy Ostenaa and Elwin and Denise Ness. Gordie Ostenaa represented the owners at the June 13 city council meeting.

Ostenaa and Ness sent the McIntosh City Council a proposal regarding the sale of the east section of Lot J that includes the parking alley. Owners asked a non-negotiable price of $4,000 plus legal costs that would be incurred.

Previously government office workers used the parking lot under an agreement between the school and the city. Power to the plug-ins that the city had installed to be used by the employees has been turned off as requested by the current owners.

When Mayor Aanenson asked Ostenaa how he and his partners had come up with a $4,000 asking price for the lot, Ostenaa said, "It's our land, and that's what we want . . . This is private property now, and it's illegal to park there, so you're going to pay what we want."

Ostenaa was not interested in any other type of agreement, and the city council declined the proposal for the property sale. It will instead confer with an attorney and pursue several other options to insure parking facilities for government employees. The McIntosh Times

Mother charged in wake of fatal crash

Bagley - In the wake of the June 12 accident that killed her 10-year-old son, a 30-year-old Bagley mother has been charged with criminal vehicular homicide and driving while impaired.

Joshua LaFontaine was a passenger in the front seat of the car his mother, Christine LaFontaine, was driving when it collided with a wooden guard rail on a bridge over the Clearwater River near Shevlin.

Joshua was declared dead at the scene. The two other children in the car, ages three and four, were treated for minor injuries at Clearwater County Memorial Hospital, and Lafontaine was transported to North Country Regional Hospital in Bemidji. Farmers Independent

First Care receives NWMF grant

Fosston - Northwest Minnesota Foundation recently awarded a $40,000 grant to First Care Medical Service in Fosston for its Hospice and Home Health Telehealth project.

The purpose of the grant is to implement a Telehealth project that will enhance the delivery of hospice and home care services by providing two-way interactive audio video technology for diagnoses and management of clients' cases. The Thirteen Towns

Important Updates

FEMA opens office at Roseau school

Officials from the Minnesota Emergency Management Agency and the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) have established a Disaster Recovery Center in Roseau. The center opened Friday, June 21.

The Disaster Recovery Center will be located at the Roseau High School/Rams Sports Center, 509 Northeast Third Street in Roseau. Hours of operation are from noon on June 21 to 7 p.m., Saturday, June 22, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., Sunday, June 23 from noon to 7 p.m. Regular hours thereafter will be from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday, and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Childcare services will be available.

Other agencies will be located at the center. Those state agencies include the Department of Health, Department of Economic Security (unemployment assistance) and the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency. The center will provide answers to questions, recovery information, and written materials about various assistance programs available to individuals and business owners. Some disaster programs include temporary housing assistance, individual and family grants, low interest disaster loans, and disaster unemployment assistance. Voluntary agencies belonging to the Minnesota Voluntary Organization will also be participating in the Disaster Recovery Center.

Northern Pride Inc. begins processing

Turkeys rolled in on trucks to Northern Pride Inc. in Thief River Falls Thursday morning. Reconstruction at the turkey processing plant that was damaged by a gas leak last Friday, is still proceeding, but the plant is processing turkeys.

Russ Christianson, general manager, said they lost three days because of the explosion but will figure out how to make up those processing days later.

Christianson said Northern Pride has had excellent cooperation from contractors, especially Woodmen Construction, Lee Plumbing, Skalsky Electric and Noreen Masonry. He said he's glad to live in a community where the contractors will pull together and help when you really need it.

Reconstruction at the plant will continue. Christianson said the community will see some areas that need work, but those areas will be addressed as needed.

Two individuals were injured in the explosion. Both were treated and released the same day as the explosion. Preliminary reports indicate that the explosion was caused by a natural gas leak from some equipment.

For the Birds

Building the better Birdhouse

Thief River Falls resident builds cute, and functional birdhouses

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

One might quip that Jodi Flom is "building a better birdhouse," – and even if they're not "better," they're darned cute – so much so, in fact, that folks are noticing them as they drive by her home and then stopping to take a closer look.

If you were a bird looking for a new home, you'd be making a beeline for the Flom yard. After all, there aren't too many mama robins that have the opportunity to sit on a nest of eggs while looking out a multi-paned picture window, and once the eggs hatch, a mama bird can sun herself on the railed porch while keeping her eye on the youngins'.

Jodi's birdhouse building adventure began last year, not in the garage, but rather the kitchen where she intended to make a gingerbread house. After being impressed with some gingerbread house designs she saw in a magazine, she decided to give it a whirl, and when the baking business didn't pan out, decided to switch gears and build birdhouses instead.

Ideas for the bird dwellings are everywhere, and she patterns them after home designs she sees around town as well as those in books and magazines.

Once she's planned a design, Jodi makes the birdhouse shell out of plywood. Balsa wood is used to create the lapped siding, window and door frames, and such things as porch railings if the design calls for it. Windows are cut from Plexiglas, and the shingles on the roofs are real. Small stones for the chimneys, she says, are gathered in the alley.

After they are constructed, the birdhouses are primed and painted with exterior latex house paint. The finished houses are durable, Jodi says, with her receiving proof of their strength during the rainstorms that occurred earlier this month.

The houses are functional and "bird friendly," too, with hinges that allow the house to be flipped up from its base so that the birdhouse can be cleaned out.

Jodi says that while she doesn't know a whole lot about birds, she enjoys them and is learning about them as she builds her bird abodes. Birds are kind of a natural progression, she says, from the flower gardens she installed in her yard last year. "I kind of went overboard," she admits. That's O.K., however, as Jodi says she's an outdoor girl, spending just enough time in the house to clean it - a process she describes (and many would agree) as a "vicious circle."

When checking out birdhouses on the Internet, Jodi came across a butterfly house and built one of those, too, in hopes of attracting butterflies to her yard. Other future design plans include ladybug houses and birdfeeders.

As for how much time it takes to build one of her birdhouses, Jodi has a difficult time estimating the hours. Her job does not allow her too many extended blocks of time to work on the projects. For the past seven years, she has enjoyed

Passersby Jodi Flom's house on Main Street in Thief River Falls frequently stop to take a closer look at the unique birdhouses Jodi has built. The Flom yard will be among those featured in this year's Pennington County Master Gardener Garden Tour on Saturday, July 13.

Sen. Stumpf encourages application for FEMA aid

Loans from the United States Small Business Administration are available to both homeowners and business owners in Roseau County, and Sen. LeRoy Stumpf worries that people are not taking advantage of those loans.

"Why not avail yourself to some help?" Stumpf asked. He is afraid that some people see it as being similar to welfare money, and will not accept it for that reason. "Nobody could help it," he said regarding the floods.

Five checks were disbursed on the morning of June 20 in Roseau. According to Stumpf, the people who received these loans applied for them very early on.

Stumpf also notes that there is an advantage to people who sign up even if they're not interested in loans. He says that grant money may come available in the near future, likely community

Area roads reopening ...slowly

Roads are beginning to reopen in northwest Minnesota. However, MN/DOT advises motorists to be aware of the following closures:
•Minnesota 220 from Marshall County 41 to Marshall County 16,
•Minnesota 310 north of Roseau,
•Minnesota 317 at Marshall County 41.

In addition, the following roads are open to local traffic only:
•Minnesota 11 in Roseau; dikes are still open on the road,
•Minnesota 11's bridge in Warroad,
•Minnesota 11 between Warroad and Baudette,
•Minnesota 89's bridge south of Wannaska–the approach to this bridge has been gravelled, so use caution,
•Minnesota 89 in Roseau; dikes are still open on the road,
•Minnesota 89 after bridge washout south of Wannaska,

There is also a surface water hazard on Minnesota 89 from highway 308 to the Canadian border. The road is passable, but motorists are urged to use caution.

Loan closing held for Baudette wastewater project

The loan closing for the recent wastewater system improvement project in Baudette was held at Baudette City Hall on Thursday, June 6. The City of Baudette received loan funds from the Rural Utilities Service (RUS) in the amount of $925,000 in exchange for a 40-year general obligation bond at an interest rate of 4.75 percent to repay the loan. The programs of RUS are administered by USDA Rural Development, a mission area of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Steve Wentzel, state director for USDA Rural Development was on hand to present a ceremonial check to city officials. "This kind of project makes for a stronger, better rural America," Wentzel stated that USDA Rural Development is pleased to be a financial partner with the City of Baudette, Department of Trade and Economic Development and Economic Development Administration. He said that the funding commitments of all the partners made it possible for the city to make the necessary wastewater improvements in an affordable manner.

In addition to Wentzel, those present at the bond closing were Baudette Mayor Rick Rone, City Clerk Karen Allen, City Utilities Superintendent George Taylor, City Attorney Adlai "Bill" Brink, Wally Sparby representing Congressman Collin Peterson's office, Valerie Solent of Senator Mark Dayton's office, Dave Hengel of Headwaters Regional Development Commission, Kari Howe of DTED, and Butch Kochmstedt of the Thief River Falls USDA Rural Development office.

The USDA loan was approved in 1999, and the City of Baudette utilized temporary bond financing to pay for construction and other project-related costs until this long-term loan was closed. The city also utilized grant funds from two other sources and a city cash contribution for related construction activities. The Economic Development Administration (EDA) provided a grant of $500,000 and the Small Cities Development Block Grant Program administered by the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development (DTED) provided a grant of $500,000. The city provided a $675,000 cash contribution to the project.

The first phase of construction began in the summer of 1999, and the project was completed in 2000. The second phase of construction began in the summer of 2000 and was completed in the fall of 2001. The first phase included the construction of a lift station and installation of a sewer forcemain in Baudette's Industrial Park and other areas of the city. The second phase, which was financed by RUS, was for rehabilitation/expansion of the wastewater treatment ponds.

The city sought the low interest long-term federal financing in an effort to keep sewer user rates affordable. Mayor Rick Rone and City Clerk Karen Allen said the DTED and EDA grants and the 4.75 percent USDA loan will keep typical user rates affordable. They also added that the additional capacity of the wastewater system will allow expansions of existing businesses and will attract new business development in the community.

Engineering services for the project were provided by Short, Elliot, Hendrickson, Inc. of St. Paul. General contractors were Louis Leustek and Sons of Ely and Wagner Construction of International Falls.

USDA Rural Development provides financial and technical assistance for community and economic development for small rural communities and residents. Rural Development administers programs for housing, community facilities, water and wastewater infrastructure, plus business and cooperative development.

Rural Development offices located in Detroit Lakes, Bemidji, and Thief River Falls serve northwestern Minnesota counties.

Lightening strike proves costly

Red Lake Falls - A recent lightening strike resulted in a big loss for the Red Lake County Courthouse.

According to a Red Lake County deputy, a large percentage of electrical equipment, the radio system, telephones, emergency 911, state computers, computers used for work, and some computers linked to Red Lake County Social Services were destroyed in last week's storm. The courthouse also sustained substantial water damage.

As the damage is assessed and repaired, the Red Lake County Extension office and sheriff's office are open and functioning, and Red Lake County 911 calls are being handled as before. Red Lake Falls Gazette

EGF garden center closes its doors

East Grand Forks - After 17 years in business in East Grand Forks, Green's Garden Center is closed for good.

The business, owned by Troy Green of Grand Forks, was bought out by the city for less than the cost to relocate. Green said he's sad to see his business close because of the flood protection program.

"It's horrible . . ." said Green who says he's unhappy with the whole process and flows in the system for the buyout program. The Exponent

Here are a few more rhubarb recipes for you. Is it just me, or is the rhubarb especially good this year?

Special treat with a glass of milk or cup of coffee or tea:

RHUBARB BREAD

1 cup milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups brown sugar
2/3 cup vegetable oil
1 egg
2 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1-1/2 cups chopped rhubarb
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/4 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon butter, melted

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Lightly grease two 9x5 inch loaf pans.

In small bowl, stir together milk, lemon juice and vanilla. Let stand 10 minutes.

In large bowl, mix 1 1/2 cups brown sugar, oil and egg.

Combine flour, salt and soda and stir into sugar mixture alternately with milk mixture just until combined. Fold in rhubarb and nuts. Pour into pans.

In small bowl, combine 1/4 cup brown sugar, cinnamon and butter. Sprinkle over loaves.

Bake for 40 minutes, until toothpick comes out clean.

Remember Grandma making this old favorite? Now you can make it too – in no time – in the microwave:

RHUBARB SAUCE

2 cups diced rhubarb
2 cups white sugar

Stir together in large, micro-safe bowl. Cook on high for 12 minutes, stirring every 3 minutes. Serve hot over ice cream or chill in refrigerator to serve as sauce.

What a special breakfast you can make with these tasty muffins:

RHUBARB MUFFINS

2 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1 cup buttermilk
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/2 cups chopped rhubarb
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/2 cup white sugar
2 tablespoons softened butter

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Line muffin cups with paper liners or grease.

In large bowl, combine flour, soda, cinnamon and salt. Set aside.

In another bowl, combine brown sugar, buttermilk, egg and vanilla. Mix. Fold in rhubarb and nuts. Add to flour mixture, mixing just until moist. Spoon batter into muffin cups.

In small bowl, blend sugar and butter and sprinkle over muffins.

Bake for 20 minutes or until toothpick comes out clean.

Everyone will ask for more of this special spring tonic:

RHUBARB SLUSH

6 cups fresh rhubarb, chopped
2 cups white sugar
1 (6 ounce) can frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
1 (6 ounce) can frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed
3 cups water
1 (2 liter) bottle lemon-lime soda pop, chilled

Place rhubarb in large saucepan with water to cover. Bring to boil over medium high heat and cook until tender. Drain and mash or puree in food processor or blender.

Stir together puree, orange juice, lemonade and water. Freeze.

To serve, place scoops of frozen mixture in serving glasses and fill rest of glass with soda pop.

(For adult slush, 1 cup of gin can be added when mixing puree with water and other ingredients.)

Just in case you really like that rhubarb tonic, here's another:

12 cups rhubarb, cut up
9 cups water
2 cups sugar
1 small package raspberry gelatin
1 (6 ounce) can frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed

Simmer rhubarb, water and sugar for 30 minutes after it comes to full boil. Run through colander.

Add gelatin and lemonade. Freeze.

To serve, mix 2/3 cup slush with lemon-lime or grapefruit soda pop. Store in freezer.

And this is just like the "conserve" my great-aunt made when I was little, only hers also had pineapple in it. But this one sounds great too:

RHUBARB CONSERVE

5 pounds rhubarb
2 oranges, juice and rind
2 lemons, juice and part of rind without the white
1/2 pound walnuts, chopped
5 pounds sugar
1 pound seeded raisins

Let sugar stand on rhubarb for 15 minutes or overnight. Add remaining ingredients and boil thick. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.
Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two man crew, saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

THE LYON'S SHARE

Tim Lyon

What Did I Do This Time??

"And you shall build it 60 cubits by 90 cubits by..."

"Now hold on just a second," interrupted Noah. "I've been working my tail off lately to pay for the 21-foot Warrior with the 120 hp Honda I bought last spring. I don't have time to add any boat building plans to my schedule. Besides, wood is out, fiberglass is a softer ride and a heck of a lot more durable. Couldn't we just handle this with the boat I've already got?"

"But Noah," the voice boomed again, "I'm going to make it rain like you've never seen it rain before. The waters shall cover the land and turn the rivers brown with mud and fill them with logs and debris. Your ark will need to be of a size great enough to house two of all the creatures on the earth!"

"What?!" demanded Noah incredulously. "Two of all the earth's creatures? Muddy rivers? Logs and debris? Hey, I'm going fishing on Lake of the Woods this weekend, and if you dump that much water into that system, you're going to really mess up the fishing. I'll have to go all the way to Zippel Bay or Stoney Point to find water clean enough to pull fish out of. And the only 'twos' of earthly creatures I plan to have aboard with me are my two brothers-in-law, a couple dozen night-crawlers, and maybe a clean pair of underwear! Har-har! Get it?! A "pair" of underwear? Hoo-hoo!"

"I'm talking about a major flood and all you can do is spit out sophomore humor," rolled the voice from the clouds. "You had better be paying attention."

"O.K.," offered Noah, wiping a mischievous tear from the corner of his eye, "but why me? I can't possibly have a boat that big together in just a couple of days time. Why don't you get John the Baptist to help you with this flood thing. He's pretty comfortable around water. Or maybe Martin Luther?"

"John says the Lake of the Woods water is too cold for any immersions, yet, because of the late ice out," a more subdued and frustrated voice responded. "It's harder and harder to find people with time and energy to help with my work. And Martin Luther is busy campaigning to reform the Canadian border-crossing situation. He says if the customs check-through gets any more rigorous and impersonal, he's going to break away from his annual fishing tradition and go off on a somewhat different vacation tangent. He's a bit of a maverick, that Luther, isn't he?"

"Yeah," agreed Noah, "ever since he started rambling on about that 'Diet of Worms' I was a little leery about taking him on another fishing trip. Yecchh! Hey, how about if we compromise on this one? You throw enough water, maybe 8-12 inches or so, and enough thunder and lightning around, like 36 continuous hours of the stuff, to really impress the world with just how powerful and impressive You are. You can flood my basement and even blow out the computers and appliances at my house with a nearby lightning strike. Make it a loud enough crack to scare the bejesus, er... snot out of my kids for an hour or two. That'd be quite a show, you know. I, on the other hand, will talk You up big time, promise to attend church regularly, and watch out a little better for my fellow man. That way You could make your point and I could still get a fishing weekend in. All that, without having to shovel rhinoceros dung off the carpet of my new boat. Whaddya say?"

"I am merciful and I will consider it," the voice boomed again, "but I'm not going to make any guarantees about the fishing."

"Oh, and one more thing," added Noah. "If it's going to rain that hard this weekend, do you think you could give me that same burning bush deal you did for Moses? It'd sure make getting the shore-lunch fire started a lot easier."

Accident Injures three near Radium

Three people were injured on the evening of June 20 when two vehicles collided north of Radium.

Adam R. Begman, 16, of Alvarado, was driving a 1997 Chevy Monte Carlo north on County 36. He crossed over County 14 and onto County 111, where he collided with a parked 1999 Ford pickup. Inside the truck were Cassie Peterson, 16, and Mary Myrfield, 19, both of Warren. The pickup was knocked over and into a ditch. Both vehicles were totaled.

After the call came in at 10:57 p.m., the Warren fire department and ambulance were sent. Peterson and Myrfield were taken to the NV Health Center in Warren by ambulance and were later transferred to Altru Hospital in Grand Forks. Both have been released from the hospital. Bergman was treated for minor injuries at NV and released.

The Marshall County Sheriff's department is investigating.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. The Day of the Jackal

Many people, certainly movie buffs, are familiar with the 1973 thriller The Day of the Jackal. It's about an assassin hired to kill French President Charles DeGaulle. The assassin goes about it relatively emotionless. One might even say..."he's just doing his job."

Jackals are, of course, dog-like animals of Africa and southern Asia that are mainly foragers, feeding on plants, small animals and occasionally carrion. A jackal is also an accomplice or lackey who aids in the commission of base or disreputable acts. If you're from Minnesota, a jackal, according to Governor Ventura, is a member of the media.

It doesn't take much of a leap in logic to conclude that Minnesota Governor Jesse Ventura was picking on one aspect of journalism that the rest of the nation has long disliked – the belief that many journalists are "just doing their job," and in doing so, if not purposely, tacitly approving of, and participating in, disreputable acts.

This week, Governor Jesse Ventura announced that he did not plan to run for a second term as Governor of Minnesota. Ventura said that his heart is no longer in the job and that he is tired of criticism of his family.

"You've got to have your heart and soul into these jobs. You've got to want to do it," he said.

To me it seemed that his lack of participation in last year's legislative wrangling over the budget signaled that he had lost his interest in the job. Many have said that he was out-maneuvered by our established two parties. Perhaps a lack of support from his Independence or Independent (whatever it is now) party was a contributing factor.

Wednesday, there was an interesting story in the Star Tribune, by Chuck Haga that included comments from several people, who either loved or hated the Governor. To me, if there was a single, common idea or thread running through the story, it was that Ventura was able to get elected because he connected with people at a grassroots level, giving them hope that he would change the way government was being run. But, the love affair with Ventura began to die when people saw that he was really thin-skinned, and a lot of what he did was for Jesse. And while his outspoken and sometimes mistaken comments were amusing, they began to become embarrassing.

In a commentary written by Nick Coleman of the Pioneer Press, the same theme appeared – the common man loved him because he spoke his mind, but in the end began to dislike him because of unfulfilled promises that included failing to bring people together, building a consensus, and because it seemed he was in it for Jesse.

He also said he decided not to run again because his family had been attacked in the media. He called it an "assassination."

You either loved or hated Governor Jesse Ventura. You have to admit though, that he spoke his mind and in doing so, generated an atmosphere of interest in government that hasn't existed in Minnesota politics, for who knows how long, if ever. Sometimes I liked what he did. Sometimes I wrote parodies about the Governor, like the one mocking his trip to China.

So is this the Day of the Jackal? Did the media "assassinate" the governor?

The governor gave us many reasons why he decided not to run again, and maybe a few he didn't want to share with us. I believe that for the most part, much of the "negative" coverage about Ventura was brought about by his own doing. And, I don't think anyone in the media would agree that "we won." There was nothing ever to win. In fact losing this Governor will make it much more difficult for many writers to write about government, and it could possibly lead to greater apathy in government.

Governor Ventura also said he wasn't running again because he fears losing. I rather suspect this was one of the Governor's famous attempts at injecting humor into the situation. The man remains controversial, and immensely popular. His charisma is palpable. How many millions of dollars and trips to makeup artists, and other specialists would it take to match that?

I'm not advocating that Ventura change his mind, or for someone to mount a write-in campaign, but a couple of newspapers I read regularly have asked readers whether Governor Jesse Ventura should have run again. Despite his recent decision not to run, he could still change his mind, because he has until July 16 to formally file for election. I suppose, if enough people say he should run again, maybe he will.

It would be truly intriguing however, if Ventura were to become a Jackal, I mean a member of the hated media. What's that? ...kettle, ...black. Hmmm!

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

We just want to take this opportunity to thank the Sentence to Serve for the service they have been providing to senior citizens and individuals with handicaps in the counties of Pennington, Marshall and Kittson.

It was such a farsighted move by the county commissioners to come up with an idea such as this. It is good for the men who are incarcerated. They do a lot for the elderly and individuals with handicaps who cannot do their own work, and for the local work they have done in the parks, rivers, and communities in general.

Scott Peters, Bob Cardinal, Neil Petersan and Kevin Maurstad should be commended for the terrific job they do in coordinating the labor that has been done in these three counties.

Sincerely,
Leonard and Millie Furuseth

Miss Marshall Co. Scholarship Pageant June 30

Donielle Guillemette

Kari Jo Poulson

Lisa Aukre

Amber Rybakowski

Kathryn Proulx

Sarah Kapphahn

The 17th Annual Miss Marshall County Scholarship Pageant will be held in Warren at the W/A/O school auditorium on Sunday, June 30, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Six contestants will compete in interview, talent, swimsuit, and evening gown and on state personality divisions. The young women will participate in a full weekend of practice and competition. The winner will represent the area at the 2003 Miss Minnesota contest.

The theme of this year's pageant will be "Rock Around the Clock." Special guests at this Miss America preliminary competition will include Megan Torgerson, Miss Marshall County 2001, and special entertainment numbers, including the Harmonious Hunks from G/MR school.

Participants vying for the Miss Marshall County Pageant title include: Sarah Kapphahn, Kari Jo Paulson, Kathryn Lynn Proulx, Danielle Guillemette, Amber Julia Rybakowski, and Lisa Aakre.

Sarah Kapphahn

Sarah Kapphahn, 18, graduated first in her class from Greenbush/Middle River High School in 2001. She is attending Augsburg College where she was named to the Dean's List. She plans to graduate from Augsburg College with a music education degree, and become a director of high school choirs.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kapphahn of Greenbush and has two siblings, Rachel and Jorden.

Sarah has had two semesters of vocal training, two semesters of ear training, and music theater training. She recently traveled to Florida with the Augsburg Concert Band. She will compete in the talent division of the pageant with a vocal performance.

She has been employed at the V Drive-Inn in Greenbush for three summers. This year she is working with the America Reads program in Minneapolis and at Emmaus Bible Camp in Menagha.

Sarah's platform focus is on "volunteerism" and what it can do to bring communities together.

Kari Jo Paulson

Kari Jo Paulson will represent the community of Stephen. She will be a junior at the University of North Dakota where she is majoring in music education. She is a 2000 graduate and honor student of Stephen-Argyle Central High School.

She is the daughter of Tim and Jody Paulson of Stephen and has one brother Scott.

Kari is a recipient of the University of North Dakota 2000 Outstanding Leadership Award, 2000 Altru Scholarship, Selma Fodstad Scholarship, Stephen Arts Council Scholarship, and of a 2002 Collegiate Lifetime Membership in the National Society of Collegiate Scholars.

High school involvement included volleyball, basketball, track, golf, cheerleading, band, choir, pop singers, jazz band, JETS team, DARE role model, instrumental solos and as a accompanist. She is a member of the Wind Ensemble at college.

Her talent number will be a piano presentation of Debussy's Jardins Sous la Pluie. She began her piano education 15 years ago and is now studying with Dr. Sergio Gallo at UND. She also plays the French horn.

Kari has been employed at Stephen Dairy Bar and the Stephen Golf Course. She is currently working part-time at Scott's Music Store and teaches piano lessons at Scott's Fine Arts Studio.

Her platform is "Arrive Alive," which raises seat belt awareness.

Kathryn Lynn Proulx

Kathryn Proulx, Miss Crookston, is a 2002 graduate of Crookston High School. She will be a freshman at the University of Minnesota - Crookston this fall. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Proulx of Red Lake Falls.

She is a member of the National Honor Society, graduated Magna Cum Laude, and was senior class representative to the Student Council. She was an active member of volleyball and golf teams in high school, school choir, and editor and photographer for the school's yearbook. She is a member of the Leo Club and Cultures United-Colorblind Club, both involved with helping others and promoting racial understanding. She is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, participated in this year's Envirothon at Rydell Refuge Center, and is an active 4-H member.

Katie will play a piano solo, Polichinelle by Rachmaninoff, in the pageant talent division. She has had piano lessons since fourth grade, participating in MMTA piano contests since sixth grade, and has been a member of the school choirs and band.

She has been employed as a waitress at RBJ's Restaurant, as a Certified Nurse's Assistant at Villa St. Vincent, in general office work for Dr. Gary Thomas, DDS and as lawn mower for Jerry Baird and at her family's two-acre yard.

Her platform will address the tobacco companies who target teens with their advertising.

Danielle (Dani) Guillemette

The Argyle representative in the Miss Marshall County Scholarship Pageant is Danielle Guillemette, daughter of Richard and Delores Guillemette.

Dani is a 2002 graduate of Stephen/Argyle Central High School and will be attending Minnesota State University Moorhead. Her goal is to become a special education teacher and obtain a job in the area.

She was on the honor roll in high school, graduating with honors. She lettered in basketball, choir, and cheerleading, was senior basketball captain, class officer, and served on the Student Council. She was active in high school music and was awarded two district and two state stars in large group ensembles, two district and two state stars in solos, one district and two state in duets. She also was named Outstanding Choir Member in 2002. She received the Sister Mary John Memorial Scholarship and a Stephen Arts Council Scholarship. She has been active in her church and in community service at the nursing home.

She will be singing an "artsy" vocal for talent competition. She has had six years of piano lessons and one year of voice lessons.

Dani has been employed as janitorial staff at the Argyle Site of SAC, at the Farmer Dell and is at the Olive Garden of Fargo.

Her platform will be focused on awareness of eating disorders among teenage females.

Amber Julia Rybakowski

Amber Rybakowski, 19, is representing the community of Middle River. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rybakowski and a 2001 graduate of Marshall County Central High School. She will be a sophomore at Concordia College in Moorhead this fall where she is majoring in religion, with the goal of becoming a pastor.

She was active in high school in concert choir, honor choir, pops choir, concert band, jazz band, pep band, cheerleader, theatre and speech. She participated in Close-Up, TRUST Support Group, Knowledge Bowl, Spanish Club, Habitat for Humanity, and was named Most Valuable Speaker, was a regional finalist in speech, a member of the National Honor Society, participated in the Hugh O'Brian Leadership program, was an honor student, and received the John Philip Sousa Award. She is active in her church, serving in Lay Ministry Training and youth groups. In college she was a semi-finalist for the Speech and Debate Scholarship and a member of the Freshman Women's Choir.

Amber traveled to Washington D.C. for Close-Up and spent a day at the Capitol. She has traveled to Mexico and plans a trip to Germany to study Martin Luther. Her work with Habitat for Humanity involved volunteering at a shelter for women and children, and building a house. She speaks several languages, which she hopes to use in her future work.

Her platform will be about diversity, reminding us to become more tolerant of other people and to embrace the differences.

She will be singing Pie Jesu from the Requiem by Gabriel Faure.

Lisa Aukre

Lisa Aukre is a 2000 graduate of Warren/Alvarado/Oslo High School and is attending Minnesota State University Moorhead (MSUM). She will be a junior and plans to obtain a major in special education. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Aukre. There are six children in the family.

Lisa lettered in volleyball, band, choir, mock trial, and one-act play in high school. She received a number of awards for vocal and instrumental solos and ensembles and the Doris Brown Award for excellence in both band and choir. She was selected student band director. She was named to the High School Honor Society, graduated Summa Cum Laude, and received the Triple A Award. In college she is a member of the concert choir. She is a Special Honor student at MSUM.

She will be singing "Wishing You Were Somehow Here Again" from the Phantom of the Opera in the talent portion of the pageant.

She has worked at Cornerstone College and Super One Foods in Warren. In Fargo, she has worked for Disability Services and as a student telecounseling representative for MSUM and at the YMCA as a basketball coach and teacher for a special needs exercise class.

Lisa's platform is on the importance of integrating multiple intelligences into the classroom, a subject especially of interest to this future teacher.

OUR ADVERTISERS SAVE YOU MONEY!

Senator Stumpf talks to Representative Peterson at the 2002 Roseau flood site.

Dear friends,

Serving the residents of District 1 is my top priority. It is my objective to respond to your needs and requests and promptly provide you with necessary assistance. This report highlights some of the issues we dealt with last session.

As your State Senator, I have tried very hard to represent our district with honesty and integrity. You can be assured that I will continue to support strong education funding for our schools, fair farm policy, increased economic development and a quality transportation system.

Warm regards,
LeRoy Stumpf

Working to Secure Flood Relief

Senator LeRoy Stumpf is working with state and federal officials to secure flood relief to Northern Minnesota communities to repair and rebuild homes and businesses, provide crop relief for farmers whose crops have been destroyed and provide temporary housing for families. For more information about state and federal relief efforts call the Minnesota Department of Public Safety's flood relief hotline at 800-657-3504 or the FEMA flood relief hotline at 800-621-FEMA (3362).

Supporting Agriculture

Senator LeRoy Stumpf understands that agriculture plays a vital role in the strength of Minnesota's rural economy. Sen. Stumpf has been recognized as a leader for fair agricultural policies [illegible] hand up to prosperity. He has worked hard to preserve Minnesota's family farms, has promoted tax policies to benefit farmers, and this legislative session Stumpf was a strong supporter of biodiesel legislation which will be a boost to Minnesota's farm economy and help ease our dependence on foreign oil. Stumpf also had the foresight to support the U of M emergency research efforts in crop and animal disease such as Anthrax in cattle and Avian Virus in Turkeys.

Working for Rural Economic Development

Senator Stumpf has been a strong advocate for economic growth in rural Minnesota. He has fought hard to change the state's tax policies and lower the cost of workers' compensation insurance. This year, he promoted legislation providing state aid for developing the public infrastructure needed for economic development in rural Minnesota, and fought for tax incentives to stimulate development of 10 rural venture capital funds.

Budget Agreement

After several years of record surpluses, the Legislature was faced with the difficult challenge of solving a $2.4 billion deficit this year. The Legislature solved the state's $2.4 billion budget deficit. While the Senate and House worked effectively in a bipartisan manner to address the brunt of the deficit in Phase I, cooperation was harder to find for Phase II. In the end, the remaining deficit was solved without tax increases or cuts to essential state programs and services, and funding the reserve for a future rainy day is preserved. It is important to note that the budget reconciliation bill, while solving the short-term deficit, postpones difficult decisions on spending cuts and tax increases until next year, when another deficit is possible.

Other 2002 Items

"Bread Tax" repealed
[illegible] oversight in last year's legislation, bake goods, [illegible] food processed and sold on site at stores were [illegible]. This provision has now been repealed.

Property Tax Changes
[illegible] Minnesota many property owners did not re[illegible] benefits of the property tax reformation of 2001. Many [illegible] farms, split-class parcels, and properties in [illegible] Kittson County and Red Lake County faced prop[illegible] rather than relief. The current tax bill corrects some of these oversights.

K-12 Schools
Although the legislature attempted to protect students and school funding from the budget cuts this year, schools will face funding issues particularly in Greater Minnesota where decreasing enrollment is creating hardships. Maintaining safe schools and providing for technology in schools were seen as priorities. Minnesota's public schools are now allowed to levy up to $30 per pupil for maintaining safety and deterring crime.

TRF nonprofit corporation established
Due to an amendment offered by Sen. Stumpf, the 2002 tax bill allows Thief River Falls to operate a community or regional center as a nonprofit corporation. This may assist TRF in building the Ralph Engelstad arena and save the project by exempting the building materials and equipment from sales tax.

All-Terrain Vehicles (ATVs)
Senator Stumpf authored a bill supported by ATV user groups and environmental groups to fund $1.2 million for increased ATV trail monitoring, maintenance and enhancement.

Senator LeRoy Stumpf... Working for you.

Producers now required to report crop acres to FSA

The Pennington County Farm Service Agency (FSA) office wants to remind producers that the new Farm Bill requires that producers must report their acres to the FSA County Office in order to be eligible for benefits under the Farm Bill. The deadline to timely file an acreage report for the 2002 crop year is July 15, 2002.

This includes Farm Bill benefits such as direct payments, counter-cyclical payments, Loan Deficiency Payments (LDP's), and marketing assistance loans.

The Pennington County office has mailed out maps to producers for the farm(s) the county office has them listed as operating for the 2002 crop year. A letter was attached to the maps informing the producer what needs to be recorded on the maps. If producers did not receive maps for all of their farms they are operating in 2002 they should contact the county office as soon as possible.

As in the past, the county office is taking acreage reports by appointments. Producers should contact the county office to schedule an appointment to report their acres after they have completed filling out their maps.

Producers with crop insurance need to make sure that the crop acres and shares they report to their crop insurance company match the acres and shares reported to FSA. It is suggested that producers with crop insurance first come into the FSA county office to report their acres so the county office can provide producers with a copy of their acreage report and maps to take to their crop insurance company to ensure that the acres and shares match. The deadline to report acres for crop insurance is June 30, 2002.

Producers with questions concerning acreage reporting requirements should contact the Pennington County FSA office at 681-1612, ext. 2, before July 15.

MnSCU trustee rides into TRF

Approximately 679 miles into his northern tour of colleges in the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities system, Trustee Robert Erickson will roll into Thief River Falls for a grand tour and reception at Northland Community and Technical College.

Erickson, an outgoing member of the Minnesota State Colleges and University (MnSCU) board of trustees, is partaking in a 2,101-mile, 53-campus bicycle tour to MnSCU campuses to raise awareness and funding for the Northstar Foundation, and for the local Foundations on various campuses, including Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC). These funds will provide scholarships for part-time students.

In completing an 879-mile tour of the southern MnSCU colleges, Erickson raised $13,000 for the Northstar Foundation. On June 20, he will begin his northern tour and is expected in Thief River Falls on Friday, June 28, at about 3:30 p.m.

The NCTC Foundation is coordinating a reception to honor Erickson's Scholarship Challenge efforts. Expected to start prior to Erickson's arrival, the reception will take place on the south lawn (or student commons in case of inclement weather) and include meat, cheese, fruit and refreshments. All members of the Foundation and College community are invited to attend.

Those wishing to make a tax-deductible pledge to support the Northstar Foundation or NCTC Foundation through the Scholarship Challenge should contact the NCTC Foundation office at 218-681-0751 or 1-800-959-6282. Funds raised will be used to create a unique new scholarship program designed to help students who balance college with work and family.

Congressman calls for flood recovery volunteers

Congressman Collin C. Peterson (DFL-7th District) joined local officials, including Mayor Jeff Palowski, in issuing an area wide call for volunteers. Help is needed in Roseau and Lake of the Woods county and surrounding rural areas to help residents begin recovery clean-up from the disastrous floods of the past week.

"People have fought the flood day and night," said Peterson, "and they are exhausted. Now, faced with the task of cleaning up they could really use the help. In some areas, the water is still rising and sand-bagging continues. There is plenty of work to do."

President Bush declared 13 counties in Peterson's congressional district a federal disaster area in response to flooding caused by torrential rains. For example, Roseau officials have estimated that over 95 percent of the city's homes and buildings have flood damage.

"Anyone with the time and ability to come to Roseau and northwestern Minnesota would find plenty that he or she could help with," said Peterson. "Recovery is going to take some time, but the area needs a hand getting back on its feet first."

Volunteers can call the Roseau Area Volunteer Effort at 218-463-0940 or 218-463-3373 or simply go the volunteer staging area at the to wayside rest stop west of Roseau on Highway 11. Volunteers for Lake of the Woods county should call the flood center at 218-634-0050.

Flood victims encouraged to access Red Cross

American Red Cross Service Centers, located in Roseau, Warroad and Baudette, have been established to provide residents in flood-damaged northwest Minnesota with emergency food, clothing, and shelter. For example, if a person or family needs clothing, cooking facilities or food, sleeping accommodations or answers to medical questions, the Red Cross can help. The Red Cross encourages people not to be afraid of asking for available goods and services during this highly unusual time.

The helpful booklet "Repairing Your Flooded Home" and additional cleaning supplies are available at the service centers. Lunch and dinner are available from the mobile feeding unit at the Warroad service center.

The Roseau service center is located in the old Geroy building east of Mesvelt's. The Warroad service center is located in the Gardens Arena, and the Baudette service center is located in the old North Star building in east Baudette. Farmers and residents living in rural areas are asked to visit the service center closest to their residence. Hours at the service centers are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Red Cross donations will be accepted at Border State Bank and First National Bank locations in the region as well as Prime Security Bank in Karlstad.

All American Red Cross disaster assistance is free, made possible by the voluntary donations of time and money from the American people.

working as an EMT-I for Great Plains EMS, and she is on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week. She's also a busy mom as she and her husband, DelRoy, have four children, ages, 14, 11, nine, and six, as well as a 16-year-old foster child.

She squeezes work on her birdhouses in between ambulance calls and family activities, but says that she can estimate the time it takes her to finish a house at about a week. The windows require a lot of time, and she says she spends quite a bit of time waiting for things to dry before she can progress to the next step. In addition to the time it takes to construct the houses, some of the materials are costly. The amount of time it takes to build a birdhouse as well as materials costs are both figures she will have to take into consideration should she decide to market her creations in the future.

Before she sells anything however, she says she has to make birdhouses for her mom and sisters – at no charge, of course. One of her sisters, Jodi says, wants a birdhouse that looks like a log cabin, and another has sent her pictures of all four sides of her home so that Jodi can build a birdhouse replica. These challenges will help prepare her for future special orders.

She imagines that her first marketing attempts will more than likely include setting up a table at a craft show with samples and then taking special orders, building each house to the buyer's specifications. Jodi says she will also probably check into some type of marketing via the Internet.

While she develops new products and explores marketing opportunities, however, passersby will have to be satisfied with simply admiring the birdhouses in her yard on Main Street. Taking a closer look is no problem, Jodi says, as she welcomes those who notice the houses as they walk by to take a stroll through her yard.

Visitors will come en masse on July 13 when the Flom yard becomes one offered for tour by the Thief River Falls Master Gardeners. More details about the annual tour will appear in an upcoming edition of The Times or Northern Watch. In the meanwhile, if you happen to pass by this better birdhouse builder's house, stop and take a gander. The sheer cuteness of these bird abodes is sure to bring a smile to your face.

Jodi Flom has added a butterfly house to her collection of birdhouses in her yard on North Main Street in Thief River Falls. In the future, Jodi says she plans to design and build bird feeders and ladybug houses as well. (Submitted Photo) development block grants, and if a your name is not on their list from the SBA loans, you will likely be ineligible for CDBG grants.

Sen. Stumpf encourages application for FEMA aid

In addition, Stumpf points out that SBA loans are extremely low interest--3.5 percent--and that qualifying home and business owners could use that money to refinance their existing loans, which probably have much higher interest rates.

Farmers can take advantage of SBA loans, but only for personal use. If a farmer's home or garage has been damaged, that farmer could qualify for an SBA loan. However, these loans will not cover crop damage or damage to farm equipment or facilities.

TRF Elks Invitational baseball tournament slated this weekend

Annual Elks Invitational baseball tournament for 14-15-year-olds was scheduled to begin a three-day run Friday, leading to a 6 p.m. Sunday championship game at the Multi-Events Center.

The 15-team event will also utilize the diamond at Northland Community and Technical College.

It's a single-elimination format with a championship and consolation bracket this year. The tournament was first played in 1969 and has been held every year since, except 1991 when it was rained out. It used a round-robin format in 2000 when Thief River Falls Gold emerged the champion and went to a pool play set-up last summer when trophies went to the East Grand Forks 14-year-olds (Pool 1), Crookston (Pool 2) and Warroad (Pool 3).

The 2002 tournament includes Thief River Falls Blue, Thief River Falls Gold, Red Lake Falls, Warroad, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Roseau, Moorhead, North Fargo, South Fargo, West Fargo, and Grand Forks, along with three Twin Cities area teams sponsored by Postal Credit Union, Dietz-Kane Insurance and Stichen's Sporting Goods.

Carter Rogalla and Shane Zutz coach the Thief River Falls 14-15-year-olds.

TRF Elks Invitational

■ First round Friday, June 21 - (Upper Bracket) Red Lake Falls vs. Warroad, 4 p.m., MEC; Thief River Falls Gold vs. bye.

■ Quarterfinals Friday, June 21 - (Upper Bracket) Red Lake Falls-Warroad winner vs. Thief River Falls Gold, 6:30 p.m., MEC.

■ First round Saturday, June 22 - (Upper Bracket) Crookston vs. East Grand Forks, 8 a.m., NCTC; Thief River Falls Blue vs. Roseau, 8 a.m., MEC. EGF sweeps TRF Legion team

East Grand Forks runner Matt Simonson reached out and grabbed the bag with his hand before Thief River Falls first baseman Mitch Pribula could apply the tag on a first inning pick-off attempt during Tuesday's American Legion baseball doubleheader opener at the Multi-Events Center. East Grand Forks won both games, 14-3 and 8-3.

You know it's going to be a long night when you're trailing 1-0 even before the official game time arrives. It was that kind of outing for Thief River Falls Tuesday when Post 117 absorbed 14-3 and 8-3 losses at the hands of East Grand Forks in a Ninth District American Legion baseball doubleheader at the Multi-Events Center.

The twinbill began a few minutes early, and thanks to a lead-off home run by Tom Solem, the visitors were on the board when the actual 5 o'clock Game 1 start time arrived.

Solem's shot over the right field fence was just the start. The first five East Grand Forks batters all reached base and scored to open the doubleheader. Neither game went the scheduled seven innings. The first one ended on the 10-run rule in the sixth. They managed to get in the official-game five innings in the nightcap before calling it quits because of a rain shower.

The two losses dropped Post 117 to 4-5, while East Grand Forks, a winner in the Thief River Falls Wooden Bat Invitational over the weekend, improved its 2002 Multi-Events Center record to 6-0.

"We played poorly," said Thief River Falls coach Jamie McEnelly. While the five errors his team committed on the day wasn't a huge figure, it was the number of plays that weren't made – ground balls and fly balls that weren't turned into outs – that disturbed the Post 117 coaching staff.

Solem's doubleheader-opening homer was followed by a walk issued to Shawn O'Neil, a bloop single to right by Eric Gast and a walk given to Matt Marek to load the bases. Matt Simonson delivered a two-run single, Gary Molck picked up an RBI on a sacrifice fly, and Tom Dostal dropped a two-out fly ball down the right field line to drive in the fifth run of the inning.

O'Neil beat out an infield hit to open the second inning, advanced on a single into short center field by Gast and reached third on a fielder's choice play when Marek replaced O'Neil as a base runner. On a one-out, first-and-third situation, Marek headed for second on a stolen base attempt. Failure to knock down the throw allowed Gast to trot home with the sixth East Grand Forks run. The play also sent Marek to third, and he scored on a two-out drive to right-center by Molck.

Thief River Falls' first-game offense was limited to three third inning runs as Mitch Pribula drew a lead-off walk, Ben Worker singled to right and Dane Kjono found the same spot for an RBI single. Ben Weigelt earned an RBI on an infield ground-out and Kjono scored on a wild pitch to make it 7-3.

Comeback hopes were quickly squashed, however, when East Grand Forks got those three runs back in the fourth inning on an RBI single by Dostal, along with a wild pitch and an error that both scored runs.

An early end came when East Grand Forks scored four more times in the sixth. The first run crossed the plate on a wild pitch. Two walks and a hit-batsman loaded the bases for Matt Marek, whose two-out double produced three RBI.

Matt Marek also drove in three runs in Game 2 when East Grand Forks pushed a single run across the plate in the first inning, made it 4-0 in the third, then doubled the margin in the fourth.

Dave Geatz catches a big fish while sleeping in Bemidji competition

Dave Geatz of Thief River Falls caught the biggest fish Saturday during the second annual Kraus-Anderson Walleye Classic on Lake Bemidji.

One-hundred two-person teams taking part in the event caught 377 walleye that weighed a combined 635.88 pounds.

Brothers Jim and Dave Lubke won team honors by catching a five-fish limit weighing 14.04 pounds.

Geatz, whose partner was Steve Solheim, won the big fish award in unusual fashion.

As reported in the Bemidji Pioneer by John J. McRae, Geatz and Solheim were experiencing a slow bite. The weather was warm, the sun was shining and the tournament started early, so Geatz decided to take a snooze. "I laid down in the bow of the boat and looped the line around my finger," he said. "The bite woke me up. I jumped up, set the hook and could tell it was a nice fish. I told Steve to get ready." A short time later the biggest walleye of the day was in the net.

Steve Broten wins state archery title

Steve Broten not only won a state title, he set a record while competing in the 2002 Minnesota State Archery Association State Target Championships June 8-9 at Hutchinson.

Broten and Cory Loeffler were Thief River Falls Archery Club members who competed in the 900 round state shoot.

Broten, who is sponsored by Streiff Sporting Goods of Warroad, set a state meet record with a score of 884 in the adult male freestyle division, where a perfect round is 900 in the 90-target event that finds competitors trying to hit a softball-size bull's-eye while shooting 30 targets at three different distances – 40, 50 and 60 yards.

Winning is not new to Broten, a state champion in the same division at the 2000 MSAA event hosted by Detroit Lakes when his overall efforts in multiple events also won him Grand Champion honors. He was third in the adult male freestyle state shoot a year ago.

Loeffler finished third in the young adult freestyle division at Hutchinson, duplicating his efforts from the MSAA Indoor Championships in Duluth this spring.

A state champion in the MSAA State Field Tournament last summer, Loeffler will try to match that performance when the 2002 event takes place in Duluth July 13-14. Field competition features a walk-through course with targets placed at various distances from 20 feet to 80 yards.

A pair of Thief River Falls archers were trophy winners at the 2002 Minnesota State Archery Association State Target Championships June 7-8 in Hutchinson. Steve Broten (left) won the adult male freestyle division with a meet-record score, while Cory Loeffler (right) placed third in the young adult division.

Post 117 notches Thursday twinbill split vs. Warroad

Second-game offense enabled Thief River Falls to gain a Thursday American Legion baseball doubleheader split with Warroad at the Multi-Events Center.

Warroad won the opener 5-3. Thief River Falls took the nightcap 12-9.

The results put the Jamie McEnelly-coached Post 117 squad at 5-6 for the year heading into Friday's start of the three-day, 12-team East Grand Forks Classic.

Postponements of doubleheaders at Detroit Lakes and Roseau produced an 11-game season-opening home stand for McEnelly's young ball club that included twinbills against Stephen-Argyle, East Grand Forks and Warroad, along with the Thief River Falls Wooden Bat Invitational.

A strong pitching performance by Dusty Gagner could not compensate for the lack of offense and four Thief River Falls errors in Game 1. Warroad won it on the strength of a four-run second inning.

"Dusty pitched a good game," noted McEnelly. "We played pretty well for most of the game, but we took one inning off, and that was the difference."

Game opening singles by Jim O'Donnell and Tony Selvog, along with a sacrifice fly by Kent Peterson, scored a first inning Warroad run.

Mitch Pribula walked, stole second and scored on Dane Kjono's base hit up the middle for a 1-1 tie in the bottom of the first.

A one-out error opened the second-inning door for the visitors, who scored on a single to left by No. 9 hitter Cody Lang, a two-run double by Selvog and a single to center by Damian McMillin.

Thief River Falls had another four-error showing in Game 2, but this time Post 117 made up for the mistakes on defense with 12 hits and 12 runs. A six-run second inning and an 11-4 lead withstood a five-run Warroad comeback in the sixth.

"We hit the ball," mentioned McEnelly. "We played pretty well for four innings, then we fell asleep and let them back in the game."

Tyler Bettin led the second-game Thief River Falls offense by driving in five runs on a 3-for-4 plate performance. A pair of hits by Reid Sjoalheim netted three RBI.

Kjono was the Game 2 winning pitcher in relief of Zach Collins.

NOTICE TO READERS
While work-at-home advertising is often legitimate, we advise readers to fully investigate the background of any company before paying a fee. If an offer sounds "too good to be true," it probably is. Proceed with caution if you are asked to send money or in calling 900 numbers. All phone numbers prefixed by "900" are charged to the caller on a per minute per call basis. Remember, if you have any doubts, investigate.

Mini art show at TRF library June 17-28

Northwest Regional Development Commission Arts Council is currently displaying its mini-show of its Northwest Minnesota Art Exhibition winners at the Thief River Falls Public Library.

The show began June 17 and will conclude June 28. The public is invited to view the award-winning art pieces during regular library hours Monday through Thursday 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Fridays and Saturdays 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Northwest Minnesota Art Exhibition was open to high school through adult artists in the seven Minnesota counties of Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, and Roseau. This year 83 artists participated in the original exhibition which included 112 pieces of artwork. A portion of the exhibit is touring various locations, including the Thief River Falls Public Library. From Thief River Falls the exhibition goes to the Crookston Public Library, Campbell Library in East Grand Forks, the Ada Library, Godel Memorial Library in Warren, and finally, the Greenbush Library.

Funding for the exhibition was made possibly through an appropriation from the Minnesota State Legislature that was administered through the Northwest Regional Development Commission Arts Council.

Northwest Regional Development Commission Arts Council is displaying its mini-show of the Northwest Minnesota Art Exhibition at the Thief River Falls Public Library from June 17-28. The rose, pictured above, was taken by Kristi Kremlich of Ada. The picture of the stream was taken by Stacy Kleinwechter of Thief River Falls. The sculpture is of a Spring Kestrel made by Leonard LaCoursiere of Red Lake Falls.

This self-portrait as a fish by Heather Seblen of Fosston is among the art pieces on display at the public library in Thief River Falls. Northwest Regional Development Commission Arts Council is displaying its mini-show of the Northwest Minnesota Art Exhibition at the Thief River Falls Public Library from June 17-28.

Festival features big rhubarb cake

Lake Bronson - Duella Foss and Dwight Undeberg, both of Lake Bronson, baked the world's largest rhubarb short cake for Lake Bronson's annual Rhubarb Festival last weekend.

The cake, which measured 5' by 28" by 4" deep, was baked for one hour and 45 minutes at a temperature of 320 to 340 degrees in a milk tank that Undeberg had converted into a propane gas grill.

The finished cake and pan weighed approximately 120 pounds and served more than 200 people. It was served to the public following the Tina and Lena Show Saturday evening. Kittson County Enterprise

Liquor license fee questioned

Red Lake Falls - Mike Swendra, owner of Big Swen's just north of Red Lake Falls, attended the June 11 meeting of the Red Lake County Board of Commissioners to question why liquor licenses are higher for his business than other liquor businesses in Red Lake Falls.

The cost of an off-sale liquor license in Red Lake Falls is $125, $125 for on-sale, and $125 for a Sunday liquor license. Swendra stated that he now pays $1,250 for his on-sale license and that with the extra for off-sale and a Sunday sales permit, his licensing totals $1,550 per year. "Business is getting tough," Swendra told the commissioners, "but I would like to get on the same playing field as the same businesses."

The board was told that the county's license fees were based on what other counties charge for liquor licenses. Fees are $1,800 in Pennington County and $1,300 in Polk County. Swendra argued that these counties are larger areas.

The board of commissioners agreed to discuss the license fees at another time and approved Big Swen's liquor license at the normal fee. The Oklee Herald

School board ups activity fees

Baudette - To help with budget constraints, the Lake of the Woods school board decided unanimously to raise activity and gate fees.

Fees for each sport will be double last year's price, and three new fees have been added: one act play, speech and academic decathlon will cost $50. Also, the per family maximum has been raised from $100 per family per year to $150 per family per season.

Gate fees for events will cost $5 for adults, $3 for K-12, and $1 for seniors. The board is debating keeping or cutting passes this year. The Baudette Region

Fund established for flood recovery

Warroad - Warroad community leaders and the Northwest Minnesota Foundation (NWF) have established the 2002 Warroad Area Flood Recovery Fund for the purpose of providing support for the immediate and long-term needs of the Warroad area as it recovers from the floods of 2002.

The fund will accept donations from individuals and businesses, utilizing the community foundations services of NMF. Warroad Pioneer

Farm income drops

Farm Business Management releases 2001 report

Income on average farms in northwestern Minnesota dropped again last year. In the 2001 Farm Analysis for northwestern Minnesota, which was released by Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) Farm Business Management program in April, the report summed up the year as one of average crops, low prices and government payments.

The report includes data from farmers enrolled through NCTC at 13 sites in northwestern Minnesota and three sites from Central Lakes Community and Technical College. The analysis average of 394 farm records and the preparation of this report is done under the direction of Robert E. Bollesen, regional Dean of Management Education at NCTC.

The summary of the report states that in 2001, there was a dramatic decrease in yields for wheat and canola, a slight decrease in barley and a slight increase for corn and soybeans. Net return per acre was still low due to prices and varying LDP (Loan Deficiency Payment) rates. Corn, barley, wheat and canola were negative, while soybeans continued to show a profit. Wheat again slipped into a negative return for the sixth time in the last seven years.

What played a role in the survival of northwestern Minnesota farms? Government payments and insurance claims again played an important role in the survival of the northwestern Minnesota farm. On cash basis, an average farm received $14,061 of AMTA and Market Loss Payments, $13,283 of LDP and disaster payments, and $13,887 in insurance payments.

The LDP and disaster payments decreased by $15,174 (53 percent) from last year while insurance payments increased by $10,167. Part of the insurance increase was due to 52,000 acres that received Preventive Planting Insurance Payments.

Erosion is causing a problem in some area fields. This picture shows erosion damage to a field in Numedal Township. The primary soils are Lohnes loamy coarse sand, 0 to 6 percent slopes (1 percent = 1 foot drop in 1,000 feet). The picture was submitted to The Times/Northern Watch by Norman Anderson.

High water devastates area crops

by Andy Cummings
Reporter

Relentless flooding in recent weeks has been hard on farmers in the region. Whether it's a lack of dry land to put cattle on, a shortage of hay to feed them, young crops destroyed by flooding or topsoil being washed away, northwest Minnesota farmers are facing severe difficulties this summer.

There was a good deal of winter kill to this year's hay crop, meaning that even without the flooding, it would have likely been in short supply. But with much of the crop having been washed away, it's doubtful that there will be enough hay to carry farmers through the summer.

According to Warren Pommer, an agricultural program specialist at the Minnesota Farm Services Agency in St. Paul, farmers don't usually keep extra hay lying around. "That's a big problem, because . . . most individuals that have a beef herd would not have a large carry-over crop of hay." Rather, he said, they aim to have their hay crop run out when the cattle go out to pasture for the summer.

Farmers received some help when Conservation Reserve Program land was opened for displaced cattle. However, farmers are

Erosion Damage

After torrential rain, many counties in the region have lost farmland to erosion. These are the hardest-hit counties:

Kittson
- Minimal amounts destroyed
- 15,000 acres damaged

Koochiching
- Minimal amounts destroyed
- 5,000 acres damaged

Lake of the Woods
- 1,000 acres destroyed
- 20,000 acres damaged

Marshall
- 250 acres destroyed
- 40,000 acres damaged

Norman
- 1,000 acres destroyed
- 200,000 acres damaged

Red Lake
- 50 acres destroyed
- 8,000 acres damaged

Roseau
- 2,000 acres destroyed
- 100,000 acres damaged

On Monday afternoon, Thomas Simpson's farm was dry, but his cropland was not.

Warroad watches rising lake level

Tributaries of the Rainy River are swelling in northeast Minnesota and southwest Ontario, and when that water comes into Lake of the Woods, it could potentially breach Warroad's levy.

According to Warroad police chief Lawrence Wright, the lake has risen eight inches in five days. "The water levels on Lake of the Woods are a foot lower than they were last year at the highest point," he said. However, as the Rainy River continues to pour its waters into the lake, it will continue to rise.

The rising lake waters, coupled with the potential of a northeast wind blowing the water a foot higher onto shore, could breach the city's levy. However, Wright notes that "they're giving ten days or so as far as that goes, so it's not an immediate threat."

While there has been talk of sandbagging the levy or raising it to a higher level, the city of Warroad does not think there's an immediate enough threat to begin just yet.

Lake of the Woods County Sheriff Bob Paulseth says the dams at International Falls and Kenora, Ontario are open, and as long as they are, water will continue to pour into Lake of the Woods. As it does, the city of Warroad will keep a close eye on lake levels.

High waters destroy four area food shelves

Rising flood waters have not only washed away homes and businesses in northwestern Minnesota, but also have destroyed at least four food shelves and damaged many others. In response to an increased need for emergency food, Minnesota FoodShare has set up a fund to help.

The four food shelves lost not only their entire food supplies, but refrigerators, freezers, shelves, and the use of their facilities.

"These food shelves helped 1,200 people each summer," says Sue Kainz, spokeswoman for Minnesota FoodShare. "That doesn't include the thousands of people who will need emergency food for the first time because of the floods."

Area food shelves not directly damaged by flooding are bracing for a sudden increase in demand. Although food bank and food shelf staffs are doing everything they can–including storing food in their own garages–there is still a great need for additional help. "We know generous Minnesotans will respond to this crisis," says Kainz.

Those interested in restocking and restoring the food shelves may mail cash donations directly to Minnesota FoodShare labeled "flood fund," or may donate online at www.gmcc.org/MFS–all online donations during July will be designated for the temporary flood fund. Donors may also call (612) 721-8687 ext. 324 or (888) 315-7390 to make a credit card donation. All donations will go directly to food shelves impacted by this disaster.

Minnesota FoodShare is a program of the Greater Minneapolis Council of Churches, co-sponsored by the Minnesota Rabbinical Association, Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of St. Paul and Minneapolis, Jewish Community Relations Council of Minnesota and the Dakotas, Minnesota Catholic Conference, Minnesota Council of Churches, and the St. Paul Area Council of Churches.

Friends Norma Hanson (left) and Coralouise Zaffke looked at an old yearbook. Coralouise, who now resides in Crookston, was Norma's music and health teacher. On July 5, Coralouise will be Norma's guest when the Goodridge Historical Society hosts its dinner theater presentation of "Mama's Quilting Party." Norma wrote the musical, which was first presented in 1987, and has dedicated this year's encore production to Coralouise. The photograph on the coffee table is Norma's high school graduation portrait from 1948.

Norma Hanson dedicates play to teacher, friend

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

While their friendship is based on a relationship that began decades ago, one would swear that Norma Hanson and Coralouise Zaffke were a pair of school girls if you were to hear them talk – and giggle.

Actually, school is where their paths first crossed – Norma as a student at Backus School and Coralouise as her high school music and health teacher.

On Friday, July 5, Coralouise, along with members of her family, will be Norma's guests at the Goodridge Historical Society's dinner theater presentation of "Mama's Quilting Party," a play written and directed by Norma, which will be presented as part of Goodridge's 4th of July celebration events.

As a tribute to her former teacher, Norma has dedicated this year's presentation of the play to Coralouise, who inspired Norma as a young woman and later became her fast friend.

Although neither of the women dwells on her age, simple math will tell us that Norma and Coralouise have been around for a while. Norma graduated from Backus High School in 1948, and Coralouise, who returned to her hometown to teach after attaining a degree from St. Olaf College, has to be at least several years Norma's senior.

Backus is a small community in

Boat parade July 4 on Maple Lake

Mentor - The traditional boat parade competition will be held on Maple Lake in Mentor on Thursday, July 4, with prizes for the "Best Boat Float Contest."

As in the past, the parade is an opportunity for boats of all kinds, with or without theme decorations, to join in a parade around the lake with the friends and neighbors to celebrate the nation's independence.

Parade contestants will assemble at the public boat landing on East Lake Drive around 10:30 a.m. and the parade will commence shortly thereafter. Judging for the "Best Boat Float" will take place as the crafts pass by The Inn at Maple Crossing. The Erskine Echo

More counties receive disaster unemployment assistance

Minnesota Department of Economic Security Commissioner Earl Wilson has announced that Disaster Unemployment Assistance (DUA) is available to eligible workers and self-employed individuals in seven counties, in addition to the previously declared Roseau County.

The additional counties now eligible for DUA include Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman and Red Lake.

The deadline for applying for assistance in these seven counties is July 26. The deadline for Roseau County is July 19.

Applications are available in English and Spanish at the WorkForce Centers in Bemidji, Crookston, Detroit Lakes, East Grand Forks, International Falls, Moorhead, Park Rapids, Roseau and Thief River Falls. Applications are also available at Mahnomen County Social Services, and at Norman County Social Services at the courthouse in Ada.

The DUA program provides temporary income assistance to workers and self-employed individuals whose work has been lost or interrupted as a direct result of recent flooding. People may qualify for DUA if:

1. They worked in or were scheduled to begin work in one of the counties listed above; and
2. They cannot work as a direct result of the flooding; and
3. The work they are prevented from performing by the flooding is their primary source of livelihood; and
4. They do not qualify for regular unemployment benefits.

Anthony Eychaner completes basic training

Army Pvt. Anthony L. Eychaner has graduated from basic combat training at Fort Knox, Ky.

During the nine-week training, the trainee received instruction in drill and ceremony, weapons, marksmanship and bayonet training, chemical warfare, field training and tactical exercises, marches, military courtesy, military justice, physical fitness, first aid, and Army history, traditions, and core values.

He is the son of Lynette Eychaner of Challenger Drive, Thief River Falls and a 1989 graduate of Roseau High School.

Area students named to SCSU dean's list

Area students were among the 1,411 students whose academic achievement placed them on the spring semester dean's list at St. Cloud University.

Included were Tamara Mereil of Argyle and Amanda Grafstrom of Roseau.

To be eligible for the honor, students must have a grade point average of 3.75 or higher on a 4.0 scale.

Small communities face wastewater treatment challenges

After we wash dishes or take a shower the water doesn't just go away. We've made it dirty, and what used to be "drinking water" becomes wastewater or sewage.

That's why thousands of small communities in Minnesota and across the U.S. face wastewater treatment challenges, says Ken Olson, an educator with the University of Minnesota Extension Service. Olson, who specializes in on-site sewage treatment, says the typical home uses 75 to 100 gallons of wastewater per person per day.

In addition to water, wastewater has pathogens, or disease organisms; nutrients such as nitrogen and phosphorus; solids, both organic and inorganic; and chemicals from cleaners, disinfectants and medications.

"Wastewater must be cleaned up before it's returned to the environment to be recycled for future generations," Olson says. "As individuals and community members, everyone must take responsibility for wastewater generated in our community."

When a community faces wastewater treatment issues, Olson says a successful outcome often depends more on the process it follows than on the treatment technologies available to it. "Finding the technology solutions is the easy part," Olson says. "Working together as a community is the challenge."

Olson has written two new publications. One is titled "A Quick Guide to Small Community Wastewater Treatment Decisions," which you can read on the Internet at http://www.bae.umn.edu/septic. The other is a more detailed, 140-page version called "Small Community Wastewater Solutions: A Guide to Making Treatment, Management and Financial Decisions." Either publication can be purchased with a credit card by calling (800) 876-8636. Ask for item 07734 (Complete Guidebook) or 07735 (Quick Guide).

Summer is the time for getting together with friends. The following dishes would be great to make for a get-together this weekend:

This recipe has diabetic exchanges for you too. It's a tasty alternative to the same old burgers at your next outdoor party:

ITALIAN ROAST BEEF SANDWICHES
1 tablespoon butter
1 boneless sirloin tip beef roast (5 pounds)
1 (28 ounce) can tomatoes with juice, cut up
1/3 cup water
1 tablespoon ground thyme
1-3 teaspoons crushed dried red pepper
1 teaspoon salt
Semi-hard rolls

In Dutch oven, melt butter over medium heat. Brown roast on all sides.

Add remaining ingredients except rolls. Cover and simmer until roast is tender, about 3 1/2 to 4 hours. Add additional water, if necessary, to keep roast simmering in broth.

Remove meat from broth and reserve broth. Let meat stand 20 minutes and trim fat. Thinly slice meat. When ready to serve, reheat sliced beef in broth. Serve on rolls.

Makes about 20 sandwiches.

Diabetic exchange: 1 serving, without roll, equals 2 lean meat, 1/2 vegetable. 129 calories, 244 mg sodium, 49 mg cholesterol, 3 gm carb, 18 gm protein, 5 gm fat.

Here's an old-fashioned potato salad that goes great with the sandwiches – the recipe makes 6 quarts of potato salad and serves a whole bunch of hungry people:

GRANDMA'S POTATO SALAD
1-1/2 quarts mayonnaise or salad dressing
1/4 cup packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon sugar
1-1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 cup milk
10 pounds potatoes, cooked, peeled and cubed
1 dozen hard cooked eggs, chopped
4 stalks celery, chopped
5 radishes, sliced
1 medium onion, chopped
1/3 cup chopped green pepper
Salt and pepper to taste
Leaf lettuce
Paprika
Chopped parsley

In large bowl, combine mayonnaise, sugars, vanilla and mustard. Stir in milk. Gently fold in potatoes, eggs, celery, radishes, onion, green pepper, salt and pepper.

Chill several hours or overnight. Serve in a bowl lined with lettuce leaves. Sprinkle with paprika and parsley.

Baked beans are just the right thing to have with this meal – you can use your crock pot for these if you want too:

BEAN BAKE
1 (48 ounce) jar cooked great Northern beans
1-1/2 pounds lean pork, cut into 1 inch cubes
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 (14 ounce) bottle ketchup
3 tablespoons prepared mustard
1-1/2 cups packed brown sugar
1/4 large onion, chopped

Combine all ingredients carefully, mixing well. Place in bean pot or casserole. Bake at 300 degrees, uncovered, for 5-6 hours, covering for the last hour.

If using slow cooker, cook on low overnight.

Just as soon as that zucchini gets big enough you can make this – it's a great party dessert:

CHOCOLATE ZUCCHINI SHEET CAKE
2 cups sugar
1 cup oil
3 eggs
2-1/2 cups flour
1/4 cup cocoa
1 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
2 cups shredded fresh zucchini
1 tablespoon vanilla
Frosting:
1/2 cup butter
1/4 cup cocoa
6 tablespoons evaporated milk
4 cups powdered sugar
1 tablespoon vanilla

In large bowl, combine sugar and oil. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Combine flour, cocoa, soda, baking powder and salt. Gradually add to the egg mixture alternately with the milk. Stir in zucchini and vanilla.

Pour into greased 10x15 inch jelly roll pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes or until cake tests done.

While cake is baking, combine all frosting ingredients and mix smooth. Spread frosting over cake while hot and cool on wire rack.

Inspectors to visit storm-damaged homes

Inspectors from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) are visiting residences and examining property damaged by the floods that began on June 9 in Roseau, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman and Red Lake counties.

"You must apply for disaster assistance before inspectors will view your damaged property," said Federal Coordinating Officer C. Michel Butler. Residents of those counties who experienced damage can apply by calling FEMA's toll-free registration number at 1-800-621-FEMA (3362) (TDD 1-800-462-7585).

An inspector will determine the extent of damage to your house and whether it is habitable by checking the structure and the systems. Damage to major appliances to include washer, dryer, refrigerator, stove, furnace, water heaters, etc...will be assessed. Other serious needs, such as lost or damaged clothing, will also be reported.

Applicants should be prepared to show the inspector proof of ownership and/or proof of occupancy to help determine eligibility. Insurance papers should be shown if they are available. Applicants should also notify the FEMA inspector if the household is serviced by a private septic system and/or well.

Disaster officials urge applicants to ask for proper identification before allowing unfamiliar persons claiming to be inspectors into their homes. Official inspectors will not be charging any fees to perform this service. Anyone charging fees should be reported to the nearest law enforcement agency, disaster officials caution.

More than one agency may be inspecting damaged property. FEMA generally schedules its inspections within five days of the time an applicant registers. Other agencies which may be looking at damages include the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), the American Red Cross, and/or local building officials.

Maple Lake improvement district meets

The Maple Lake Improvement District annual meeting will be held on Saturday, July 13.

The meeting will be held at the Mentor Community Hall. A breakfast is being served by the board at 8 a.m. with the meeting following at 9:30 a.m.

During the meeting, an election for one board member will be held. This will fill the expiring four-year term of Darryl Beauchamp.

The 2002-2003 budget will also be discussed and approved.

All Maple Lake property owners are encouraged to attend.

An informational meeting will be held on Monday, July 8 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 703 at NCTC for anyone interested in organizing a YOUTH SOCCER LEAGUE. Representatives of the MN Youth Soccer Assn. will be on hand to answer questions and explain how to get started.

Small Things

I'm into big. I'm not into little. And while that seems like an appropriate and logical attitude for someone who pursues the fishing game as a means of putting food on the table, it's a stance that applies to most of my non-work existence as well. I'm not comfortable dealing with the small things. For instance, if the lawn needs mowing, I like to head right down the middle of the most uncluttered areas with the Toro, cutting large swaths of thick green turf in short periods of time, only to leave the annoying, time consuming tree edge and flower bed borders for my wife and children to handle when I'm done. That little stuff is so unsatisfying. Or if we mount a family attack on the supermarket, I make sure I'm the one who volunteers for the meat department duty. I always feel so much more important carrying an armload of rib-eyes and rump-roasts up to the cashier than dawdling through the condiment aisle with a dinky plastic basket draped over my arm picking up tiny, seemingly inconsequential bottles and jars of trivial stuff. I'm into big. Which is why the last couple of weeks, during which the bulk of my personal happiness has arisen from the very smallest of occurences, has been such a surprise.

The fishing, for example, has not been measured by the cumbersome weight of the cooler at the end of the day nor by the number of $10 bills that grace my palm when tips get passed out. Oh, the fishing's been quite good, certainly as good as it's been all summer. And the tips seem to get a little better when the customer base hails from the drier, less flooded areas of the country and they carry pocketfuls of compassion north with them into the flooded upper tier. But the real satisfaction accompanies the smaller victories these days. The ability to get a boat through a day on the lake without hitting any logs, for instance, may be a small consideration during most summers but is imminently satisfying lately. Even observations as normally mundane as the ability of Pine Island to hold its shape or the weed-bed in the bay to maintain its grasp to the bottom despite a raging eight-mile per hour current take on new and significant appeal.

At my home the small things have also become reason for a smile. Normal expectations like "no water in the yard" have been amended to "the water in the yard went down an inch last night." A successful garden is no longer measured by a cornucopia of potential produce, but simply by the possibility that the beans and melons might survive. I don't worry if the day is not sunny, just as long as the clouds overhead are simply clouds of the non-rain variety. The fact that my two Labradors don't swim is no longer a point of major discontent, as it pleases me that the flooded ditches around the neighborhood keeps those water wary dogs from wandering off anymore.

Elsewhere, too, the effects have brought on a minimization I don't worry about golfing exceptionally well through nine holes anymore, but am thoroughly delighted if my son and I can swing our way up hole one and down nine without losing any balls. I no longer generate stomach acids fretting over the speed of my internet connection but am glad that the random nature of the evening thunderheads has seen fit to allow me to have a connection at all. I get a perverse and unprecedented satisfaction to hear that the mother skunk living in the culvert down the road not only survived the last couple of weeks, but also has successfully brought six babies into the world to add to next fall's smelly roadside mix.

And there exist innumerable other, namby-pamby, diminutive observations about family and relatives and friends that would undoubtedly warm the cockles of your heart. And goodness knows, I'd hate to have you reading this with a heart full of cold cockles. But enough is enough of all this newfound appreciation for the small things. I've got bigger fish to fry somewhere. (Isn't that an appropriate little phrase?!) Now, if someone would just point me in the direction of the meat department, I know there's a 20-pound Tom turkey there with my name on it.

Soybeans can tolerate short-term flooding

Soybean plants are sensitive to excess water, but short-term flooding isn't likely to hurt yields. Soybeans tolerate 48 hours under water quite well, according to Seth Naeve, soybean agronomist with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

"Four days or more of flooding stresses the crop, delays the plants' growth and causes the plants to be shorter with fewer nodes," says Naeve. "Flooding for six days or more may result in significant or entire stand loss."

Naeve says flooding from streams overflowing their banks can leave silt deposits that can bury the crop or cover leaves with thick layers of soil. Without rains to wash silt from soybean leaves, recovery is slow. Fortunately, soil prone to stream flooding is often sandy and drains well, allowing quick crop recovery or replanting.

Lowland flooding, where water accumulates in low spots in fields due to lack of soil permeability or surface drainage, can last many days. Naeve says soils in low areas of a field often hold water so that as the water disappears from the surface, the soil profile may stay waterlogged for several more days. Naeve cites four main factors that determine the fate of flooded soybean fields. They are duration of the flooding, temperature during the flood, rate of drying after the beginning of the flood and growth stage of the crop during the flood.

"Temperature during the flooding plays a large role in determining the fate of submerged soybeans," says Naeve. "Higher temperatures cause soybean plants to deplete stored energy more quickly. Also, higher temperatures cause plants and soil microbes to use up oxygen in the water more quickly, which is detrimental to the plants. Cool, cloudy days and cool, clear nights greatly increase the survivability of a submerged soybean crop."

Flooding also hurts soybeans more on slow-drying soils such as clay, says Naeve. A research study found a yield loss of 1.8 bushels per acre per day of flooding on a clay soil and a loss of 0.8 bushels per day on a silt loam soil. The soybeans were at the V4 growth stage. "Flooding is more detrimental to soybean yields in the early reproductive phases of crop development," says Naeve. "Flooding at the R1 stage caused losses of 2.3 and 1.5 yields per acre on clay and silt loam soils in the study. Larger yield losses would be expected in soybeans at the R3 to R5 stages."

Flooding can also hurt soybean yields indirectly by contributing to root diseases, nitrogen deficiency and other plant nutrient imbalances.

"Caring for recuperating soybean stands should focus on reducing stresses on the plant where possible," says Naeve. "Cultivation can help increase soil aeration. Herbicide stress should be minimized and postponed where possible."

Police to increase enforcement during July 4 holiday

Minnesota's law enforcement agencies say they plan to increase patrols across the state during the first week of July in an effort to catch drunk drivers.

The Department of Public Safety's Office of Traffic Safety announced the plan, saying midsummer is the time of year when drunk driving is most common.

The State Patrol, county sheriff's offices and local police departments will all be increasing the number of traffic patrols during that week.

Clearbrook area to be heavily patrolled this weekend

The Clearbrook Police Department and the Minnesota Highway Patrol will be keeping the town of Clearbrook on heavy patrol this weekend in an attempt to crack down on driving offenses, especially drunk driving.

"Nighttime Concentrated Alcohol Patrol" (NightCAP) is the name of the federally-sponsored program, and the goal is to catch motorists driving drunk, breaking the speed limit or not wearing seat belts.

Red Cross seeks donations

The American Red Cross, now with an office open in Roseau, is seeking donations to help respond to the flooding in northwest Minnesota and eastern North Dakota.

So far, the Red Cross has served 19,856 meals and snacks to victims and volunteers in the flood and has disbursed 1,875 cleanup kits for homes among other services they have provided.

Donations to the Red Cross can be made at (800) HELP NOW or at www.redcross.org.

Flood victims seeking assistance can call (800) GET INFO.

Four-way stop to be installed at Arnold and First

The signs will be installed before July 1.

Acreage reports due on July 15

If Pennington County farmers wish to be eligible for benefits of the new farm bill, they must register an acreage report with the Farm Services Agency by July 15.

Benefits of the bill include direct payments, counter-cyclical payments, loan deficiency payments and marketing assistance loans.

The county office is making appointments for the reports. Farmers can make an appointment by calling the county FSA at 681-1612.

President and Chief Executive Officer

June 20, 2002

To our Friends at Arctic Cat and the Community of Thief River Falls,

On behalf of Polaris Industries Inc., and everyone from the Roseau community, I would like to express my deepest appreciation and heartfelt thanks to the volunteers of Arctic Cat Inc., and the Thief River Falls community, who came to Roseau to help out during our time of need.

The unexpected floodwaters which afflicted the Roseau community this past week have left us all in state of disarray. Yet, through the outpouring of support and generous help such as yours, we have persevered and are already back in production at our plant.

The Polaris employees affected by the flood, and the entire Roseau community will have a long road ahead before things truly return to normal. And while many homes and lives have been disrupted, it is efforts such as yours and the spirit of northern Minnesota communities like Thief River Falls and Roseau, which will lift us up and make us stronger.

While competitors in business, Polaris Industries Inc., and the community of Roseau could not ask for better neighbors than Arctic Cat and the citizens of Thief River Falls. And while we hope such unfortunate events may never happen to you, rest assured we too will be there for you.

Thank you again for your generous help. On behalf of the citizens of Roseau and the 1,800 Polaris Roseau employees, we are truly grateful.

Sincerely,

Tom Tiller

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

To the list of forbidden verses we add "under God"

I think the California Court of Appeals is in error when it asserts that the school district is conveying a message of state endorsement of a religious belief. The purpose of reciting the Pledge of Allegiance is simply to foster a sense of patriotism, and acknowledge the values and historical significance that founders had in establishing this country. In public settings it often adds a sense of purpose and solemnity. If the purpose of the requirement to recite the Pledge was entirely motivated by a purpose to advance religion, then it should be invalidated by the First Amendment. But that is not the case.

The individual who brought the case to court did so not because his daughter was forced to recite the Pledge, but because he claims his daughter was injured when "she was compelled to watch and listen as her state-employed teacher in her state-run school leads her classmates in a ritual proclaiming that there is a God, and that our's [sic] is 'one nation under God.'"

In fact, "under God" was not added to the Pledge until 1954. According to Rex Curry, an attorney in Tampa, Fla., who wrote to me, the pledge of allegiance was authored by Francis Bellamy, a self-proclaimed socialist. Curry pointed out that that's not something that's generally taught in elementary school. His comment certainly adds a different perspective to the debate about whether the Pledge of Allegiance should be repeated in schools. In this discussion it is valuable only in that it points out that the purpose of the Pledge of Allegiance was not to advance religion.

If it were such, we should soon consider eliminating such phrases as "In God We Trust," which can be found prominently displayed on our currency. I agree with Circuit Judge Fernandez, who concurred in part and dissented in part with the decision, but stated, if we accept his colleagues' theory "...we will soon find ourselves prohibited from using our album of patriotic songs in many public settings, "God Bless America" and "America the Beautiful" will be gone for sure, and while use of the first and second stanzas of the Star Spangled Banner will still be permissible, we will be precluded from straying into the third. And currency beware!"

Judge Fernandez finds little harm in the words "under God." "Those expressions have not caused any real harm of that sort over the years since 1791, and are not likely to do so in the future," said Judge Fernandez.

It is perhaps unfortunate for the appeals court in California that their decision comes during a year when patriotism means something more than waving a flag. It is perhaps even more unfortunate that during this "patriotic year" that their decision comes so close to the Fourth of July. It is unfortunate because I suspect the entire judiciary will come under unprecedented scrutiny by media, legislators and public. I hope the backlash will not result in decisions that will truly affect the quality of our lives.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

President Bush receives request for ag assistance

Senators Mark Dayton (D-MN) and Paul Wellstone (D-MN) along with Congressman Collin Peterson (D-MN) sent a letter to President Bush urging him to provide agriculture emergency disaster assistance to those farmers who have been hit by recent disasters, especially those in northwestern Minnesota who have suffered from the recent floods.

"Thank you for approving 13 Minnesota counties as eligible for federal disaster assistance," they wrote. "Unfortunately, due to another torrential rainfall this week, northwest Minnesota needs much more help. We urge you to extend individual and public assistance to all affected counties. In addition, we respectfully request that you reconsider your opposition to emergency disaster assistance for farmers.

"Northwestern Minnesota is suffering from one of the worst floods in our region's history. One week after you declared Roseau County a federal disaster area, another 12 inches of rain fell over the area. The Wild Rice River swelled above its historic record level, breaking the old record set two weeks ago. Its waters poured over homes, fields, and entire towns. An extraordinary rich agriculture region now lies devastated.

"This region has a short growing season. With large volumes of water still standing in many fields, there is little hope farmers will be able to replant or recover a crop. The Minnesota Farm Service Agency estimates that over 2 million acres have been affected by the recent floods. Monetary losses are expected to be in the hundreds of millions, even after reimbursements to farmers with federal crop insurance.

"The programs of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, while very important, are not geared to handle these farm losses.

"Your administration has voiced opposition to providing emergency disaster assistance to farmers, claiming the recently passed Farm Bill should provide adequate assistance. But a crucial distinction must be made between economic disaster assistance due to low crop prices, and losses due to natural disasters.

"In light of the extensive damage to areas in northwestern Minnesota–and elsewhere in the nation where farmers have been hit by drought, flooding, fire, or other disasters–we urge you to reconsider your position and support emergency disaster assistance to farmers, without requiring cuts in the existing farm income safety net.

"We believe that if you were to see first-hand the devastation wrought by this flood, you would agree that this emergency disaster assistance is both appropriate and necessary.

"We appreciate your consideration and look forward to working with you and your administration to provide this urgently-needed aid."

Area residents compete in Grandma's Marathon

Several area and former residents participated in Grandma's Marathon (26.2 miles), and the Garry Bjorklund Half Marathon, last Saturday in Duluth.

The marathon was won by Elly Rono, 32, Durham, N.C., in a time of 2:10:56, which is the third fastest marathon time ever recorded at the race. The women's winner was Zinaida Semenova, 39, Russia, in a time of 2:32:21.

Several runners commented on the weather, and the weather contributed to a half-hour delay for the start of the marathon. According to participants, it was overcast and between 58- to 60-degrees Fahrenheit. Participants also enjoyed a tailwind.

The Times/Northern Watch has made an attempt to identify as many local and area runners who participated in the event. If we have missed anyone, they are invited to submit their names and result information.

Area results:

MnDOT closes Highway 32 near Twin Valley

Minnesota Department of Transportation (MnDOT) has closed Highway 32 from the south junction of Highway 200 to north of Twin Valley.

"We discovered that the bridge over Trunk Highway 32 in Twin Valley has received some serious damage to the pilings as a result of the flooding," said Duane Hill, MnDOT Northwest District bridge engineer. "We are very concerned with the potential of the bridge collapsing and until we can do further assessment, we are closing this portion of Highway 32 for the safety of the public," added Hill.

MnDOT has established a detour route around the area. Motorists can take Highway 113 east to Waubun, north on Highway 59 to Winger, west on Polk County Road 1 and back onto Highway 32.

Cass County where Norma grew up on a farm, the oldest of seven children. Her mother, now 92 years old, continues to make her home there. Like her daughter, who is a longtime community activist in the Goodridge area, Mrs. Kruckow served as her township's clerk for an impressive 34 years.

Norma attended a rural school for three years before attending school in Backus where she would become acquainted with Coralouise as a high school student.

As a vocal music teacher, Coralouise inspired Norma and offered her students opportunities that they might otherwise not have had. A special experience that both vividly recall was a trip to St. Olaf College where Coralouise's students had the opportunity to sing under the direction of a well-known professor. "It was like a trip to New York!" Norma says of the adventure she shared with her teacher and other students from the small community.

After she was caught throwing an eraser in Coralouise's health classroom, Norma was also the target of her teacher's disciplinary techniques. As her punishment, she was required to outline the thick, gray fabric-covered Red Cross book that served as the textbook. More than 50 years later, Norma recently owned up to her teacher that she had actually skipped a few pages, but Coralouise, who obviously didn't notice at the time, only laughed and said, "I don't blame you!"

After their association in Backus, life would take Norma and Coralouise in different directions before their paths would cross again.

After high school, Norma went on to attend business school in the Twin Cities and work there before meeting and eventually marrying Lynn Hanson and moving to their farm near Goodridge in 1955.

To help supplement their farm income during years she describes as "tough," Norma worked at Thief River Falls businesses that included The Times, where she says she did a bit of everything, and Kiewel Bottling Company where she served as office manager. During those years, the Hanson's son, Michael, grew up with the support of Lynn's mother, a woman Norma describes as a "wonderful mother-in-law."

Coralouise married banker Cliff Zaffke, and his career took them from Backus to Thief River Falls and Karlstad, before they settled in Crookston in the late 1950s where Cliff was president of Polk County State Bank and Coralouise did some substitute teaching and raised the couple's six children. Among the Zaffke children are their youngest twin sons who both grew up to be Lutheran pastors.

Today, both the former teacher and her student are grandmothers. Norma's three grandchildren are nearby on a neighboring farm, and Coralouise's 16 grandchildren are more spread out.

If there's one difference between the student and her teacher, it's their politics. Norma is a longtime DFL activist, and Coralouise is currently boasting about one of her twins who is running for a state senate seat on the Republican ticket in Olmstead county.

With so many wonderful memories of their Backus days to share, however, the women, both of whom respect the ideals of the other, don't need to debate politics. Besides, political involvement is only one element in Norma's vast collection of organizations she's been involved with on both local and state levels. She also enjoys adventure, and recently told Coralouise about a couple of wagon train trips she and a variety of family members have enjoyed across North Dakota during its centennial celebration and from Itasca to the state capital.

Norma's belief that Goodridge's rich history is worthy of preservation has led to her involvement with Goodridge Area Historical Society, Inc. She currently serves as the organization's president and goes to great lengths to involve as many other community members as possible.

Over the years, Norma has relied on personal experiences and memories as well as historical knowledge and written the several plays and musicals that have been performed in indoor and outdoor pageants during Goodridge celebrations. "Mama's Quilting Party," which combines her love for music and historic pageantry, was first offered to the public in 1987.

This year's presentation will feature the talents of a good number of Goodridge area residents in addition to the area children who have been recruited to help serve the meal during the dinner theater and rehearse their roles just like the adults. The dinner theater meal will be prepared by members of the historical society, and the event will begin at 6 p.m. on Friday, July 5, in the gymnasium at Goodridge School. Reservations are required. To purchase an advance sale ticket, contact Norma at (218) 378-4380, Marcella Hanson at (218) 378-4252, or Avis Frazer at (218) 378-4538.

Other 4th of July celebration events will include a Fun Run on Thursday, beginning at 8 a.m., a parade at 1 p.m., kiddie parade, games for the youngsters, tours of Goodridge Area Historical Society buildings from 11a.m. to 1 p.m., and a special Independence Day program that will honor the community's veterans at 3 p.m. at the Goodridge Community Center. Also, the historical society will be serving lunch Thursday, beginning at noon, at the Goodridge Senior Center.

With regard to her decision to dedicate her play to her former teacher, Norma says that of all the people one meets and becomes acquainted with during one's lifetime, there are a few that "rise to the top." For Norma, one of those influential people was Coralouise Zaffke.

Coralouise, who share's Norma's zest for life, is overwhelmed but sure to enjoy watching her former student in action during the "Mama's Quilting Party" performance.

Like the old quilt from the Depression years of her youth that Norma dreamt she was looking for and later actually discovered between the mattress and bed springs of a bed in her mother's house, the enduring friendship between these women is tied by memories and destined to be treasured.

MN/DOT road advisories remain in effect

Several roads remain under MN/DOT advisories after several weeks of severe flooding.

The following roads are closed:

• Minnesota 9 four miles south of Ada.

• Minnesota 9 between Borup and Felton; this closure can be detoured by taking Clay County 34 west for six miles from Felton, then taking Clay County 11 north, then east on Norman County 39 to Borup.

• Minnesota 32 from south junction of Minnesota 200 to Twin Valley; this closure can be detoured by taking Minnesota 113 east to U.S. 59, then driving north on 59 to Winger, then west on Polk County 1 and back onto Minnesota 32.

• Minnesota 113 east of U.S. 59 at Waubun to Becker County 13.

• Minnesota 200 two miles west of Ada.

• Minnesota 200 east of Mahnomen to county road 3.

• Minnesota 200 between Mahnomen and Minnesota 32; this closure can be detoured by going east on Polk County 1, south on U.S. 59 at Winger, west on Minnesota 113 at Waubun and back to Minnesota 32.

• Highway 310 north of Roseau.

MN/DOT warns motorists about the following roads:

• Minnesota 89 south of Wannaska, where the approach to a bridge is gravelled.

• Minnesota 89 in Roseau, which is open to local traffic only, as dikes remain in place on the roads.

Additionally, MN/DOT has reopened the construction detour that had previously been closed near Clearwater County Park. There will be areas of loose gravel and speed restrictions, so motorists are asked to use caution. The detour route is from Minnesota 92 east on Clearwater County Road 36, and south on Clearwater County Road 2 back to Minnesota 200.

Drivers on county roads in Mahnomen and Norman counties are advised to drive with caution.

Please permit me to take this means to say hello to the taxpayers and voters of County Commissioner Dist. #2 in Pennington County.

Dear Voters Dist. #2 Pennington County,

I'm Bob Carlson, your present Pennington County Commissioner, and I am taking this way to inform you that I will file for Re-Election for County Commissioner in your district on July 2nd. I have served in this position for the past 8 years and am asking you, once again, for your vote and support on Nov. 5th. I very much enjoy being your County Commissioner and have the time and the keen instinct in representing you on our County Board. Being a County Commissioner takes a great deal of one's time. These are some of the Committees I now serve on being your Commissioner:

- Vice Chair Oakland Park Nursing Home Board
- Vice Chair Pennington Co. Welfare Board
- Penn. Co. Rep. on Inter-County Nursing Board
- Penn. Co. Rep. on NWRD Board on Aging
- Penn. Co. Extension Committee
- Past 2 years Budget Committee for Penn. Co.
- Past 2 years Labor & Wage Committee for Oakland Park & Welfare Dept.
- Penn. Co. Rep. on State Ag & Transportation Committee

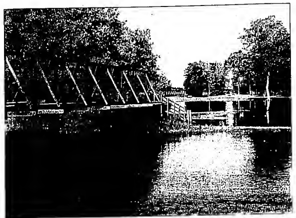
I am getting to know very well just how County Spending of tax dollars can affect city taxpayers and I can assure you you have a County Board that is very aware of your tax dollar and how it should be spent. I'm still learning about some problems in County Government such as water drainage and ditch problems that affect our rural people. My plans for the upcoming election are that I will make a house-to-house call from now to election day, Nov. 5th. I want to meet you and talk over anything of interest to you.

In advance I ask you to consider me as your County Commissioner when you vote on Nov. 5th.

Yours truly,
Bob Carlson
County Commissioner Dist. #2

I Want "You" in 2002.

Special funds may soon be available



Senators Mark Dayton and Paul Wellstone have encouraged the President to immediately release emergency Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) funding to help citizens in northwestern Minnesota who are suffering from energy-related problems resulting from the area's recent, record flooding.

The Senators said the request for assistance covers each of the 13 counties to which Federal disaster declarations were recently granted, including Roseau, Kittson, Becker, Beltrami, Clay, Pennington, Polk, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman and Red Lake.

"Low-income residents of northwestern Minnesota are struggling to rebuild their homes," Wellstone and Dayton wrote. "Emergency LIHEAP funds would help them to repair and replace damaged furnaces, water heaters, electrical boxes, insulation, basement windows, and other energy-related casualties of the floods."

The Senators wrote that in September, 1999, $20.3 million in emergency LIHEAP funds were released to the State of North Carolina to repair energy-related damage caused by flooding from Hurricane Floyd. Minnesota has closed down LIHEAP for 2002, as all of its regular funds have been distributed. Minnesota plans to dispense its last $150,000 in LIHEAP contingency funds to flood victims in northwestern Minnesota. Additional LIHEAP money would help with the estimated $370 million in damages.

"We have visited these flood-ravaged counties and have seen people's heroic efforts to put their lives back together," the Senators wrote. "Your release of additional LIHEAP funds would provide a huge financial and psychological boost to their efforts."

The bridge across the Thief River on the 18th hole of the Thief River Golf Course is still unpassable because of high water. The course is open but play is limited to 16 holes and only a couple of bridges are open. Carts can be used on the course. Representatives of the golf course went before the city council Tuesday night to request that the level of the reservoir be reduced to allow more water to flow through the channel. According to city officials, the city's license requires that they maintain a certain elevation at the dam and any deviation would require permits from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, and Army Corps of Engineers.

Corps provides temporary housing in Roseau

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, St. Paul District, under the direction of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, began moving in temporary housing Friday for the victims of the Roseau floods.

The Corps has been directed by FEMA to fund travel trailers for the residents whose homes are too flood-damaged for occupancy. The trailers will provide the residents a place to live while their homes are being repaired, and additional trailers will be purchased and installed as directed by FEMA.

To aid in Roseau's recovery, the Corps has more than 25 people providing technical assistance to the city and FEMA. These individuals include engineers, hydrologists, contracting specialists and more. An emergency operations center in St. Paul was activated when the flooding began two weeks ago and will continue to provide assistance as long as needed.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers conducts its emergency response activities under two basic authorities: the Flood Control and Coastal Emergency Act, and the Stafford Disaster and Emergency Assistance Act. The Corps supports FEMA in carrying out the federal emergency response plan, which calls on 26 federal departments and agencies to provide coordinated disaster relief and recovery operations. Under this plan, the Army has the lead responsibility for public works and engineering missions.

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.

Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two man crew, saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

FEMA teams visit flood damaged areas

Community relations field officers from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) are working with the Minnesota State Department of Public Safety and local community leaders to reach out to residents and businesses affected by the floods that began June 9.

Teams are canvassing communities in Roseau, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman and Red Lake counties. Individual disaster assistance for homeowners, renters and business owners is currently available in those counties. These community relations teams are offering individuals and business owners information about available disaster assistance programs, including grants to help pay for temporary housing needs, minor home repairs and other serious disaster-related expenses.

"We rely on our community relations staff not only to get the word out but also to find out first hand the problems individuals in those communities are facing," said FEMA's Chief of Staff, Joan Rave.

Team members are meeting with representatives of community-based agencies, community leaders and public officials. When field staff identify unmet needs, information will be communicated to the state or federal staff best able to respond.

According to Jerry Rosendahl, state coordinating officer for Minnesota, "We are making every attempt to inform disaster victims about the benefits available through a disaster declaration. That may require special types of assistance, which community relations teams will help to ensure."

Team members will be reminding people that the only way to apply for FEMA disaster assistance is to call the toll-free number 1-800-621-FEMA (3362). For people who are speech or hearing impaired, the TTY number is 1-800-462-7585. Both phone lines are open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., seven days a week.

MnDOT re-opens detour route for Highway 200

A detour route onto Clearwater County roads from Trunk Highway 200 near Clearwater County Park has now been re-opened after heavy rains caused several areas along the route to be washed out, according to Larry Rundall, project supervisor for the Minnesota Department of Transportation (MnDOT).

Randall said, "We're pleased to be able to re-open this route so quickly so that traffic wanting to get to the other side of the project will not have to take a longer detour." The detour route from the Trunk Highway 200 construction project near Clearwater County Park is north on Clearwater County Road 2, west on Clearwater County Road 36 to Trunk Highway 92 near Zerkel.

Randall advises drivers to be cautious as several areas may still have some water on the road.

Making an appearance in Thief River Falls Thursday as part of the third annual Wells Fargo Minnesota Wild Road Tour summer promotional program were, seated from left, Willie Mitchell, Karyn Bye, Mike Crowley, and Mike Goldberg. Mitchell and Crowley are defensemen on the National Hockey League club; Bye, an assistant captain on the United States Olympic women's hockey team, is serving as a grass roots advisor for the Wild; Goldberg is the team's television play-by-play announcer.

Minnesota Wild group makes stop in TRF

Four team representatives of the Minnesota Wild were in Thief River Falls Thursday as part of the third annual summer promotional tour by the National Hockey League club.

The Wells Fargo Wild Road Tour features three different traveling parties who were scheduled to make 23 stops throughout Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota from June 25-28.

Willie Mitchell, Mike Crowley, Karyn Bye, and Mike Goldberg formed the group making the Thief River Falls appearance. They greeted fans and signed autographs at tables set up in the parking lot at the new Wells Fargo facility.

Mitchell and Crowley are defensemen with the Wild. Bye, a member of the United States Olympic women's hockey team, serves as an advisor for the Wild grass roots program. Goldberg is the team's television play-by-play announcer.

A native of Port McNeill, B.C, Mitchell played 68 games with the Wild in 2001-02 – his third NHL season and first full season in Minnesota. He has four goals, 19 assists and 108 penalty minutes during a 98-game NHL career that began with New Jersey in 1999-2000. Mitchell was acquired by Minnesota in a March 2, 2001 trade.

Crowley is a former Bloomington Jefferson and University of Minnesota standout who was drafted by Philadelphia in the fifth round of the 1993 NHL entry draft, then played parts of three seasons with the NHL Anaheim Mighty Ducks before signing a free agent contract with Minnesota on July 26, 2001. A lacerated achilles tendon in a preseason game at Edmonton Sept. 17, limited his 2001-02 season to 11 games with the Houston Aeros, the Wild American Hockey League farm club.

The Wild will begin a third season in the NHL with the start of training camp Sept. 13.

Formation of new TRF youth soccer program to be topic of meeting

An information meeting will be held Monday, July 8, to discuss the formation of a youth soccer program in Thief River Falls. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Room 703 at Northland Community and Technical College.

The meeting is designed to test the interest in a soccer program for boys and girls ranging in age from the grade school to high school levels.

Two representatives who have been involved in helping design local Minnesota Youth Soccer Association programs will be guest speakers. They will talk about how to organize and set up a program.

If enough interest is expressed, organizers indicated an introductory program could be in place for a late summer/early fall season. Another option would be to run a spring/summer program.

Communities with Minnesota Youth Soccer Association programs already in place who could provide future competition for Thief River Falls players include Crookston, East Grand Forks, Bemidji, Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls, Moorhead, Pelican Rapids, and Alexandria.

Those interested in forming a soccer program, but are unable to attend the meeting are invited to contact Glen Kajewski at 681-8714.

TRF sweeps second twinbill

Thief River Falls came up with its second American Legion baseball doubleheader sweep in three days by beating host Crookston 15-6 and 14-10 Thursday. Tuesday, the Jamie McEnelly-coached squad defeated Perham 9-2, 4-3.

Thursday's Ninth District wins boosted Post 117 to 9-10 for the year.

"We didn't play bad," said McEnelly. "We were a little shaky in the first inning of the first game, but then we settled down and played pretty well. The second game was a little ugly; we started throwing the ball around. But we still won."

It was an offensive bonanza for the visitors, who scored 29 runs and collected 30 base hits. "We hit the ball pretty well," acknowledged McEnelly.

Thief River Falls will play back-to-back road doubleheaders Monday at Warroad and Tuesday at Moorhead before taking a Fourth of July break.

Next home appearance for Post 117 will be a Monday, July 8, rematch with Perham – a 4 p.m. doubleheader at the Multi-Events Center.

Girls softball program aids Prowlers

Matt Okeson took over as the Thief River Falls girls high school softball coach in 1999, and immediately saw a need to develop a summer program to help build the skills and interest needed to make the Prowlers competitive each spring.

Now in its fourth year of operation, the Thief River Falls feeder program features 42 players and three teams, who are now part of the first-year Northern Stars League.

Twenty-five Thief River Falls players are in the 14-under category, where they form two teams – the Blue and the Gold. Seventeen players are on the 18-under squad. Okeson and Kylie Rogalla coach the Thief River Falls teams.

Thief River Falls, Warroad, Roseau, and Badger/Greenbush-Middle River compete in the Northern Stars 18-under division for players who are in grades 9-12. Those four are joined by Baudette in the 14-under category for players who are generally in grades seven and eight.

Crookston, East Grand Forks and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart also field teams, but they are not part of the Northern Stars League.

Five-inning doubleheader league games are played on Monday and Thursday evenings. At least four league games must be played to be eligible for a spot in the state tournament.

State tournament for ages 16-under teams will be played July 12-14 in Becker. State tournament for 14-under will be played July 26-28 at Inver Grove Heights.

Warroad visited the Multi-Events Center Monday. Thief River Falls Gold won 7-3 and Thief River Falls Blue won 14-11 in 14-under match-ups, while Warroad won the 18-under games 1-0 and 10-9.

Singles by Shawna Rogalla, Brittany Odberg and Joann Blom were the only hits in the Thief River Falls Gold win. Kelly Hanson was the starting and winning pitcher before giving way to Rogalla for an inning of relief.

Chelsea Osborne was 2-for-3 with a pair of doubles. Kjelsey Loeffler went 2-for-5 and Deanna Rambeck had two doubles in the Thief River Falls Blue win. Loeffler, Osborne and Jessica Gustafson pitched two innings apiece for the winners.

A first-game pitching duel developed in the 18-under match-up when Donna Story threw a no-hitter for the win, and she had the only hit off losing pitcher Megan Berg.

Warroad was again limited to a single second-game hit, but still scored 10 runs off Berg, who pitched the first four innings, and Kayla Loe. Berg was the losing pitcher.

Berg, Katie Wilson and Laura Anderson had three each apiece for the The Thief River Falls 18-under squad.

Roseau will be in Thief River Falls for a 14-under game Monday starting at 6:30 p.m. The 14-under team will also host Baudette July 18. The 16-under team will head to state tournament play July 12-14.

Post 117 beats Perham twice

Combination of solid pitching, timely hitting and strong defense produced the first doubleheader sweep of the 2002 season Tuesday for the Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team.

The 9-2 and 4-3 wins at Perham drew plenty of positive response from coach Jamie McEnelly, whose young team was just 5-10 heading into the Ninth District twinbill.

Starting pitchers Dane Kjono and Dusty Gagner threw well for the wins, with Ben Weigelt pitching the seventh inning in relief in both contests, picking up a save in Game 2.

Perham was limited to a pair of hits in the first game and collected only five hits in the nightcap. Thief River Falls pitching was backed on a defense that was charged with a single error in both games.

"Our kids pitched great, and we played very good defense," pointed out McEnelly.

Thief River Falls' offense, meanwhile, collected 11 hits in Game 1 and eight more in Game 2.

"We hit the ball from top to bottom in the order," said McEnelly. "We got hits at key times."

Thief River Falls set the tone by scoring three times in the top of the first inning in the opener. A five-run seventh clinched it.

In an entertaining second game, Post 117 again started strong, scoring twice in the top of the first inning. This time, however, Perham came back, scoring single runs in the first and fourth innings for a tie, then adding a run in the fifth for a 3-2 lead.

Thief River Falls tied it in the sixth and won it in the seventh on a walk, stolen base and ground-out that put a runner at third for Reid Sjaaheim, who picked up the game-winning RBI with a sacrifice fly.

"It was a good game," said McEnelly. "The kids fought back. It was nice to see them play well under pressure."

Perham was a 6-2 winner over Post 117 earlier this summer in the Thief River Falls Wooden Bat Invitational.

Bagley grad has signed with NCTC softball team

Sheena Reese, a 2002 Bagley High School graduate, has signed a letter of intent to play women's softball at Northland Community and Technical College next spring.

Reese is a catcher. In addition to her softball skills, Reese played volleyball for the Flyers.

"Sheena is aggressive offensively and defensively," said Northland co-head softball coach Kathy Huschle. "She has lots of enthusiasm for the game."

Soil and Water Conservation District seeks supervisor

The Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District is encouraging people interested in natural resources conservation to run for a supervisor position there.

All SWCD positions will be filled by general election on November 5, and individuals must file to run between July 2 and 16 with the county auditor.

Two supervisor positions will be filled this fall: Area two, which covers North, Norden, Rocksbury and Silverton townships, and Area three, which covers Cloverleaf, Smiley, Kratka and Highlanding townships.

The positions have three main responsibilities: setting overall policy and long-term objectives for their district, developing their district's annual and comprehensive plans, and working with SWCD staff to ensure that policies and plans are implemented.

Supervisors are compensated only for attending meetings and are reimbursed for expenses.

Those wishing to file can do so by calling the Pennington County SWCD at 683-7075.

NOTICE TO READERS
While work at home advertising is often legitimate, we advise readers to fully investigate the background of any company before paying a fee. If an offer sounds "too good to be true," it probably is. Proceed with caution if you are asked to send money or in calling 900 numbers. All phone numbers prefixed by "900" are charged to the caller on a per minute per call basis. Remember, if you have any doubts, investigate.

Brendan Skime, 9, takes a swing as Jeff Tunberg, Chris Fornoy and Fabien Tunberg watch. Blake Torkelson was also with this group of young golfers participating in a junior golf tournament. As of Wednesday, there were 16 holes open at the Thief River Golf Club. Numbers 3 and 4 greens were still unplayable and some of the bridges are closed because of high water. High water kept the golf course closed for more than a week. The course is open for play now and carts can be used on the course. Golfers say the fairways and greens are in good shape. At the last meeting of the city council, golf course officials requested that more water be released from the reservoir. City officials indicated that any deviation from their license to operate the dam would require a permit from the Army Corps of Engineers and Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

not allowed to graze their cattle on CRP land, so the food problems remain. Pommier worries that a shortage of hay could drive prices so high that farmers will be forced to sell their cattle elsewhere to avoid losing money on them.

Crop loss and erosion is another big problem, one which Thomas Nelson knows all about. Nelson farms east of Holt near the Lake Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge. "We're on an island here," Nelson said. "There's water all around us. All the crop is underwater."

The crop loss figures are staggering. Pommier has received the following estimates from the 13-county disaster area: 40 percent of the wheat and barley crops, 55 percent of the potato crop, 30 percent of the soybean crop and 49 percent of the sunflower seed crop has been destroyed for a total estimated loss of $270 million.

"Now all of that can change . . . if the weather straightens up," Pommier said, as there could be a chance for a second cutting of alfalfa or hay.

Erosion has also been destructive. "We have estimates coming in [at approximately] 20,000 acres that may have been eroded and gullied to the point where they will not be usable at all," Pommier said. And that's in addition to countless damaged acres that will require long hours of work to make arable once again.

Farm income drops

Farm Business Management releases 2001 report

Government payments are combined, the total revenue is greater than the Net Farm Income by $4,977.

Net Farm Income this year included the following expenses:

- family living of $22,252.
- Social Security and income tax of $3,210.
- health and medical expenses of $3,587.
- $953 retirement accounts, and
- loan principle payments of $26,153.

Expenses listed above must be subtracted from net farm income. The average net income for all farms in 2001 was $36,245. In Koochiching, Lake of the Woods and Roseau counties, the net income was $17,697, and $13,018 in Kittson and Marshall counties, $49,862 in Pennington, Polk and Red Lake counties, $27,975 in Mahnomen and Norman counties, $21,826 in Beltrami, Clearwater and Hubbard counties, $40,323, $16,001 in Cass, Todd, and Wadena counties, and $67,910 in Crow Wing and Morrison counties.

The average farm ended the year with a balance of -$19,910.

Net farm income decreased this year, reversing a trend. In 1997, net farm income was $14,435, but $34,041 in 1998, $42,158 in 1999, and in 2000 net farm income increased to $49,752. Estimates from 2001 indicate that net farm income decreased to $36,245.

Expenses per dollar of income has remained relatively stable during that same time, fluctuating but tending downward from 84 cents per dollar in 1997 to 79 cents per dollar in 2001.

Both major livestock enterprises showed a decrease in northwestern Minnesota compared to last year. On the other hand, statewide, dairy showed an increase of 74 percent, which is the third highest in recent years. The increase in average milk price for the year contributed to the increase in profitability for the year. The pounds of milk per cow and the average herd size have continued to increase. The profitability for beef cow/calf operations decreased to a net return of $127.17 per cow, after steady gains for the past four years.

MSUM adds names to 2002 spring semester dean's list

Minnesota State University Moorhead has added names to its 2002 spring semester Dean's List. The names of individuals added to the Dean's List were inadvertently omitted from MSUM's dean's list news release.

To be placed on the Dean's List, students must maintain a 3.25 or higher grade point average and carry 12 graded credits to qualify for the honor.

Students from the area that were added to the Dean's List include: Tabitha Drangstveit of Thief River Falls, a business administration major; Hayden Goethe of Thief River Falls, a mass communications major; Sarah Hagen of Thief River Falls, a social work major; and Andrew Tri of Thief River Falls, who is undeclared.

Local students receive degrees from MSUM

Several former students from Thief River Falls were awarded degrees during annual spring commencement at Minnesota State University Moorhead.

Students receiving degrees included: Christopher Belmont of Fargo, N.D., a 1988 graduate of Lincoln High School; Markus Carlson of Thief River Falls, a 1991 graduate of Lincoln High School; Ross Cleven of Thief River Falls, a 1997 graduate of Lincoln High School; BreAnn Fugleberg of Thief River Falls, a 1998 graduate of Lincoln High School; Amanda Sjaaheim of Thief River Falls, a 1995 graduate of Lincoln High School; Scott Stanna of Thief River Falls, a 1993 graduate of Lincoln High School; and Justin Walseth of Thief River Falls, a 1998 graduate of Lincoln High School.

Rain, Bugs, Moose?

Wet weather has an impact on area wildlife too

by David Hill
Editor

Last week, law enforcement officials responded to a report of a moose in downtown Thief River Falls.

Officials found an adult moose loitering around Northwest Medical Center and allowed it to find its way back out of town. A week earlier they received a call about a deer running into a window at Lincoln High School. In addition, law enforcement has received numerous calls about car and deer collisions, and raccoons, muskrats and skunks uncomfortably close to residences in the area.

"Most of it has to do with animals being displaced by flooding," said Sgt. Tim Miller of the Thief River Falls Police Department.

As contact with wildlife has increased during the past couple of weeks, concerns about wildlife surviving the flooding have begun to surface.

When asked whether it could be flooding, mosquitoes, or normal activity, Department of Natural Resource Wildlife Manager John Williams, said probably all of the above.

There has been displacement because of flooding and that will account for some of the increased number of contacts being reported by the public. This time of the year, however, deer are generally fairly active – but not in the direction of towns. Now, Williams added, "Our reprieve from mosquitoes seemed to end abruptly" shortly after the region experienced considerable flooding. Deer and moose, he explained, are more sensitive to mosquitoes and ticks and could be driven into areas where there was less aggravation for them.

Our reprieve from mosquitoes seemed to end abruptly – Williams

Generally, flooding isn't much of a concern for whitetail deer. For the most part, deer are able to get around and away from flooded areas. It's difficult to tell, he said, if there has been much of a deer kill because of the flooding. Does are very adept at hiding their fawns. He said he would only expect to see losses in large expansive areas where there was substantial flooding.

Too many deer is "relative," said Williams. Complaints about crop loss and vehicle collisions may spur some of the concerns that there are too many deer. The DNR's response during the past few years has been to issue intensive harvest permits, as well as an increased number of permits. Until the population is brought back into balance, they will continue to issue intensive harvest and an increased number of permits. Williams said he believes the DNR is still on target with its management goals.

Williams is a little more concerned about the duck population. Almost all of the nests on Elm Lake were lost during the recent flooding. During a recent survey of the situation at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge and Elm Lake, Williams said he did not see any ducklings. Ducks, however, will re-nest. Williams added that the geese are okay because goslings hatched before the flooding.

Williams said he does have some concern about ruffed grouse. He estimated that 85 percent of the nesting habitat for grouse in the area was underwater during recent flooding.

Gary Tischert of Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge, said the Red Lake Co. Sheriff's Dept. suffers damage

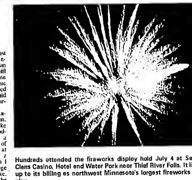
Red Lake Falls – Red Lake County Sheriff Less Arlt and Red Lake County Attorney Dan Geller met with members of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) recently to discuss storm damages in Red Lake County.



The sheriff's office at the Red Lake County courthouse sustained a lot of damage from flooding and from lightning. Right now the sheriff's office is operating out of a FEMA trailer.

Flooding caused damage to the floor. Lightning damaged the 9-1-1 computers, two window air conditioners, telephone lines and other electronics.

According to Sheriff Arlt, FEMA will cover any damages that are not covered by insurance. "FEMA needs a declaration from the insurance company as to what insurance won't cover," Arlt explained. –Red Lake Falls Gazette, Wednesday, July 3

Hundreds attended the fireworks display held July 4 at Seven Clans Casino, Hotel and Water Park near Thief River Falls. It lived up to its billing as northwest Minnesota's largest fireworks display.

Applications for assistance flow into FEMA

A total of 2,419 applications from the 14-county disaster area have flowed into the Federal Emergency Management Agency in recent weeks, and FEMA is encouraging residents who haven't applied to do so.

Thus far, $2.7 million in disaster housing grants, $312,750 in grants for unmet needs, $866,200 in Small Business Administration low-interest loans, 25 home loans totalling $851,000, and $8000 to one business and $6400 in economic injury monies have been disbursed.

"While we have not posted a deadline, there is a deadline," said Charlie Henderson, a FEMA representative. He says that the application deadline is usually 60 days after the declaration. "Presumably there will be a deadline around mid-August," he said.

In addition to FEMA assistance, anybody who lost their job due to the flooding is eligible for state disaster unemployment assistance (DUA), which can be applied for at the state's unemployment offices.

Farmers, while not eligible for business funds, can apply to FEMA for assistance if their homes or personal property have been damaged.

Geese survived the flooding and inundated many areas in the region. These geese were located inside Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge where all of the impoundments are full.

Fosston, MPCA reach accord

City and MDV agree to pay fines, make corrections

MDV and the City of Fosston were contacted by Northern Watch for a comment on this news story. They are cooperating with MPCA in solving this problem, but officials stated that they did not wish to comment at this time.

The city of Fosston, and Minnesota Dehydrated Vegetables (MDV), are required to pay $5,000 and $8,000, respectively, as part of agreements with the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA). The two agreements resolve past environmental violations at the city's wastewater treatment facility and the company's plant in Fosston.

The agreements, called stipulation agreements, address a series of current and historic wastewater discharges and related problems. MDV's violations include discharging inadequately treated wastewater to the city's municipal treatment system. The discharges caused obstructions in the wastewater lines and organic overloading, causing a loss of treatment ability in the city's stabilization ponds. The discharges also caused the city's system to violate permitted effluent limits on numerous occasions, one of which resulted in a minor fish kill in the Poplar River in June 1999.

Charges against the city include allowing MDV to discharge inadequately treated wastewater to its system, failing to require pretreatment from MDV discharges, failing to negotiate, implement and enforce a Significant Industrial User pretreatment agreement with MDV, and modifying its treatment system without first receiving required approval from the MPCA.

As a result of these violations, MDV is required to pay an $8,000 civil penalty and the city of Fosston is required to pay $5,000. In many MPCA enforcement cases, regulated parties are required to complete Supplemental Environmental Projects (SEPs) in addition to paying civil penalties. In this case, MDV is required to pay $13,000 to purchase water monitoring equipment for Crookston High School to expand its River Watch Program, and the city is required to pay $12,000 to purchase water monitoring equipment for Fosston High School to expand its River Watch Program.

Each school's River Watch Program is part of an overall Red River Basin program involving 23 northwestern Minnesota schools. Students from participating schools conduct monthly water quality monitoring from April to November under the supervision of science teachers.

Stipulation agreements are one of the MPCA's many tools used to achieve compliance with

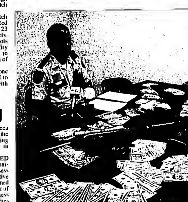
by Andy Cummings
Reporter

On Tuesday the Red Lake County Sheriff's Office arrested John Noyes of Poplar River Township in the biggest meth bust in Red Lake County history.

Noyes, 24, is currently free after posting $3000 bail. Red Lake County Sheriff Les Arlt says he does not consider Noyes to be a danger, although county attorney Dan Geller had recommended a bail of $50,000.



Siezed at Noyes' home were 227.3 grams of methamphetamines plus marijuana, LSD, $5,231 in cash and several firearms.

"That's a lot of methamphetamines," Arlt said. The Red Lake County Sheriff's office estimates the street value of the methamphetamines seized at $23,000.

Arlt said the Sheriff's office had been working on the case approximately six months prior to the arrest. He said that on two occasions Noyes sold drugs, including methamphetamine, marijuana and cocaine, to confidential informants.

The Sheriff's office obtained a search warrant on July 1 and made the search on the early morning of July 2.

Noyes faces three counts of first degree controlled substance crimes which carry a maximum penalty of 30 years in jail and a $1 million

On Wednesday afternoon, Red Lake County Sheriff Les Arlt answered questions about the drugs, guns and money that his deputies seized from the home of John Noyes on Tuesday.

Warren gets e-commerce rating

The City of Warren has received official recognition for meeting the state's requirements for being "E-Commerce Ready." The certification, granted by the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development (DTED), confirms that Warren's businesses, government and citizens are ready and able to conduct electronic commerce on the Internet.

Warren, in fact, has distinguished itself among Minnesota communities by exceeding all state requirements for certification, in part due to the work of the Warren Economic Development Corporation and Chamber of Commerce.

The city will receive an E-Commerce logo from DTED for use in promoting its technology readiness, as well as a certificate documenting the honor at the dedication of the Taralseth Building on July 11, 2002. The presentation will be made by Louie Jambois, DTED Community Finance Director.

"From an economic development standpoint, our goal is to ensure Minnesota's standing as a world competitor in the global economy. One way to achieve that goal is by using telecommunications to boost local, regional and state economic development," said DTED Commissioner Rebecca Yanisch. "This certification is the state's way of acknowledging Warren's readiness to compete in this global high-tech economy."

"By completing a special DTED survey guide, Minnesota communities and business leaders assess their readiness to become effective in electronic commerce," explained Mark Lofthus, DTED's Director of Marketing and Business Development. "These communities then develop more detailed community technology plans and actions that allow the state to certify them as e-commerce ready to compete."

Summertime, summertime – time for good eating. Pick out one of these recipes to make this week.

Make some cool sandwiches for lunch – these are just a little different with cucumbers and green peppers – perfect for a hot summer day:

EGG SALAD/CUCUMBER SANDWICHES
3 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
2 tablespoons chopped red onion
1/2 teaspoon lemon juice
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
8 slices whole wheat bread
1 small cucumber, thinly sliced
Lettuce leaves

In bowl, combine eggs, green pepper, salad dressing, onion, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Spread on four slices of bread. Top with cucumber and lettuce and remaining bread.

Great with any of your favorite main dish meals – this salad can be mixed up in minutes for a tasty side dish, and it's so good for you:

FRESH BROCCOLI SALAD
2 pounds fresh broccoli, cut into bite-sized pieces
1 (12 ounce) package fresh mushrooms, sliced
2 small red onions, thinly sliced into rings
1 can (2 1/4 ounces) sliced ripe olives, drained
1 1/2 cups Italian salad dressing
1/3 cup shredded Parmesan cheese

Combine all ingredients in large bowl. Toss to mix well. Cover and chill for at least 2 hours.

Recipe serves 12. Prepared with low fat salad dressing, one serving contains 66 calories, 182 mg sodium, 3 mg chol, 9 g carb, 5 gm protein, 2 gm fat. Diabetic Exchange: 1 serving equals 2 vegetable and 1/2 fat.

You've had all kinds of meatballs, but these are just a little bit different and they'll be a favorite:

MEATBALLS IN DILL SAUCE
8 ounces lean ground beef
8 ounces lean ground pork
1 small onion, finely chopped
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon thyme
1/4 teaspoon marjoram
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 1/2 cups fresh bread crumbs
1/2 cup water
Sauce:
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups beef broth
2 tablespoons fresh dill or 1 teaspoon dried dill weed
1/2 cup half and half
Egg noodles (optional)

In bowl, combine beef, pork, onion, seasonings, crumbs and water. Shape into 1-1/4 inch balls and place on rack over baking pan. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes.

Meanwhile, to make sauce, melt butter in large skillet. Blend in flour and cook, stirring constantly, 2-3 minutes.

Add broth, stirring until thickened, about 3-4 minutes. Stir in dill and meatballs. Reduce heat to low and simmer 15 minutes.

Pour in cream and continue stirring until thickened and smooth, about 15 minutes.

Serve over noodles, if desired, or as an appetizer with wood picks

Geneva Nelson of Warroad sent me the following rhubarb recipes. Both of them sound good.

Geneva says these bars are delicious – they are made with rhubarb and cherry pie filling – make them for the family this weekend:

RHUBARB CRUNCH BARS
1 cup quick oatmeal
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup flour
3 cups rhubarb, diced
1 cup water
1 cup white sugar
1/4 cup cornstarch
1 teaspoon almond extract
1 can cherry pie filling

Mix oatmeal, brown sugar, flour and butter. Pat half in 9x13 inch pan, reserving other half. Place diced rhubarb over the crust.

Boil white sugar, water and cornstarch and cook until thick. Add almond extract and cherry pie filling. Spoon over rhubarb.

(Geneva – you forgot the cornstarch but I figured out it should have about 1/4 cup, judging by same other recipes. I hope I'm right or everybody will have runny bars.)

Sprinkle with reserved oatmeal mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Here is Geneva's other recipe, filled with good things and lots of vitamin C for you. What a good way to take a spring tonic:

RHUBARB SMOOTHIE (SPRING TONIC)
3 cups fresh or frozen rhubarb
1 cup fresh or frozen strawberries
1/4 cup water
1/4 cup honey

Put all ingredients in blender and puree until smooth. Serves 4 with 2/3 cup each. Each serving contains 134 calories.

Legal help available for disaster victims

Volunteer attorneys are providing free, disaster-related legal assistance to individuals affected by the June 9-28 floods. The service, coordinated through the American Bar Association (ABA) Young Lawyers Division and the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), is available by calling 1-800-467-0385 from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Persons in the disaster counties may ask for help with flood-related questions about insurance claims, home repair contracts, consumer protection matters, landlord-tenant concerns, mortgage foreclosure and debt collection problems. Advice or referrals are also provided for replacing wills, drafting powers of attorney and other important legal documents damaged or lost in the flood.

"We are committed to using our abilities and resources to help victims of this disaster," said Tami Schroeder, Young Lawyers Division District 17 representative-elect for Minnesota and Wisconsin. "As members of the bar, we have an obligation to provide public service and promote the public interest, especially in difficult times."

The federal disaster declaration for individual assistance covers the counties of Becker, Clearwater, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Red Lake and Roseau.

Lamb program application deadline set

Farm Service Agency State Executive Director John Monson reminds lamb producers that Year 3 of the Lamb Meat Adjustment Assistance Program (LMAAP) will end July 31. "Applications for payment for feeder or slaughter lamb sales, and ewe lambs retained or purchased in Year 3, must be filed at a producer's county office on or before August 15, 2002. Year 3 of the program started August 1, 2001, and ends July 31, 2002."

Feeder lambs are eligible for a $3 per head payment. Slaughter lambs are eligible for a $5 per head payment, with an additional $3 paid for eligible lambs sold in June and July of the program year. Qualifying ewe lambs are eligible for an $18 per head payment.

Agricultural Marketing Service notification of feeder lamb sales is required two working days, plus a 24-hour holding period, prior to the date of sale. Slaughter lamb eligibility must be certified by an Agricultural Marketing Service representative at the slaughter location.

The offspring waiver for eligible ewe lambs expires with the Year 3 program deadline. Starting August 1, 2002, ewe lambs must meet all eligibility criteria to be eligible for payment.

Sheep and lamb producers should contact the Pennington County FSA office at 681-1612, extension 2, for additional information on eligibility and application requirements.

Crookston cancer support group to meet July 9

The Crookston area cancer support group will hold its next meeting on July 9 at 3:30 in the board room of Riverview Hospital. The group is open to people with cancer and their families.

Wheat discount rates to change

The Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) announced changes in the discount schedule on wheat loans which will impact loan and settlement rates. The changes are effective July 1, and impact all crop year warehouse loans and farm stored loans delivered to CCC in settlement of the loan requirements.

Discounts will apply to Hard Red Spring Wheat and Durum loan rates for falling numbers below 300. All wheat will be discounted if they contain vomitoxin levels greater than 2 parts per million. Durum loan rates will be discounted for hard and vitreous amber color for levels below 60.

The schedule of premium and discounts for all loan commodities is available at all local FSA offices.

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.
Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two-man crew, saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Voters should consider development issues

As election time approaches, it's time for voters to begin considering what issues are important to them. In northwestern Minnesota we have many issues to choose from, but of critical importance is how to retain and attract people to the region. Of course, we should also consider the creation of plans to prevent future flooding, least our good citizens drown or float away.

Census figures show that the population base continues its gradual decline in agricultural areas of our region, enrollment figures show a continual decline, as well. If these trends continue, residents of northwestern Minnesota will face severe labor shortages in the future.

This conclusion is supported recently by a study conducted by Northwest Minnesota Foundation. According to Executive Director John S. Ostrem, the foundation has been involved in several research efforts during the past year in order to gain a better understanding of this and other regional trends and issues.

This same conclusion was reached by a study supported by local businesses and conducted by the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development.

At a time when budgets are strained to the limit, it may seem frivolous to even consider spending money on such things as parks, pools, affordable housing, supporting retail outlets and school buildings. But, the very residents we wish to serve by frugal spending of taxpayer dollars, are the same ones who have said our region needs these things to survive.

Northwest Minnesota communities should take the advice offered by the Northwest Minnesota Foundation, its businesses and residents to redouble efforts at improving the special amenities that will make our area attractive. As a recent letter from Northwest Minnesota Foundation stated, "This means maintaining and improving our schools, supporting affordable housing, protecting and enhancing our natural resources, and supporting effective community leadership."

Subsidizing Amtrak is no big deal

The fact that we are asked to subsidize Amtrak should not be a major concern, especially when placed in context with other forms of subsidized transportation. As taxpayers, we subsidize the construction of roads and highways, and either directly or indirectly, subsidize the airline industry, and other forms of transportation. What taxpayers should be concerned about is whether the service they receive from Amtrak is adequate and what its service does or could do to alleviate transportation problems in the United States.

There still remains a need for Amtrak in the United States. According to AP reports, Amtrak trains carry about 65,000 riders each day–half of which are on the East Coast. Nonetheless, the elimination of, or further reductions to service, could cause significant and unbearable burdens upon other transportation systems, as well as to the general traveling public.

Last week the Bush administration reached a tentative agreement on a plan for resolving a $200 million budget crisis that could have shut down the national passenger railroad this week. A more permanent solution is needed. A solution, however, won't be found by addressing the subsidy question. It will be accomplished by addressing how to encourage residents to use rail transportation. I suspect that will mean improving scheduling and the number of trains, among others. It certainly won't mean a reduction in subsidies.

By answering these questions, I think the nation may very well be addressing how to best solve its transportation problems.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively. Letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

I have never been more impressed with my friends and neighbors in this community than I was over the past few weeks. In the face of disaster, people from all across northwest Minnesota came together to help protect our homes, businesses and farms.

I would like to personally thank the many volunteers who offered their help and worked tirelessly to protect our community. Because of your efforts, we were able to hold the line against some of the flood damage.

Despite all these efforts, many people have seen devastating damage to their homes or businesses. As you know, President Bush has declared Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Kittson, Pennington, Polk, Marshall counties a federal disaster area, and there are now federal assistance funds available. For more information about this assistance, call 1-800-621-FEMA (1-800-621-3362).

It can be discouraging to think about the massive clean-up effort that is in front of us. But judging from the wonderful work ethic and community spirit that I've seen from all of you over the past few weeks, I know we'll get through this.

Sincerely,
Maxine Penas
State Representative

Marshall County Fair to run July 10-14

Live music, fair rides, stock car racing and a fireworks display are just some of the events at the Marshall County Fair in Warren July 10-14. The schedule is laid out like this:

Wednesday - A fair kickoff parade will be held at 6:30 p.m. Afterwards, Cathy Erickson will play music for dancing in the main museum building. The Hewitt Sisters of Lancaster will perform a free concert at 8 p.m.

Thursday - The female barbershop quartet Whistle Stop of Grand Forks will perform a free concert at 6 p.m. There will be stock car racing at the grandstand at 7 p.m. Also at 7 will be a 4-H open class dog show and training clinic.

Friday - A kids' contest will begin at 1. A senior citizen's program will take place at 2--outstanding senior citizens will be recognized here. A 4-H program will be held at 6 p.m. The annual talent contest will begin at 7:30 p.m. on Friday. Fireworks will be set off for a display beginning around 10:30 p.m.

Saturday - Living history presentations will run from 1-4 p.m. at the Settler's Square Museum adjacent to the fairgrounds. A miniature horse show will take place at 3. The 2 Loises of Middle River will sing at 6, and a demolition derby will be held at 6:30. Warren-area Christian rock group Sanstrack will perform at 9 p.m.

Sunday - An interdenominational church service will be held Sunday at 9:30 a.m. in the grandstand featuring singer Rob Lutz. Team sorting will take place at noon, and motocross racing will begin at 2 p.m. Also at 2, Loiell Dyrud of Thief River Falls will give a talk on what it was like to be an early-day minister. Rev. Kenneth Thoreson from Our Savior's in Argyle will provide music for Dyrud's presentation.

Continuous: The Knights of Columbus will be hosting a Bingo game in their Bingo hall from 2-9 p.m. Thursday-Sunday. The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources will have a display of wildlife at the Little Red Barn for the duration of the fair. The Rogers Brothers Carnival rides will run from 6-11 p.m. Wednesday, 3-11 p.m. Thursday, noon to midnight Friday and Saturday and noon to 8 p.m. Sunday. A wristband for ride admission for the duration of the fair will cost $30, while day passes can be purchased for $15 in advance and $18 at the event. Area businesses will be selling the $15 day passes.

TRF Crazy Day preparations underway

Preparations are underway for the Thief River Falls Annual Crazy Day Sidewalk Sale. The event has been scheduled this year for Thursday, July 25. In addition to business booths, Thief River Falls Business Boosters are encouraging the addition of craft booths during the sidewalk sale this year.

Business Boosters are attempting to generate additional interest in the event. Nonprofit organizations are also invited to participate free of charge in Crazy Days events by holding fundraisers downtown. Examples of fundraisers could include such things as face painting, fishing pond, dunking stand, kids games or by having a food booth to sell things such as popcorn, pop, cotton candy and hot dogs.

Events planned for the day also include the Crazy Frisbee toss at 7 a.m. and at 5 p.m. on LaBree Avenue. There will be food booths, musical entertainment throughout the day, and crazy clerks in crazy costumes. In addition, the Hewitt Sisters Band will perform in the gazebo at 7 p.m.

The cost for booth space is $25. To reserve a booth or obtain additional information about this event, contact the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce at 681-3720. The event will be held from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday, July 25.

Taking the 4th As It Comes

The July 4th holiday is a traditionally slow one for the local fishing industry. Oh, a lot of people go out and fish, but most of it's done on their own, in their own boats, at their own pace. There are very few, if any, guided trips planned for that early chunk of July time. For years, I beat my head against the local dock-posts and tore my shirt in animated frustration over this glaring annual gap in my summer income, trying to decide what could be done to drag in some business. But the unsightly welts that were left on my brow and the rapid diminishment of a once abundant and fairly pricey wardrobe forced me to accept what was "Que Sera" as Debbie Reynolds used to say. (Literally translated- "Of course I'll take lots of money and a bunch of fame in exchange for setting the women's movement back a few decades".)

So, rather than continue to fight against what has become a seasonal inevitability, this July 4th I spent a few days simply kicking back and taking in just what the public did elsewhere when they weren't up fishing with me.

Now, right off the top you have to realize that we're only dealing with two thirds of the American public. The other 33 percent, you see, had been successfully lured by an aggressive ABC ad campaign into viewing some of the World Cup Soccer championship that concluded a day or two before the holiday festivities were to begin. Those people were asleep. As a matter of fact, they're still asleep, days later. Watching soccer on TV gives a whole new and exhilarating meaning to the notion of watching paint dry. No wonder those English fans are always beating the crap out of each other–they have to watch that stuff in person. I'd be irate, too, if I paid full ticket price for a "football" ticket and was served up that game. And as far as getting my kids into that sport, what self-respecting American parent would be able to look his child in the eye and tell them to be happy playing a sport that can be outfitted for under 50 bucks? I want the special bond that only comes with purchasing a son's or daughter's undying love. Give me the assurances of that $1,000 hockey price-tag any day.

Much of the rest of the potential client base seemed to be off on visits to relatives. I question the appeal there and assume that blood-line obligation becomes more of a motivational factor (In other words, attend or be stricken from the will). The 4th, like Thanksgiving and Easter, is one of those holidays that demands you spend time pretending to laugh uncontrollably at Uncle Rocky's stale and rehashed joke repertoire or raving over Aunt Gert's stale and eventually uncontrollable raccoon hash. There is the occasional fit of genuine excitement, however, when the younger cousins sneak into the woods to light off illicitly procured fireworks. The excitement usually stems not from the pitiful pops and whirrs that flit feebly through the backyard, but by the screams and sirens that highlight the trip to the local hospital for finger replacement or eye patching.

Which brings us to the usual 4th of July big ticket item–the fireworks. It's 10 p.m. on a festive, party oriented holiday. Large numbers of people who have spent the last eight hours drinking prodigious quantities of Kickapoo Joy Juice hop in their cars and weave their .12 way to a central location to get as close as they possibly can to thunderously dangerous exploding balls of gunpowder. Where else in the world but America does anyone celebrate their cultural existence with such fervor and reckless abandonment?

Besides downtown Jerusalem, that is. Oh, yeah, and most of the Gaza Strip. And, well, I suppose the rest of the Mid-East. Well, sure a large part of the African continent. Pakistan and India-right. I guess I can't omit the English and Brazilian soccer fans and …

And then there are a few who just use the 4th of July time to catch up personally and domestically. You know, a bunch of chores around the house and a few hours with the kids at the beach and then a quick nine holes before hustling home to mow the lawn before the sun goes down. That seems just fine to me for the usual July 4th, except that it muddles the line between daily living and celebrating and, being the country's birthday combined with the Sept. 11 mess and our newfound nationalism and all, it seemed like I should be a little more out on the edge this year.

So I did something edgy and unprecedented for this household. I went fishing. No, no, not guiding. Fishing. And I took my family along. No concerns about profit. No guilt about distant relatives. Of course I had to wake my wife up to get her to go. She'd inadvertently scrolled the channel changer past quarterfinal World Cup coverage and fallen into a slumber five days prior. And the kids were happy to go–they never liked raccoon anyway.

I wonder if I charge them next year they'll still come along.

Minnesota counties not included in CRP release

Minnesota counties are not currently included in the July 2 announcement of the drought-approved counties nationwide that have been approved for emergency haying of Conservation Reserve Program acres, stated Farm Service Agency Director John Monson.

Counties throughout the country continue to be approved for emergency CRP haying and grazing. Generally, to be approved for emergency haying and grazing, a county must have suffered at least a 40 percent or grater loss in normal hay and pasture production. In addition, precipitation for the four most recent months must be 40 percent above or below the county's normal average. At least 50 percent of the CRP contract acreage must be left unhayed for wildlife and hay harvested from CRP acreage may not be sold. Producers should check with their local FSA office to determine which counties are approved for haying and grazing.

CRP offers annual rental payments and cost-share assistance to establish long-term, resource-conserving cover on eligible land. USDA will monitor producers to ensure the land is safely hayed and grazed without damaging conservation covers.

Senior Citizens urged to enter quilt contest

Senior Citizens are being encouraged to enter a quilt-block contest for Senior Citizens Day at the Pennington County Fair.

Shannon Olson said entries should be eight-inch by eight-inch quilt blocks that highlight the theme of Senior Citizen's Day at the fair – "Spirit of America." The blocks will not be returned, but if enough eight-inch blocks are received, they will be used to make a master quilt. The master quilt will then be donated to a charitable organization. First through third place prizes, and a grand prize, will be awarded. The entry deadline is July 15. Prizes will be announced during the Senior Citizen Day program at the Pennington County Fair on Friday, July 19.

For more information about the quilt block contest, contact Shannon Olson at the Heritage Community Center, 681-2793.

New date selected for manufacturing forum and golf tournament

Manufacturing forum and golf tournament coordinated by the Custom Training and Continuing Education Department at Northland Community and Technical College, weathered out June 13, has been rescheduled for Friday, July 19.

The event will start at 8 a.m. with workshops, lunch and industry tour of Arctic Cat, Inc.

A shot gun start for a nine-hole scramble format tournament at the Thief River Golf Club begins at 2:20 p.m.

Brats and burgers will be served, awards and prizes will be presented and a social will be held following the completion of the golf tournament.

Cost is $75 per participant. Advance registration is requested.

To register, or for additional information, contact the NCTC Custom Training Department at 218-681-0793.

Blues handle Post 117 squad

East Grand Forks is the defending Ninth District American Legion champion, and Fergus Falls won the Section 8AAA high school tournament title this spring. But Moorhead, according to Thief River Falls coach Jamie McEnelly, might be the best baseball team Post 117 will face this summer.

The perennially-strong Blues impressed McEnelly Tuesday when they out-hit his team 20-5 and out-scored his club 18-1 in a doubleheader sweep at Matson Field.

Moorhead won the opener 11-1 in six innings and took the nightcap 7-0 in full-distance seven-inning fashion.

Thief River Falls lost both ends of a June 18 doubleheader against East Grand Forks 14-3, 8-3, while wet weather erased a scheduled Post 117 trip to Fergus Falls.

"We haven't played Fergus Falls, but Moorhead is the best team I've seen," offered McEnelly. "They (Blues) have a nice team. They had good pitchers, and their first four hitters are very good. Actually, they're solid throughout the whole line-up."

Thief River Falls had won five of its previous six starts and took a 10-11 record to Moorhead. But Post 117 was no match for the Blues, who had a 10-2 first-game base hit advantage and enjoyed a similar 10-3 hit department edge in Game 2.

Josh Langlie, making his first pitching start since coming off a stay on the injury list, was tagged with the Game 1 loss. Second-game pitcher Ben Weigelt surrendered five first-inning runs, then limited the Blues to just two more runs the rest of the way.

"Josh hadn't pitched in a while," pointed out McEnelly. "Ben gave up those runs early, but he pitched well after that."

The trip to Moorhead completed a string of 12-straight road games for Thief River Falls. Post 117 returns to the Multi-Events Center Monday for a 4 p.m. doubleheader against Perham.

Thief River Falls will be back on the road Tuesday with a 5 p.m. twin-bill at Red Lake Falls before finally getting a look at Fergus Falls Friday in a pair of games at the Multi-Events Center starting at 5 p.m.

The Multi-Events Center is also scheduled to host the annual Tony Sipe All-Star game Wednesday beginning at 5:30 p.m. The game showcases seniors from area Division I and Division II Legion programs. Ironically, host Post 117 fields a young squad this year and doesn't have an eligible player for the game.

Deer hunting survey done locally

Surprised at the results of a Department of Natural Resources-conducted deer management survey, Clyde Stephens of Greenbush decided to launch his own fact-finding mission that sought opinions of deer hunters in northwest Minnesota.

"Last fall, the Minnesota DNR conducted a survey regarding deer management," said Stephens in a cover letter that accompanied his questionnaire. "A total of 917 telephone surveys were completed, at random, to deer hunters throughout the state. The DNR was trying to determine if hunters are ready for a change in deer management to one that would allow more bucks to reach maturity."

Results of that survey, pointed out Stephens, showed that the majority of deer hunters are satisfied with the current management program. "This was surprising, and far from the results I was expecting," he said. "So I decided to do my own survey of deer hunters in our region."

Stephens' aim was to contact over 12,000 people with his independent survey. He received 486 responses.

Much of his questionnaire was concerned with the concept of Quality Deer Management (QDM), where emphasis is given to protect young bucks so a higher percentage grow to maturity. Legal bucks would need to have a minimum antler size or width before they could be shot. Under the current program, noted Stephens, 80 to 90 percent of Minnesota bucks are harvested as yearlings.

Second major component of QDM, pointed out Stephens, is to strike the appropriate balance of bucks and does within the herd. "The current Minnesota deer population is large, but with too many does in the herd," he said. "With QDM, the number of does would be reduced and replaced with bucks that are currently being harvested. The end result is not to increase overall deer numbers, but to better balance the herd."

Stephens pointed out that in 1999, the DNR published an article in their rules and regulations book stating that one of the best places to hunt for mature bucks was in the seven-county Metro area. "Until recently, most of the Twin Cities area has been off-limits for deer hunting," explained Stephens. "By restricting hunting on all deer, they inadvertently created some of the best buck hunting in the state. With QDM, this could happen throughout the state."

Several areas in the U.S. are utilizing QDM with very good results," mentioned Stephens. "In Georgia, Dooley County, a three-year pilot program utilizing QDM, has had dramatic results. When the pilot program began, 66 percent of deer hunters were in favor of change. After three years, over 90 percent approved QDM. Now, 10 counties in Georgia have implemented what they call trophy management. Georgia is now considering a state-wide QDM program."

In promoting the QDM program, Stephens wrote: "I believe Minnesota has the potential to grow many mature bucks. However, this will not happen under the current system. With QDM, the potential for making a buck of a lifetime experience could happen several times in a life. This is a concept that could revolutionize deer hunting in Minnesota."

Survey Questions/Results

Q: Number of years you have hunted deer?
A: Average 29.0 years

Q: Are you happy with the Department of Natural Resources current deer management program in Minnesota?
A: yes - 11 percent, no - 83 percent, don't care - 5 percent

Q: At this point are you at all interested in QDM?
A: yes - 99 percent, no - 9 percent.

Q: Are you satisfied with the number of adult/large bucks in your area last season? (Lets call the bucks at least eight pointers and a 16-inch outside spread, this deer should scored around 140 points or better)
A: yes - 13 percent, no - 69 percent.

Q: How would you describe your hunting style?
A: 30 percent hunt for large bucks all season; 27 percent hunt for large bucks early, but will shoot any buck/legal deer in late season; 15 percent hunt for any buck early and will shoot any deer in late-season; 10 percent hunt for any deer all season, shooting the first legal deer; 2 percent would rather shoot a fawn

Q: On opening day, how does the thought of seeing a mature buck make you feel?
A: Very excited - 80 percent, mildly excited - 15 percent, don't care - 1 percent, rather shoot any deer - 2 percent.

Q: How do you feel about initiating regulations protecting the younger bucks so as to provide a definite increase in the number of mature bucks available?
A: Very interested - 79 percent, mildly interested - 17 percent, don't want to change anything - 0 percent

Q: How many mature bucks (bucks scoring in the above-mentioned 140-point range) have you taken in your lifetime?
A: 95 percent of respondents have taken two or less.

Q: How do you feel QDM, if initiated, should be applied?
A: State wide - 51 percent, county wide - 10 percent, zone wide - 30 percent, opposed to all QDM - 9 percent

Q: Would you like to see a QDM pilot program in your hunting area, say for three to five years, to further evaluate this concept?
A: yes - 69 percent, no - 11 percent.

Q: If QDM was implemented in your hunting area, would you like to see an extended season in order to allow more time to pursue the mature bucks?
A: yes - 52 percent, no - 39 percent, don't care - 9 percent

Q: If your answer to No. 13 (the last question) was yes, how long would you like to see rifle season?
A: Average answer - 24.9 days

Q: In regards to doe tags, currently hunters with a doe tag can shoot a buck if they choose. It could be said that this current style does not meet the purpose of the doe tag. Do you agree?
A: No change needed - 15 percent, doe tags should be strictly for does - 73 percent

Q: Did you or anyone you know receive a DNR survey last fall?
A: Yes - 2 percent, no - 98 percent.

Rain, Bugs, Moose?

Wet weather has an impact on area wildlife too

water is starting to go down at the refuge. He estimated that it was dropping by about one-tenth of an inch each day. Interestingly, the waters crested at one-tenth of an inch shy of the highest level in 1997, which put flood waters just about over the bridge at the west entrance of the refuge. Because of high water, the county also created a windrow of gravel on the north side of the road, which reduced traffic to one lane on the gravel road. Although slowly receding, all of the impoundments are full.

Tischert agreed that the geese are fine. The goslings had hatched out already. The duck nests, however, were flooded out. Some mallard broods had hatched but other species were completely flooded out. Tischert said he has observed ducks pairing up and attempting a second effort.

Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge has been host to studies regarding the American and Least Bittern. All of these nests were flooded out. But, Tischert said they seem to be looking for new nests.

Nests of the Black-crowned night herons had been flooded out, as well. Tischert said it didn't look like they were attempting to re-nest.

In all, almost all shore bird nests were flooded out, and many were not attempting to re-nest.

The flooding has had an impact on mammals, as well. Tischert said he has observed dead baby beavers on the roads and suspect that many were flooded out. In addition to vehicles, they also became very vulnerable to predators. Many muskrats suffered the same fate.

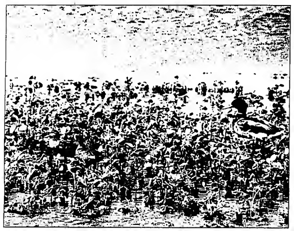
There has been one sighting of a bear with two cubs. Usually the water isn't much of a problem for them, but they also seek out dry areas.

Tischert said he feels deer and moose will be okay. The high water is really just an inconvenience.

When asked about affect insects might have on animals, Tischert said, "There has been a terrifically good crop of bugs." Tischert said the bugs have probably taken their toll on animals as well.

In general, impoundments at the refuge are full. Soil moisture is such that some trees are falling. There have been some road washouts, and Tischert expects that they will apply for some federal flood dollars.

High water surrounded the lookout at Agassiz National Wildlife Park. Officials say many shoreland bird nests and duck nests were lost in the flooding.



Aging conference to be held August 7 at UMC

The Fall Conference on Aging will take place August 7 at the University of Minnesota's Crookston campus, and transportation will be available through the Tri-Valley program and Roseau County Area Transportation.

Those wishing to take advantage of that transportation should call Tri-Valley at (800) 584-7020 or RCAT at (218) 463-3238.

Residents of Kittson County can ride a bus sponsored by the Kittson Memorial Health Center. They can be reached at (218) 843-3612.

Deadline to sign up for the conference is August 1. To sign up, call (800) 333-2433.

Nests of shorebirds and ducks were destroyed by recent flooding. Wildlife officials believe many shorebirds and ducks will re-nest.

"OUR PEOPLE MAKE THE DIFFERENCE"

Watershed emergency assistance available

The Natural Resources Conservation Service, an agency in the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is accepting requests for disaster recovery assistance through its Emergency Watershed Protection (EWP) program.

The EWP program is meant for relieving imminent hazards to life and property from floods, tornadoes, and other natural disasters that suddenly impair a watershed. Examples of work completed under the EWP program in the past include debris removal from stream channels and reshaping and protecting eroding streambanks that endanger homes, businesses, roads, or utilities.

The program can only be used to solve problems that were caused by this storm event. The EWP funds cannot be used for maintenance work, or to repair transportation facilities or utilities. The Emergency Watershed Program cannot be used to protect cropland or pasture. NRCS can pay up to 75 percent of the cost of emergency work. Local sponsors are responsible for the remaining 25 percent, which can be in cash or in-kind services. Public and private landowners are eligible for assistance but they must be represented by a sponsoring local unit of government such as a township, city, county or watershed district.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has a policy of not providing assistance for work that is eligible for other federal programs such as EWP. If there are damages that may be eligible for the EWP program, local units of government are encouraged to submit a request for assistance to the NRCS.

The deadline for requesting assistance under the EWP program in Pennington County for this event is August 8, 2002.

Contact your local USDA NRCS office for more information on the EWP program. In Pennington County, call 218-681-1612, extension 3.

fine. He has also been charged with several lesser counts. "We anticipate that when it's completed ... there [will be] severe penalties," Geller said.

According to Arlt, methamphetamine is the most popular drug on the market today. "It's our number one drug, and it's our number one priority to get it out of here," he said at a press conference on Wednesday.

Arlt also noted numerous electronics found at Noyes' home, but he did not know if they were stolen or not.

"This is a big arrest," said Arlt. He said the Red Lake County Sheriff's office is working with the Northwest Drug Task Force to make arrests of several known associates of Noyes.

Pennington Co. Fair starts Tues.

The 101st annual county fair in Pennington County begins on Tuesday, July 16. Kicking off this year's celebration is the dedication of the grandstand at the fairgrounds.

After years of planning and hard work and lots of donations, the 2,500-seat grandstand is finally a reality. The new grandstand promises to help residents and visitors to the fairgrounds enjoy all the events and attractions scheduled for grandstand appearances. This year's line up includes a motocross on Wednesday, an ATV mud run Saturday afternoon, bullriding Friday and Saturday evenings, and the annual demolition derby on Sunday. But kicking-off this years events will be a grandstand dedication ceremony on Tuesday night. A reception for invited guests will be held at 5:30 p.m., but the ribbon cutting and dedication ceremonies that will be open to the public begin at 7:30 p.m. At 8 p.m., the fair association has secured a concert by the Roosters.

Many activities have been planned for this year's fair including a parade Saturday that winds through downtown Thief River Falls beginning at 10 a.m. Fairgoers will also enjoy a large fireworks display at the fairgrounds on Saturday.

Plenty of free attractions are in store for fairgoers, including performances at the bandshell. Gospel music night on Wednesday, but beginning Thursday there will be performances by the Cathy Erickson Band, Billy Yates, the Hewitt Sisters, Just Kruz'n, a hypnotist, and magic show. These performances are supported by proceeds from the sale of raffle tickets that can be purchased from fair board members.

Grand Passes, good for admission to all grandstand events, are also on sale at local retailers until noon on Wednesday, July 17. Supplies are limited so check with the local retailers listed in the County Fair advertisement. Tickets cost $25 per adult, and $15 for children 12 and under. Tickets can also be purchased separately for each event at the grandstand.

This year's Midway attraction will be provided by Rogers Brothers' Funland.

As always, attractions at the fair will include a large number of 4-H and Open class displays and demonstrations filling the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center, and spilling over into the Curling building and the barns and stables at the fairgrounds.

If 4-H numbers are any indication of interest, registrations will be way up this year. According to the University of Minnesota Extension Service office in Pennington County, there are 152 exhibitors entered with 465 exhibits, and 139 animals. Last year, there were 135

A new resident in Oklee

Oklee-Alone in his native land of Uganda, Roger Lubega faced continued poverty and economic uncertainty. In 1972 his father and two sisters (one of which was a twin to Roger) had immigrated to Canada. At age 27, the thought of going to America seemed like the right thing to do. In October of 1986, Roger boarded a plane and headed for the United States.

Roger reflected, "In America if you want a good job, you go to school. Everyone here has the same oportunity. There are no opportunities in Uganda--no government assistance." -The Oklee Herald, July 11, 2002

Airport project still in the air

Fosston-"We're spending a million dollars on this runway project," Fosston attorney Rick Mollin reminded his fellow Airport Commission members Tuesday, July 2, at their meeting. "We ought to get a reasonable job done."

By "reasonable," the commission expected timely and quality finished work. Neither, however, is surfacing on the runway project that was projected to be completed in the fall of last year.

And now, the repair of cracks in the asphalt that was laid on the runway last fall is at a standstill. -The Thirteen Towns, July 9, 2002

Kittson County has new ballot counter

Kittson County-All night vote tallying during elections will be a thing of the past in Kittson County.

Auditor Marilyn Gustafson is happy to report that, with the addition of a Central Count Ballot Scanner, she and her staff won't be working the next day after little or no sleep.

The machine is capable of scanning each precinct's ballots in a matter of seconds.

Now there will be no separate city, school or amendment ballots. Only one ballot in each precinct will list all of the offices and each precinct will have only one ballot box--all the same--metal locked ballot boxes. -Lori Botlum, North Star News, July 11, 2002

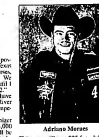
World champion to attend TRF Bullride

"Thunder on Hooves Bullride," a Professional Bull Riders sanctioned event, will return to the Pennington County Fairgrounds July 19 and 20. Shows begin at 7 p.m. each evening.

by Andy Cummings
Reporter

Many of the world's best professional bullriders are registered to compete at the Pennington County Fair on the evenings of July 19 and 20. Among them will be Adriano Moraes of Brazil, reigning world champion.

Forty-five professional riders are scheduled to take the ring each night, competing for some of the biggest prizes nationwide in the world of bullriding.



The event's color commentator will be world-famous bull riding announcer and former bull riding champion Donnie Gay. Accompanying him will be KTRF's Mark Allen.

Moraes was raised on a ranch in Brazil, where he and his brother, Andre, enjoyed riding animals and trying to hold on for as long as possible. He told the Fort Worth, Texas Star-Telegram, "We'd ride horses, ride steers, ride everything. We never realized rodeo existed until I was 15 and [my brother] was 12."

Adriano and Andre Moraes have both signed up for the Thief River Falls "Thunder on Hooves" competition.

According to event organizer Norrie Thune, there is $43,000 worth of prize money that will be disbursed to winners of the bullride, including about $13,000 to the rider who takes first place.

Admission to the event is $15 for adults and $10 for children each night. There will also be a "grand pass" available which will give access for all grandstand events.

Adriano Moraes

This pass will cost $25 for adults or $15 for children.

Grand passes can be purchased at Pennington Square, Pennington Main, Erl's Market, Eagle Square in Red Lake Falls or through the Chamber of Commerce at (218) 681-3720.

Adopting wild horses

Horses and burros auctioned off at Alerus Center in G.F.

by Andy Cummings
Reporter

Mark Struble works for the United States Bureau of Land Management near Carson City, Nev. "We literally have wild horses that come and look in our window there," he said.

And that's part of the problem. Wild horses, which are descendants of domestic horses that escaped or were released, have become so adept at survival and reproduction in the West that they outeat their habitat.

That's why Struble was in Grand Forks, N.D. on Tuesday preparing to auction off 110 horses and 40 burros captured from BLM lands. The auction took place on Thursday and Friday, with horses not auctioned off during those times available at a discount Saturday morning.

Valley City, N.D.'s Mandy Maasje, 16, is here with Nevada, a horse her parents adopted at a BLM auction last year. "They're not too much different [from domesticated horses]-they just notice small changes more," she said.

Struble says these horses tend to be more aware of their surroundings than horses that have been domesticated their whole lives. "If those horses were still in the wild, they'd have to worry about a mountain lion sneaking up on them," he points out.

Nancy Bjelland is from the BLM's Dickinson, N.D office. "These are wild animals, and people need to know that when they take them home they're still going to be wild animals," she says.

Denton Bemston of Nome, N.D. is here with Lucy, a horse he adopted from the BLM in 1998. He said of the mustangs, "Some take to [domestication] real easy and some you gotta work at it. But they all come around."

Potential adopters must meet certain requirements before being approved for adoption. They must:
- be 18 years of age or older,
- be a U.S. citizen,

This picture of Maud and Ole Gjerde, which was framed by pink peonies, was on display at the Nobel Post Office on July 4.

What would you do with a pen?

Remembering the importance of the post office of the past

by David Hill
Editor

To the Gjerde family and many of their friends, the Fourth of July means gathering at the Gjerde family homestead and old Nobel Post Office west of Thief River Falls to enjoy a barbecue and reminisce with friends.

History of the homestead, its occupants and the Nobel Post Office have always been special to family and friends. While this year the Fourth of July may have meant something more to others because of 9-11, the Gjerdes made it even more special by dedicating a plaque commemorating the 100th anniversary of the Nobel Post Office.

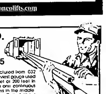
The Nobel Post Office faded into memory back in 1923 when it was merged with the Angus Post Office, which is why many may not recall the post office. But while it was a post office from 1902 to 1923, it has been a home for much longer.

Eric Gjerde explained that Johannes Gjerde came to the United States from Norway in 1895. The family established a homestead near the Melo Church in what is now Helgeland Township. Ole Gjerde, Johannes' son, who was born in Norway established his residence in 1898. It was Ole who decided that they needed a post office, and it was Ole who made it happen and became the first postmaster in Nobel. What was Nobel? Nobel was a location on a map. There was a small rural school nearby, and the Melo church, but apparently there were enough residents living in the area to justify establishing a post office. And so, the government established a post office in Ole Gjerde's house.

"Part of the reason we gather here each year," said Al Gjerde during the dedication ceremony, "is to honor those who came here and left us with this land." Gjerde said they also keep the tradition alive because of all the friendships they developed in this country-lasting friendships.

Ole seemed to have kept the post office duties separate from his home, and carefully followed regulations. Eric said Ole kept the post office on the second floor of the home, but it was a comfortable situation because people stopped by for coffee and their mail.

Once up the narrow staircase, visitors found their mail in wooden slots on a wall. The room also tools hanging on the wall, which Ole used for some of his projects. Thick books of receipts, reams of paperwork, and a thick book of "Postal Laws and Regulations," 1902 edition, still fill files and tables of the small room.



"It's amazing that they had this

Warroad raises dike as Lake of the Woods continues to rise

The City of Warroad raised its dike on Monday in an attempt to keep the waters of the Lake of the Woods from flooding the city.

Warroad Police Chief Lawrence Wright said, "I think that if we have a burst of rain or a wind, we could be running water against the dike. Right now, the water hasn't reached the dike. We're looking at a level of 1,063 [feet] as being the crest." In preparation for that, dike levels have been raised to 1,065 feet in most areas.

Some parts of the dike have also been raised to 1,067 feet to protect against wave action.

Wright noted that one of the big variables will be wind. He says that the lake fell nearly six inches after yesterday's east wind died down.

The dike extensions will remain in place until city leaders are comfortable that the lake is no longer a threat. Wright says that could be three weeks or longer, depending mostly on rainfall in the coming weeks.

Strandquist planning meeting

Kathy Coyle, a USDA Rural Development specialist, will meet with residents of Strandquist to continue discussions on what the future holds like for the town.

They will also be discussing and starting to make plans for the Strandquist Centennial, which is set for June 24-27, 2004.

Anyone who has old pictures of Strandquist, its people or businesses please contact Shirley Lefrooth at (218) 597-2680. They are also looking for interesting stories for the history book.

All residents are invited to attend the meeting which will be held on July 21 at 3 p.m. at the Strandquist Community Center.

Two plead guilty to drug charges in District Court

Seven firearms, including a loaded Ruger .22 rifle, were observed during a search Dec. 19, 2001, while a confidential informant attempted to buy drugs.

Two men were charged and both men pleaded guilty July 2 in District Court.

Jason Richard Barrett, 22, of Oklee was charged with fourth degree controlled substance sale and fifth degree controlled substance posession. He pleaded guilty to an amended charge of fifth degree controlled substance sale; count 2 was dismissed.

Eric Anthony Lindemoen, 22, of Oklee was charged with a controlled substance crime in the fourth degree - sale of marijuana in a school zone and controlled substance crime in the first degree - posession of marijuana. - Jody Kenfield, Red Lake Falls Gazette, July 10, 2002 exhibitors with 424 exhibits and 99 animals. If this year's numbers hold true, this will be one of the biggest 4-H years in several years.

Parking

Parking is a big concern this year. The traditional parking lot is now the home of the Ralph Engelstad Arena, and that's still under construction. The main parking area this year will be located behind the grandstand. The area south of the grandstand, and the road into the fairgrounds will be limited access only.

The second main parking lot will be on railroad property north of the American Legion.

Individuals are reminded not to park in the Enbridge or former Lakehead Pipe Line lot.

Parking costs $2 per day or $5 for the entire fair. There will be no free parking for exhibitors or workers.

Parking for individuals with handicaps will be located on the southeast corner of the arena where it was last year.

Officials are stating that this year would be a good year to use the free shuttle service. The shuttle service, provided by THE Bus, will run every hour Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 4 to 11 p.m., and Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 1 p.m. to Midnight. Bus stops will be located at Floyd B. Olson Park, the Heritage Community Center, Super One, and Hugo's, and will drop passengers off at the front door of the arena.

Invites you to help them celebrate their 25th Wedding Anniversary
The celebration will take place at Dale & Deb's Saturday, July 13, 2002
A supper will be served around 5:30 p.m., followed by a dance.
No gifts please, your presence is the greatest gift of all!

It is a deep mystery
This matter of life and death

That the same person who brought us a thousand joys
Can one day leave us the Ling a thousand tears...

So suddenly, sometimes
That we grope blindly for words left unspoken,
And for the hug we need to give, to say goodbye
And we wonder,
How this thread that holds us all to life
Can be so thin and fragile...

Until one day we find the courage to accept
That the living aren't meant to understand death,
Only to celebrate life
And to remember that the only real death is forgetting

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Today I'm going to give you some recipes from one of my very favorite cookbooks. It is from Strathcona, and called the Grace Evangelical Ladies Aid Cookbook. It was published in 1969. It has been used so much that the covers are gone, the yellowed pages are sticking together and there are cryptic notes here and there beside my favorite recipes. The best pages are dotted with grease marks and dribbles and drips from batter. No matter – it is still a great cookbook.

I've given you the names of the ladies who contributed the recipes too – I hope you recognize some of them. I apologize to them or their families for taking liberties and adding things to their recipes, but I have only tried to add a little bit to the best.

This one is that old "mayonnaise" cake, but I call it "Miracle Whip" (salad dressing) cake because if you use a salad dressing other than Miracle Whip, especially one with an onion flavor, it really tastes awful. This is my oldest son's favorite cake, frosted, of course, with fluffy white frosting:

MIRACLE WHIP CAKE
Mrs. Henry Jackson

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons soda
1 cup white sugar
4 tablespoons cocoa
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup Miracle Whip
1 cup cold water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour, soda, sugar, cocoa and salt. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. (Better pour into a greased and floured 9x13 inch pan, too.)

These are my very favorite "every day" sugar cookies – everyone in my family loves them. I used to make them to bring to the hospital auxiliary lunch room back in the days when I was an active member:

SUGAR COOKIES
Mrs. Richard Lorenson

1 cup powdered sugar
1 cup white sugar
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup vegetable oil
2 eggs
1 teaspoon almond extract
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 cups plus 4 heaping tablespoonfuls flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cream of tartar

Cream sugar, butter and oil until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs. Add vanilla and almond.

Sift dry ingredients together and add to first mixture, mixing well. Refrigerate several hours or overnight.

Roll into balls larger than a walnut (or whatever size you desire for your family) and place on ungreased cookie sheets. Press down with glass dipped in sugar and bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes, until lightly golden around the edges. (You can also bake them less until they are barely tanned like spritz, or until they are more browned than just around the edges. They are so versatile!)

This is the fastest and easiest way to make an apple crisp, and you can use it for peaches or pears or cherries or any other fruit you like:

RUSSIAN APPLE DESSERT
Mrs. Ishmael Rynning

1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup flour
1/3 cup butter
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup walnuts, chopped
Apples, sliced

Fill a buttered pan (11x7 or 9x9) two-thirds full of sliced apples. Sprinkle them with granulated sugar and mix with fork.

Mix remaining ingredients together. Sprinkle over apples. Bake about 30 minutes.

(To microwave, I use two smaller micro-safe pans because I have a small microwave. I bake each one 12-15 minutes on high, or until they are bubbling and the apples are tender when poked with a fork.)

Oh, you just have to try this one if you've never made it. I remember making it for my Cub Scouts once – they were amazed. We used to be able to buy these at the old Woolworth store when I was a kid. Does anybody remember when it was north of the Post Office:

SPONGE CANDY
Mrs. Roy Gjovik

1 cup sugar
1 cup dark corn syrup
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon soda

Butter a 9x9 inch pan and have ready.

Combine sugar, syrup and vinegar in heavy (very large) saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring until sugar dissolves. Continue cooking without stirring to 300 degrees, very brittle stage.

Quickly stir in soda, mixing well (mixture will foam up a lot). Pour into prepared pan and do not spread. It will spread itself. After cool, cut or break into pieces. After breaking, you can dip each piece into melted chocolate, either semi-sweet or milk chocolate, if you like.

Simple-y delicious – you can make these in minutes. I like to use milk chocolate candy bars instead of the chocolate chips though:

CHOCOLATE TOFFEE BARS
Mrs. Richard Lorenson

1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup shortening
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
1 package chocolate chips
1/2 cup nuts

Mix in order given. Spread in 10x15 inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes until lightly browned.

Remove from oven and sprinkle with chocolate chips and return to oven to soften chips. Spread evenly and sprinkle nuts over top. Cool before cutting.

Generva Hanson (not Geneva) has corrected me on the spelling of her name (Generva – very unusual) and the amount of cornstarch, so if you made these bars with the quarter cup of cornstarch that I told you, it was wrong and your bars maybe got too thick. Use 2 tablespoonfuls, as printed in this corrected recipe:

RHUBARB CRUNCH BARS

1 cup quick oatmeal
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup flour
3 cups rhubarb, diced
1 cup water
1 cup white sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon almond extract
1 can cherry pie filling

Mix oatmeal, brown sugar, flour and butter. Pat half in 9x13 inch pan, reserving other half. Place diced rhubarb over the crust.

Boil white sugar, water and cornstarch and cook until thick. Add almond extract and cherry pie filling. Spoon over rhubarb.

Sprinkle with reserved oatmeal mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Fish and Bugs. Or Is It the Other Way Around?

It's that traditionally unpredictable time of the year. The temperatures soar into the mid 90's despite the fact that averages don't predict a peak in the heat for another three to four weeks yet. It's hot and unbearably humid. Thunderstorms are just as possible in the unnatural red morning sky as they are across the blackened evening sunset. Weekend plans with relatives and neighbors always include a postponement date, and the kids' baseball games and practices are a 50-50 shot. And then there's the bugs. They're as bad as they'll be all year. Mosquitoes, gnats, ants, spiders, and army worms. They're everywhere, plaguing your every waking moment. From the cobwebs stenciled through eastern window panes to the D-flat-droned eerily out through the treetops by millions of insects at the end of the day, it's enough to drive the average human, well, ... buggy. And if you're looking for walleyes in the often intimidating and anonymous, million-acre expanse of Lake of the Woods, the directions for success become quite simple. For while you may have spent the entirety of your on-land hours doing all that is reasonably possible to avoid insect life of any kind, if you want to find walleyes at this uninvitingly fickle time of year on the big lake, you've got to go where the bugs are.

The Mayflies are hatching. Finally. A prolonged wet period has delayed their arrival to as late a date as local wisdom can remember. Some entomological pundits have even taken to dubbing them Julyflies. Whatever. Late or not, the walleyes obviously have had little trouble welcoming back the long awaited food-source as recent accounts of the fishing action begin to border on the Paul Bunyanesque. Limits measured in minutes rather than days or hours. Schools of 20 to 25 inch fish bunched so tightly that doubles and triples become the norm. Fishermen actually looking you in the eye when they recount the glory, suggesting that there may, in fact, be a kernel of truth in the grandiose tale they tell. All because of an annoying little bug.

The Mayflies, however, are not hatching everywhere. The hatch occurs based on water temperature and, thanks to the overwhelming amount of rainfall this past month (it may be one of the few real benefits the recent floods have provided), the normally lake-wide hatch has been occurring in stubborn and abrupt stages this year. The walleyes, dependent on the Mayfly crop for a large part of their mid-summer growth spurt, are ravenously pursuing the sporadic bug hatches. Shiner minnows are suspended and scattered. Perch have long since spawned. Crawfish molts are a month or so away. Leeches and worms are a random and unpredictable commodity. The Mayflies are, like death and taxes, the only sure thing out there. And this is the beauty of the equation, because if you can find the bugs, you can find fish. Oftentimes a lot of fish.

Eggs from last year's Mayfly hatch have been wave or current driven against sandy, muddy, rocky edges across the lake. As water temperatures rise, the wrigglers emerge from the lake bottom and head for the surface where they unfold wings and fly away. Within a day, eggs are fertilized and deposited back in the basin, laying the groundwork for next year's hatch.

The evidence of the entire process is fairly obvious. Dead Mayflies and discarded exoskeletons litter the surface of the lake where the bulk of the activity has taken place. Recent (and traditional) hot spots include Oarden Island and the Little Traverse. As the water warms to a deeper level, the reefs off Long Point and Big Island will receive more attention. A big wind from the northwest will push warm surface water down a little deeper off Pine Island and the Swift Ditch areas and encourage the hatch there. Where the next hot spot will be is never a given, but it often becomes predictable. If the Mayflies are hatching, the walleyes won't be far away.

So if you find yourself worn down by the unseasonable heat and humidity and you're feeling a little overwhelmed by the vast quantities of mid-summer insect life, take a break and go fishing. It's a good time to wet a line. Just remember that when you get on the water, the fishing will be a lot better if you remember to do one thing. Find the bugs.

Humane Society to meet July 15

The next general membership meeting of the Pennington County Humane Society will be held on Monday, July 15th at 6 p.m. in the meeting room at the C'Mon Inn. Dr. Gemma Drees, local veterinarian, is scheduled to speak on summertime illnesses, diseases and injuries in our pets.

Bernie Lieder to run for District 1B

State Representative Bernie Lieder of Crookston has officially filed for election to the Minnesota House of Representatives in the new District 1B.

Lieder, who was first elected to the House in 1984, is recognized as one of the leading experts on transportation at the Capitol. He is currently the DFL lead on the transportation finance committee and also serves on the transportation policy and regulated industries committees.

During his tenure in the House, Lieder has been a passionate advocate for rural schools and has worked to increase access to affordable health care. He said he expects education, the rural economy, health care and transportation to be the key issues in the upcoming election.

"My main focus will continue to be protecting and enhancing the quality of life here in northwest Minnesota," he said. "That means addressing the growing financial strain at rural schools, nursing homes and hospitals, encouraging economic development in our area of the state and addressing the needs of our transportation system."

Because of redistricting, Lieder will now represent the western half of Marshall County, most of Pennington and Polk counties and all of Red Lake County.

"This is an important campaign for rural Minnesota," Lieder said. "We need strong and effective leadership to make sure that the needs of rural Minnesota are heard in St. Paul and re-electing rural incumbents will be extremely important."

Thank You

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

It's Fair time and 4-H is on our minds

It's fair time in many of our communities. That means hot-dusty days interspersed between torrential deluges, not-so-healthful but tasty food, lots of display booths, demo derbys, music, rodeos and activities at the Grandstand. It also means 4-H.

4-H has been an important element of our county fairs for years, and in a more modern world, it still fills an important need in our communities. Ninety years ago divisions in the 4-H Club department probably included beef, poultry, sheep, swine and horses. Today it has all of that along with video photography, family consumer science, microwave cooking, computers, entomology, international-global connections, and much more. 4-H is changing, but then again, it has always adapted to the times and needs of our youth.

Over 6.8 million kids belonged to 4-H in 2000 in the USA. In Minnesota, 4-H Youth Development reaches more than 300,000 young people in every part of Minnesota - from rural areas to inner-city neighborhoods. Through 4-H, young people learn practical life skills, serve their communities and develop leadership abilities.

"It's not just about cows," says Pam Fredericks, who is one of the 240 youth involved in 4-H in Pennington County. Although she lives on a farm near Goodridge with her parents, Dave and Joani Fredericks, and family, she says she has never shown a cow, or any other animal for that matter.

Pam says joining 4-H was one of the biggest steps she has taken – a step that helped her in a process of self-discovery. She realized after one fair project and a few Band-Aids, that needle arts wasn't for her. Photography, on the other hand was, and is now one of her favorite and most successful projects. She earned a grand champion at the State Fair for one of her pictures.

But 4-H isn't just about projects either. Pam knows it's one of the largest youth leadership organizations in the nation. In June of 2001, Pam was elected to be a State Ambassador. Her term as an "Ambie" ended last month, but she says the skills she learned, the friends she made and the memories created, will be with her forever. As an ambassador she learned to organize district retreats, and attended Youth Exploring Leadership and Learning Outloud (YELLO), and the Federation weekends. At YELLO, she explained, about 500 youth from across the state gather to learn how to become better leaders and what they can do to better improve their communities.

Pam says everything she's encountered through 4-H has made her a better and stronger person, as well as the best leader she can possibly be. "There is nothing in 4-H that you can't do."

Pam is a sophomore at Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) in Thief River Falls. After obtaining an associate of arts at NCTC, she plans to continue her education at another college. She hasn't reached a decision on her career yet.

Pam is one of many dedicated youth in our community that benefits from 4-H. By the way, 4-H is celebrating its centennial this year.

4-H is open to youth regardless of race, religion, color, gender, national origin, handicap or place of residence. Most states have programs for youth who are 5 to 19 years old. To learn more about joining 4-H, please contact your local Extension office.

What does 4-H stand for: The four H's stand for Head, Heart, Hands and Health. The 4-H pledge is:

I pledge
My Head to clearer thinking
My Heart to greater loyalty
My Hands to larger service, and
My Health to better living
For my family, my club, my community, my country and my world.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Carl Clark and Clark's Carriage Service provided visitors and guests to the Gjerde homestead in Helgeland Township a Fourth of July ride. The celebration was such that the rain didn't dampen spirits.

Adopting wild horses

•have at least 400 square feet of space for the horse,
•not have been convicted of cruelty to animals or any similar crime,
•not adopt more than four animals per year.

Title of the animals is not transferred immediately. Instead, after a year, the BLM will conduct a compliance check on the adopter and make sure the horse has a decent home. Only then will the title be transferred.

According to Struble the horses are usually auctioned off for around $250-$300. He says some of the horses go quickly and for more money.

The horses weigh between 700 and 1000 pounds on average while the smaller burros, a separate breed from Arizona, usually weigh closer to 500 pounds.

While the auction ended Friday afternoon, horses that were not successfully auctioned off will be available for an adoption fee of $125 on Saturday morning at the south end of the Alerus Center parking lot.

TRF, RLF split doubleheader

■ Red Lake Falls has 2-1 season edge over Post 117

Another slow start followed by an improved second-game performance produced a second doubleheader split in as many days for the Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team Tuesday at Red Lake Falls.

The opener went to Red Lake Falls 8-3. The nightcap was won by Thief River Falls 7-2.

Post 117 finished with a 6-5 base hit edge in Game 1, but five errors and seven walks issued by Thief River Falls pitching supplied Red Lake Falls with a steady supply of base runners.

"We did not play very well," reported Thief River Falls coach Jamie McEnelly. "We just weren't ready to play."

McEnelly offered similar words when his team dropped an 8-1 first-game decision to Perham in a Monday twinbill at the Multi-Events Center. But just like the night before when Thief River Falls gained a split with a 9-8 Game 2 victory, Post 117 bounced back to win the second half of the Tuesday set 7-2.

McEnelly's demeanor improved with the second-game victory. "We played a little better," he said. "The kids just have to learn they have to be ready at the start."

Thief River Falls won on the strength of a six-run sixth inning that erased a 2-1 deficit. A bases-loaded, two-run single by Tyler Bettin highlighted the late-game outburst.

Starting pitcher Dane Kjono threw 5 1/3 solid innings before giving way to Ben Weigelt in the top of the sixth. The Post 117 rally in the bottom of the inning made Weigelt the winner.

Red Lake Falls, a 9-4 winner when the two teams met during the Thief River Falls Wooden Bat Invitational, finished with a 2-1 series edge over Post 117 this summer.

Thief River Falls carried a 12-15 record into a scheduled Friday doubleheader at home against Fergus Falls. Post 117 will also be at the Multi-Events Center Tuesday for a 5 p.m. twinbill vs. Crookston.

Paul Kasprick nails 122 straight during trap club shooting

First night of Second Half league shooting at the Thief River Trap Club Monday was highlighted by the shooting of Paul Kasprick, who hit 122 straight targets before his first miss on target No. 123.

It was a career-best outing for Kasprick, who had never before hit a 50-straight.

League members are reminded that the annual Thief River Falls vs. Greenbush Foxtail Shoot will be held Thursday, July 18.

Thief River Falls girls head to state tourney

Thief River Falls has a team in Becker this weekend for the Minnesota Sports Federation Class D 16-under girls state softball tournament.

Twenty-three teams were expected to be on hand for the Saturday-Sunday competition.

A second state opportunity for the Thief River Falls summer softball program will be the MSF Rec 14-under tournament July 26-28 at Inver Grove Heights.

Monday, the Thief River Falls 14-under program notched a pair of wins over Baudette.

Thief River Falls pitchers gave up just one hit in both games.

Kelly Hanson struck out eight in just three innings of work before giving way to Shawna Rogalla for a final-inning relief performance in a 12-4 TRF Gold victory. Brittany Odberg was 2-for-2 and Britin Johnson went 2-for-3 for the winners.

Samantha Lyon had the only Game 1 hit for Baudette. Alicia Mord was the losing pitcher.

Allison Helling went three innings for the win and Chelsea Osborne got in an inning of relief pitching as TRF Blue beat Baudette 15-0.

Christity Johnson and Becca Larson were both 2-for-2 to lead the Blue offense.

Second-game losing pitcher Samantha McNutt also had the only Baudette hit against the Blue squad.

Both the Blue and the Gold team sport 3-1 records.

A week earlier, the Thief River Falls 18-under squad lost a 10-7, 18-6 doubleheader to Crookston.

Helling was the losing pitcher in both games. But she was also 2/2 at the plate in the opener. Kayla Loe and Kendra Mooney had 2-for-3 Game 1 plate performances. Rachel Erickson was the winning pitcher in the opener.

Kjelsey Loeffler replaced Helling as pitcher after one inning in the second game. Chelsea Bottem and Megan Bettin had the only Thief River Falls hits off Britt Persson.

Matt Okeson is the head coach and Kylie Rogalla is the assistant coach of the Thief River Falls softball program.

Babe Ruth baseball state tournament is set in TRF Aug. 2-5

Baseball playoffs that begin Monday for area 14-15-year-olds will ultimately lead to the 2002 Babe Ruth state tournament that will be played in Thief River Falls next month.

The event, designated as the in-tact state tournament that excludes all-star teams, will be played on the diamonds at the Multi-Events Center and Northland Community and Technical College Friday-Monday, Aug. 2-5.

Shane Zotz and Carter Rogalla serve as coaches for the Thief River Falls Blue and Gold Babe Ruth 14-15-year-olds.

DNR bear hunting clinic is slated for August 13 in TRF

Bear hunters can improve their chances of having a safe and successful hunt by attending one of the clinics offered by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

Twenty-four clinics were scheduled across the state, including one in Thief River Falls Tuesday, Aug. 13.

The clinics have been designed by bear hunters and research personnel to provide an in-depth look at the Minnesota black bear. The clinics are not mandatory, but are strongly recommended by the DNR.

Last year almost 2,000 hunters and bear enthusiasts attended clinics.

Clinics will teach hunters what to look for when scouting for bear; how to use test baits and select bait sites, and how to bait bear based on the principles of timing and quality. The clinics will also cover the latest regulations and answer common questions about bears.

Attendees will have a better understanding of black bear behavior and habitat needs, and of techniques that will eliminate protective surveillance.

Clinic fee is $5, which includes an up-to-date black bear handbook. Registration must be submitted no later than one week prior to the clinic, although most sessions are able to accommodate walk-in registrants.

To register, people should indicate which clinic they will attend, enclose a $5 check made out to DNR Advanced Hunter Education, and mail to Black Bear Clinics, DNR Enforcement, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4047.

Seminars for Advanced Hunter Education and Minnesota Bowhunter Education programs are listed on a telephone recording at 651-296-5051, and on the DNR web site at www.dnr.state.mn.us (click on "Education and Safety Training).

The Aug. 13 clinic in Thief River Falls will be held in the Lincoln High School auditorium from 7 to 10 p.m.

Other area clinics are scheduled Thursday, Aug. 1, at the Bemidji High School and Tuesday, Aug. 6, at Streiff's Sporting Goods in Warroad.

Workshop for substitute teachers scheduled in TRF

A workshop entitled "Substitute Teacher Workshop for Limited, Short-Call Substitute Teachers" is scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, August 19 and 20 at the Northwest Service Cooperative in Thief River Falls. Because districts in Minnesota are experiencing a shortage of substitute teachers, individuals who hold a baccalaureate degree from an accredited college and who comply with the standard requirements of the Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning may apply for a limited, short-call substitute license. Now persons without teaching certification have an opportunity to become employed as a limited, short-call substitute teacher-one who teaches on a day-to-day basis not to exceed 15 consecutive days replacing the same teacher.

Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning requirements for limited, short-call substitute licensure include: 1) a Minnesota Limited Teaching application ($47 fee) completed, signed and dated by the applicant and a school district superintendent; 2) a conduct review statement ($26 fee) and fingerprint card ($5 fee), completed by the applicant; and 3) original college transcripts in a sealed envelope from the college/university attended.

Kris Mickelson, a certified teacher and substitute teacher for many years in the Moorhead area, will provide training in the areas of substitute teacher roles, the basics of classroom management, instruction, communication skills and child development. Additionally, required forms from the Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning noted above will be available and assistance will be provided in completing the forms. Following the workshop, area superintendents will receive a list of workshop participants who have completed the training and are interested in substituting in their district.

The workshop fee of $100 includes handouts, lunch and refreshments. For more information or to register, please contact Bev Thompson or Mary Morken at the Northern Coalition Education Center, 218-681-8005. The registration deadline is Monday, August 5.

This plaque was unveiled on the home of Ole Gjerde in Helgeland Township recently. Ole Gjerde served as the one and only postmaster at the Nobel Post Office.

"OUR PEOPLE MAKE THE DIFFERENCE"

The Nobel Post Office was located on the second floor of the Ole Gjerde home in Helgeland Township of Marshall County. On July 4, it was as it has been for 20 years, the site of an annual picnic.

Official record books and postal receipts were among the memorabilia now part of the display at the Nobal Post Office and former homestead of Ole Gjerde. A plaque commemorating the 100th anniversary of the dedication of the post office was unveiled on July 4.

Remembering the importance of the post office

much paperwork even back then," said Eric.

Eric, who lives in Florida now, is a direct descendant. His dad Ed inherited the land from Ole, but Ed moved to Los Angeles, Calif. Ed passed away in March of 2001. The last person to live in the house was Ole's wife, Maud. She passed away in 1966. Since then, the family has used the house as a summer home.

Memories this day were as tangible as the coping saw under the steps. Bits of the lives of Maude and Ole Gjerde were all about the home. A picture of the couple, framed by pink peonies, sat on a table in the kitchen. Hanging on the walls were old tools, pictures and bits of the past–treasures that connected the present with the past.

And though raining, it didn't dampen spirits. One of the many people in the crowd laughed and said, "There's enough hot air out there to keep everyone dry."

Eric explained that his dad established this summer tradition about 20 years ago. Year after year these friends – friends that include members of the Sande family, the Hamricks, the Aakres, the Omdahls, the Carlsons and others – gather for some grilling and to relive the past, he said.

Although there are no plans to discontinue this annual tradition, and, even though everyone in this little area of Marshall County are so familiar with each other that faces flush at unfinished sentences, they decided to add one more bit of memorabilia to the wall. This year they added a plaque to the door of the old Nobel Post Office, which reads: "United States Postal Service Nobel, Minnesota, 100th Anniversary Commemoration. Ole Gjerde, First Postmaster, appointed December 16, 1902 Dedicated July 4, 2002.

During the unveiling of the plaque, Al gave a short speech.

I've wondered, said Al, if someone gave you a pen what you would do with it? Grandpa used his a lot.

Pens, said Al, "You couldn't see how much ink it had. It might run dry after the first few tentative words or last just long enough to create a masterpiece (or several) that would last forever and make a difference in the scheme of things. You don't know before you begin."

If someone gave you a pen you could a write distant relative or pal in a foreign country, or send your neighbor a note.

Al said Grandpa touched a lot of people because he used his pen a lot.

Roseau Area Community Fund receives donations

A $100,000 donation was made last week to the Roseau Area Community Fund, a component of the Northwest Minnesota Foundation. The donation was made by Robert and Marion Foley of Roseau.

The donation is seed money for a concerted fund-raising effort begun recently by a newly formed advisory committee. The primary focus of the fund will be to assist and support local businesses, the non-profit community, housing issues for the elderly and individuals with emergency needs.

Donations are welcome from private, corporate and foundation sources. They may be dropped off at Citizens State Bank or Border Bank in Roseau or sent to Northwest Minnesota Foundation, 4225 Technology Drive NW, Bemidji, MN 56601. Make checks payable to: NMF/Roseau Flood Recovery Fund.

For more information, contact Mary Ross, chairperson at (218) 463-2524 or Richie Hauge, NMF director of development at (218) 759-7859.

Small donor helps Red Cross relief effort

Matthew Bernu may be only 10 years old, but he has a big, big heart. He bought candy with his allowance for children of flood victims at the Red Cross shelter in Badger in the middle of June.

The flooding is over in Badger now, but memory of the generosity of one small boy will live on in the community.

Young Matthew, a student at Badger School, is the son of Jalmer and Jodi Bernu, operators of the JBZ Market in town.

"His donation was his own idea," his mother said. "He went to the shelter to make a contribution from his allowance and then decided candy for the children was the best idea." She estimated he purchased about $5 worth of treats.

The Red Cross also benefited from the cooperation of the Bernus who permitted the disaster relief organization to charge emergency food purchased at the market for use in the shelter.

It's the Pennington County Fair

Look what's new in 2002

Pennington County Fair begins with a bang and a dedication

Many local residents were jolted out of bed or off their sofas Tuesday night by the sound of fireworks coming from the fairgrounds.

Ceremony helped usher in the 101st Pennington County Fair Tuesday, July 16. A ribbon-cutting ceremony for the dedication of the new 2,500-seat grandstand gave donors and visitors their first opportunity to see the new grandstand, and a surprise fireworks display later that evening, alerted residents to this year's fair celebration.

Mike Sorteberg, who served as president of the Pennington County Fair board when the grandstand project was undertaken, thanked the donors, and fair board members for making it possible to complete the project. On behalf of the board, he said they were very proud of this grandstand and it will be something everyone will be able to appreciate for many years to come.

Sorteberg said he would like to thank everyone involved in the project, but said there were too many to mention, and that he was afraid that if he did list them, he'd forget someone. He did remind spectators of a little-known fact: that individuals participating in the Sentence to Serve program did a considerable amount of work erecting the grandstand. Sorteberg thanked them and commented that this was a good example of what a public program was capable of doing.

Other speakers had compliments to share as well. Pennington County Commissioner Bud Comstock said it was a pleasure to work with so many public agencies cooperating to bring such a important project to fruition. Thief River Falls Mayor Mark Borsheim said a covered grandstand had been a dream of many people for many years, but that this was the first fair board to get the job done.

Photos of Grand Champions will appear in a special Fair section inside the July 31 edition of The Times.

Heat and humidity gave way to a little rain on Wednesday, but crowds gathered quickly for the start of the Pennington County Fair in Thief River Falls.

Karlstad supports opposition to watershed merger

Karlstad – Gene Anderson from Marshall County asked for support from the Karlstad City Council to prevent the Middle River-Snake River Watershed District from taking over the 442 square miles of Tamarac Watershed in Marshall, Roseau and Kittson counties.

He asked if they would show that support by writing a letter and bringing it to a public hearing regarding a petition that effect at the Stephen Community Center on Monday, July 22, at 4:30 p.m. The petition is being filed by the Marshall County board of commissioners with the Board of Water and Soil Resources. – North Star News, Karlstad, July 18

Polk County to use coal ash to strengthen roads

Crookston – The Polk County Board of Commissioners approved a proposal to test the use of coal ash to strengthen county roads.

Polk County Road 76 will be used in the test project. County Highway Engineer Rich Sanders said it was chosen because of its condition and the amount of heavy traffic it receives.

The coal ash is mixed with soil and water and it sets up like cement, said Sam Lucido of Weoch Associates Inc. The bottom 18 to 24 inches of road will be stabilized using the ash mixture. – Kate Morberg, Crookston Daily Times, July 17

One and only Alma School reunion held

Alma Township – On Saturday, July 13, 2002, 32 former students and one teacher came together at the site of the former school district 18 (now Alma Township Hall) for the one and only reunion. Former students ranged in age from 91 (Mildred Beauchanaa of Glasgow, Mont.) to students in their 50's. Students also traveled from Vancouver, Washington and Farmer City, Ill. to once more see their former place of learning as Alma Township's Board of Supervisors has decided to destroy the former school building. – The Messenger, July 18

Gotta go, Gotta go

Grygla – The lettering on the side of a bus parked at the Grygla Community Center says "Ageless Express," a fitting name for a transportation service geared for the senior citizens in the Grygla-Gatzke area. And the logo on the back of the bus, "Gotta Go, Gotta Go," is a reminder that older people, even those with physical handicaps, still want to live active lives.

Ageless Care Options, based in Grygla, recently received a new bus, which will be used to transport senior citizens or others needing transportation to a variety of needs, or just for entertainment. – The Grygla Eagle, July 18

Schafer wins Miss TRF crown

Marnie Schafer was named the new Miss TRF

Marnie Schafer was crowned Miss Thief River Falls 2002 Tuesday night at a ceremony in the Lincoln High School auditorium.

The ceremony started at 6:30 with Joe Kezar emceeing. After a group dance involving the seven contestants and Kelsi Holland, Miss Thief River Falls 2001, Kezar introduced Holland to the crowd.

Holland commented, "it's very hot in here, but the show is hot, too." She then discussed what she enjoyed about spending a year as Miss Thief River Falls. She said her favorite part was encouraging kids to get involved in citizenship activities.

After that, she sang "There You'll Be," which she dedicated to her parents.

Kezar then announced the swimsuit display. The seven contestants walked onstage one at a time, in swimwear and smiled at the crowd.

While making the transition from the swimsuit competition to the talent show, LHS senior Dane Froiland sang Frank Sinatra's "Luck be a Lady," accompanied on piano by his brother Reid.

The talent show started with two singing performances. Contestant Carissa Holocek sang an Italian art song and Schafer sang "No Greater Love," a contemporary Christian song.

Contestants Kelsey Filipula and Kathryn Proulx each did piano solos, and Mandi Johnson played saxophone accompanied by John Mickelson on piano.

Contestants Taryn Pream and Lana Hauert each performed dramatic interpretations. Pream's was the story of a battered woman, and Hauert's was a teenage girl's grave side talk with her dead mother.

After the talent show, visiting royalty took the stage. Miss Frazee performed a piano solo. Afterwards Miss Perham, Miss Marshall County and Miss Middle River were introduced.

The next section of the contest was the evening gown and onstage personality portion. The contestants came out, one at a time, and displayed an evening gown and then answered a question out of a hat. Kezar asked the questions.

After that, Holland came out and said goodbye to her reign as Miss Thief River Falls. "This is the part where I'm supposed to cry," she said, "but I didn't pack any tears."

Instead, she thanked a host of people she said had helped her during her year as Miss Thief River Falls.

After singing one last song as Miss Thief River Falls, Holland walked offstage and the contestants walked on to accept awards.

Pream received the McDonald's Community Scholarship, a $200 award.

Johnson, Shafer and Holocek each received the "Miss Congeniality" award. They will each get a $100 savings bond for earning that award.

Pream was awarded the second runner up. She'll take home a $200 scholarship for that in addition to her $200 McDonald's scholarship. She also wins a $25 gift certificate to Creative Clippers.

The first runner up was Proulx. She will take home a $400 scholarship, a necklace from Diamonds and Designs and a $25 gift certificate to Styles by Amy.

After those awards were passed out Holland crowned Schafer, and the crowd went wild. Many in the audience ran up on stage and gave her a hug.

Red Lake Tribal Council receives $20,000 grant

Northwest Minnesota Foundation recently awarded a grant for $20,000 to the Red Lake Reservation Tribal Council for a comprehensive economic development strategic planning initiative, which will serve as a road map for future economic development efforts on the Red Lake Reservation.

The project will include thorough analysis and assessment of current economic conditions on the Red Lake Reservation, identifying the challenges and opportunities for economic growth, developing a strategy and course of action, then identifying a work program for implementation.

According to Steven Standing Cloud, Economic Development Director, all residents and businesses on the reservation stand to benefit from the project. "The project will focus on encouraging well-planned economic development projects," he said, "creating jobs targeted toward the unemployed and underemployed residents on the Reservation."

Although this is a project of the Red Lake Economic Development office, Headwaters Regional Development Commission (HRDC) will help by facilitating community forums in Red Lake, Ponemah, Little Rock and Redby and conduct the research required.

According to NMF Executive Director John Ostrem, there is a need for both short-term and long-term economic development planning. "All partners are in agreement that this is the next step needed to bring focus to economic development efforts on the reservation."

The Northwest Minnesota Foundation is a charitable foundation committed to improving the quality of life for residents in twelve counties of northwest Minnesota by investing resources, creating opportunities and promoting philanthropy.

Art teacher earns Fulbright

John Leopold, Northland Community and Technical College instructor, earns Fulbright award

by Heather Hauschild for The Times

"Es esmu mekslinieks un skolotajs. Man ir laimigs ar sho piedzivojumu ar Fulbright Programmu!"

Those are the remarks of a Minnesotan who is quickly learning a new language in preparation for a journey that in one month will take him to a country once locked behind the iron curtain.

"I am an artist and a teacher. I am fortunate to have this adventure with the Fulbright Program," translated John Leopold, art instructor at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

Leopold has been awarded a Fulbright grant to teach in Latvia, the United States Department of State and the J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board announced recently. He is one of approximately 250 U.S. grantees who will travel abroad for the 2002-2003 academic year through the Fulbright Teacher and Administrator Exchange Program. Established in 1946 under legislation introduced by the late Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, the program's purpose is to build mutual understanding between the people of the United States and the rest of the world.

The Fulbright Program, America's flagship international education and exchange program, is sponsored by the United States Department of State and the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs. For 56 years, Fulbright Programs have exchanged a quarter of a million people - 94,400 Americans who have studied, taught or researched abroad, and 155,600 students, scholars and teacher from other countries who have engagd in similar activities in the United States.

Leopold is a native of Worthington and spent three years in San Lucas, Toliman, Guatemala as a child while his parents were doing international volunteer work. His credentials include degrees from Willmar Community College, Moorhead State University, Northern Illinois University

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: lacours@mncable.net

Most of these, except the first one, are from the same cookbook as last week – the 1969 "Cooking Favorites" from Grace Evangelical Ladies Aid in Strathcona. Recipes I have tried will be marked with a "+" before the title from now on, so you'll know they are tried and true.

This recipe came to me from my cousin, who got it from her mother (my aunt, of course), who got it from her friend, Clara Olson. It is one of the best wheat breads I've ever made. The cottage cheese makes it tender and very soft and you don't even know it is there. Try it, and say thanks to Clara. The recipe makes 3 large loaves:

WHOLE WHEAT COTTAGE CHEESE BREAD
2 packages dry yeast
1 1/2 cups cottage cheese
1/4 cup butter
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
1 1/2 cups whole wheat flour
3 1/2 to 4 cups white flour
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup honey
1/2 teaspoon soda

Mix yeast with whole wheat flour.

Combine cottage cheese, water, butter, honey and salt in a saucepan (I used the large bowl I planned to mix the dough in and the microwave to heat this.) Heat until warm. Add soda. Cool a little.

Mix liquids with yeast/wheat flour mixture. Add eggs and beat for 3 minutes with mixer.

Add 3-4 cups of white flour by hand and then knead for 8 minutes. Place in greased bowl and let rise in warm place until doubled. (The rising goes fast so check often after half an hour.)

Punch dough down and form into 3 balls. Let rest 5 minutes, then form into rolls and place in 3 greased loaf pans. Let rise until doubled, 30-45 minutes or so.

Bake 20-25 minutes at 350 degrees. Keep an eye on it while baking too because it seems to take less time than some breads.

How about some caramel frosting on that cake:

CARAMEL ICING
Mrs. James Bentow
3/4 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter
3 tablespoons cream

Cook 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir until cool.

Make this big cake when you want something for that next potluck:

BOILED RAISIN SPICE CAKE
Mrs. Alvin S. Hanson
Mrs. Ralph Hamness
2 cups sugar
2 cups hot water
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup shortening
1 pound raisins
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/2 to 1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoon soda
3 1/2 cups flour

In saucepan, mix all ingredients together except flour and soda. Bring slowly to a boil and boil 10 minutes.

While hot, add soda. Beat hard and cool. When cool, add flour, mixing well.

Bake in 9x13 inch greased pan at 350 degrees for 1 hour.

Here's a quick-to-fix treat for the family and it must be a good one, with five entries in the cookbook:

7-LAYER BARS
Mrs. Randy Lorenson
Mrs. James Bentow
Mrs. Clair Mojer
Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson
Mrs. Arthur Sumner
1/4 cup butter
1 cup graham cracker crumbs
1 cup coconut
1 package chocolate chips
1 package butterscotch chips
1 can condensed milk
1 cup nuts

Melt butter in 9x13 inch pan. Add crumbs and press, then add layers of chips and coconut. Pour milk over top and sprinkle with nuts.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

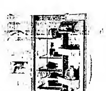
How about something that doesn't need baking – here it is – chocolate and marshmallows and yum:

CHOCOLATE MARSHMALLOW BARS
Mrs. Melvin Staie
1 cup half and half
2 cups white sugar
2 squares baking chocolate
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 teaspoons butter
2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1 package miniature marshmallows
1 cup chopped nuts

Mix cream, sugar and chocolate in saucepan. Bring to a boil and cook to soft ball stage. Cool and add remaining ingredients. Spread on greased cookie sheet and cut into bars after cool. (This didn't say if it should be one of those jelly-roll-sized pans or not – I guess it really doesn't matter if it is a little thicker in a 9x13 pan or thinner in an 11x15 pan.)

If you've never made these, you don't know what you're missing – they are truly hip padders too, so cut them small and don't bake them when you're home alone or the whole pan of them might be padding your hips:

HIP PADDERS
Mrs. Lew Modahl
Crumb mixture:
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
1 egg
1 1/4 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 1/2 cups quick cooking oatmeal



Mix and place half of mixture in 9x13 inch greased pan, reserving the remainder.

Filling:
1 can sweetened condensed milk
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup chocolate chips
1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt all ingredients together and place over crust.

Top with reserved crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees at 15 minutes.

Seamless Aluminum Guttering Heating, Air Conditioning
378-4641 378-4585

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.
Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two man crew... saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that got damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

Tyler Bettin was congratulated by Thief River Falls teammate Stacy Wiseth after hitting a two-run fourth inning home run in the first game of Tuesday's American Legion baseball doubleheader against Crookston. Dusty Gagner (back, center) and Zack Collins (right) were also part of the welcoming committee.

Post 117 takes second twinbill from Crookston...

TRF Legion completes sweep

There's little question Thief River Falls left-hander Reid Sjaaheim has one of the best pick-off moves to first base in Ninth District American Legion baseball. He proved it again Tuesday during a complete game 10-1 doubleheader-opening win over Crookston at the Multi-Events Center that was followed by a come-from-behind 4-3 Post 117 second-game victory.

Pitching in strength-sapping steamy temperatures, Sjaaheim allowed the very first batter he faced to cross the plate, then went through 21 hitters without giving up another run. While he limited Crookston to just five base hits, the slender junior did walk eight. However, that's where his southpaw delivery becomes a major advantage. Three runners were added to his mounting pick-off total that extends back to the spring high school season. Each time the victim had only one option – break for second with hopes of beating the relay throw or escaping a run-down. They failed on every attempt.

"He's wicked," said Thief River Falls coach Jamie McEnelly in describing Sjaaheim's penchant for pick-offs. "He's deadly. I'll bet he's picked off eight-to-ten runners this summer. He's quick and he's deceptive."

And he does it by the book, pointed out McEnelly. Frustrated opponents often yell "balk," figuring no move that good can be legal. Umpires, however, rarely agree.

Two of Sjaaheim's walks opened the game and Mike Picard's one-out single to right gave Crookston a 1-0 lead that stood until the third inning.

That's when an error and back-to-back singles by Kjell Johnsrud and Sjaaheim loaded the bases with nobody out. Dane Kjono drew a walk to tie it and a Josh Langlie sacrifice fly put Post 117 up 2-1.

Thief River Falls broke it open with a five-hit, five-run fourth that began with a Dusty Gagner double and a Tyler Bettin home run just inside the left field foul pole. Chris Lian drove a single down the left field line, Zack Collins picked up an RBI on a bad-hop single and Sjaaheim drove in a run with a sacrifice fly. Another wicked bounce on a ground ball was ruled a base hit for Kjono, who stole second and scored on an error for a 7-1 difference.

Three fifth inning Crookston errors added another run to the Thief River Falls total, the visitor's seventh error of the game, along with a wild pitch, tacked on the final two runs in the sixth.

Game 2 proved more exciting. Thief River Falls trailed 3-1 early and won it on a tie-breaking Langlie drive off the left-center field fence in the bottom of the seventh.

Johnsrud led off the final frame with a double down the left field line, advanced to third on a ground-out and trotted home on Langlie's game-winner.

"It was a well-played game," mentioned McEnelly, whose team improved to 15-16 by completing a four-game regular season sweep of Crookston. "We played well both games," he said. "Crookston has improved a lot."

Reminders are given to TRF fall sports athletes

Under Minnesota State High School League guidelines, football, boys and girls cross country, girls tennis, girls swimming and diving, and volleyball teams will begin 2002 preseason practice drills Monday, Aug. 12.

All Thief River Falls student-athletes are reminded required paperwork must be completed and fees paid before they will be allowed to start practice.

Participation fees have been set at $60 for Lincoln High School programs and $45 for Franklin Middle School activities.

Eligibility forms are available at the LHS activities office from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Roseau wins marathon match-up with Thieves

Plans to complete a rain-suspended game, then play regularly-scheduled contest were scrapped Tuesday when it took 15 innings to finish the the first part of the Thief River Falls vs. Roseau amateur baseball match-up.

Roseau scored twice in the top of the 15th to win 10-8. By then, it was already 10 p.m., and the Thieves hit the road for the trip home.

That wasn't the only change in the Thieves' schedule. A Wednesday game at Crookston was canceled because of rain, and a Friday contest at home against Fargo was called off by the North Dakota team due to a lack of players.

Net result: Thief River Falls will take a 5-13 record into a regular season finale Sunday at Kennedy, a doubleheader scheduled for a 2 p.m. start.

The Thieves, designated as the home team since the game had originally started at the Multi-Event Center, gained an early edge against Roseau with a run in the first inning, four in the second and two more in the third adding up to a 7-0 head-start. Roseau came back with two in the bottom of the third, four in the sixth and a game-tying run in the seventh.

Both teams pushed a run across the plate in the 13th to keep it going. The Thieves scored in the bottom of the inning when Chane Keefe reached base on an error, stole second and third, then tied it 8-8 by crossing the plate on a squeeze bunt laid down by Steve Wiseth.

Andy Evens got the game-winning hit in the 15th.

Todd Wensloff hit a two-run home run for Roseau. Ryan Halvorson had a three-hit game for the Thieves, while Andrew Solem and Aaron Schmitz both came up with two hits.

Losing pitcher was John Marben. Winner was Jesse Hendrickson.

VFW 16-year-olds pick up first win of season

A season-long 18-game losing streak came to an end Monday when Thief River Falls beat Detroit Lakes 6-5 in the first half of a VFW baseball doubleheader at the Multi-Events Center.

Detroit Lakes won the second game 15-7.

The Monday match-up was the first outing for the Courtney Skjerven-coached Thief River Falls 16-year-olds since 15-1, 5-4 July 9 twinbill losses at Perham, and preceded a regular season-ending doubleheader against Moorhead scheduled Thursday.

VFW District 6 tournament play begins July 27 in Detroit Lakes.

EGF is winner vs. TRF

It was a little closer this time, but Thief River Falls still wound up losing both games in a Thursday American Legion baseball doubleheader against defending Ninth District champion East Grand Forks, 7-4 and 9-5.

East Grand Forks out-scored Thief River Falls 22-6 in a 14-3, 8-3 June 18 twinbill sweep at the Multi-Events Center. The July 18 rematch at East Grand Forks produced a 16-9 total run difference.

Post 117 fell behind 5-0 in Game 1, chopped the difference to 5-3 in the top of the fifth, but could get no closer. East Grand Forks secured the win by pushing single runs across the plate in the fifth and six innings.

Thief River Falls watched a 2-2 second-game tie disappear when East Grand Forks came up with three-run fourth and fifth innings.

"We should have walked out of there with a split," said Thief River Falls coach Jamie McEnelly, whose books showed Post 117 out-hitting East Grand Forks in both games. But errors and the inability to capitalize on scoring opportunities blocked the upset bid.

Four errors spoiled a strong first-game pitching performance by Josh Langlie, pointed out McEnelly. "Josh pitched a real good game, but the errors were the key to the thing. Defensively we played poorly, but we still stuck with them. If we play clean baseball, we win 4-2. We had to earn our runs; we gave away five runs."

Four times during the course of the twinbill, noted McEnelly, Thief River Falls failed to score in bases-loaded situations. "We had plenty of base runners, but we left a lot of guys stranded," he noted. "We couldn't get the big hit when we needed it."

The two setbacks dropped Post 117 to 15-18. Thief River Falls' 2002 regular season ends with 5 p.m. doubleheaders Sunday at home against Roseau, Tuesday at Detroit Lakes and Thursday at the Multi-Events Center vs. Moorhead.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Federal disaster assistance needed for area farmers

Anywhere from 40 to 70 percent of the crops in northwestern Minnesota were destroyed by flooding during June. Many farmers will receive federal crop insurance benefits to cover some of their loss and prevented planting funds too, but farmers are facing more long-term trouble than most people realize. Those who don't understand the implications would have to include the President and his administration.

Last week area legislators and the Minnesota Farmers Union backed efforts to extend emergency disaster benefits to farmers hit especially hard by recent flooding, and educate those who don't understand the implications of not providing assistance. President Bush and his administration, however, are adamantly opposed to disaster assistance for farmers and ranchers because they believe that they already receive a substantial benefit from the government. They also argue that the new Farm Bill provides a safety net, and that any new assistance should be taken from funds being dedicated to the Farm Bill.

Sen. Keith Langseth said, "President Bush does not fully understand the obstacles farmers in our area are facing."

Perhaps he is correct. Perhaps President Bush doesn't understand or appreciate the fact that the safety net appearing in the 2002 Farm Bill does not take effect until next year. In addition, that safety net is based on production, and it doesn't cover other costs that farmers incur. For instance, Sen. Stumpf noted that farmers face other costs to meet the requirements of insurance policies and government programs. In addition, under the new Farm Bill, a national disaster aid package was dropped.

Locally, experts say that even if the farmer has federal crop insurance, farmers will be lucky to get their input costs back. Federal crop insurance, they state, isn't like your average fire insurance policy.

According to the Minnesota Farm Agency Service, monetary losses are expected to be in the hundreds of millions, even after reimbursements to farmers with federal crop insurance.

How are these farmers going to make up the difference? It's not like their bank accounts are bulging with income they've earned from the crops they received top dollar for. As you and I know, farmers have been hit hard by numerous disasters and low commodity prices during the past several years.

In addition to reinstituting a national disaster aid package, the federal government should begin considering some long-term solutions. For instance, one could easily reason that repeated disasters in a particular area may be a sign that funds to mitigate these disasters should be made available as well.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively, letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Quilters hold raffle at the Penn. Co. Fair

Be sure to stop in at the Quilters Guild booth at the Pennington County Fair and vote on a quilting project called the "Round Robins." This, as well as the organization's raffle quilt entitled "Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness" (inspired by the 9-11 tragedy) will be displayed at the booth.

The raffle quilt was completed as a group project. Although designed by a mini sewing group within the guild who call themselves "The Material Girls," members of the guild were given four to five strips of fabric that measured anywhere from one to two inches by the width of fabric (45 inches). Members were then instructed to simply sew these strips together only knowing that it would be for a patriotic quilt. They took these strips home after one meeting and then the following month returned them. The Material Girls then took on the effort of creating the quilt, creating a very striking scroppy quilt. The guild gals included within the mini group are Mary Follet, Kim-Ditz Willis, Vicki Kolden, Sharon Baron, Jan Nelson and Cheri "Babes" Johnson. It was then quilted professionally by Cheri "Babes" Johnson who custom designed the quilting especially for this quilt, which also included eagles in the stitching. It is truly a one of a kind. Raffle tickets will be on sale at the booth for $1 each. Profits from the ticket sales go towards the organization's goal as a guild, and that is to promote the education and art of quilting.

The next meeting of the Thief River Falls Quilters Guild will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday, July 23 at Northland Community and Technical College, room 515.

Each month a small hands-on project, demonstration, or a quilt-related program is scheduled after the business of the meeting is concluded. Planned for this program is Ruche Flowers, also known as curled ribbon appliqué. President Kim Ditz-Willis will demonstrate how to make and apply these beautiful 3-D dimensional appliquéd flowers.

Members and/or guests who would like to participate in this program are asked to bring the following items:

1. A small sewing kit with just the basics tools for an appliqué project

2. A strip of fabric (any color) that measures one and one-half inches by the width of fabric. Raw edges are to be pressed in towards each other as if preparing a piece of bias tape. (The right side of fabric should be on the outside, and it should measure one inch after pressing the edges together.)

The Quilters Guild is a non-profit, nationally recognized organization dedicated to promoting the art and love of quilting. Anyone who would like to join them is welcome. If you enjoy conversation and love quilting, this may be the evening for you. The organization meets on the fourth Tuesday of every month at the college. They have available an open library that begins the evening from 7 to 7:15 p.m. Business as well as community interests are discussed from 7:15 to 8 p.m. or there about. They then take a break to enjoy conversation with each other and a small luncheon. They reconvene the evening with a "Show and Tell" segment and conclude the evening by 9 p.m.

If you'd like to become a member, the membership dues are $12 a year. This includes a monthly newsletter and a multitude of committees to join, special interests, monthly programs to teach and further your knowledge of quilting, as well as two seminars yearly. Everyone is welcome.

Farmers meet with Senator Stumpf

by Cathy Erickson
For The Times/Northern Watch

Busy farm life didn't stop because Senator LeRoy Stumpf was the guest at an informal gathering of over 40 area farmers, landowners and other individuals affected by overland flooding who met on Sunday, July 14, at the Virgil and Cathy Erickson farm in East Valley Township in Marshall County. The sound of hammers and saws could be heard only a few feet away as other family members were completing the residing project of the Erickson garage. A microphone for Senator Stumpf was appreciated by those in attendance.

Representatives from Agder, Cedar, Excel, Holt, Grand Plain, New Folden, East Valley, and other townships, expressed concerns of overland flooding on productive farmland that has been present since the June 9 heavy rains. These same areas have not seen any relief with subsequent rainfall. Many fields are now turning black, and some look like sandbars. Pastures as well as hay land have also taken a direct hit.

Farmers who thought they may have solved their flooding problems by signing their land into the CRP program now may be faced with the additional burden of receding drowned-out Conservation Reserve Program contracts.

Senator Stumpf shared update information on the Roseau flood and also stated his concern and compassion with those in attendance. He also stated that the experts of the flooding problem were those sitting in front of him. They were the ones who experiencing it firsthand. Senator Stumpf answered questions and encouraged listeners to share their thoughts and ideas on what could be done to relieve overland flooding like is happening today.

Completing the cleaning of Ditch 83 and creating a diversion ditch and an impoundment were topics of discussion. There was not a majority agreement on any of the plans or ideas.

It was also noted that Mahnomen and Ada areas also experienced overland flooding at the same time as the east/central Marshall County areas during the June 8/9 and June 19/20 rains. Their water receded and is now being contained in the natural river ways, but the overland flooding in east/central Marshall County is still present on the farmers' fields since June 9 and has seen an increase in volume because of the water coming into Ditch 83 and the Thief River from the watershed areas in eastern Marshall County. Thief Lake Wildlife Management Area and Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge also contribute water that flows into Ditch 83.

Maps were available that showed the areas affected by flooding. Marshall County Commissioner Delray Larson and LeRoy Ose, Red Lake Watershed board member, also attended the meeting.

After the presentation, guests had the opportunity to visit personally with Senator Stumpf while enjoying root beer floats and a light lunch provided by the Erickson family.

Incumbents file for Pennington County elections

Only incumbents have filed affidavits of candidacy for Pennington County offices. July 16 was the final day to submit affidavits of candidacy for the offices on county's November election.

Candidates who filed before the deadline include: Ken Schmalz for county recorder, David Olin for county attorney, Vickie Bjorgaard for treasurer, Ken Olson for auditor, Mike Hruby for sheriff, Richard Heinrichs for county coroner, Charles Noplin for District 3 County Commissioner, Bob Carlson for District 2 County Commissioner, and Arden "Bud" Comstock for County Commissioner District 4.

In addition to the county offices, affidavits of candidacy were accepted for Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District Supervisors. In District 3, Daniel Johnson, an incumbent, filed. In District 2, Kyle Mehrkens filed for the seat vacated by Leonard Skaar.

Affidavits of candidacy can be filed between August 27 and September 10 for city and county offices that will be open for election in November

Don't be confused! The road may appear to be closed, but it's open to people who need access to the hospital. Until further notice that access is on LaBree Avenue. In the near future, the road may be closed, but when that happens, access will be provided through the Public Library parking lot.

Boost America! coming to G.F.

The southeast parking lot on the Altru Health System campus will be the site of Ford Motor Company's Boost America! event which provides children and families in need with booster seats. The event will be held on Saturday, July 20 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Ford has partnered with Altru, the Grand Forks Safe Kids Coalition and the United Way to make Grand Forks its final stop in a 100-city tour.

Carma Twete-Hanson, Grand Forks Safe Kids Coordinator and manager of the Altru Hospital Pediatrics Department and Intensive Care Nursery, says, "Proper booster seating is an important issue--thousands of injuries and deaths of children under 80 pounds could be prevented each year if children were simply secured with booster or car seats." The Boost America! event is an opportunity to increase booster seat usage through the distribution of one million booster seats throughout America.

For more information, contact Julie Jeske or Brian Schill, Altru Planning & Public Affairs, (701) 780-2444 or (701) 780-5831. Also call the United Way of Grand Forks and East Grand Forks, (701) 775-8661, or the Grand Forks Safe Kids Coalition, (701) 780-1489.

New Conclusions About Mosquitoes Slap Scientific World Across Face

A Williams resident, living on the northern border of Minnesota's Great Bog, recently released findings suggesting that mosquitoes, rather than dolphins, chimpanzees, and dogs, were the most intelligent life form currently alive on the planet, next to humans, of course. The study was submitted late last week to the Governor's office in St. Paul and has been the subject of much scholarly debate across the country ever since.

Arnold Lipschitz, a long-time resident of northwestern Minnesota, prepared the document, admitting his status as an entomologist was little more than amateur in character but claimed that as far as first hand contact with the insects was concerned, there were none with more experience.

"I've been bitten by a whole lot of them little buggers for a bunch of years," the pockmarked and swollen Lipschitz crowed in a personal interview Thursday evening, "and if there's some huggy guy out there at some nose in the air school who thinks he knows more about it than me, bring him up here to the Williams woods and let him prove it."

Lipschitz bases his theories on decades of interaction and personal exposure to the much maligned bugs. His conclusions have lit a fire in the scientific community that has blazed since the report's release and naysayers across the globe have registered their unhappiness in swarms.

"I don't give a hoot about the criticism," Lipschitz growled, "let them monkey- lovers sit with their pants down around their ankles in my bathroom some muggy July morning and tell me that apes are smarter than mosquitoes. Those damn insects know when you're at your most vulnerable. They don't try and bite you when you're brushing your teeth or putting on the pit juice. But sit on the pot where all you can do is wave like an invalid at them with an old copy of Newsweek and you'll know that they're smarter than some goofy gorilla."

It should be noted that some of the dubious credibility concerning the Lipschitz submittal stems from the fact that much of the copy was penned across a lengthy sheet of unrolled toilet tissue and a bulk of the lettering appears to be written in human blood.

"So what if I used a Q-tip dipped in the parts of a few squashed mosquitoes to put down a few of my notes?" shrugged Lipschitz. "Inspiration isn't something that comes along all the time and I had to make do with what was available. Besides, it doesn't make the facts any less solid. Those are some smart insects. Really smart. Like how do you think they get in my truck every morning before I go to work. I got the windows rolled up and everything, but they're still in there. Dozens of them. I'm telling you they know how to open the doors. Really quietly. So I don't wake up in the middle of the night and catch them doing it. They even get in there when I lock the doors. Find me some idiot Golden Retriever that performs a trick like that!"

Governor Ventura's office in St. Paul has issued few official statements concerning the document but the Governor himself expressed doubts similar to those offered by the scientific community, commenting, "I know they've had a lot of rain and heat up there this summer, but if I believe this Lipschitz guy, the next thing you'll tell me is that the professional wrestling ring is real, too. What kind of an idiot do you think I am?"

An undaunted Lipschitz responded brusquely to the Governor's assessment, pointing out that his report claimed mosquitoes were not necessarily dumber than all humans, just the average ones. "Put some click-click-clicking bottlenose dolphin up against that buffoon in the polls and I'll take the fish every time. The reason you don't hear Jesse complaining about the mosquitoes is that they're too smart to suck the blood out of him."

Lipschitz acknowledged that his summation has many hurdles to cross before it gains public acceptance. His research, he claims, will continue, no matter how many cans of Coors Light he must consume to buffer his body against the rigors of mowing the backyard naked at 7 p.m. "I'm thinking one day it's going to boil down to us or them and the more we know about the way they think the better off we'll be. Heck, they can produce huge armies of reinforcements in a matter of mere days and they certainly aren't intimidated when a couple of their buddies get whacked right in front of them. They just keep on coming. That's courage like you don't find anywhere else in the animal world! And humanity worries about whether cloning is a good idea. Believe me, one day it's going to come down to simple math and there's going to be too many mosquitoes."

All-School reunion set for 2004

Mark your calendars! The Thief River Falls Education Foundation and the All-School Reunion Steering committee have announced that an All School Reunion will be held June 25-27 of 2004. This date honors 100 years of pride and heritage since the first class of four students graduated from Lincoln High School in 1904.

If you are interested in being on a committee please attend the next meeting, which has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday, July 30, at the District Service Center. If you cannot attend, but would like to be on a committee please call Gloria Bjorkman at 681-6530 or Arden Sollien at 681-3408 or contact the Thief River Falls Education Foundation at 681-8711 ext. 228.

Art teacher earns Fulbright

■ John Leopold, Northland Community and Technical College instructor, earns Fulbright award

-De Kalb, and he completed an art apprenticeship at Indiana University's Echo Press. He is entering his fifth year as an instructor at NCTC, and has been instrumental in bringing numerous art shows and displays to the Thief River Falls community. Leopold is the college's chief art instructor, and he also teaches Jujutsu, Judo and law enforcement defensive tactics.

An instructor known for his wit and candor, Leopold is understandably thrilled with the opportunity to travel Europe and teach at the Riga College of Applied Arts.

"Probably because of my childhood experiences, I have been addicted to travel. To me, travel is the best form of education, especially for an extended period of time," he said.

That is a theory that Leopold is trying to instill in his students as well. Last summer, he accompanied 20 NCTC students on a three-week excursion to Scotland where they explored architecture, ruins and ancient art. At that time, Leopold set up a student exchange program with Angus College in Arbroath, Scotland, where five NCTC students will be studying next year as well.

Darren Dobson, an art major from Bagley, is one of those students. "John is one of the greatest teachers I've ever had. He inspires students to dig deeper into their work and motivates us to do more," he said.

Leopold's quest to Latvia began in October 2001. That was when he officially applied to the Fulbright Program listing his top three choices of location as: 1)South Africa, 2)Czech Republic, and 3)England. "Latvia wasn't among my initial country choices, but there are so few places that I fit the criteria for an educator exchange," he said.

The application process was intense, requiring a huge list of immunizations, rigorous background checks, written self-portrait, complete physical, and mountain of paperwork. "You are a representative of the U.S., and they take it seriously," he added.

For months, Leopold has known that he was accepted into the program and would be exchanging duties with an instructor from the Riga College of Applied Arts, but official notification didn't come until May 30, when Dr Orley Ganderson, president of NCTC, received a letter confirming John Leopold and Irene Krastina for participation in the Fulbright Teacher Exchange Program.

"This is a tremendous opportunity for John, and for the college," said Gunderson. "Our students will have the chance to study with a Latvian artist for a year, while John expands his vision and capabilities to bring back to Thief River Falls."

Leopold has learned that the Riga College of Applied Arts is an international art school with students from all over the Baltic. Although the instruction will be in English, most people speak Latvian (the native language) or Russian. Leopold is quickly learning both. "I've got tapes, books, translation guides...it's a difficult language," he says.

Riga, the capital of Latvia is home to more than a quarter of a million people and is known as the "Paris of the Baltic." The country is located in Eastern Europe, bordering the Baltic Sea, between the countries of Estonia and Lithuania, and also borders Belarus and Russia. It is a nation slightly larger than the size of West Virginia.

At the end of this month, Leopold will be traveling to Washington D.C. for a three-day preparatory meeting of Fulbright scholars. There he will meet Irene Krastina and will fly with her back to Thief River Falls to get her settled in the community.

"I've been in contact with Irene for a few months. She is a very intelligent, articulate woman whose English is humbling," Leopold said. "She seems excited about teaching here."

Leopold will then be leaving for Riga on the first of August. There he will be living, on his own, in the epicenter of the city. He has heard great things about the college. "It carries a high level of prestige and the facility seems really, really nice. One of their two galleries is the size of our commons," said Leopold. There he will be teaching primarily drawing, painting, and photography his first term, with the possibility of expanding into other artistic areas.

As his adventure dawns, Leopold is undaunted: "This puts your education to the test. It shows you what you've learned, and challenges you. But part of the value of travel is the learning."

CRP lands in Marshall Co. opened

Marshall County Farm Service Agency announced Tuesday that they are opening up Conservation Reserve Program land to help farmers in the area deal with recent floods.

Farmers in the counties of Lake of the Woods, Kittson, Roseau, Marshall and some of Beltrami are eligible to hay and graze on CRP lands in Marshall County.

The CRP land will be leased to eligible farmers under the condition that they do not sublease the land. CRP participants who wish to lease their land out for haying and grazing must request premission to do so at the Marshall County FSA office in Warren.

Emergency haying on the land is limited to one cutting. Grazing livestock must be removed before September 1 and cannot graze on land that is also being hayed.

The approval for haying and grazing expires on August 31, 2002, provided Marshall County does not decide to cancel it sooner.

The Marshall County Farm Services Agency can be reached at (218) 745-4251.

Deadline for disaster assistance is approaching

Workers displaced from their jobs by recent floods in northwest Minnesota have until July 26 to apply for Disaster Unemployment Assistance.

To qualify, a worker must be from Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman or Red Lake County. They must be prevented from working as a direct result of the flooding. The work they are prevented from performing due to flooding must be their primary source of income. Finally, they cannot qualify for regular unemployment benefits.

Registration points for DUA are the Minnesota WorkForce Centers in Bemidji, Crookston, Detroit Lakes, East Grand Forks, International Falls, Moorhead, Park Rapids, Roseau and Thief River Falls.

■ Pennington County Fair begins with a bang and a dedication

Spectators will be able to appreciate the grandstand for years to come. Many improvements are being made to the fairgrounds, some like the grandstand and the Ralph Engelstad Arena are more evident than others, but improvements nonetheless that are important. Tuesday, spectators and speakers were able to appreciate the grandstand for many reasons, but the grandstand couldn't protect those in attendance from the sweltering heat and humidity.

Numerous refreshment stands are available at the fairgrounds, along with Northwest Medical Center's mobile nursing station, in the event spectators run into a health situation for which they need professional assistance.

Floyd Erickson, past fair board president, said Tuesday night's fireworks was a surprise sneak preview, and done in connection with the dedication.

The fireworks display on Saturday will be held after the bull ride sometime around 10:30 p.m.

Quilt for Cure quilts at Pennington County Fair

The Quilt for a Cure quilts are now at the Pennington County Fairgrounds. Individuals can bid on the quilts until 4 p.m. on Sunday. This is a silent auction that will benefit American Cancer Society research, as well as educational efforts and the kind of services available in Pennington County. There are 24 items up for auction.

An American Cancer Society booth is located on the west end of the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Concern multiplies as West Nile Virus spreads

Two dead crows, one from Mille Lacs County and another from Hennepin County have tested positive for West Nile Virus, providing the first evidence that the mosquito-borne virus has reached Minnesota, according to the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH).

MDH has been testing dead birds for West Nile Virus as part of its routine surveillance for the presence of the virus in Minnesota. Crows and jays are especially susceptible to the virus, and provide an effective indicator of whether the virus is present in a particular area.

In response to last week's announcement from North Dakota State Veterinarian Dr. Larry Schuler that a horse near Grand Forks tested positive for West Nile Virus, the Minnesota Board of Animal Health urged northwest Minnesota horse owners to keep an eye out for symptoms of the disease in their animals.

West Nile Virus can cause a form of encephalitis, which is an inflammation of the brain. The virus is often found in birds and spread by mosquitoes to other birds and animals, including horses and humans. Horses and humans can not spread the disease.

Friendshuh said owners should contact their veterinarian if they notice any symptoms of the disease, which include loss of appetite, head tremors, muscle twitches or an inability to stand. They should also try to reduce the mosquito population around their horses by mowing long grass and draining stagnant water puddles, and minimize exposure by using repellents and placing screens in stables. Friendshuh also encourages horse owners to ask their veterinarians about vaccinating their horses with a West Nile Virus vaccine that was recently made available. The vaccine must be

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce is making plans to hold the "Great American Block Party" on Saturday, September 14.

Live bands, food booths and a beer garden will spice up activity on LaBree Avenue from Second Street to Third Street on September 14. The street will be fenced off on that day. The event will feature "The Back Behind the Barn Boys" from 8 p.m. to midnight. This will be the last stop on the band's farewell tour.

Event activities also include the annual Everybody's Market from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., and a battle of the bands from 6 to 8 p.m. Concessions and novelty stands will be open from 6 p.m. to Midnight. The beer gardens will open at 8 p.m.

As more information becomes available about the event, the news will be published in The Times/Northern Watch. For more information, contact the event chairman, Lenae Iverson of Wells Fargo Bank, or Julie Olson, Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce President. In the event of rain, the event will be held in the Thief River Falls Curling Club.

School district to sell residential property

Greenbush - The Greenbush-Middle River Board of Education, meeting at Middle River on July 15, 2002, agreed to place the district-owned residential property in Middle River for sale by bid.

Appraised by Agassiz Realty at a market value of $44,400, the board agreed to sell the property at a minimum acceptable bid of $50,000. -The Tribune of Roseau County, July 24, 2002

Stephen Summer Fest set for July 27

Stephen - The Stephen community will be celebrating their first Summer Fest on Saturday, July 27. Traffic may be resumed soon on west part of TH 1 project in Warren

Warren - Traffic over State Highway 1 west of TH 75 in Warren likely will resume about the end of next week, using a gravel surface for up to three months. The information comes from Louis Cater of the Spruce Valley Corporation, contractor for the Minnesota Department of Transportation project, at the regular project briefing last Tuesday.

The slab-span deck for the Highway 1 bridge over the Snake River was poured Thursday. After the concrete has cured, progress toward completion of the bridge project, by contractor Swingen Construction should move forward well. Meanwhile, Spruce Valley's work on the west portion of the highway reconstruction project was moving steadily toward completion, too. -The Warren Sheaf, July 23, 2002

Oklee moto-cross track problems to be resolved

Oklee - A meeting was held at the office of Red Lake County Attorney Dan Oeller at 2 p.m. Tuesday, July 16. The reason for this special session was to attempt to resolve the issue of the liability insurance coverage for the new moto-cross race track constructed in Oklee.

Present at the meeting were Shirley Bregler and Jim Desselller, both members of the Red Lake County fair board; Oklee Mayor Emily Bernier, Oklee City Clerk Leo Olson, Oklee Elevator Manager Doug Derosier, and attorney Geller.

The race track, constructed by Keith and Luke Swenson and Steve and Scott Moravnville, is located on Oklee Farmers Cooperative Elevator land on the north side of Oklee.

Presently, the Red Lake County fair board leases this land from the elevator for county fair activities. A horse corral, also part of the county fair, has been constructed on elevator land. -The Oklee Herald, July 25, by Clay Haugen

Passport fees to increase

Fees for U.S. passports will increase on August 19. The application fee for first-time adult customers will increase from $60 to $85. The fee for minors under age 16 will increase from $40 to $70. The adult renewal application fee will increase from $40 to $55. The additional cost for expedited service will increase from $35 to $60.

The U.S. Department of State recently noted that the changes are the result of an independent fee study done to ensure that the true costs of providing consular services to Americans are recovered, as mandated by law. This includes services to Americans provided at U.S. Embassies and Consulates abroad, as well as the passport application process at home.

In 2001, the Pennington County Recorder's office processed 183 passport applications. Pennington County Recorder Ken Schmalz said numbers seem to be going up because of 9-11. He explained that a valid driver's license and a certified copy of a birth certificate are required of people crossing the Mexican or Canadian border. People, he said, seem a little uncomfortable carrying that birth certificate around with them. He also added that Canada's policies seem a little more vague. They don't always require a birth certificate, but you don't want to be the individual they check for a birth certificate and don't have it with you.

Schmalz is concerned that people know that the rates have increased significantly. He said he hasn't received a lot of complaints in the past. The $60 fee really Good weather seemed to encourage shoppers to get out and seek out sales in downtown Thief River Falls Thursday. It helped that it was Crazy Day and that many merchants were participating in the event.

Doggone fine:

Sheriff's dog is alive and well

On May 31, a Philadelphia, Pa. police officer accidentally left his partner, a five-year-old German Shepherd named "Woodrow," in his car on a hot day. Woodrow died of heat exhaustion after spending four and a half hours stuck inside.

A similar incident, however, did not happen in Thief River Falls, contrary to a rumor that has been circulating for several weeks.

The rumors state that "Magnum," a four-and-a-half year old law enforcement dog owned by the Pennington County Sheriff's Office, was left in a squad car with the windows up for too long and died.

Magnum's human partner, Sheriff's Deputy James Jesme, says the rumors started flying about three weeks ago. "At first, I thought it was funny," he said. "Actually, I still think it's funny," he added.

Jesme says numerous people have expressed surprise at seeing Magnum, asking him, "Did you get a new dog?"

"[Magnum] is not my pet, he's my partner," said Jesme. "He gets better treatment than I do," he said.

Magnum lives with Jesme.

Jesme does not know how the rumor got started. It's possible the Philadelphia story was the source of the rumor. Some at the law enforcement center speculated it was the death of a Hubbard County Sheriff's dog, but that dog died of cancer, and its death came just a few days ago, well after the rumors started surfacing.

Whatever the source of the rumor, Magnum is alive and well today, and he continues to be used by the Pennington County Sheriff's

Rhombus House really delivers

Three Thief River Falls natives open pizza joint near Maple Lake

by Jenny Nichalson
Reporter

How would you expect three 21-year-old guys to be spending their summer break from college? Cruising around the lake? Hanging out with buddies they haven't seen all year? Pooling their money for some pizza and beer?

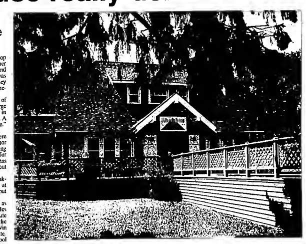
Well, for Matt Winjum, Arron Hendricks and Levi Kroft, the answer is yes to all of the above. Probably not how you might picture them, though, because for this trio, these things are all part of what it takes to run their own business.

Sure it may sound like fun, but owning and operating a restaurant takes a lot of hard work, dedication and ambition, all of which are characteristics that have contributed to the successful opening of Rhombus House of Pizza in Mentor.

It all started a few years back, when the three friends, all 1999 graduates of Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls, decided they wanted to start up a mobile coffee shop. As they surveyed their potential market, they realized smoothies would probably go over better. With that in mind, they went to work on a snowmobile trailer with a few two-by-fours, some paint and a little elbow grease and thus Smoothie Rhombus was born.

The traveling smoothie shop made stops during the summer months at various functions and turned out to be quite a hit. It was then that the guys decided they wanted to expand and find something more permanent.

As they scouted out a number of locations, they came upon a large vacant house-turned-restaurant in the tiny lakeside town of Mentor. A sign in the window read "For Sale." It was perfect.



Kroft says they knew there would be room for them in Mentor since there weren't a lot of dining choices in the area, especially for pizza. "You could buy frozen pizzas at the gas station, but that's about it," he noted.

With very little experience making pizza (Matt worked at Domino's), the guys set out to put their plan into motion.

It proved quite challenging as they were all hundreds of miles apart. Winjum was at Arizona State University, Hendricks at the University of Minnesota in the Twin Cities and Kraft at Moorhead State.

During the course of the school year, the three made countless phone calls and e-mailed constantly to keep each other informed on the Rhombus House of Pizza, located on the "main drag" in Mentor, is an old house converted into a restaurant about a decade ago. Matt Winjum, Arron Hendricks and Levi Kraft recently bought the space and turned it into a pizza joint which opened its doors this past May.

Karlstad will celebrate first annual Moose Fest on August 24

Karlstad-In conjunction with the sponsoring Karlstad Lions Club, Karlstad will be celebrating a day on August 24, which has been called Moose Fest.

City clerk Wayne Ruud, brother of one of the Back Behind the Barn Boys, has booked the band to play that evening.

"The Lions prefer to have an outdoor concert and not charge the public," Ruud said. "They would like to have it either between the bank and Mainstreet Flord or else between the old barber shop and Germundson's."-The North Star News, July 25, 2002

Five Goodridge teachers attended a seminar in North Dakota on lignite coal power sponsored by the Lignite Energy Council and the American Coal Foundation which was held June 18-20. The teachers were given a lesson on lignite energy and were then given tours of three lignite-fired power plants. From left to right: Valerie Laidley, Amanda Okeson, Lois Anderson, Debra Stanley and Connie Moe, at the Milton R. Young power plant near Center, N.D.

THE LYON'S SHARE

Tim Lyon

The Big Man and The Sea

During the course of several of my more youthful summers, I worked on a commercial fishing vessel off the east coast. I signed on initially for naive and romantic notions about a life on the water and the camaraderie of the sea, probably having read too many Jack London novels during my high school years. Long days, hard work, and the close company of seventeen well-seasoned, career Portuguese fishermen quickly set aside some of the more quixotic ideas I carried with me that first day aboard the 70-foot trap-fishing boat, the Amelia Bucolo. I don't remember many of the specific tasks I learned during that time (a few choice knots for use in holding nets in place and a few choice words for those times when the knots slipped), but I do retain a satisfying sense of the bigger picture I acquired. Like all late-teen experiences, everything then seemed, and continues to seem, far more important than the average.

George Mendonsa was a big man. Physically, at six-foot five inches with the massive, flattened hands that come from a life of net pulling, he could dominate any crowd just by walking through it and shaking a few hands. Emotionally, he was always the centerpiece of any gathering. Confident and quick, he gained some national notoriety when, in a famous Times Square VJ-Day photograph, he graced the cover of Life Magazine, bending a wartime nurse over backward in a passionate victory embrace. George Mendonsa was also modest enough not to talk about the incident. He was an apt figure to have as the Amelia Bucolo's captain.

One blustery June morning, shortly after I began my stint at Tallman and Mack Fisheries, George, his brother Manny, and I found ourselves crammed into the small wheelhouse together as we plowed our way out to the shoals past Brenton Reef to fish for scup. The rest of the crew were in the hold below, napping. The day began at 4 a.m., and the two hour ride out to the nets was a good time to catch up on a night's sleep cut short. I chose to stay above-decks, sacrificing shut-eye for the kernels of ocean knowledge and lore that George and Manny might dribble my way. The pair seemed to tolerate, more than welcome, my presence, in much the same fashion that one tolerates a mosquito already bloated with blood – I was somewhat bothersome, but certainly not a threat.

"It's gonna rain tonight, Manny," George offered after a quiet half-hour run across Narragansett Bay.

Manny nodded in agreement and the silence began again.

Several minutes passed and I waited eagerly for details regarding this revelation. Nothing came. Just the drone of the diesel engine and the occasional squawk from a passing gull. Finally, unwilling to let such an opportunity slip by, I broke the stalemate.

"How do you know? Is it the direction of the wind, or the color of the sky? Is it the way the birds are flying? Or is it something more? How do you know?"

George looked at Manny. Manny shrugged his shoulders. George rolled his eyes. And then George looked at me. "I heard it on the car radio on the way in to work this morning."

George went back to his steering and staring. I nodded, doing my best not to look like I'd just been kicked hard in the groin. Where was the romance in that? Didn't he realize that he was supposed to know that stuff, not hear it? His knee was supposed to ache or moss was supposed to grow on the back side of a tree or something. And then I quietly slipped my way below decks to find an open spot amongst the rest of the crew where I could take a quick nap before the heat and labor of the day began.

I like to conjure up that day in my brain every once in a while, out here on Lake of the Woods. I like to remember it especially when things aren't going quite right. Like when I'm having a tough time making productive judgments about the fishing and I feel more like a dog chasing his tail than a guide pursuing walleyes. Or when the weather patterns of mid-summer start to play games with my accumulated bank of meteorological knowledge and I hit wrong on every predictable wind shift for a week straight. You see, I don't need to remember the specific knots or the technical nautical terms that were such a part of my trap-fishing life a couple of decades ago. I just need to remember the big picture of big George Mendonsa and the fact that even though he might appear to know everything, he still listened to the radio occasionally, just like me.

Recovery fund set up for Warroad flood victims

A fund to help Warroad residents recover from summer flooding, called the 2002 Warroad Area Flood Recovery Fund, has been established.

$10,000 has already been contributed to the fund. Residents who have been affected by the flooding are encouraged to call Northwest Community Action at (800) 568-5329 or stop by their office at 312 Main Avenue North in Badger.

If you wish to make a donation to the fund, you can send your contribution to: 2002 Warroad Area Flood Recovery Fund, c/o Security State Bank, P.O. Box 70, Warroad, MN 56763

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.
Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two-man crew saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere – email: lacourse@mnwildcat

Here's a nice little fish dish that you can make for just yourself, you and a friend, or a whole bunch – simple and good for you too:

HAZELANNE'S FISH DISH

Take some foil and make envelopes. You do this by taking a piece about 18 inches long and folding it over. Fold the sides twice about half an inch each time, leaving the top open. Make one for each person. After the first one it takes about half a minute each. Set oven to 375 degrees.

Thickish fish fillet or steak (1 per person or 2 if they have a large appetite)
Mushrooms (100 g. per person)
Scallions (green onions), 1 per person
Celery, inner stalks, 1 per person
White wine or Martini, 2 1/2 tablespoons per person
Zest of half a lemon
Parsley
Salt
Pepper

Dice mushrooms and celery and place in bowl. Slice onion and add to mushrooms and celery. Add chopped parsley and finely grated lemon zest. Mix thoroughly.

Divide the vegetable mixture evenly and place in foil envelopes.

Salt and pepper the fish and place on top of vegetables in foil. Pour wine over the top and seal envelope by folding over at least twice.

Place envelopes in baking dish and bake for 30-35 minutes.

Serve with small baked potatoes and another vegetable, if desired.

You might have the ingredients for this dish right outside in your own garden. If you use dried herbs, remember to use half or less of the amounts listed for fresh:

ROSEMARY-BLUE CHEESE POTATOES

1 1/2 pounds red potatoes, cut in 1/2 inch cubes
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons blue cheese
1 teaspoon minced fresh rosemary
2 tablespoons minced fresh parsley
1 dash each of salt, pepper and cayenne

Cook potatoes for 10 minutes in rapidly boiling salted water. Drain and set aside.

Melt butter and blue cheese and add rosemary. Combine potatoes and butter mixture and place on ungreased baking sheet.

Bake in preheated 375 degree oven 20 to 25 minutes. Remove from the oven and sprinkle with parsley, salt, pepper and cayenne. Mix well. Serves 6.

This simple, everyday recipe is from Hotel St. Martin in Tulle, France:

FRENCH HOTEL SOUP

Chopped vegetables, whatever you have on hand (potatoes, carrots, turnips, zucchini, corn, squash, broccoli, onion, etc.)
Water to more than cover all of the vegetables
1 stick unsalted butter
Thyme, pepper, salt and parsley to taste

Put vegetables, water, butter, thyme, pepper, salt and parsley in a pot and let simmer for 2 hours. Serve as is or put the cooked soup through the blender for a puree.

Just in case you have an herb garden, here's a delicious way to use some of these herbs in your cooking:

MARINADE FOR GRILLED VEGETABLES

1 cup olive oil
1 cup white wine
1 cup balsamic vinegar
1 tablespoon chopped garlic
1 tablespoon shallots (green onions)
2 teaspoons chopped thyme
2 teaspoons chopped basil
1 teaspoon chopped rosemary
1 teaspoon chopped dill
Salt and pepper to taste

In bowl, mix all ingredients, using salt and pepper as desired.

Use as marinade for vegetables, chicken, meat or fish.

Marinate vegetables overnight.

Just in time for a picnic – we call them barbecues:

JOAN'S SLOPPY JOES

1 pound ground beef
1 tablespoon butter
1 small chopped onion
1 small chopped green pepper
Garlic to taste
Dash salt and pepper
5 tablespoons brown sugar
1 cup ketchup
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 tablespoon mustard

In large skillet, brown onion, green pepper and garlic. Remove from pan and then brown the meat.

Return onion, green pepper and garlic to pan, along with all other ingredients. Simmer about 30 minutes. Serve on hamburger buns (with melted cheese, if desired). May be frozen.

Try this low fat, low cal dip with some of those fresh fruits that are available now:

CREAMY CINNAMON FRUIT DIP

1 (8 ounce) package fat free cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons skim milk
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon orange extract
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
4 cups fresh fruit slices

In medium bowl, mix cream cheese, skim milk, brown sugar, cinnamon, vanilla, orange extract and nutmeg. Beat until smooth. Spoon into serving dish, cover and refrigerate until ready to serve.

Serve with slices of fresh fruit. Fruit slices can be sprinkled with lemon juice to keep them from turning brown.

Recipe serves 8 with 2 tablespoons each. Each serving of dip is 36 calories, trace of fat, 4 g protein, 4 g carb, 4 g chol, 175 mg sodium and no fiber.

Shooting Star hosts Healing of the Nations

For many generations, chemical addictions, violence, and domestic abuse have plagued many tribal nations. While most deal with the aftermath of addiction and its devastating effects on family and community, the "Healing of the Nations" is teaming up with the Shooting Star Casino, Hotel and Event Center to focus on education and prevention to bring healing to the nations.

Beginning Friday morning, September 27, and continuing through Sunday, September 29, the White Earth Nation will host the second annual "Healing of Nations" event to heighten awareness of addiction, bring people into the healing cycle and encourage those in recovery to continue their process. The event is open to clergy, spiritual leaders, counselors and mental health workers, community members, advocates, and of course, those individuals seeking and working toward recovery. The participants will have access to continuing education credits for attending.

The three-day event will consist of speakers, breakout sessions, recovery resources, a traditional feast, nationally known entertainers and even a fireworks display. Interested parties can pre-register for this even by contacting "Healing of the Nations," 37688 Tulaby Lake Drive, Waubun, MN 56589, or by calling Mary Turner at 218-734-2298, or by logging on to the Web site at healingofthenations.com.

Collaborating with Nature registration deadline July 29

Collaborating with Nature, a workshop for writers, teachers and librarians, will be held on Saturday, August 10 at Rainy Lake Visitor's Center near International Falls.

The workshop features Mary Casanova as she addresses stretching beyond self-perceived boundaries; Catherine Friend discussing revision; and Shawndra Shofner and Sheryl Peterson co-leading hands-on writing sessions that will take participants into the park for a close encounter with nature and writing.

The deadline for registration for the workshop is Monday, July 29. For more information or to register, contact Shawndra Shofner at (218) 285-2980.

Head Start offers scholarships

The National Head Start association has announced the availability of the Ann Phipps Memorial Scholarship and the Phyllis J. Jones Memorial Scholarship.

The Phipps Scholarship is a $1,500 national award for Head Start parents who are furthering their education or training. Any Head Start parent currently enrolled or planning to enroll in a four-year college or two-year community college, technical, or vocational school is eligible to apply.

The Jones Scholarship is a $1,500 national and $500 state award for former Head Start children. Any former Head Start child currently enrolled or planning to enroll in a four-year college or two-year community college, technical or vocational school is eligible to apply.

Please contact Northwest Head Start at 1-800-568-5319 or 528-3227 for an application or for more information. The deadline for all scholarship applications is September 16, 2002.

Adoption through Lutheran Social Services

An informational meeting about adoption opportunities available through Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota will be held in Moorhead at the Family Service Center of Clay County, 715 11th Street North, meeting room #4, on Tues., Aug. 6, from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Information will be provided regarding the various adoption programs available through Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota, including International and Interstate Adoptions, Domestic Infant and Open Adoptions, Special Needs, and Identified Adoptions. The home study process, fees, and recent trends in adoption will also be discussed.

The meeting is open to the public at no charge. For more information or to register, call (218) 236-1494.

CORRECTION

A story reprinted in the Northern Watch and taken from The Messenger in Stephen incorrectly stated that it was the decision of the Alma Township Board to destroy the former Alma Township school. The decision was left up to residents of Alma Township in a vote.

"Simply Christy" to perform at Faith Lutheran Brethren

Faith Lutheran Brethren Church in Thief River Falls will host a concert featuring the uplifting and peace-inspiring gospel music of "Simply Christy" on Sunday, July 28 at 7 p.m.

The concert is free and open to everyone. A free-will offering will be taken, and lunch will be served. The church is located at 601 Dewey Ave. N. For more information, call (218) 681-5462.

SMOKING & VISION
Vision is one of man's most precious possessions and should be protected. By smoking, however, tobacco often introduces foreign materials into the body's natural balance and can affect vision. Night vision can be impaired and tobacco smoke can be irritating to the eyelids. With each cigarette smoked, the potential danger exists that the eyes will not continue their normal efficient operation.
Recent research has shown that because of the harmful gases present in cigarette smoke, excessive smoking might produce limitations on total visual ability. An example is the sharp vision needed to operate a car at night. And, of course, there is eye irritation and discomfort that can occur when smoke from a burning tobacco product drifts directly into one's eyes.
There is also evidence that there is a connection between smoking and cataracts.
By quitting smoking now, you can insure good health, improve your night vision and restore the proper oxygen level for your eyes.
In the interest of better vision

progress of each of their tasks.

Since Kraft was the closest, he had the opportunity to scout out places to buy fixtures for the building. Luck was on his side as he came across a Godfather's Pizza in Fargo that had gone out of business, and he quickly scooped up their inventory of booths, tables, chairs, pizza ovens and kitchen appliances.

With Winjum and Hendricks farther away, it was up to them to research and find the appropriate vendors and suppliers.

So, with the money each of them had contributed, and part of their capital coming from a single investor, they were able to get everything together in time for a May 23 grand opening.

Efficiency, one might say, is another component that makes the team work so well together. As soon as school got out, the race was on to get the building and its fixtures and supplies in place, and within one week, they were ready.

Since the opening in May, Kraft noted that things have gone very well. The weekends are pretty busy with Maple and Union Lake visitors, and the weekdays are a bit slower, but steady.

In an effort to draw a younger crowd, the guys are starting to implement events like "movie night," an all-you-can-eat pizza party, and for next summer, they are working on getting a volleyball league together. There was also mention of some catering to events like family reunions and community functions.

As for the future, Kraft says they are all interested in continuing with the business and even hope to expand. They've already started looking at locations in Grand Forks and Bemidji. And, with the ambition these three have, a chain of restaurants doesn't seem very far out of reach.

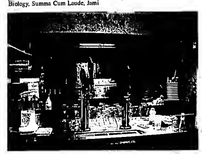
So what's the best thing about being in business for yourself at such a young age? "Most people are impressed," Kraft answered. He says the best compliments are the comments the customers make about how great they think Rhombus is, and how impressed they are that three young men could start such a business.

Of course, the comments and praise and satisfaction of working for yourself are among the highs of owning a business, but a few things you can only learn firsthand. Take the long hours for example. "Be ready to be in it for the long haul," says Kraft. With the hours and work put in to make their business come to fruition, he says there would be no way they could, or would, ever leave the business.

Kraft gives this advice to anyone thinking about starting a business, "Take things in stride, don't get overwhelmed and relax and just go with the flow." He also notes that having partners helps alleviate some of the pressure. "If one of us messes up, the other two are there to catch it."

One of the most unique things about Rhombus is the fact that they deliver, something quite uncommon to the residents of the Maple Lake and Mentor areas. They've been known to bring their pizza as far as the Win-E-Mac Motel in Erskine and out to Union Lake.

So, as for spending their summer vacation working endless hours just about every day of the week, what do you suppose they would say? They love every minute of it and wouldn't change a thing. When a lot of college students their age are just working at restaurants during their break, these three young men own theirs and, impressively, have gotten a pretty good start at what may become lifelong careers.



If you'd like to visit Rhombus House of Pizza, Matt, Arron and Levi invite everyone in the area to come down to Mentor and check it out. They are open Tuesday through Thursday from 4 to 11 p.m., Friday and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 1 a.m., Sunday from 11 a.m to 11 p.m., and they take a break on Mondays when they are closed. They'll deliver to your place, too, if you're within a few miles. Call them at (218) 637-2198.

Oh, and just in case you were wondering, Levi and Arron's favorite pizza is their pepperoni, green pepper and onion, while Matt favors the pepperoni and green olive.

Our loss of Becky has been one of the most traumatic times of our lives. It was unexpected, and we were unprepared. Without the love and support from a very special close-knit family and very special friends and neighbors, it would have been very difficult to endure. We thank those who traveled to be with us and Becky, and those who remembered all of us in their prayers.

Becky was a beautiful person who faced her life's challenges and adversities with grace, dignity and courage. We admire her for that. She is now one of God's precious angels.

We would like to thank Pastor Oahlen for the exceptional and inspirational service, and the ladies of Faith Lutheran Church of Goodridge who served the delicious luncheon at the Goodridge Community Center. A special thanks to those who attended both services. May God bless all of you.

The Board members of the Area Food Shelf wish to thank the community for the ongoing support given to our program this summer.

We realized a profit of $540 from the rummage sale. We want to recognize the generosity of Betty Murphy and Patty Wastey who helped prepare the sale. We appreciate the many donations, especially from the Seventh Day Adventist Social Services and Northern Lights. We thank the pastors of Thief River Falls for advertising the sale in Sunday bulletins.

We have received $10,000 from the Hartz Foundation. This funding will be used for the purchase of food. This level of support is outstanding and we are grateful.

The Super One cards of sponsorship for our program netted $175 during the first month. We are grateful that the community is using this means to support us during the summer, our most critical time for funds. The needs of the hungry continue throughout the year, but during the summer when children are home, families appreciate our services.

The garden that the Pathfinders began in May will soon yield produce which they have promised to the Food Shelf. We want to thank the leaders and staff for their wisdom in seeing this project as an effort to support the needs of the community.

Again, thanks to anyone who has donated or supported us this summer.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Will resignations mean fresh new faces and fresh ideas?

Center for Rural Policy and Development noted in a recent edition of its newsletter that redistricting will have significant repercussions for residents of rural Minnesota – mainly a loss of experienced representatives in the legislature. They point out that it could also be a good thing – fresh new faces, fresh new opinions and viewpoints.

According to the Center for Rural Policy and Development, about 20 percent, or 37 senators and representatives have announced they will not seek another term. This retirement or resignation due to reapportionment will have a more significant impact on rural residents. We knew that, but it still hurts to learn that of those legislators leaving, the more experienced legislators, seem to be coming from rural areas.

Certainly, not all "retirements" were due to redistricting. Some thought it was time to retire. Others left because they didn't want to run against more senior and experienced representatives in their own party. Some left because of the contentiousness of the last legislative session. And I suspect that there were others, like Rep. Tim Finseth, who left because of a desire to spend more time with his young family.

I feel Finseth's decision not to seek re-election did come as a surprise. In his nine years as a legislator, he has served the residents of District 1B admirably, and with distinction. Friends may have noticed that he expressed some frustration with the system, and he may have expressed concern to others that he didn't feel he was spending enough time with his family. Individuals on the periphery would say there wasn't any indication that he would not continue to serve the residents of District 1B.

This most recent redistricting took Thief River Falls away from Finseth and put him in the same district as Bernie Lieder. Lieder (DFL-Crookston) has represented constituents in the communities of Crookston and East Grand Forks since 1984. Lieder is running again.

Finseth, however, age 38, is just now setting aside a political career when many his age are just beginning to think of a political career. In other words, there's no telling where his name will pop up next. It may be in politics.

Individuals far more adept on the subject of politics, have said that if ever there were an opportune time to gracefully bow out, this was the time. According to the Center for Rural Policy and Development, it's not uncommon to see a large turnover following a redistricting year. There was a 40 percent turnover in 1972, 31 percent turnover in 1982 and 25 percent turnover in 1992.

As the sun is shinning and we're finally getting relief from hot and oppressively humid weather, today I have hope – hope that the fresh new faces will mean a less contentious legislative session, and one that reaches some important solutions regarding our budget deficit.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

LETTERS

Letter to the Editor

Dear Readers:

We need your help before a travesty is soon to be commited. It seems the former and still current leadership of St. Anthony's Parish in Terrebonne cannot see the value of keeping our beautiful church as a landmark of Terrebonne Township. You have all seen her before, gleaming bell tower and stately steeples proudly standing on a hill off Highway 92. She overlooks the prairie farmland tilled by generations of faithful churchgoers, protecting the sacred dead buried there.

Even though a passionate plea to preserve her through a nonprofit group that is currently forming, called the St. Anthony's Preservation Society was made, members and non-members voted last Thursday to burn, crush, pack, mutilate and bury our 107-year-old mother church. The preservation society lost by only 11 votes. Sure the wind has pushed her a little, and she needs some paint and shingle repair, but her stately and graceful posture is still a welcome sight to many travelers approaching and passing through Terrebonne Township. Insurance money has even been paid for her repair, and substantial church funds are also available, but her detractors feel that the money should be used for grounds upkeep rather than to preserve this picturesque church building.

I find it hard to understand why hope has been given up by some of the faithful that once responded to the chiming of the bell as a call to worship our Lord. Please help us before it's too late. An outcry by the public to save St. Anthony's is needed to sway the opinions of those opposed. St. Anthony's Preservation Society has already received pledges of more than $20,000 to be used toward maintaining and repairing the church as a historical site right where she currently stands. The church is in good structural condition and has withstood a century of windstorms. Don't let them tell you it is going to fall down or it is unsafe. The preservation society wants to honor the memory of the 1,035 dead buried there and to preserve the history of a French culture in northern Minnesota that is quickly disappearing.

I am saddened to think that those wanting to demolish her cannot see the simple beauty of keeping her alive and standing right where she is or the value as a visual reminder of our Christian faith every time we drive by. For many of you, St. Anthony's is where you were baptized, confirmed or married. For faithful others, it had been a place to worship in an intimate country church setting. My father, grandfather and great grandfather helped build her and are now buried there. I believe it is not only our responsibility but our duty as living stewards to preserve this heritage built by our forefathers.

Please help to save this treasure of Red Lake County. Call the church leaders and ask them to allow St. Anthony's Preservation Society to save and maintain this lovely church building for future generations to come. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Terence Derasier (son of the late George Anthony Derasier)

Wellstone, Dayton press for disaster aid for farmers

Senators Mark Dayton (D-MN) and Paul Wellstone (D-MN) spoke on the Senate floor July 24 urging the immediate passage of agriculture emergency disaster assistance for farmers who have been hit by recent disasters in Minnesota and elsewhere nationwide. The aid would benefit any producer that has been affected by a natural disaster, including those in the 19 Minnesota counties recently hit with severe flooding. President Bush's opposition has prevented action on emergency agriculture disaster aid this year.

"I understand there are emergency funding needs in other areas. The fires in the West have caused much damage, which I believe we must respond to and believe we will. But let me be clear: we cannot help some people and not others. This Administration has said no to Minnesota farmers and farmers throughout the Midwest who have been devastated by floods. Senator Dayton and I have come to the floor today to put my colleagues on notice. If any appropriations bill includes assistance for fire or any other disaster, we will slow up that bill – we will stop that bill if we need to – until we get a commitment for emergency disaster assistance for the farmers in Minnesota, Nebraska, South Dakota and other states where there have been natural disasters. For the people we represent, time is not neutral. People need help now. And we intend to make the Senate address this issue," Wellstone said.

"The Senate Farm Bill had disaster assistance funding in it. The House of Representatives and the Administration would not agree to the inclusion of that assistance. Now, 19 counties in Minnesota have been declared disaster areas, because of flooding in June that has turned whole fields into giant lakes by torrential rains two weeks in a row. It's heartbreaking to see that people who have been struggling, some of whom lost their crop last year, were wiped out entirely, or almost entirely, this year. It's imperative that the Senate, House, and Administration join together on this issue," Dayton said.

The Minnesota Farm Service Agency estimates that over two million acres have been affected by the recent floods. Monetary losses are expected to be in the hundreds of millions, even after reimbursements are given to farmers with federal crop insurance.

The Senators have joined with Representative Collin Peterson (D-MN) in calling on the President to support disaster aid to farmers, and recently introduced legislation in the Senate which would authorize up to $5.5 billion in financial assistance to farmers across the country who suffered crop and livestock losses in 2001 and 2002.

Minnesota unemployment rates down

Minnesota's seasonally-adjusted unemployment rates for June fell to 4 percent from May's rate of 4.2%. This compares to a national average of 5.9 percent in June.

A large deck serves as a trendy outdoor seating area for diners at the Rhombus House of Pizza in Mentor. The restaurant, which opened in May, serves the entire Maple Lake pizza-eating population.

Minnesota traffic deaths hit 300 year to-date

As of Tuesday, July 23, traffic fatalities in Minnesota reached 300 – a milestone that sets a pace for this year to be the worst year in road fatalities since 1981.

Last year at this time, there were 264 known traffic fatalities in Minnesota. Passing the 300 mark this week reflects a 14 percent increase for 2002. At this rate, the Office of Traffic Safety (OTS) projects almost 650 deaths for the year, or an average of nearly two per day.

"We've had much media coverage of traffic crashes and driving behavior this summer – prom night tragedies, road rage incidents and repeat drunken drivers," says Kathy Swanson, OTS director. "The often untold footnote is that so many of the traffic fatalities could be prevented if motorists just wore seat belts."

Swanson also attributes the record pace to the traditional contributing factors to crashes and resulting fatalities – speeding, impaired driving and inattentive motorists.

The latest fatality, an 84-year-old woman, was killed in a two-car collision at about noon yesterday on Highway 47 in Kanabec County. Included in the 300 deaths this year were 18 motorcyclists, 18 pedestrians and one bicyclist.

Assistant coach joins Pioneers staff in both volleyball, basketball

A former Northland Community and Technical College athlete has returned to NCTC as an assistant coach in both volleyball and women's basketball.

Karis (Flom) Antikainen, an Orr native and a 2001 Northland graduate who played both volleyball and basketball for the Pioneers, will assist Mike Zachow in both sports.

"I am looking forward to the challenge of coaching," Antikainen said in a school news release. "Northland has excellent athletic programs that I am proud to be a member of once again."

"Karis is a great athlete who will relate well to our players," noted Zachow. "She has experience with almost every position on the court and has a patience and understanding that will make her a good teacher."

Antikainen joins Kathy Huschle as an assistant coach in volleyball and will work with current assistant Dan Zubich in basketball.

Moorhead runner Jon Matter was tagged out at the plate by Thief River Falls catcher Tyler Bettin in the third inning of Thursday's American Legion baseball doubleheader opener at the Multi-Events Center.

Blues add to Post 117 streak

Winning momentum will not accompany Thief River Falls into the 2002 Ninth District Division I American Legion baseball tournament. The eight-team double-elimination event begins Wednesday in Perham.

Regular season play ended Thursday for Post 117 in 8-3, 12-6 doubleheader losses at the hands of Moorhead at the Multi-Events Center.

It was the fourth twinbill sweep suffered by the Jamie McEnelly team in a week's span that also included a pair of defeats at the hands of East Grand Forks Thursday (July 18), Roseau Sunday and Detroit Lakes Tuesday.

McEnelly probably knew his team was going to have trouble with the Blues when Thief River Falls got first-inning, first-game doubles from Kjell Johnsrud and Dane Kjono, but failed to score. Johnsrud led off with a drive to center field. One-out later he was held up waiting to see if Kjono's fly ball to right was going to fall in. It did, and Kjono got a two-bagger out of it, only to see his potential RBI sitting at third when the play ended.

Moorhead won the first game on the strength of back-to-back four-run innings in the third and fourth.

It was scoreless, but the bases were loaded with one out in the third when clean-up batter Everett Fjeld tripled to center field. He scored on an infield ground-out.

Bottom three hitters in the Moorhead line-up – Shane Bushland, Brad Holschuch and Jon Matter – opened the fourth with consecutive singles. With one out, an infield error scored two runs, and with two out, Fjeld bounced a ground ball through the right side for two more runs, giving him five RBI for the game.

Thief River Falls took the shutout off the board in the sixth when three straight one-out singles by David Lovly, Ben Weigelt and Gabe Carlson loaded the bases. Moorhead then threw the ball away trying to complete a double play, allowing two runners to cross the plate.

Zack Collins walked to start the bottom of the seventh. An errant pick-off move allowed pinch-runner Chris Lian to go from first to third, and he scored on a Kjono single.

Moorhead got out of the blocks in Game 2 with three straight hard-hit balls that chased first-game reliever and second-game starter Gabe Carlson. The 2-0 headstart became 9-2 by the fourth inning.

"Moorhead is a good team, but a team we can beat," said McEnelly. "The thing is, we have to play good defense to do it. We had enough base runners, but we have to play good defense to beat these kinds of teams."

Amateur baseball Sunday at Multi-Events Center...

Thieves host playoff contest

A two-team district tournament will feature a single nine-inning title-deciding game Sunday when Thief River Falls hosts Roseau at 5 p.m. on the Multi-Events Center complex diamond.

Winner gains an automatic berth into the Region 8C tournament. The loser must earn it's way out of a playoff field featuring other district runner-ups for a right to compete at the regional level.

The two teams split a pair of regular season meetings. Thief River Falls won an 11-4 decision at Roseau June 7, with Roseau emerging a 10-8 winner in a suspended 15-inning contest completed July 16.

That second one was carried over from a July 9 weather-forced suspended game in Thief River Falls. Officials planned to finish it just prior to the start of a regularly-scheduled contest at Roseau. However, because of the length of the effort, the second game that night was called off.

A Sunday, July 21, doubleheader at Kennedy that was going to be the Thieves' final regular season outing, was called off by Kennedy officials.

Thief River Falls will take a 5-13 record into post-season play.

Detroit Lakes Legion sweeps TRF 6-0, 8-5

Detroit Lakes took advantage of Thief River Falls mistakes Tuesday to win both games in a Ninth District American Legion baseball doubleheader at Washington Park, 6-0 and 8-5.

Post 117, coming off disappointing 5-3, 10-2 Sunday twinbill losses at home to Roseau, had an improved showing against the Lakers, explained Thief River Falls coach Jamie McEnelly, but errors still played prominently in the outcome of both games.

Thief River Falls had just two Game 1 errors, but they were "big ones," according to McEnelly, whose team gave up two unearned runs in third inning and watched Detroit Lakes double a 3-0 lead while pushing two more unearned runs across the plate in the sixth.

"It wasn't a bad game," noted McEnelly. "Dane Kjono pitched well."

Three second-game Thief River Falls errors were also a factor as Detroit Lakes overcame an early 3-0 deficit with three-run at-bats in the second and third innings.

"We played much better than we did against Roseau, but we misplayed the ball at key times," mentioned McEnelly. "We're making the errors on routine stuff."

TRF tops Greenbush Trap Club to win '02 Foxtail Trophy shoot

Renewal of the annual Foxtail Trophy shoot resulted in a 1110-1008 Thief River Falls victory over Greenbush in July 18 trap club shooting.

Six shooters came up with a perfect 50 during the 2002 competition, including Korl Bjorkman, LeRoy Christianson, Peter Tri, and Darryl Cymbaluk of Thief River Falls, along with Trent Sovde and Fran Johnson of Greenbush.

Thief River Falls also had seven shooters with a 49, including Dave Dupree, Kurt Dupree, Tom Greelis, Bob Beaudry, Carl Strand, Dennis Zulawski, and Keith Lienes.

Ashley Holthusen signs Pioneer volleyball letter

Ashley Holthusen of Grygla has signed a letter of intent to play volleyball at Northland Community and Technical College.

Holthusen was a two-year captain of the Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke cooperative high school volleyball program.

"Ashley is a very talented player who will bring a lot of enthusiasm to the team," said Northland coach Mike Zachow.

The Pioneers begin practice Aug. 10. They will open the 2002 season Saturday, Aug. 24, at the Fergus Falls Invitational.

Football cheerleading tryouts are set Aug. 6

High school football cheerleading tryouts for the 2002 season will be held Tuesday, Aug. 6.

The event will take place in the Challenger Elementary School gym beginning at 7 p.m.

RLI
Deciding to sell, buy, or complete a tax deferred exchange on farmland can be a difficult and complicated process. I can help identify owner/investor goals and objectives, represent them as a designated agent, and guide them through the entire marketing and sales process. I am very familiar with the farm real estate sales process and will put to work my years of experience in achieving your sales/purchase goal. Much more is involved than just putting up a for sale sign or placing an ad in the local newspaper.
Farmland is a proven investment. You need a proven, professional farm brokerage firm to represent you in the real estate sales transaction. Often I can obtain a better price for property with my experience and vast array of available resources.

Area cities receive grant from Northwest Minnesota Foundation

Northwest Minnesota Foundation recently awarded a grant for $19,000 to a coalition of six cities that has come together to conduct a region-wide tourism study. The cities, members of two separate tourism associations, are Crookston, East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls, Baudette, Warroad and Roseau. Northwest Regional Development Commission will act as the fiscal agent for the project.

The partners are hoping that this survey will provide information to help expand the tourism industry in their communities and in the region. Results will be used to enhance current marketing efforts and learn trends for future tourism growth.

NMF Executive Director John Ostrem said, "There is a need for good, current information in the region, which can be used to increase the economic status of the area." He said, "This type of partnership project and study can have a significant bearing on future tourism that the individual communities could not learn by themselves."

The Northwest Minnesota Foundation is a charitable foundation committed to improving the quality of life for residents in twelve counties of northwest Minnesota by investing resources, creating opportunities and promoting philanthropy.

"Everybody's Market" booth registration open

The Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce is accepting applications for booth space for the "Everybody's Market," which is scheduled for September 14.

The Market will be held in front of downtown businesses and at Floyd B. Olson Park, or in the Huck Olson Arena in the case of rain. It will run from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

A booth will cost $20. Applications are available at the Chamber office, which can be reached at 681-3720.

Chamber of Commerce accepts nominations for Beautification awards

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce is accepting applications for Thief River Falls Beautification Awards. This awards program is a Chamber of Commerce annual event, which emphasizes the beautification and physical improvements of residential, commercial and public institution properties throughout the City of Thief River Falls. The Chamber of Commerce invites the participation of the entire community in the nomination process.

There are three categories: residential, landscaped business, and public institution or church. The residential beautification category applies to residential properties with areas for lawn, plants, and shrubs. Judges will consider overall appearance, eye appeal, and best use of trees, shrubs and flowers. The landscaped business category applies to properties with areas for law, plants and shrubs. Judges will be checking for trimming, watering, mowing, condition of lot, building and signage. They will also check for weed control, trash picked up, dumpster areas, and lot striping. Flowers and plants really add to this category. The criteria for the public institution or church category is the same as for landscaped business.

Please call nominations in to the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce office at 681-3720 prior to Friday, August 9, 2002.

administered twice within a three to six-week period to be effective.

Public health officials throughout the nation have been on the lookout for West Nile Virus since 1999, when the virus first made its appearance in the New York City area. That was the first time the virus had been reported in the U.S.

Since then, the virus has slowly been spreading to other parts of the country, most likely through the migration of birds infected with the virus.

Virus activity has now been reported in 33 states. Since 1999, at least 152 human cases of West Nile Virus-related encephalitis have been reported nationwide, and 18 people have died of the illness. People in 10 states have developed the illness during that time, although a majority of those cases have been reported in New York City and surrounding states, and in Florida.

Although MDH officials are recommending that people take steps to protect themselves against the virus, they say the risk of any individual Minnesotan developing the illness is very small. They also point out that viral, mosquito-borne encephalitis is nothing new in our state.

"This is a serious, potentially fatal illness, and we don't want to underplay its significance," said Dr. Harry Hull, Minnesota's State Epidemiologist. "However, the odds that you'll be bitten by an infected mosquito are very low. And even if you are bitten by a mosquito that carries the virus, it's unlikely that you'll become seriously ill. Most of the time, people don't even experience any symptoms."

Fewer than one person out of ever 150 who are exposed to the virus will actually develop encephalitis, Dr. Hull noted.

In that respect, the virus is not that different from LaCrosse encephalitis, which is also caused by a mosquito-borne virus - and has long been recognized as a public health threat in this part of the country. LaCrosse causes around five cases of serious illness a year in Minnesota, primarily in the Twin Cities area and the southeastern part of the state.

Symptoms of a serious mosquito-borne encephalitis infection, which generally occur in less than one percent of people exposed to the virus, can include headache, high fever, stiff neck, stupor, coma, tremors, convulsions, muscle weakness and paralysis.

Both LaCrosse and West Nile Virus can be life-threatening. But West Nile Virus does differ from LaCrosse in one important way: Serious cases of LaCrosse encephalitis tend to occur in children and adolescents under the age of 16, while serious cases of West Nile Virus have so far tended to occur in older people. The average age of patients with a serious West Nile Virus infections is 68.

To lower the risk of infection with West Nile Virus or LaCross, officials recommend:

- avoiding outdoor activities at dusk and dawn, when mosquitoes are most likely to be feeding;
- wearing long-sleeve shirts and long pants if you have to spend time in an area where mosquitoes are biting;
- protecting yourself with a good mosquito repellent, containing up to 30 percent of the active ingredient DEET; and
- eliminating possible mosquito-breeding sites on and around your property – including items like old tires, buckets, clogged rain gutters, bird baths, cans and other containers, and anything else that can hold a small amount of water.

Minnesota officials stepped up their surveillance for West Nile Virus earlier this month, after the West Nile Virus encephalitis was reported in a horse near Grand Forks, N.D.

Like other states, Minnesota has been testing mosquitoes for the virus, and officials have also been on the alert for cases of West Nile Virus-related illness in humans, horses and birds. These surveillance activities have been a joint effort of MDH, the Minnesota Board of Animal Health, the Metropolitan Mosquito Control District, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory at the University of Minnesota, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

More information about West Nile Virus and other forms of mosquito-borne encephalitis is available on the MDH Web site at www.health.state.mn.us.

Office on a regular basis.

Law enforcement dogs like Magnum go through six to eight weeks of training before being sold to police and sheriff departments around the country. Jesme continues to hold training sessions with Magnum several times per week for tracking, finding drugs, officer protection, building searches and whatever else the Sheriff's Office needs him for.

Jesme says when he leaves Magnum in his squad car, he leaves the air conditioner on.

wasn't too bad for a passport that's valid for 10 years, he added. This increase is pretty substantial, however.

Most customers apply at the over 5,000 designated passport application acceptance facilities across the United States. There are 760 such facilities in the Seattle Passport Agency's 11-state region. With routine processing, passports are received within six weeks. Those needing expedited service pay the additional fee, plus two-way overnight delivery, and receive their passports within two weeks. Those needing their passports in less than 14 days – for travel or to obtain foreign visas – need to make an appointment at the Seattle Passport Agency by calling (206) 808-5700.

For other passport information, downloadable application forms, locations to conveniently apply, a list of all Regional Passport Agencies, and a wealth of other passport and travel information, customers may visit the Bureau of Consular Affairs' Web site at travel.state.gov. Customers may also call the National Passport Information Center at 1-900-225-5674 or, with a major credit card, at 1-888-362-8668.

CSAH 13 shut down due to area collapsing

Oklee - CSAH 13 has been shut down due to a slope in the roadway that has been collapsing. The highway department cut the slope down by six feet to make the road 55 safe.

Last fall, while building CSAH 13, crews left ruts in one of the owners' land. The owner, who was very angry about ruts, refuses to let the highway department on his property to repair ruts. The owner also refuses to let the highway department on his land to repair the collapsing slope.

The County Highway Department will not open the road until the slope is fixed. The county also states that Garden Valley Telephone has cable near that site that will affect telephone service if the slope is not repaired. Out of concern for the public, the board passed the motion. – by Shelly Meoder, the Oklee Herald, August 1, 2002

Dan Chapa files for Polk Sheriff

Crookston – 22 year law enforcement veteran Dan Chapa has put in his bid for Polk County Sheriff.

"I have some long-term goals that I believe will bring about positive changes in the department," reflected Chapa.

Of these goals, Officer Chapa expressed a need for more efficiency, added clarity to the role each office plays in the department, as well as a tightening in the management of the budget.

"I don't expect to implement any immediate change," he explained. "I would want to carefully assess our current situation in the department and then slowly enact the needed changes."

"I guess I've wanted this career all of my life," he said. – By Kim Thompson, The 13 towns.

Slow progress on Hwy. 1 with school near is a worry

Warren – Warren Mayor Richard Nelson attended the weekly construction briefing on the Hwy. 1 project in Warren Tuesday morning and was disappointed to find no representative of the prime contractor, Spruce Valley Corporation, present.

Nelson also asked about the project construction schedule and was told by Ray Gust, MN/DOT construction engineer for the site, he estimates Spruce Valley is at least three weeks behind schedule.

The contractor has other construction projects in the area, which Louis Cater of Spruce Valley is also overseeing. A major project at St. Hilaire is "in good shape," the MN/DOT engineers said, and Nelson wondered whether extra manpower and equipment could be applied to the Highway 1 project when the St. Hilaire work is done.

Nelson said he is very concerned because classes at Warren/Alvarado/Oslo schools will be back in session in 5 weeks. He said he is concerned about school bus access through the construction work and also about children walking to school. – The Warren Sheaf, July 31, 2002

USDA confirms West Nile virus in more horses

The Minnesota Board of Animal Health has announced that West Nile virus has been confirmed in four Minnesota horses through testing conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Veterinary Services Laboratories (NVSL) in Ames, Iowa.

The West Nile infections - Minnesota's first confirmed cases in horses - involve single horses in Hennepin, Clay, Roseau and Beltrami counties. The Board has confirmed that at least one of the horses died. Last week, the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) found the virus in dead birds from Hennepin and Mille Lacs counties.

Three of the four infected horses had previously tested positive in preliminary screening tests. The fourth had not been tested. In addition to the four confirmed West Nile infections, veterinarians have reported 10 other Minnesota horses suspected of having the virus. Blood or tissue samples from each of those animals will be analyzed at NVSL to determine if the West Nile virus is the culprit.

West Nile virus can cause a form of encephalitis, an inflammation of the brain and spinal cord. Birds serve as the host for the virus, which is spread by mosquitoes to other birds and animals such as horses and humans. Neither humans nor horses can spread the disease.

West Nile virus was first found in North America in 1999 during an outbreak in New York City. Since then, West Nile infections have been confirmed in many eastern and southern states. In recent weeks, cases have been reported in birds and horses in Texas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and North Dakota. The virus was also previously found in birds in Wisconsin and Iowa. A total of 733 equine cases of West Nile virus were reported in 2001.

The Board of Animal Health and the Department of Health work together to watch for the virus in Minnesota. State law requires

Lightning gives resident a jolt

by David Hill
Editor

Gladys Thompson received a pretty loud wake-up Wednesday morning.

"When this one hit, I left the bed. I don't remember climbing out of bed, but the next thing I knew I was standing beside my bed," said Thompson.

A summer thunderstorm swept through the area Wednesday morning. The quick downpours of rain didn't cause much damage, but the lightning gave people something to talk about. The lightning strike at the Thompson residence, located just north of where the old Long's bridge used to cross the Thief River, appeared to have struck one or two trees in a clump of trees located about 10 feet from the house. Instead of splitting, one of the elm trees appeared to have exploded. Splinters from the tree were found on the other side of the two-and-one-half story house, on the roof, and within a 50-foot or so radius of the trees.

For the most part the lightning strike didn't cause any damage to the house. Thompson said it knocked items from the wall, caused the battery on her cordless phone to drain, and tripped one breaker – the breaker for her toaster and coffee machine.

Thompson has had lightning strike close to the house before. Some years back, lightning struck a tree next to the house. That time, she said she smelled smoke.

Thompson said this one hit sometime around 6:15 a.m. and 6:30 a.m. She was already awake because of a headache, but this lightning strike got her out of bed.

Gladys Thompson was an eye-witness to a demonstration of the power of lightning early Wednesday morning. The lightning struck one or two trees next to the house.

Theater group in TRF performs "Cinderella"

Version of "Cinderella" performed at NCTC from August 6-11

Rodgers and Hammerstein's version of the classic fairy tale "Cinderella" will be performed at 7 p.m. from August 6-10 and at 2 p.m. on August 11 at Northland Community and Technical College. The summer theater production in Thief River Falls is sponsored by the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council, and by grants provided by the Northwest Regional Development Commission through funding from the Minnesota State Arts Board, the Minnesota State Legislature and the McKnight Foundation.

Tickets to the performance are $8.50 and can be obtained at Hugo's in Thief River Falls or at the door.

Rodgers and Hammerstein's version of the classic fairy tale was created specifically as a made-for-television movie, and it featured Julie Andrews as Cinderella. It is a whimsical look at the classic fairy tale coupled with classic Rodgers and Hammerstein music. There are a few differences from the fairy tale. The Godmother, for example, is totally in command. She's another of Hammerstein's "destiny" figures, changing people's lives. Hammerstein didn't like fantasy so he made her less a fairy waving a wand than an interloper poking at people to get the romance working. In addition, the King and Queen are lovable, and the Stepmother and step-sisters are selfish rather than vicious. While it seems that this show is a significant departure from the classic fairy tale, the sets were created with the fairy tale in mind and are bordered much like a cartoon.

Director of the production in Thief River Falls, Vanessa K. Anderson, encourages everyone to come and enjoy the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council's production of "Cinderella." "There's something for everyone in this show," she said. "And you'll love my cast. They rock!"

Cast members include: JoAnna Swantek as Cinderella, David Edwards as the Prince, Shara Gindry as the Godmother, Mallory Asp as the Queen, Dane Jenson as the King, Adrianne Erickson as the Stepmother, Tyla Preain as Joy, and Haeli Stokke as Portia.

Other cast members include: Calli Adamson as the younger sister, Hailey Bayne as the bad girl, Brittanie Bieganek as a townsperson, Natasha Bottem as a townsperson, Cole Bylander as father,

Rare passenger train shows off NW Minnesota

by Andy Cummings
Reporter

It was May 31, 1952 when the last scheduled passenger train ran over the Great Northern Railroad between Thief River Falls and Warroad. But last Sunday, the track, now owned by the Minnesota Northern Railroad, hosted a passenger train once again.

Riding the train were five crew members and 11 "rare mileage collectors," people who ride passenger trains on routes that no longer see regular passenger service. This trip was set up by Minneapolis-based High Iron Travel, owned by Clark Johnson.

"The idea is to travel as many rare railroad miles as possible," said Nona Hill, Johnson's wife. Both Hill and Johnson came along for the ride. "It happens to be Clark's hobby, too," she said.

Garden Café in Middle River offers something new

This is the first part in a series of eight feature stories that focus on the Northern Watch region's Young Business Leaders.

by Jenny Nicholson
Reporter

"Mom, there's nothing to do.." A common phrase heard from young people everywhere, especially during the summer months when there is no school.

Things have changed, though, for the youth of the Middle River area. They now have something to do and a new place to do it.

On June 1, the cafe in Middle River, formerly known as the Rex, was bought by Todd and Colleen Peterson. They made a few renovations to the cafe and re-opened as the Garden Café after the former owners parted. They have, however, made one big change - the area in the back that used to be a double car garage, has been remodeled into a community room for the kids in town.

The Rex Café had been for sale for almost a year when Colleen thought about buying it. At first, Todd wasn't quite sure if they should or not, but Colleen talked him into it and they went ahead and purchased it. Colleen had spent some time managing the Paradise Café, which gave her the confidence and expertise she needed to run her own restaurant.

As they were working on getting the place ready for re-opening, Todd came up with the idea for the game room. Since Colleen has been on the Middle River Community Club board for the last three years, she knows how it can be difficult to find activities for the older children to participate in. They decided a community game room would be just what they needed.

They applied for a Northwest Minnesota Foundation grant but were denied because their project wasn't "educational" enough. The community, however, thought it was a wonderful idea and the donations started pouring in. An account was set up just for the funds that would be used for the game room. All together, they received $3,100 from the citizens. The Petersons set aside some of their own money to be used along the way and started work on the game room.

The space once used as a double-car garage now holds two pool tables, a foosball table, arcade games, sofas and an entertainment center including a rather nice stereo system which was donated

A new window sign gives The Garden Café a fresh new look. The cafe was recently purchased by Todd and Colleen Peterson, who made a few renovations and added a community game room which is open every day.

Grinding day at Old Mill State Park

Old Mill State Park-Ready for a glimpse of history at Old Mill State Park? The Case 359 steam engine will be fired up and the granite millstones will be turning on Sunday, August 25, 2002 from 1 to 4 p.m.

Fresh wheat bread, homemade butter and Aunt Cookie's Red Rhubarb Spreadable Fruit will be available to try, thanks to the Friends of Old Mill State Park and Terry Potucek.

Look for a special surprise guest on site and other demonstrations throughout the day. Old-fashioned food will be available from the Viking Volcanoes 4-H club all afternoon, including fresh homemade doughnuts. Fresh ground flour and bran will also be available from the Marshall County Historical Society.-The North Star News, August 1, 2002.

Lightning struck one or two trees near the Gladys Thompson residence early Wednesday morning. The summer thunderstorm deposited some rain, but gave most residents an early wake up. Parts of the tree flew over the two-and-one-half story house and debris was found within a 50-foot radius. Sheltered below the branches of the trees is a playhouse.

Pennington Co. dive team helps recover body

A two boat accident on Lake of the Woods left an Ontario man dead Wednesday night off the coast of Minnesota's Northwest Angle.

The body of Duane Patrick Blackhawk, 37, Northwest Angle Reserve, Ont., was recovered from the water Thursday morning by the Lake of the Woods Sheriff's Office, Pennington County Dive Team and the Ontario Provincial Police Marine Unit.

Blackhawk's passenger, Jerri Begs-His-Own, 36, also from Northwest Angle Reserve, Ont., was transported to Roseau Area Hospital.

The other boat's driver was Kevin Westberg, 23, Angle Inlet. He and his passenger, Robert Vickaryous, 16, Roseau, reported only minor injuries.

According to Lake of the Woods County Sheriff Robert Paulseth, the accident was reported at 11:14 p.m. Wednesday. They made an attempt to rescue Blackhawk that evening but were unsuccessful. It was the next morning, with the assistance of the Pennington County Dive Team and Ontario Provincial Police's Marine Unit that they were able to recover the body.

Paulseth said this is not the first time he has been assisted by the Dive Team. "It's been a valuable resource," he said.

It does not appear that alcohol was a major factor in the collision, but the Lake of the Woods County Sheriff's Office is still investigating.

This is the time to take advantage of all of the tasty fruits at the market now. You can use some of those fruits in today's recipes.

My daughter made this for my granddaughter's birthday party last week. It was wonderful. Try fat free or low fat cream cheese to cut back on the calories:

FRUIT PIZZA*
Shannon Smidt

Crust:
1 cup softened butter
2 cups flour
1/2 cup powdered sugar
Filling:
16 ounces cream cheese, room temperature
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
Fruit of choice

To make crust, mix butter, flour and powdered sugar until crumbly. Press into jelly roll pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 12 minutes or until golden. Cool.

Mix cream cheese, sugar and vanilla until creamy. Spread over cooled crust.

Place a variety of fruit over the filling and refrigerate until ready to serve. If you think the fruits will be too tart, sprinkle with sugar.

This recipe for fruit pizza is from the Challenger cookbook – It has a glaze and uses almond extract in the filling instead of vanilla. It sounds good too:

GRANDMA'S FRUIT PIZZA
Tyler Gagner

Crust:
1/2 cup powdered sugar
1 1/2 cups flour
3/4 cups sugar
Filling:
8 ounces cream cheese
1 teaspoon almond extract
1/2 cup powdered sugar
Fresh fruit, cut up
Glaze:
3/4 cup water
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup sugar
3/4 cup orange juice

Lightly grease jelly roll pan. Set oven at 350 degrees. With mixer, blend crust ingredients. Mix until it turns to dough. Pat on pan and bake 15-20 minutes until very light brown. Cool.

Mix filling ingredients. Spread filling on crust and layer with fresh fruit. Suggestions for fruit are kiwi, strawberries, grapes, mandarin oranges and bananas (dip in lemon juice to keep from discoloring). Any fruit may be used, just remember to dip those that discolor in lemon juice.

In saucepan, bring glaze ingredients to boil. Cool a few minutes, then spoon over pizza. Chill 1 hour.

There may be enough glaze for 2 pizzas.

Cherry cobbler would be wonderful, but so would blueberry, peach, apple, or other berries – try them all. Serve with whipped cream or ice cream or frozen yogurt:

CHERRY COBBLER
Matthew Wilson

1 1/4 cups sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
4 cups pitted cherries
1/4 cup cinnamon
1 teaspoon lemon juice
3 tablespoons shortening
1 cup flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Mix sugar, cornstarch, cherries and lemon juice. Cook until thick. Pour into 2 quart casserole dish.

In bowl, mix flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut shortening into this until crumbly. Stir in milk, stirring just until moistened.

Drop onto cherry mixture by spoonfuls. Bake 25-30 minutes.

Here's another Challenger cookbook recipe – this one for those favorite fruits, strawberries – and it sounds really easy too:

STRAWBERRY PIE
Ms. Jan Peterson

1 baked pie shell
1 tablespoon strawberry gelatin
1 cup hot water
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup sugar
1 pint fresh strawberries, sliced

Mix gelatin, hot water, cornstarch and sugar in saucepan. Cook over medium heat until thick. Remove from heat and stir in sliced strawberries. Cool.

Pour into baked pie shell and refrigerate.

This recipe was in the most recent issue of "Taste of Home" magazine. I had to try it. Use regular ingredients or fat-free for a treat for those on special diets:

BANANA CREAM PIE*

1 cup cold milk
1 (3.4 ounce) package instant vanilla pudding mix
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 (12 ounce) container thawed frozen whipped topping)
1 graham cracker pie crust (9 inch)
2 medium firm bananas, sliced

In bowl, beat milk and pudding mix on low speed for 2 minutes. Beat in vanilla. Fold in 3 cups of whipped topping.

Pour 1 1/3 cups of pudding mixture into pie crust. Top with banana slices and then remaining pudding mixture. Garnish with remainder of whipped topping. Makes 8 servings.

(Made with fat-free milk, sugar-free pudding mix, reduced fat whipped topping and a reduced fat graham cracker crust, each serving contains 274 calories, 8 g fat, 1 mg chol, 612 mg sodium, 43 g carb, 1 g fiber, 3 g protein. Diabetic Exchange equals 2 starch, 1 fruit, 1 fat.)

Deadline for FEMA aid nears

Tuesday, August 13, is the last day for northwest Minnesota residents affected by this June's flooding to register for aid with the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

The Minnesota Department of Public Safety is encouraging everybody affected by the flooding in the 13-county disaster area to apply if they haven't already. "Don't assume you aren't eligible for assistance," said Jerry Rosendahl, state coordinating officer and Minnesota Director of Emergency Management.

FEMA will continue to process applications from those who applied before the deadline, but will not accept any new applications after August 13.

To register for aid, call (800) 621-3362. Hearing and speech impaired individuals can register at (800) 462-7585.

The 13 counties eligible are Becker, Beltrami, Clay, Clearwater, Itasca, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, McLeod, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau and Wright.

15 die in crashes over the weekend

Fifteen people died in Minnesota over the weekend of July 28-29 in motor vehicle crashes, bringing the state's total up to 324 fatalities this year, according to the Minnesota Department of Public Safety.

The DPS also says 95 percent of crashes are caused by human error, such as driving while intoxicated, driving too fast, driving while distracted or driving too aggresively.

Pioneer Village to host Community Block Party

The Pioneer Village in Thief River Falls will be the site of a Community Block Party on August 6 beginning at 4:30 p.m. Mayor Mark Borsheim, the Thief River Falls City Council and City staff invite all residents to come out and celebrate.

Not only will it be a celebration honoring Thief River Falls as a great place to live, but August 6 is also National Night Out, a nationwide event held to recognize the progress toward cleaning up neighborhood crime and drugs in individual cities and towns. Thief River Falls is one of only two northern Minnesota communities to participate in National Night Out.

The Pioneer Village, with the history and heritage of Thief River Falls displayed throughout the park, will be an excellent setting for the event. It will also give everyone an opportunity to thank law enforcement personnel, community leaders and other residents for their part in making Thief River Falls a better place to live.

Hot dogs, chips, watermelon and beverages will be prepared by the Kiwanis Club and served from 5 to 6 p.m. by Mayor Borsheim and the City Council. Ice cream floats will be served in the Inga Geving Museum at the same time. There will be face painting, sack races and other activities with prizes for kids from 5 to 6:30 p.m. At 6:15 p.m., the presidents of the DARE and GREAT programs will give a presentation. Miss TRF will take the stage at that time as well. Drawings for an electric grill, two bicycles and other prizes will take place at 6:30 p.m. Throughout the afternoon, entertainment will be provided by Vern Rogalla, Art Heinze, the Trinity Trio, Joe Kezar & The Wood Piks, and Cindy Onka.

Everyone is invited to come out and take part in this festive occasion.

A new countertop adds to the charm of the small, but cozy dining area of The Garden Café. Todd and Colleen Peterson took over the café in June and have since added a community game room which is open to the kids every day at no charge.

by the Sponsmen's Club. Colleen says the space is still being worked on, but it has been open to the kids for a while now.

The game room opens at 2 p.m. every day, but sometimes a few will wander in a little early. Colleen says she doesn't mind opening it up for them. There is no charge for the children to use the room, unless they elect to play some of the games, and they are not required to purchase any food or beverages, although many of them do.

A lot of the older kids like the pool tables and Todd and Colleen will be hosting their first tournament on August 11. If it goes over well, they might have a tournament for 10 and 11-year-olds.

Colleen says they are open to ideas for use of the room. For instance, they have already had a few birthday parties held in the game room, and before school starts, Debbie Aune, an art teacher, will be helping the kids paint a "sponsor wall" in the game room. The mural will pay tribute to all those who donated money to the fund.

During the summer, Todd and Colleen are a very busy couple. Todd is a cattle farmer and Colleen is the manager at FANS Racing. Luckily for Colleen and her new business, the racing season is almost over and this year they will not be doing any snowmobile racing. Todd, however, is busy with the farm all year long.

The Petersons have four children. Since they bought the café, all four of them have been able to help out. The two oldest boys are in college, but are doing as much as they can to help out when their parents are not able to be there. During the daytime hours when she's not there, Colleen says she doesn't worry since she's been able to keep two of the ladies that have worked at the café for quite a while; she trusts them fully. They also have the help of 11 other high school students during the summer months.

On Sunday and Monday nights, Colleen has employed the talents of Chef Robert Landis. He comes over to prepare unique dining specials which have proved to be quite a hit with the diners.

So far, Colleen says business has been very good. She credits some of it to the numerous construction projects going on in town. Sunday dinner, she says, will remain one of the busiest times of the week, though.

Although Sunday is a busy day, The Garden Café is busy no matter what at lunch time. They have a contract with L.S.S., the senior meal program. This means they prepare and deliver 22 meals seven days a week. The rigorous preparation and some of the paperwork are some things Colleen has never had to deal with, but she doesn't mind.

When the Petersons bought the café, they not only got the café space, but the entire building. They are now landlords to the tenants in an upstairs apartment. There is also some extra space upstairs that they are planning on renovating and turning into sleeping rooms for hunters.

Colleen's initial hopes were to turn the café into a malt shop complete with curbside service and a soda fountain, but she realized that was a much bigger project than they were ready for. She does hope to some day add on to the café and have a drive-through window.

She recalls seeing an old soda fountain in an antique shop and thinking it would be perfect for the malt shop she'd been dreaming of, but turned out to be outrageously expensive. As the malt shop theme didn't pan out, they needed to think of a name for their new restaurant. Colleen told everyone to think of some place nice and clean and friendly. Her daughter, Danielle, was the first to say it- "What about the garden?" Colleen thought it was pretty good and knew she'd have fun decorating the café in a garden theme. So, from then on, it became The Garden Café.

Colleen says it's hard not to get caught up in the fun stuff like decorating and putting together game rooms when working on starting a business, but really working on the details is what is most important. "Really know what you're getting into before you jump into it," she says. Potential locations, building details, hidden costs it all things to find out about before you invest a lot of money because it may end up costing you more than you expected.

The Peterson family has had its share of ups and downs in the short time they've had The Garden Café, but without the community's support, Colleen says, it would never be a success. Middle River may be small in size, but it's the generosity and support of the residents that make businesses like the Peterson's work.

Deadlines near for individuals affected by floods

Area residents should be aware of a couple of deadlines regarding flood assistance.

The time for visiting the Disaster Recovery Center (DRC) in Roseau County is getting shorter. Individuals and business owners have until August 9 to meet face-to-face with recovery specialists at the DRC at Ram's Sports Center at 809 Sixth Street Northeast in Roseau. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday though Friday.

Even though the center will close at 6 p.m. on Friday, August 9, help is still as close as a telephone call. Anyone with questions about federal and state recovery assistance programs or the status of their applications may call the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) toll-free registration number at 1-800-621-3362 or (TTY) 1-800-462-7585. The telephone numbers are operational from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily until further notice.

To date, 4,047 individuals and business owners in the declared counties have registered for disaster assistance, and 1,763 individuals have visited the Roseau center.

Disaster Unemployment

The deadline for applying for Disaster Unemployment Assistance is also nearing. Minnesota Department of Economic Security will continue to receive applications for Disaster Unemployment Assistance (DUA) from residents of Beltrami, Clay, Itasca, McLeod, Polk, Pennington and Wright until August 9.

The DUA program provides temporary income assistance to workers and self-employed individuals whose work has been lost or interrupted as a direct result of recent flooding. People may qualify for DUA if:

1. They worked in or were scheduled to begin work in one of the seven counties listed above; and,

2. They cannot work as a direct result of the flooding; and,

3. The work they are prevented from performing by the flooding is their primary source of livelihood; and,

4. They do not qualify for regular unemployment benefits.

Applications are available in English and Spanish at the WorkForce Centers in Bemidji, Crookston, Detroit Lakes, East Grand Forks, Hennepin North (Brooklyn Park), Hutchinson, International Falls, Monticello, Moorhead, Park Rapids, Roseau, St. Cloud and Thief River Falls.

Flood Task Force Meets

The first meeting of the Minnesota House of Representatives Flood Task Force will meet on Thursday, August 8 in a hearing room at the State Office Building in St. Paul. Rep. Maxine Penas was recently appointed to chair the Flood Task Force by House Speaker Steve Sviggum. The task force will hear detailed reports on the damage caused by this summer's flooding and the progress of recovery. They will also look into the past history of state flood relief efforts.

Two pool tables form the center piece for the game room situated in the back of The Garden Café in Middle River. The room is open at 2 p.m. every day for local kids to come and play a few games or just relax and watch movies.

West Nile virus should serve as important test

Since the first known outbreak in 1999, experts have predicted that the West Nile virus would make its way across the United States. Still, when it arrived in Minnesota we seemed surprised.

A local official said he had received a number of calls from people in the past week who were concerned that it poses a threat to humans. There's considerable concern because the virus kills horses and experts don't know why. It also can pose a serious threat to individuals with weakened immune systems. Add all the headlines to the mix and suddenly a lot of people are concerned.

According to a recent news release, West Nile virus can cause a form of encephalitis, an inflammation of the brain and spinal cord. Birds serve as the host for the virus, which is spread by mosquitoes to other birds and animals such as horses and humans. Neither humans nor horses can spread the disease. The only transmission is by mosquito.

In horses, symptoms of the disease include loss of appetites, lethargy, hindquarter weakness, involuntary muscle contractions, loss of coordination, head tilt, convulsions, paralysis, and coma. In humans, I'm told the symptoms are "flu-like." For healthy individuals, presence of the virus may not even result in the individual seeking medical attention. A very small percentage will have the most severe symptoms – encephalitis. People at greatest risk are individuals with weakened immune systems.

Even with all of the official news releases, people are still wondering what to do. If you're a horse owner, start by checking with your veterinarian about vaccinations, minimize your horses' exposure by using repellents, and eliminate "mosquito zones" – you know, those areas where water has collected, like in old tires and tin cans. Humans should follow some of the same advice – minimize your exposure to mosquitoes and use bug spray with DEET. You should know by now, however, that there haven't been any incidents of West Nile virus in humans. It would be nice to keep it that way.

I have one concern that I hope you share. I hope our surprise at the spread of West Nile isn't an indicator of what it will be like when and if a more serious threat makes its presence known.

Summer Vacation?

My memories of summer vacations – come to think of it any vacation – are eerily similar to National Lampoon's Summer Vacation with the Griswolds. As I recall, we'd pack the car with nearly everything we owned, squeeze into the remaining space and head down the road. Of course my brothers and I would pick our space and woe be to anyone who crossed our imaginary lines of demarcation.

With a panicked realization that summer is winding down to its hot and dusty conclusion, many area residents may be packing their cars right now. I don't think children have changed much since my day, so I suspect parents must also be preparing to threaten their children with. . . "if you don't stop that fighting right now I'll…." Yes, you sound like your parents.

Is this really what vacations are supposed to be like? That's an honest question, because I have no other reference.

Each year it seemed that our summer vacation destination edged closer to home. The justification used by my parents was that our busy schedules did not allow time to plan for longer vacations. But, I really think there was a correlation between distance and my parent's patience.

Speaking of shorter distances, there are plenty of vacation destinations within a state or two. And if your patience is growing so thin as to not allow you to leave the State of Minnesota, there's an economic benefit to Minnesota that you can add to your justification. According to the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development, in 2000, travel and tourism in Minnesota generated $9 billion in gross receipts/sales, 129,700 jobs, $3.5 billion in payrolls, and $1 billion in state and local tax revenue.

"Bon Voyage. Drive safely. And remember, the start of school is just around the corner.

A New Bearing On the Old Crop Design Question

During the last decade, a lot of attention has been paid to strange and unexplainable designs pressed into farm field crops around the world. The bulk of the impressions have cropped up in England, though several Australian and U.S. incidents have been reported, as well. News shows, academic studies, and, most recently, a feature length Hollywood film have dedicated time and money to investigations concerning the markings. Often symmetrical and occasionally quite elaborate, the crop patterns appear overnight and have been labeled, depending on one's degree of cynicism, either the handiwork of crafty aliens or the achievement of inspired vandals. Northern Minnesotans, however, have long been aware of the raging debate and have generally turned away from the argument, smiling knowingly to themselves each time a new report as to the phenomenon surfaces. The perpetrator has been known to them for years and even though scholars might claim to have discovered the hoax or Mel Gibson might assert an agricultural alien encounter, those living in the wooded farmlands of the north know different. The truth of the matter is simple. Bears.

It's mid-summer and the foraging for area black bears has not been particularly good. An unseasonably soggy June, as opposed to a simply wet one, has left wild blueberry stocks in poor condition. The over-watered plants this year are grudgingly giving up one or two berries per stalk – hardly enough to satisfy the needs of a pre-hibernation brain.

The Mayfly hatch, while prolific, was late and relatively short-lived. The carcasses that washed up on area beaches provided only a short-term protein buzz for bears that expected those important meals weeks before the berries arrived.

Gone is the bonanza of army worms that the last two years provided. Eating 20 to 30 pounds a day of those ever-present wriggling masses was one of the biggest factors in the recent black bear population boom.

And yet to arrive are the full acorns and hazelnuts. Which brings us (and the bears) to the area oat fields. The oats are just maturing and the bears are looking for something to eat. The combination is an obvious one, though somewhat agriculturally annoying. Bears, you see, have poor table manners.

When a bear eats oats, he doesn't gently nip at the tops of individual stalks the way a deer might. That would be far too inefficient. He needs more and in a shorter period of time. A bear plops himself down in the middle of a field and pulls large clusters of oats to his chest where he can gobble down mouthfuls of the stuff. When he's finished off what is available to arm's length, he rolls a few feet away and starts the whole process over again. Roll, gather, eat. Roll, gather, eat. There is no walking involved here. It's gluttonous efficiency at its finest. I occasionally have dreams about consuming vast tracts of cream-filled Twinkies in similar fashion.

The result of this orgiastic oat consumption style is that everything that's not eaten by the bear still has been laid flat by the rolling. And rolled oats, despite what granola boxes might claim nutritionally, are not good for the blood pressure of farmers who want to harvest them. The flattening of the oats makes them untouchable by combines and, therefore, lost. A ravenous bear (or entire family of them) can lay waste to literally acres of oats over a several night span. And in a year like this one in northern Minnesota where any crops are good crops, the thought of a cuddly, furry bear cub rolling around in a field of recently ripened oats is not necessarily one that warms the cockles of local hearts.

So the next time you drive by one of those beautifully green and evenly topped oat fields and out in the middle you notice a strange, alluring shape, several acres wide and intriguingly well-defined, you can smile knowingly to yourself, too. The matted grain is most certainly a sign. However, despite what scholars might suggest about its hooligan origin or the movie theaters might have you believe about its alien roots, this is a message from somewhere else. It's a sign that the blueberries are weak and the acorns are stubborn and the bears are looking for something to eat.

And if you still have a hard time swallowing the concept, try unwrapping a few dozen boxes of Twinkies and spreading them out evenly across your living room floor. Then load the video camera with a fresh tape and give me a call. That should answer a lot of your questions.

Evangelical Covenant Church
1425 East Third Street • Thief River Falls

The community is invited to Vacation Bible School for the whole family to be held at the Evangelical Covenant Church of Thief River Falls from Sunday, August 4th through Wednesday, August 7th at 6:00 p.m. each evening. The theme will be the "ABC's of Fruitfulness" and be presented through songs, puppets, skits, memory verses, and special learning sessions on creation science for the entire family.

Guest coordinators for the week will be Russ and Laurie Hanson along with their family. Russ is a geologist and metallurgist with many years of academic and field experience. During the last ten years, the Hanson family has traveled throughout the country presenting seminars, lectures and Vacation Bible School programs on the important subject of creation science and the Bible.

A nursery and preschool childcare will be provided. Refreshments will also be served.

Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament opener...

Seventh inning home run beats TRF 4-2

Nick Price hit a two-out, two-run home run in the bottom of the seventh inning Wednesday for a dramatic finish to Fergus Falls' 4-2 Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament win over Thief River Falls.

The final inning was exciting on both sides. Thief River Falls, after spotting Fergus Falls a 2-0 first inning lead, was scoreless until the top of the seventh when a single by Tyler Bettin, an RBI double by Stacy Wiseth and a two-out run-scoring base hit by Dusty Gagner produced a 2-2 tie.

However, it was a short-lived deadlock as Price put an exclamation point on the seventh inning fireworks with his walk-off homer.

The results sent 15-10 Fergus Falls into the Round 2 winner's bracket of the eight-team, double-elimination tournament at Perham. Thief River Falls carried a 15-25 record into the loser-out bracket.

"It was a great ball game," said Thief River Falls coach Jamie McEnelly, whose team out-hit Fergus Falls 7-5 and played error-free baseball while the winners booted five plays. "We had some chances, but we couldn't make them pay for their mistakes."

Thief River Falls starting pitcher Josh Langlie got out of first inning jam and shut down the Fergus Falls offense until running into seventh inning trouble. "Josh pitched well," mentioned McEnelly. "He maybe wasn't quite warmed up at the start, but he pitched great after the first inning."

It was the third meeting of the year between the two teams, who split a July 12 doubleheader in Thief River Falls. Post 117 won the opener that night 3-1, then lost the second game 4-1.

Despite the loss, McEnelly liked the competitive performance his young squad put together against a Fergus Falls club that has many of the players who won a Section 8AAA high school tournament title this spring. "We played a heckuva game," he said. "We're playing some VFW (16-year-olds) kids against their seniors. It was the kind of baseball you want to see this time of the year."

Detroit Lakes defeated Roseau 7-1, Moorhead handled Crookston 11-2 and East Grand Forks out-scored Perham 12-7 in the other first-day tournament match-ups.

Red Lake Falls wins trap shoot

Red Lake Falls won the 2002 edition of the annual Northwest Team Shoot July 21 at the Thief River Trap Club.

Seven 10-member teams took part in the event that rotates between the competing clubs.

Red Lake Falls finished with a 941-934 advantage over runner-up Bemidji, followed by Thief River Falls at 933, Crookston 917, Greenbush 911, Roseau 891 and Warroad 849.

Pete Tri of Thief River Falls was the individual winner. Tri, Dave Dupree of Thief River Falls, Dave Perkins of Bemidji and Earl Strand of Crookston all hit 99 in the 100-bird competition.

Shooting 25-bird tie-breakers, Tri and Dupree remained deadlocked after one round with 25s, while Perkins and Strand dropped out with a 24 and a 20, respectively. Another 25 on the second tie-breaking round gave Tri the title when Dupree checked in with a 24.

A Junior Division drew 11 entries for a 50-bird shoot that was won by Trent Sovde of Greenbush with a 45.

Tanner Pierce of Thief River Falls, Adam Knudson of Warroad and Patrick Leines of Red Lake Falls finished right behind Sovde at

Babe Ruth state tournament title game is Monday

Play continues through Monday in the 2002 Minnesota Babe Ruth In-Tact state baseball tournament being played on the diamonds at the Multi-Events Center and Northland Community and Technical College.

Finals in the eight-team, double-elimination event for 14-15-year-olds is scheduled Monday at noon. If a second title-deciding game is needed, it will be played at 3 that afternoon.

The tournament, which began Friday, primarily features teams who were runner-up finishers in their respective district tournaments.

Host Thief River Falls Gold entered the state tournament after a 2-2 showing in the July 18-21 Lake Agassiz District playoffs, where the Shane Zutz/Carter Rogella-coached team opened with wins over East Grand Forks 15-5 and Crookston 12-6 before losing to Roseau 9-5 and Warroad 6-5.

Senator Stumpf

2002 Legislative Update

Champion for Education

As Chair of the Senate Education Committee, Sen. Stumpf has been a champion for Minnesota education. He has resisted attempts to cut education programs and has stood firm in his support of additional educational funding for our schools, especially our rural schools. Sen. Stumpf has worked to protect students and preserve classroom programs to the greatest extent possible.

The U of M-Crookston was allocated $7.7 million to demolish Bede Hall, design, construct, furnish and equip a replacement facility. Northwest Technical College in East Grand Forks will receive $300,000 for facility improvements. These funds are part of $60 million allocated to the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities Higher Education Asset Preservation and Replacement funds.

Dam Improvements/ Flood Mitigation

The bonding bill provides $650,000 to renovate or remove publicly owned dams. The bill also provides $30 million in flood hazard mitigation grants. These grants provide for capital improvements to prevent alleviate flood damage in areas including Warren, EGF & Crookston. They may also be used to assist in the recovery efforts in Roseau, Warroad, Baudette, and all seven counties in District 1. In another disappointing move, Governor Ventura vetoed $1.05 million to be used for Phases 2 and 3 of the Red Lake River restoration and habitat improvements in Crookston. Hopefully, this will only provide a temporary delay for the restoration project.

Agriculture, Greater Minnesota, and Veterans

Finally, the bonding bill allocated $15 million to develop the state's agricultural resources by extending credit on real estate security in the manner and on the terms and conditions prescribed by law. It also provides $16.2 million for the construction, acquisition, or rehabilitation of transitional or permanent housing to serve veterans and single adults who are homeless. Governor Ventura vetoed $12 million in funds that would create an infrastructure grant program for Greater Minnesota Businesses.

State Parks

State Parks across Minnesota will share in $23.5 million allocated to the State Park Initiative. However, Governor Ventura vetoed funding for the Red River Recreation Center in East Grand Forks and Big Bog State Park east of Grygla. These two projects were the only state park projects vetoed by the Governor.

Lack of Transportation Funding a Disappointment

In rural communities, good roads are very important to get goods to market. Road and bridges in many rural areas are hazardous. Drivers on rural roads are three-and-a-half times more likely to die in crashes than drivers in urban areas.

A major disappointment this legislative session was the failure to pass a sorely needed funding package for transportation. The Senate passed a 10-year $5 billion transportation funding bill that would have provided significant new resources to help upgrade and expand rural roads. With the House of Representatives Republicans not supporting a transportation or transit funding bill, Minnesota will lose $178 million from the federal government.

We need to make a serious investment to solve a serious problem. Public officials and private industry groups from a broad political spectrum agree. A coalition of 185 businesses, local government and industry groups, headed by the Minnesota Chamber of Commerce, supported the Senate 10-year plan.

Many road projects in rural Minnesota are ready for preparation and construction. Now, they will continue to be delayed, thanks to the lack of new road, highway and transit funding.

The Department of Natural Resources received $1.5 million to design, construct, renovate, furnish and equip office and service facility at Thief River Falls. This project is part of a larger joint project involving the city of TRF, Pennington County and the MN Department of Transportation. Further funding for the joint project was provided in the Senate transportation bill but was blocked when the House Republicans failed to pass any transportation bill or to agree to the Senate language.

Senator LeRoy Stumpf . . . Leadership you can count on.

Softball program ends season

■ Numbers expected to climb for TRF girls

Forty-nine girls ages 12-18 took part in the 2002 Thief River Falls summer softball program – a number that coach Matt Okeson expects to climb in the future.

It was the fourth year for the program but the first summer as a sanctioned American Softball Association member. That made Thief River Falls eligible for post-season play, and Okeson capitalized on the opportunity by taking his 14-under and 16-under teams to Minnesota Sports Federation ASA state tournaments.

"The girls played a lot of softball," noted Okeson.

Facing stronger competition required Thief River Falls to lift its level of play to remain competitive, explained Okeson, who was most happy with the improvement shown by pitchers Megan Berg and Allison Helling.

"Our pitchers got a lot of innings," pointed out Okeson. "Megan and Allison made tremendous strides this summer. Our infield got better, too, but we need to improve in the outfield."

The Thief River Falls program finished its 2002 season Monday with doubleheader losses at the hands of East Grand Forks Sacred Heart in an 18-under match-up, 5-0 and 13-5.

Berg struck out 10, walked three and gave up only two base hits in Game 1, but still came out as the losing pitcher. That's because Jenny Anderson tossed a no-hitter for Sacred Heart.

Four unearned fifth inning runs sealed the outcome.

Thief River Falls opened Game 2 with a 3-0 lead, but Sacred Heart won it with a 12-run third inning. All the scoring came with two outs, and 11 of those runs were unearned.

The Thief River Falls 18-under squad finished the season 3-11-1 overall.

veterinarians to report any cases of West Nile virus or other equine encephalitis to the Board. The Board also has taken steps to educate Minnesota veterinarians and horse owners about the virus and what they can do to protect their animals from it.

Assistant State Veterinarian Paul Anderson was disappointed but not surprised to hear West Nile was found in Minnesota horses.

"With reports of West Nile in nearly every state around us, it was inevitable that we'd eventually see cases here," Anderson said. "If any horse owners out there have not already vaccinated their horses for West Nile virus, they should definitely talk with a veterinarian about doing so."

Anderson said horse owners should contact their veterinarian if they notice any symptoms of the disease, which include loss of appetite, lethargy, hindquarter weakness, involuntary muscle contractions, loss of coordination, head tilt, convulsions, paralysis, and coma. Horse owners can also try to reduce the mosquito population around their horses by taking the following steps:

- eliminate "mosquito zones" by mowing long grass, draining stagnant water puddles, and removing items such as old tires and tin cans that can serve as breeding grounds for mosquitoes;
- minimize horses' exposure by using repellents and placing screens in stables; and
- ask their veterinarian about vaccinating their horses.

More information about humans and the West Nile Virus is available on the Minnesota Department of Health's website at www.health.state.mn.us or by calling 612-676-5414. For more information about West Nile prevention for horses, call the Minnesota Board of Animal Health at 651-296-2942 or visit the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Web site at www.usda.gov. Horse vaccination information is available on the University of Minnesota College of Veterinary Medicine website at www.evm.umn.edu.

RLI Deciding to sell, buy, or complete a tax deferred exchange on farmland can be a difficult and complicated process. I can help identify owner/investor goals and objectives, represent them as a designated agent, and guide them through the entire marketing and sales process. I am very familiar with the farm real estate sales process and will put to work my years of experience in achieving your sales/purchase goal. Much more is involved than just putting up a for sale sign or placing an ad in the local newspaper.

Farmland is a proven investment. You need a proven, professional farm brokerage firm to represent you in the real estate sales transaction. Often I can obtain a better price for property with my experience and vast array of available resources.

Johnson estimated there are 80 or 90 rare mileage collectors in the U.S. and Canada.

This ride started in Devils Lake, N.D. on July 25 and covered remote rail lines across North Dakota. The train rolled into Thief River Falls from Warren at 9:30 a.m. on July 28 and began its trip over the Minnesota Northern to Warroad. At Warroad, the train picked up a freight car and then reversed direction back to Roseau, where it spent the night. On the 29th it was back to Thief River Falls and on to Crookston.

Minnesota Northern's flood-ravaged Warroad Subdivision is restricted to ten miles per hour now, but nobody seemed to mind the slow pace too much. "After all, it allows you to see each individual tree," joked Philip Rondziela, who came all the way from Stamford, Conn. to ride the train.

The passenger list included rare mileage collectors from both coasts and many places in between.

So what does it take to be a rare mileage collector? "A wanderlust, the love of trains, and wanting to go places nobody else can go easily," said Johnson.

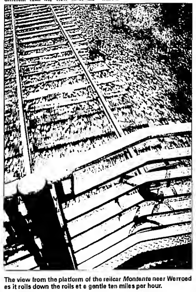
Not to mention time and money.

This five-day trip, put together just a few weeks before it ran, cost each rider $2,750, and an additional $600 for those who wanted to ride two other Minnesota Northern lines south of Crookston.

"This is the hard-core group," said Johnson.

Why would these people be willing to spend so much money to ride at slow speeds over hundreds of miles of prairie land? "It's new miles they can't get any other way," said Hill.

The view from the rails is very different than the view from the road. As one passenger commented, "When you drive, you see front yards. When you ride the train, you see back yards."



Back yards, turkey farms, gravel roads, endless acres of cropland, forest and muskeg rolled past the windows of the two cars as they leisurely rode the 81 miles of rail.

The train included two passenger cars: Johnson's own Caritas, and another privately-owned coach, the Montana. According to Johnson, the Caritas is the most travelled privately-owned coach in the United States.

Both cars were built in 1948, and both have sleeping compartments for the passengers. The Montana is complete with a bar, and both cars have kitchens and living areas with comfortable chairs and big windows.

The Caritas will have little time for rest. On August 4 Johnson will be hosting another trip over branch lines in eastern Canada, and many of the same passengers riding to Warroad will be making the trip east of Montreal.

As for Minnesota Northern's Warroad Subdivision, it's back to normal this week. On Tuesday, a freight train ran up the line, performing the usual service to Marvin Windows in Warroad, Polaris in Roseau and fertilizer facilities all along the line. But for a short time a shadow of days gone by offered a few individuals the chance to see the area as few people have been able to see it for the last 50 years. If only these rails could talk . . .

The view from the platform of the railcar Montana near Warroad as it rolls down the rails at a gentle ten miles per hour.

TRF school board to meet on Aug. 5

Thief River Falls School District 564 Board of Education will meet at 6 p.m. on Monday, August 5. During the meeting, which will be held at the School District Service Center conference room, Carol Ihle is scheduled to give an update on NWEA.

Minnkota Power completes first two wind generators

Minnkota Power, a cooperative that provides power to much of northwest Minnesota and eastern North Dakota, put its second wind turbine online near Petersburg, N.D. on July 12. The new generator will provide power to the Grand Forks, N.D. Air Force Base.

In addition to the Petersburg generator, Minnkota opened the first wind turbine in the state near Valley City.

The two generators are each expected to produce 2.5 million kilowatt hours of electricity each year, enough to supply 200-300 homes with electricity.

Power from these wind generators is more expensive to produce than power from Minnkota's lignite coal-fired plants, so it's being sold to customers who voluntarily pay more to get their electricity from them.

NCTC needs volunteers to help with tax preparation

NCTC needs volunteers to help prepare taxes during the 2002 income tax season. Volunteers must have a desire to help others in the community and a few spare hours to work at the site. Experience is not necessary; NCTC will train you.

Interested persons should contact Norma Konschak, accounting instructor at NCTC, at (218) 681-0766.

Newton wins MSUM transfer scholarship

Ann Newton of Thief River Falls will receive a $1,000 transfer scholarship from Minnesota State University Moorhead for the 2002-2003 academic year.

She is the daughter of Barry and Paula Newton, and a 2000 graduate of Lincoln High School.

Cliff Johnson, president of High Iron Travel, examines the generator on the railcar Caritas at Roseau after the train tied up on the evening of July 28.

West Nile virus found in area horse

Badger area horse euthanized after local veterinarian confirms West Nile infection

By April Schelnoha
Reporter

The West Nile virus has killed a Badger-area horse, according to veterinarian Dr. Lyle Kenner. The horse died Sunday, but the illness was not confirmed until Thursday.

Kenner, the veterinarian who took care of the animal, said the horse had a fever of 105 degrees late last week. After receiving treatment for the fever, the horse seemed to be recovering. However, the horse became gravely ill later in the week. The horse was euthanized on Sunday.

West Nile virus has killed 5 people in Louisiana and affected many people in other states, including Mississippi and Texas. Here in Minnesota, West Nile virus has been confirmed in 11 horses and 22 birds. In Thief River Falls, some preventative measures were taken prior to the state outbreak.

Each year, the city sprays for mosquitoes, which are carriers of the infection. Mosquitoes feast on infected birds, and then they transmit the virus to humans, horses and other birds.

This year, the city spent $8,000 on spraying, which is a $3,000 increase from last year. The city has already used up its spray and its spraying budget. It takes 20 gallons to spray the entire city, and it costs $50 per gallon for spray.

The Parks and Recreation Department has sprayed the city numerous times. The city was sprayed twice a week during the peak of mosquito breeding season and then sprayed once a week thereafter.

Unlike other larger cities, such as Grand Forks, N.D., the city does not do aerial spraying for mosquitoes. "We're limited because of our budget," said forester Myles Olson. "Aerial spraying is the most effective, but it is also the most expensive."

Even though aerial spraying is the most effective, it does not guarantee that mosquitoes will stay away from the area. Olson said mosquitoes can travel up to 10 miles, which means breeding mosquitoes in unsprayed cities can fly to nearby sprayed areas.

The city used up its budget when spraying during the peak of mosquito season and during the Pennington County Fair. City employees sprayed fairground ditches and other notorious mosquito-breeding sites on the grounds.

Although the virus is present in the state, it is highly unlikely that

What people can do to prevent West Nile Encephalitis

• Personal protection measures such as use of mosquito repellents, avoiding outdoor exposures at dusk and dawn (peak feeding time for many mosquitoes), and wearing long-sleeved shirts and long pants can reduce the risk of West Nile encephalitis.

• Removal of water-holding containers (mosquito breeding sites) from residential areas will reduce numbers of several mosquito species.

• There is a vaccine available for horses to prevent West Nile encephalitis. Contact your veterinarian for vaccine recommendations. A human West Nile Virus vaccine is still in development.

Karlstad wants out of KOED group

Karlstad – A special meeting of the Karlstad City Council was called last Monday regarding the future participation of the city in the Joint Powers Agreement of the Kittson Office of Economic Development (KOED).

Clerk Wayne Ruud explained that a meeting was needed before August 1 in order to be out of the JPA by January 1, 2004.

Mayor George Wikstrom said that opinions he's heard is that KOED isn't accomplishing anything and the money expended is a waste. -North Star News of Karlstad, August 8, 2002, by Lori Bothum

Road construction has begun on County Road 13

Red Lake Falls – Road construction on the next segment of County Road 13 has started.

Crews will be working on off-road clearing on the west end of the project, near the County Road 18 intersection where the curve will be realigned. Red Lake Electric Cooperative will also be relocating their lines.

Asphalt reclamation was expected to begin Monday, starting at the west end and continuing for about four days to the County Road 19 intersection north of Red Lake Falls.

The designated detour for east-west traffic is via County Road 3 (through Dorothy) to the intersection with County Road 11 (near the Huot Bridge) then into Red Lake Falls onto Highway 32.

Drivers are asked to travel cautiously around all construction areas and on the detour routes. -Red Lake Falls Gazette, August 7, 2002

Warroad Area Flood Recovery Fund

Warroad – Warroad community leaders and Northwest Minnesota Foundation established the 2002 Warroad Area Flood Recovery Fund to provide financial support for immediate and long-term needs of the Warroad area residents and community for recovery from the floods of 2002.

Ten thousand dollars has been earmarked to support the rebuilding efforts. -Warroad Pioneer, August 7, 2002

Antarctic trip makes Warren man want to return

Warren – On his working trip to Antarctic last winter, Jeff Gustafson of Warren discovered the icy continent at the bottom of the world to be a place of breath-taking mountain vistas, surprising colors, fascinating wildlife and an interesting employment/living situation. And, besides all that, the weather was not too bad, either.

Last summer, Gustafson obtained employment as a carpenter with Raytheon Polar Services, a company that builds, maintains and services Antarctic research facilities. The son of Betty and the late Lowell Gustafson of Warren, he owns and maintains an apartment and business property here. -Warren Sheaf, Wednesday, August 7

Engelstad donates $100,000 to Pioneer Village improvement

Historical society plans to use money to upgrade show room

By Andy Cummings
Reporter

The Pennington County Historical Society voted unanimously to accept $100,000 from Ralph Engelstad for the renovation of the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village show building at a special meeting held on Thursday afternoon. They also appointed volunteer Phil Hess to chair a committee that they hope will be able to raise an additional $100,000 to complete the project.

"We've got a viable project with a good reason," Hess told the board. "And if we don't raise [the money] this year, we'll raise it next year," he said.

According to the Historical Society board, the building has had a condensation problem in years past. The renovation will pay for insulation of the building.

In addition to the insulation, the historical society wants to wall off approximately 50 feet of the building, which they would use for their archives and other purposes.

The board discussed timing of the construction, and decided that mid-September would be a good time. However, they did not set a date at the meeting.

Engelstad donated the money to build the facility in the early '90s, and has also provided money for restoration efforts in the village in years past.

Deliveries for Canada Discount stopped in N.D.

Pharmacy Board objects to advertising services

by David Hill
Editor

Canada HealthCare Discount Centre in North Dakota has received notice that the Canadian pharmacy they have been ordering prescriptions from (McKnight Pharmacies) will no longer be able to send prescriptions through the mail or a common carrier to individuals living in North Dakota.

"This is just really, really terrible," said Cheryl Gaddie, who operates the Canada HealthCare Discount Centre in Grand Forks, N.D., and Thief River Falls, Minn. "I think people are going to be pretty upset about this," she said.

North Dakota Board of Pharmacy Executive Director Howard Anderson explained that the decision was not reached recently. According to North Dakota law, the Canadian pharmacy must be licensed in North Dakota; and that law has been on the books for a long time. A Canadian pharmacy could apply for and receive a license from the North Dakota Board of Pharmacy, but Anderson added, that even if the Canadian pharmacy was licensed in North Dakota, it would be against Federal law to import drugs through the mail or a common carrier. He said he would make that clear to them before they applied for a license from North Dakota.

Anderson added that it's even illegal to do it in person, but exceptions were created when the compassionate care issue was addressed. This measure allowed individuals with cancer and AIDS to obtain medications unavailable in the United States, but available in other countries.

It is not against the law in North Dakota for patients to cross the border, visit Canadian physicians thereby obtaining prescriptions,

Sen. Dayton pushes health care agenda in Northwestern Minnesota

A representative from Sen. Mark Dayton's office was visiting communities throughout northwestern Minnesota Wednesday reminding residents of Dayton's Health Care Help Line.

Mark established his Health Care Help Line during his 2000 Senate campaign to help Minnesotans whose HMO or insurance company has either denied them care or refused, despite their contract coverage provisions, to pay for care they have already received.

To date, Dayton's HCHL staff has closed hundreds of cases and recovered hundreds of thousands of dollars for Minnesotans. The HCHL staff is currently hard at work on many more unfinished cases.

Residents of Greater Minnesota can obtain assistance with their health insurance problems with health insurers by calling 1-866-296-4319.

Dayton's Health Care Help Line goes hand in hand with his efforts in the Senate to enact a strong and enforceable "Patients' Bill of Rights" for patients in Minnesota and across the country. In June of 2001, the Senate passed a measure that would let patients and their doctors - not health insurance plans - make medical decisions.

Missy Blaine's Custom Draperies:

Windows to the heart and soul

This is the second part in a series of eight feature stories that focus on the Northern Watch region's Young Business Leaders.

by Jenny Nicholson
Reporter

Ever wonder where some of the businesses in town got all those blinds covering their windows? Or have you ever been to someone's home and seen the most fabulous window treatments and wondered where they bought them?

Chances are, if you've been around Thief River Falls and visited some of the local businesses, you've seen the handiwork of Missy Blaine and just didn't realize it.

Custom Draperies and Designs was started 15 years ago by Michelle Lampe. Her daughter, Missy Blaine, began working there about eight years ago and is now in the process of incorporating the business.

Missy originally went to school and became a nurse, but as she got more involved with Custom Draperies, her nursing career was put on the back burner. She took classes in window fashions design, and two-and-a-half years later, Missy became a certified window fashions professional.

About two-and-a-half years ago, Michelle left the business and Missy took it over. She is currently working on buying the business from Michelle and becoming its full owner.

Custom Draperies has worked with Thief River Linen for quite a while doing odds and ends jobs for Good things are available in the markets and gardens right now – take advantage of them. The chocolate cookies are just a yummy extra – no calories whatsoever, right?

I found some really good chocolate cookies for you on the Internet – these are definitely tried and true. Store them in a tightly covered container so they stay nice and soft:

CHOCOLATE CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES *
1 cup butter, softened
1 1/2 cups white sugar
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups flour
2/3 cup cocoa (powder)
3/4 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups chocolate chips
1/2 cup chopped walnuts (if desired)

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

In large bowl, beat butter, sugar, eggs and vanilla until light and fluffy.

Combine flour, cocoa, soda and salt and stir into butter mixture until blended. Mix in chips and nuts.

Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased cookie sheets. Bake 8-10 minutes or just until set. Cool slightly on cookie sheets before transferring to wire racks.

Use those nice little new potatoes and fresh peas for this dish:

HERBED POTATOES AND PEAS
1 pound small red potatoes
2 bay leaves
1/4 cup butter
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dried marjoram
1/4 teaspoon dried thyme
Dash pepper
1 (10 ounce) package frozen peas, thawed

Place potatoes and bay leaves in saucepan. Cover with water and bring to a boil. Cover and cook 8-10 minutes or just until almost tender. Drain.

Cut potatoes into quarters and return to pan. Add butter and seasonings, cover and cook 5-8 minutes until potatoes are tender, stirring occasionally. Stir in peas and beat through. Discard bay leaves before serving. Serves 4-6.

Tired of the same old, same old chicken – this one will wake you up:

ORANGE WALNUT CHICKEN
3 tablespoons orange juice concentrate
3 tablespoons oil, divided
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 garlic clove, minced
4 boneless skinless chicken breast halves
1/2 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
1 tablespoon butter
4 green onions, thinly sliced, divided
1/2 cup orange marmalade
1/2 cup orange juice
1/4 cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons honey
1-2 tablespoons grated orange peel
2-3 teaspoons grated lemon peel
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
Hot cooked rice

In large plastic bag, combine orange juice concentrate, 2 tablespoons oil, soy sauce and garlic. Add chicken, seal bag and turn to coat. Refrigerate 2-3 hours.

Remove chicken and reserve marinade. In skillet, cook chicken in remaining oil until juices run clear and chicken is cooked through.

Meanwhile, in saucepan, sauté walnuts in butter until lightly browned. Remove walnuts and set aside. Set aside 1/4 cup of green onions for garnish, then add remaining onions to saucepan and sauté until tender. Add reserved marinade, marmalade, orange and lemon juice, honey, grated peels and salt and pepper. Bring to boil and boil 2 minutes. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered for 5-10 minutes until desired consistency.

Serve chicken over rice, topped with sauce and reserved walnuts and onions.

And here's another chicken recipe you will like – and it's so quick and easy – the recipe is for one or two people, so double, triple or quadruple it as desired:

APRICOT CHICKEN
1 tablespoon apricot preserves
1 tablespoon Russian or French salad dressing
Pinch of ginger
1 chicken breast half with bone in
Salt and pepper to taste

In small bowl, combine preserves, salad dressing and ginger. Set aside.

Place chicken in greased 8 inch square baking pan. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and top with apricot mixture.

Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 50-55 minutes or until chicken juices run clean.

Recipe serves 1. Using low fat dressing and skinless breast, the serving is 212 calories, 200 mg sodium, 73 mg chol, 16 gm carb, 27 gm protein, 4 gm fat. Diabetic exchange is 3 1/2 very lean meat and 1 fruit.

Use some of those lovely fresh fruits that are available now in this tasty salad – you can also make it if you are watching your diet:

CINNAMON FRUIT SALAD
1 medium naval orange, peeled, sectioned and halves
1 kiwifruit, peeled, sliced and quartered
1 medium ripe banana, sliced
1 medium apple, sliced
6 seedless grapes, halves
2 tablespoons sunflower nuts
1/4 cup nonfat orange or vanilla yogurt
4 teaspoons sugar or equivalent of artificial sweetener
1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon

In large bowl, combine fruit and sunflower seeds.

In small bowl, combine yogurt, sweetener and cinnamon. Mix well.

Pour over fruit and toss to coat. Serve immediately.

Recipe serves 8 with 1/2 cup each. One serving equals 63 calories, 6 mg sodium, trace chol, 13 mg carb, 1 gm protein, 1 gm fat. Diabetic exchange is 1 fruit.

CORRECTION: Here is a correction for the following fruit pizza recipe. There was no shortening or butter listed in the recipe in the Challenger cookbook, so I have taken the liberty of using the amount listed on page 299, Brier Lindholm's Fruit Pizza. His recipe uses the same amount of flour and powdered sugar and says 3/4 cup I'm sure Tyler's grandma's pizza should have 3/4 cup softened butter or margarine and no sugar except the powdered. If anybody knows for sure, please let me know. Until then, this is the correct way to make the crust:

GRANDMA'S FRUIT PIZZA
Tyler Gagner
Crust:
1/2 cup powdered sugar
1 1/2 cups flour
3/4 cup softened butter or margarine
Filling:
8 ounces cream cheese
1 teaspoon almond extract
1/2 cup powdered sugar
Fresh fruit, cut up
Glaze:
3/4 cup water
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup sugar
3/4 cup orange juice

Lightly grease jelly roll pan. Set oven at 350 degrees. With mixer, blend crust ingredients. Mix until it turns to dough. Pat on pan and bake 15-20 minutes until very light brown. Cool.

Mix filling ingredients. Spread filling on crust and layer with fresh fruit. Suggestions for fruit are kiwi, strawberries, grapes, mandarin oranges and bananas (dip in lemon juice to keep from discoloring). Any fruit may be used, just remember to dip those that discolor in lemon juice.

In saucepan, bring glaze ingredients to boil. Cool a few minutes, then spoon over pizza. Chill 1 hour.

There may be enough glaze for 2 pizzas.

Suspect charged in Warroad murder

Lisa Denise Niece, 20, has been charged with aiding an offender after investigators say she lied to them about the events leading up to the July 5 murder of 15-month-old Mia Powassin in Warroad.

Roseau County Sheriff's Investigator Don Newhouse said there are more suspects, and he said there might be charges brought against them in the near future.

The Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension and the Roseau County Sheriff's Office worked together to arrest Niece in Ponca City, Okla., on July 24.

A judge has set bond at $50,000 cash or $500,000 surety.

The case is still under investigation.

UND professor researches stuttering control device

When he was a boy, Joe Kalinowski found that when he recited the Pledge of Allegiance with the class, his terrible stuttering went away. But as soon as he had to talk independently of the class, it was almost impossible to talk without stuttering.

Kalinowski, now a professor at East Carolina University, recently appeared on NBC's "Good Morning America" to talk about his stuttering control device, which he calls "SpeechEasy." It looks much like a hearing aid. But instead of amplifying sounds, it takes its wearer's own speech and feeds it back into his or her ear. And for some reason, that repetition reduces stuttering by about 90 percent.

"You can fool the brain into thinking it's two people talking at the same time," explained Dr. Kalinowski.

So why does that reduce stuttering so dramatically? "We only have theories about it; we have no definitive answer," says Dr. Manish Rami, a professor at the University of North Dakota, who studied under Dr Kalinowski.

Dr. Rami is researching the device in hopes of gaining a better understanding of why it works.

He said, "what we're looking for here is not a cure for stuttering . . . the real question is: how is speech perception linked to speech?"

Unfortunately, Dr. Rami has had trouble finding people in the area to study. He estimates that one percent of people stutter, meaning there should be about 500 stutterers in Grand Forks alone. However, he has yet to find five of them.

Dr. Kalinowski is not surprised by Dr. Rami's difficulty. "There is a desire for people to hide the fact that they stutter," he said. And the best way to do that is to simply not talk.

But with SpeechEasy reducing stuttering by 80 to 90 percent, Dr. Rami hopes more stutterers will be interested in trying the device. Those willing to participate in his research can try it free of charge.

The change in Dr. Kalinowski is truly remarkable. Without the device in his ear, he is nearly unintelligible, and it takes him a long time to say what he wants to say. And while having the device in his ear doesn't completely eliminate his stuttering, his speech is far more understandable and much quicker.

SpeechEasy is marketed through a company Dr. Kalinowski started called Janus Development. Fitting for the device takes place in North Carolina.

The cost is around $4,000, which Dr. Kalinowski says is comparable to speech therapy, which he claims does not work. He has tried speech therapy. "They thought I didn't know how to talk, so they said, 'let's teach him how to breathe again.'" In the end, he said it caused him to speak in a monotone, slow voice that was even worse than stuttering.

"I had to pick up girls that way. I had to get jobs that way," he said of the "zombified" speech he learned from therapy. He said the problem is that an involuntary disorder cannot be cured through voluntary control of breathing and enunciation.

While Kalinowski suffered through childhood because of his stuttering, he says it's now a benefit to him, as it allows him to study the affliction first hand. "It's a fascinating disorder," he said. He hopes Dr. Rami's research can provide a better understanding of why people stutter and how it can best be treated.

Interested in learning more about SpeechEasy? Check out their website at www.ecu.edu/csd/stutt.html.

Dr. Rami is looking for individuals with stuttering problems to take part in his research. Test subjects will able to try the new technology free of charge. He can be reached at (701) 777-3724.

Twins plan Roseau flood Recovery Day

4,000 Tickets Given Away To Residents Of Roseau

The Minnesota Twins, in partnership with Best Buy and the City of Roseau, Minnesota, have made 4,000 tickets available to individuals in accordance with Flood Recovery Day at the Metrodome on Sunday, August 18 when the Twins host the Boston Red Sox at 7:05 p.m. The game time for that day was switched from an afternoon start to accommodate the ESPN National Game of the Week broadcast.

The City of Roseau has distributed 4,000 tickets to various Roseau residents who were impacted by the spring floods which swept through the area. Plans for the August 18 game also include an on-field pre-game ceremony featuring a special tribute to those impacted by the floods and emergency volunteers from the community.

"The Twins organization would like to express our strong support for the many families impacted by the floods in the City of Roseau and the surrounding area," Twins Chief Operating Officer Kevin Cattoor said. "Moreover, we salute the many volunteers who donated many hours to helping the victims of the floods. We look forward to hosting so many of these special folks at the ballpark."

In the last two seasons, the Minnesota Twins also assisted Minnesota communities that were impacted by spring flooding in 2001 by hosting a Flood Recovery Day, in addition to hosting residents of Burnett County, Wisc., who were affected by a tornado last summer (Tornado Recovery Day). In past seasons, the organization has also assisted in sandbagging and donating tickets to flood and tornado victims throughout Minnesota, Iowa and the Dakotas.

Seamless Aluminum Guttering
Heating, Air Conditioning
378-4641 378-4585
Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.
Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two-man crew, saving an labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

humans will get infected with it. Of those being bitten by an infected mosquito, only one person in 150 will become seriously ill.

West Nile virus usually appears in late summer or early fall. According to Anita Cardinal of Inter-County Nursing, humans are dead-end hosts. Cardinal said, "If I had it, I can't give it to someone else."

Anyone can become infected with the virus, but it affects people differently. Healthy individuals who become infected typically have a mild fever, a headache, muscle aches and other flu-like symptoms. Older individuals and those with weakened immune systems, such as HIV or chemotherapy patients, may suffer from tremors, convulsions, paralysis, encephalitis or serious brain damage. They may go into a coma and die. It takes five to 15 days for the infection to become noticeable in humans.

Blood tests can be performed to determine if a human or horse is infected with the virus. Following death, a horse's brain can be analyzed to determine whether the animal had the disease.

There is no drug to treat or prevent the disease in humans. However, infected individuals may receive some relief via intravenous fluids and respiratory support.

A West Nile vaccine is available for horses. The annual vaccine consists of two shots. After the first shot is given, a second shot will be administered three to six weeks later. Horses are protected against the disease four weeks after the second shot. Yet, like other vaccinations, the vaccine is not 100 percent effective. According to Fort Dodge Animal Health, which manufactures the vaccine, there is a two percent failure rate. Additionally, horses can become infected before the four weeks have passed. Once the two shots are given, the horse builds up immunity to the illness, and then the horse will only need one shot each year.

Kenner, a veterinarian at Northern Veterinary Service, said the vaccine is the most important way to combat the illness. He added, "We don't have a real good treatment for it." Conizones, intravenous fluids and tranquilizers are used to treat afflicted horses. Kenner noted, "Frequently these horses are down. The tranquilizer prevents them from injuring themselves and basically beating themselves to death."

He added, "If we treat it while the horse is still standing, the horse has a good prognosis."

West Nile symptoms in horses include stumbling, depression, limb weakness, incoordination and muscle twitching. The incubation period for horses is seven to 10 days.

Horse owners can decrease their horse's chances of getting the virus by using screened housing and insect repellents. They may also consider keeping horses in stalls at night. Yet, it is not known whether carrier mosquitoes bite at night or during the day.

Citizens can lower their own risk of getting West Nile virus by taking several precautions, including wearing mosquito repellent and wearing long-sleeved shirts and pants. They can also eliminate the risk by destroying potential mosquito-breeding sites, such as bird baths and clogged rain gutters.

Besides humans and horses, birds can also get the illness. Birds are carriers of the disease. Crows and bluejays are the primary carriers of the disease, but finches and other types of birds can carry the disease.

Health care professionals and the public can access information about the West Nile virus on a website collectively maintained by the Centers for Disease Control and U.S. Geological Society.

Sen. Dayton pushes health care agenda in Northestern Minnesota legislative priorities in the U.S. Senate is to provide a prescription drug benefit to help seniors in Minnesota and across the country pay for their medications. The Senate is currently considering a plan to help seniors get the drugs they need.

Of the recent passage of a re-importation bill in the Senate, Dayton said that the Senate's inability to pass any prescription drug benefit for seniors is tragic. He said the Senate should forego its traditional August recess and keep working in Washington until it passes a benefit. If not, he said, it should be the first bill on the Senate calendar after the August break.

Jim Gelbmann, a representative of Sen. Mark Dayton, said Wednesday that the House passed a similar measure, but Sen. Dayton considered the measures more of a Band-Aid than a real solution. He believes it's vital that prescription coverage in Medicare be included along with a provision to allow pharmacists to be able to take advantage of the same benefits an individual can obtain simply by crossing the border.

Gelbmann said the re-importation bill now goes to conference committee. He said he's confident that a bill will be passed – maybe by mid September.

Dayton, who has long pressed for Senate passage of a Medicare prescription drug benefit, expressed his frustration that Senate rules require a 60-vote "super-majority" to proceed with consideration of the legislation. Because of this high hurdle, he said, the Senate has been unable to pass any prescription drug benefit.

"Over this August recess, I invite every Senator who voted against this bill to come home with me and explain to Minnesota seniors why they opposed a prescription drug benefit," Dayton said. "I don't know of any decent reason."

Dayton said that the Graham-Smith bipartisan compromise plan that was rejected today was by no means an ideal bill.

"We tried to pass a much better bill last week, but it received only 52 votes," Dayton said. "The bill that was rejected today was something. And as Minnesota seniors know, something is better than nothing."

Dayton, who made prescription drugs a centerpiece of his campaign for the U.S. Senate, has long pushed for Senate action to make prescription drugs more affordable. He believes that the economic security, emotional well-being, and physical health of seniors in Minnesota and across the country are being threatened, and in too many instances ruined, by the ever-increasing costs of prescription drugs.

In July of 2001, Mark joined with the Minnesota Senior Federation in kicking off their "Rx Express" bus trips to Canada to allow older Minnesotans the opportunity to buy prescription drugs more cheaply than they can in the United States. He has donated his Senate salary to the Senior Federation in order to fund the trips, which have already helped Minnesota seniors save thousands of dollars on their prescriptions. These trips will continue until Congress takes action to help seniors better afford the medicines they need.

Deliveries for Canada Discount stopped in N.D.

buy those prescribed medications in Canada and then return to North Dakota with up to a 90-day supply.

Anderson said a number of letters were sent out the first part of July, not just to Gaddie, who operates Canada HealthCare Discount Centre in Grand Forks. Letters were sent to Gaddie, to their regulatory counterparts in Canada, border officials, and to pharmacies in Arizona and Florida, which were providing similar but more sophisticated services to that being provided by Gaddie. Anderson said the action was taken against Gaddie after she advertised her services in a North Dakota newspaper.

Their position is two-fold. Anderson said, by her advertising in a North Dakota newspaper Gaddie was aiding and abetting an individual to violate the law. Second, the business is acting as an intermediary healthcare provider. He explained, that it is possible that individuals seeking certain prescription medications will rely on Gaddie, or her assistants, for important medical advice about the medications they are taking and she's a non-health care provider.

The letter sent to Gaddie was not a cease and desist order. That action would only be sought by the North Dakota Board of Pharmacy if they continue to advertise in North Dakota.

Anderson said he was aware that the United States House and Senate had recently approved similar legislation allowing re-importation of drugs, but not of the specifics. (The legislation is going into conference committee, and is not law.) The North Dakota Board of Pharmacy would support legislation allowing its pharmacies and their wholesalers to obtain medications at prices similar to those that individuals can obtain in Canada, but he didn't think that provision was included in the bill. As a more practical matter, Anderson said he suspects that drug companies that manufacture the drugs that are being re-imported won't be able to make enough drugs to be re-imported by everyone who would like to bring the drugs back into the United States. He sees the whole issue as one of forcing parity to drug prices.

Last week, Gaddie also received a letter from the Food and Drug Administration about it being illegal to bring drugs into the United States. Gaddie said she does not physically bring the drugs back into the United States, and she said she wasn't quite sure what the letter meant so was having her attorneys review the letter.

THE LYON'S SHARE

Tim Lyon

Gilding The Lily?

Oftentimes it's easy to put something down, even while trying to build it up. My Dad used to refer to it as "damning with faint praise." You know, when somebody's trying hard to suggest that a person or a product is really top-notch, yet the words just don't quite come across that way. Go to the used car lot, for example, and look at the adjectives that have been taped to the windshields. "Clean," for instance. What the heck am I getting out of "clean"? I want to know if the car runs well or has four good tires on it. That "clean" sales pitch is probably better applied to a seasonal rental property or a Hennepin Avenue hooker. I'm gonna be more than a little leery of a vehicle that's finest quality is lack of dirt!

Or how about when your teenage buddies were always trying to fix you up with their out-of-town cousin on her summer trips to town. Remember the endorsements there as they tried desperately to fulfill the social obligations imposed on them by heavy-handed parents? "She's got a great personality," they'd rave. "Good sense of humor, too." Meanwhile, you're thinking, you might as well fit "homely" or even "downright scary" into that sentence, as well. She could have been the hottest girl to cross your path in a lifetime, but with lukewarm sponsorships like character references, there was no chance you'd ever consider a face-to-face meeting.

So it is with great trepidation that I arrive at a midsummer's assessment of Lake of the Woods. It is always about this time of year, early to mid-August, that I seem to be overwhelmed again by this prolific body of water. After several months of steady fishing, I can usually get a couple of days around now to be retrospective and it's almost impossible to look back without drawing a deep breath and being amazed. So, without trying to understate the qualities of an appealing girl that everyone should be lucky enough to date, I offer up the word "consistency" as the most compelling reason to fish Lake of the Woods this year.

Now, before you kick me in the kneecaps and berate me for damning Lake of the Woods with such faint praise, hear me out. Of course we are a world class fishery. Of course we can serve up walleyes as fast as you can bait a hook on some days. And, yes, every time you yank skywards on your Ugly Stick (no that's a fishing pole brand, not another reference to that out of town cousin) there is potential for a state, if not world record. Yet every lake has days like those. Maybe in the Spring, or maybe when the weather is just right. Maybe when Jupiter aligns with Mars. They all have their moment in the sun.

But the true beauty of Lake of the Woods for those that get decent amounts of time to fish it is that there is always something to catch. Sometimes a lot. Sometimes big. But always something.

Take this summer. Lots of wind. Lots of rain. Lots of lightning. Lots more rain. A bunch of thunder. And then the weather turned nasty for a couple of weeks. Throw in some extremely dirty water, a pretty impressive bug hatch, and heat that would have wilted Iowa corn, and there was little reason to believe any fish should bite. Yet, the walleyes obliged day in and day out, through it all. Oh, there were some days when the bite was a little tougher than we'd like it to be. The fish a little smaller. Or a few hours passed and the only thing that happened into the net was a stray dragonfly. But, realistically those are small issues. Praising with faint damns, if you will. Conditions that would have shut off any one-dimensional walleye fishery had little, if any, solid impact here.

So, this fall, when you're sitting around the hunting shack trying to impress friends and relatives with your take on the Lake of the Woods scene, don't be shy about using accurate adjectives. Leave out "clean" and "good personality". People will know you're grasping at straws then. Just nod wisely and throw out the word "consistency". It's as good as it gets.

LaFave Park beach, swimming area to close

The LaFave Park beach and swimming area in Thief River Falls will close for the summer on August 18. After that date, lifeguards will not be stationed at the beach.

SBA disaster loans top $20 million in MN

Homeowners, renters, and business owners in 17 Minnesota counties affected by the June 9-28 severe storms, tornadoes, and flooding have just one week left to turn in their completed SBA disaster loan applications. The application deadline is August 13, according to SBA Disaster Area Director Michael C. Allen.

Counties included in the disaster declaration are: Becker, Beltrami, Clay, Clearwater, Itasca, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, McLeod, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau and Wright.

Allen said, "We've received fewer completed applications for assistance than we expected from this disaster. Only 26 percent of those who were sent SBA applications have taken the time to fill them out and get them back to us, either at one of our disaster assistance offices or through the mail. Without that completed application, we can't begin to help them with their disaster related needs."

"I hope more people will take out a little extra insurance by turning in their completed SBA disaster loan application. It's not worth taking the chance that insurance will cover all their needs; because it probably won't. If it turns out you don't need the loan, then you can cancel it. The only cost to you is the time it took to complete your application," Allen added.

To date, SBA has approved $20.9 million in low-interest disaster loans to Minnesota homeowners, renters, and businesses. At $15.3 million, Roseau County has the majority of approved loans followed by Mahnomen County with $1.6 million, Lake of the Woods with $681,000, Norman with $485,300, Red Lake with $465,800, and Koochiching with $448,000.

If you had damage from this disaster, and have not registered for assistance, please call the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) at 1-800-621-FEMA (3362) before the application deadline. You should do this even if you have insurance.

Applications will not be accepted after the August 13, 2002 deadline.

REMINDERS FROM SCHOOL TRANSPORTATION

BUS ROUTES

All regular bus routes will be finalized the week of August 19, and letters will be made out for each family to inform you of your bus schedule. The letters will be in your mail during the week of August 28, 2002.

Therefore, if you have moved or have changes that affect the bus routes, please contact the Transportation Office by August 19.

Due to reduction of four bus routes, in town routes will be combined with rural routes. We will maintain a similar number of bus stops in town, but they will be operated on a stop and go basis. Students will need to be at their assigned bus stop before the bus arrives.

DAY CARE

Any child going to or from a place other than home on a regular basis must have a Child Care Transportation Request Form filled out. Forms must be in the Transportation Office by AUGUST 18, 2002.

Forms can be picked up at the office or call and they will be mailed to you. This request must be followed in order to protect the safety and welfare of your child.

Rural residents needs to stay alert on roads

Minnesota Department of Public Safety, office of traffic safety, recently reminded residents of Minnesota that they need to be alert to the possibility of severe accidents, especially so if you live in rural Minnesota.

Kathy Swanson, director of the office of traffic safety, stated that "Unfortunately, a false impression exists among our citizens that a majority of traffic crash deaths and injuries occurs in the Twin Cities metro area." The opposite appears to be true. In fact, they point out that two-thirds of Minnesota's 2001 traffic fatalities occurred on rural roads. And, more than half of the nearly 3,000 severe traffic-related injuries occurred outside the metro area.

One could argue that the metro area is a geographically smaller area, and a better test of the significance of crash facts would be to base the results on population – so many incidents per 1,000 people for example. On the other hand, one could argue that their statistic is even more valid because while geographically smaller, 54 percent of the state's population resides in the seven-county metro area. Regardless, the office of traffic safety makes a valid point of reminding motorists to drive carefully.

During the earlier years of my tenure at The Times, crash photo assignments were a weekly, if not daily occurrence. I don't know why, but it seems there are fewer accidents today, except during the fall when school is about to start, just after the first snowfall, and during a short period of time in the spring. I'm merely speculating, of course, that more accidents seem to occur during the fall because our minds are on other things. I have no facts to back up my assertion that more accidents seem to happen in the fall, first snowfall and early spring.

Swanson argues that there may be other reasons for the geographic divide. Seat belt usage, for example, dips as low as 50 percent in some counties. It's as high as 74 percent statewide. The office of traffic safety notes that non-seat belt users accounted for about two-thirds of motor vehicle occupants killed last year.

Other conditions that contribute to accidents are usual features of rural routes. These features include undivided two-lane roads, narrow shoulders and limited lines of vision.

I doubt whether the office of traffic safety wanted this to be an endorsement for spending more transportation dollars in rural Minnesota, but it sure adds up. It is, after all, the responsibility of the state to protect the welfare of its citizens, especially while traveling on its roads.

And the individuals most likely to pay the ultimate price, according to the statistics, are males. Males make up 65 percent of the fatalities on Minnesota roads. Teens and young adults, ages 15 to 24, account for 27 percent of the fatalities.

Certainly, one could argue with the statistics presented, and one could also argue with the assumption that seat belts save lives, but one cannot argue with the fact that being alert on our roads will save lives. Stay alert.

Demand for wood-burning furnaces fuels training grant

Demand is so hot for wood-burning furnaces made by Northwest Manufacturing, Inc., orders from businesses and consumers are on a one-year backlog. The company has more than doubled its workforce – from 20 to 60 workers in two years – but employees have taken on leadership roles without training in supervision or manufacturing principles. To help Northwest Manufacturing retain its employees and update their skills, a public/private partnership between the State of Minnesota and the company will fund training for 90 workers with a $100,000 grant from the Minnesota Job Skills Partnership Program (MJSP).

The grant was awarded last Tuesday (July 30) to Northland Community and Technical College at a grant-signing ceremony at Red Lake City Hall in Red Lake Falls.

Northwest Manufacturing produces a line of outdoor wood-burning furnaces called The Wood Master, for use in homes, businesses and municipalities.

"Based on current demand, consumers are signaling their preference for using wood to meet their heating needs. It's an environmentally sound and renewable resource, may reduce the high cost of heating, and lessens the need for foreign oil," said Rebecca Yanisch, commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development (DTED) and MJSP Board Chair. "This three-year project will help Northwest Manufacturing to formally prepare and educate their workers for leadership roles, and to address demand for their products."

As a result of the grant, Northwest Manufacturing will be able to retain key workers, as well as attract future employees. Northland Community and Technical College will gain experience customizing manufacturing programs to a specific employer population.

The Minnesota Job Skills Partnership, located within the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development's Workforce Development Division, offers technical, financial and job training assistance to thousands of businesses, communities, educational institutions and workers. The Job Skills Partnership Board brings businesses with specific education needs together with educational institutions to design training programs to meet those needs.

Wellstone, Dayton urge President to extend assistance to MN flood victims

Senators Mark Dayton and Paul Wellstone (D-MN) have urged President Bush to immediately approve the State of Minnesota's request to extend emergency aid for flooded Minnesota communities declared federal disaster areas.

If approved by the President, this action would open the way for much-needed federal assistance to help individuals, businesses and communities recover from flood damage inflicted this spring. In a letter to Bush, the Senators requested that the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) incident period be reopened to allow for aid to be extended.

"Our state has experienced a series of violent storms, torrential rains, high winds and flooding since the closure of the incident period. These have had a devastating effect on several Minnesota communities. In addition to creating new damage, these storms, along with an inordinate amount of rain, have exacerbated the difficulty of recovery efforts from our initial flood disaster and, in many cases, returned Minnesota communities to flood stages. These already weakened counties have been working valiantly to protect their citizens and infrastructure. They badly need continued access to all available resources so that they may fully recover," the Senators wrote.

"As Governor Ventura stated in his letter to you, of the 19 Minnesota counties which received a disaster declaration this year, there is only one county for which this is a first declaration. The majority of the remaining counties have had four or more declarations in the past decade. Because of this cycle of devastation and recovery, the situation in these counties has so deteriorated that their need for federal aid is truly desperate.

"We respectfully urge you to extend the incident period for this Emergency Declaration immediately, so that Minnesota's citizens and communities may once again have access to this much-needed federal assistance. Thank you for your consideration of this request."

MBA announces National Fraud Awareness Week

Minnesota Bankers Association (MBA) has announced that Minnesota Governor Jesse Ventura has signed a proclamation declaring the week of August 4-10 as National Fraud Awareness Week in Minnesota.

This year marks the third annual observance of National Fraud Awareness Week. The event is an opportunity to raise awareness about the impact of fraud and white-collar crime on our society. Organizations across the country utilize the event as a way to educate businesses and consumers about how to detect, report and deter fraud.

Fraud and abuse cost U.S. organizations over $600 billion annually, and identity theft has become one of the fastest growing crimes in America. "Fraud and white-collar crime are often not perceived as 'true' criminal acts because of the typical absence of violence," says Debra Hurston, director of communications at the Minnesota Bankers Association. "However, individuals and businesses suffer dearly from fraud in terms of financial loss – sometimes to the point of financial ruin. Fraud is a silent yet insidious crime, and the public needs to know more about it. Minnesota Bankers Association is proud to support the National Fraud Awareness Week initiative."

Thieves lose pair in Region 8C playoffs

Losses to a pair of Moorhead teams ended the 2002 season for the Thief River Falls Thieves amateur baseball team.

The Thieves' bid to land a state tournament berth ended with Saturday (Aug. 3) defeats at the hands of the Moorhead Brewers 5-2 and the Moorhead Miners 7-2 in the double-elimination Region 8C playoffs at Moorhead.

Player/manager Chane Keefe called it a "disappointing" day. "We should have won," he said.

The Brewers beat the Thieves on the strength of a 3-run home run by Scott Clemenson in the bottom of the eighth inning. The Thieves, who out-hit both the Brewers (9-7) and the Miners (10-9), could muster only a pair of sixth inning second-game runs.

The Thieves ended the year 6-13 overall. Two wins would have extended the season into the state tournament.

Following a long absence, the Thief River Falls' amateur program was reinstated in 1994 under the direction of Corey Poole, Barry Dowers and Chris Nelson. Howard Dalager ran the team for three seasons beginning in 1996, then Keefe took over the reigns in 1999.

While it was a challenge to fill out a line-up during the 2002 season, Keefe is confident that Thief River Falls amateur baseball is on solid footing for the future. "We had a lot of young guys this year. And with all the (high school/American Legion) players coming up, we should be pretty solid the next four-five years."

TRF Women's Softball League...
Division playoffs completed

Northwest Eye Center and Digi-Key II won championship game showdowns Wednesday to complete the 2002 Thief River Falls Women's Slow Pitch Softball League playoffs.

A double-elimination format was used in both four-team divisions to name the two post-season champions, and in each case, the finals featured two teams with one loss each.

Northwest Eye Center edged the Ridgerunners 6-5 in a Division I title game that matched the top two regular season finishers.

The Ridgerunners came back from a first round loss to reach the finals, and beat Northwest Eye Center 21-11 in a Monday meeting to force a title-deciding rematch Wednesday.

Digi-Key II, third in the final year-end standings, out-scored regular season champion Red Lake Falls 22-20 for the Division II playoff crown.

The Digi-Key II squad lost a first round playoff game, then won four straight for the title, including a 7-0 Monday decision over Red Lake Falls that necessitated a Wednesday championship-deciding encounter.

Five Thief River Falls league teams were scheduled to compete in state tournaments this weekend, with the Ridgerunners and Terry's Service/Eagle Square playing in the Class C playoffs at Monticello; Northwest Eye Center Class CC at Elk River; and the Twisters and Black Cat Sports Bar & Grill/The Shop Class D at Moorhead.

Rocket Speedway will host its second annual Legends races tonight

from Bob Hultgren

Race car drivers from the past return tonight (Saturday) when the Rocket Speedway plays host to its second annual Legends Night at the Kittson County Fairgrounds track in Hallock.

According to track officials, some of the racers who have agreed to participate in tonight's track activities include Rich Tesmer, Walhalla, N.D.; Alan Clow, Orleans; Bruce Bennit, Holt; Danny Lyberg, Lancaster; Bill McGovern, Hallock; Al Delaine, Stony Mountain, Man.; Brad Hemmes, Humboldt; and Leon Olson, Lancaster.

Other drivers, along with former flagman Jerry Hennum and long-time promoter Jim Corcoran, were also invited to attend.

The drivers will return to the track for a special race using local Pure Stock cars. Greg (Sneaky) Snare of Hallock won last year's Legends feature.

Tonight's program also brings the return of the popular Super Trucks to the track. Lynn Lucken (Winger) has won each of the previous four Super Truck features at the Rocket Speedway.

This week's show will also include the NOPA Pure Stocks, NOPA Street Stocks, Wissota Super Stocks, and Wissota Modifieds.

—Hot laps begin at 6:30 p.m., with races starting at 7.

Superintendent Irving Peterson congratulates agricultural educator ADawn Melbye on receiving the MAAE Outstanding Young Educator Award.

Local ag teacher wins award

A Thief River Falls teacher recently won the Minnesota Association of Agricultural Educators' (MAAE) Outstanding Young Educator Award. ADawn Melbye was presented with the award at the annual MAAE Summer Conference held July 8-12 in Minneapolis.

Melbye teaches at Lincoln High School and has taught high school agriculture for four years.

"ADawn has been an asset to our school because she brings practical experience to the students," LHS Principal Thomas Hunt said. "She has demonstrated good rapport with students, teachers, parents and the community." Hunt said Melbye developed the agricultural program into one of the strongest elective areas within the school.

Her FFA chapter began with 10 students, and by the end of the 2001-2 school year, it had grown to more than 40 students. The chapter won the most improved chapter award in its region and was one of 12 FFA chapters in the state to increase membership.

Agricultural educators from across the state attend the convention. Over 200 agricultural educators attended this year's conference.

RLI

Deciding to sell, buy, or complete a tax deferred exchange on farmland can be a difficult and complicated process. I can help identify owner/investor goals and objectives, represent them as a designated agent, and guide them through the entire marketing and sales process. I am very familiar with the farm real estate sales process and will put to work my years of experience in achieving your sales/purchase goal. Much more is involved than just putting up a for sale sign or placing an ad in the local newspaper.

Farmland is a proven investment. You need a proven, professional farm brokerage firm to represent you in the real estate sales transaction. Often I can obtain a better price for property with my experience and vast array of available resources.
